M. Andrieux proceeded to state that Arton further informed him that he had received generous offers from other quarters in connection with the evidence in his possession, and had been promised great leniency in regard to his share in the dynamite case.

Mme. Cottu's evidence was the next sensation in the court. She said that a few days after the arrest of her husband she learned that the Government, annoyed at the turn the prosecution was taking, desired to suppress it and sought an intermediary between themselves and the Panama Canal directors. A gentleman named Goyard visited her and offered to act in the capacity of intermediary. He informed her that a true bill would not be returned if the directors bound themselves to silence. She wanted, however, to deal with a better authority than M. Goyard. She was on Jan. 16 conducted to the office of M. Soinoury, Chief of the Detective Department, who asked her whether she possessed any compromising documents which might be useful to the Ministry. M. Soinoury did not make any proposals in precise terms, but she felt that the release of her husband was being offered as a bribe for the surrender of the compromising papers. Soinoury offered to allow her to visit her husband in order that she should induce him to warn Charles de Lesseps, who had already spoken too much. Soinoury also asked permission to report the gist of the conversation to M. Loubet.

Meantime M. Targe, formerly Minister of the Interior, took the stand to reply to the evidence regarding him. He declared that Charles de Lesseps had menaced him with attacks in the newspapers unless he would help the Panama Canal project.

Charles de Lesseps arose and denied having uttered any such menace.

M. Soinoury, chief of the Detective Department, took the witness stand and declared that Mme. Cottu came to his office voluntarily to ask permission to visit her husband. Soinoury swore positively that he had never threatened and had never attempted to bargain with Mme. Cottu.

The court then adjourned.

The greatest excitement prevails. Saturday M. Bourgeois, Minister of Justice, resigned his office, and the news, coupled with the exposures, has caused a widespread ferment in Paris. M. Loubet, the former Premier, in an interview with the correspondent last night made an emphatic statement to the effect that he had given no orders to Soinoury to procure any compromising documents in the possession of Mme. Cottu as the price of her husband's release.

The sensation caused by Mme. Cottu's testimony Saturday does not abate. The attempt to propagate the opinion that she was animated by a desire to avenge the sentence of her husband when she gave her evidence against the Government has failed completely.

Mr. Soinbury, the police official who tried to get from Mme. Cottu documents compromising Royalist Deputies, has resigned from the directorship of the penitentiary department. Police Commissary Nicolle who, arranged the interview between him and Mme. Cottu will be dismissed.

The Cabinet crisis inaugurated by the resignation of M. Bourgeois has been shown to be beyond hope of repair by patchwork.

President Carnot has signed a decree giving to M. Develle temporarily M. Bourgeois' portfolio.

Henry Brisson insists upon his retirement from the presidency of the parliamentary commission of inquiry into the Panama scandal. His principal reason for resigning, he repeats, is the weakness of his health.

ELECTRICAL INVESTMENTS.

The opening address of President Wright at the recent annual convention of the Canadian Electrical Association, held at Toronto, contains a note of warning to capitalists and investors, as well as electricians. He said: "That while it is undoubtedly a fact that solid and substantial progress has been made by conservative management of electrical enterprise, a word of caution may not be out of place to investors in securities based upon electrical speculation. There is a danger that the fact of this solid progress may be made the means of ultimate injury to the concerns identified with it. It has caused a growth of schemes, having electricity as a basis, to spring up as fast as mushrooms. The inevitable failure of many of these will discredit to a certain extent, legitimate enterprise and profitable business. The many schemes for the long distance transmission of power, though scarcely to be classed with what may be known as the electric fake, are still somewhat far removed from the line of commercial success. Experimentally much has been accomplished in this direction, though the complicated nature of the apparatus, and its cost for operation and repair, make financial success rather more than problematical. At the last convention of this Association I took occasion in opposition to views then set forth, to mildly satirize the 100-mile-an-hour enterprise that was to carry the denizens from the wilds of Missouri to the World's Fair at Chicago. Where is that enterprise to-day? Several miles of road are constructed—all but the track—in a straight line, too, I believe, as considered necessary by the projectors, but no plans are forthcoming, and we do not see the name of any engineer of standing connected with the scheme. The great energy of the promoters appeared to be expended in the production of a very rosy colored prospectus, showing impossible profits, and an elaborate engraving of the happy farmer sawing wood and pumping water by electric light and power for a couple of miles on either side the right of way. To come nearer home, good hard dollars have been extracted from the pockets of liege subjects of the Queen in the name of electricity, as the magic wand was waved even under the nose of Brock's effigy on Queenston heights. Where is that scheme now? The Utopian dream of a railroad on every farm that is being promulgated now will not materialize the funds of the unwary. A word of warning is needed now, and as president of this association I give it. It is open to you to dissent from this position, to criticise it if you see fit, and to prove it needless if you can. The safety of legitimate electrical enterprise is endangered by this trading upon the credulity of the people." Those seeking electrical investments should be wary of the rosy-coloured prospectus suggestive of marvellous dividends to be made in heating by electricity, combining and amalgamating companies and so-called wonderful improvements in telephony. The field for the latter in the United States to-day, owing to the expiry of patents, seems to be widening, and we read of telephone companies being incorporated in different states with from twenty to fifty millions capital to operate various telephone patents. Some of these enterprises will never reach the operative stage, as the alleged intentions which they are originated to exploit are impracticable on a commercial basis. As some of these concerns are likely to attempt to form local companies in Canada, and invite capitalists to invest, it would be well for investors to look carefully into the feasibility of their schemes before undertaking what may be discovered to be very onerous obligations.

YOUNG'S POINT.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The farmers here are more than hustling now, hauling grain, wood, etc., to Peterborough before the sleighing breaks up.

With the fine days we have had this last week and the number of crows hovering around this locality, we feel pretty certain of spring.

Mr. T. Cavanagh, of the Balmoral hotel, Peterborough, visited our village a day or two ago, and everything boomed while he remained. "Lave her go," Ted, you are looking well.

Some of our villagers are going to the North-West next week, and there was a pleasant social held at Mr. Thomas Dever's one night recently as the boys and girls gathered together to give "Ned" a good send-off.

A number of shanty teams passed through here these last few days, as the camps are breaking up.

The last of E. Thompson & Son's timber passed here yesterday en route for Peterborough. The lumbermen cannot grumble this winter, as it has been a very steady one.

Easy to take—Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. Smallest, easiest, cheapest, best. They're tiny, sugar-coated, anti-bilious granules, a compound of refined and concentrated vegetable extracts. Without disturbance or trouble, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, Sick and Bilious Headaches, and all derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels, are prevented, relieved and cured. Permanently cured, too. By their mild and natural action, these little Pellets lead the system into natural ways again. Their influence lasts.

Every thing catarrhal in its nature, catarrh itself, and all the troubles that come from catarrh, are perfectly and permanently cured by Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. No matter how bad your case or of how long standing, you can be cured.

AN OPPORTUNITY TO DECIDE THE GREAT QUESTION.

We are aware of the fact that there are thousands of loving and tender mothers, who are unable to decide with satisfaction to themselves, the great question: What food is best adapted for the infant's nourishment, growth and health?

Thousands are undecided because they have made no total in order that the question be forever settled. The manufacturers of Lactated Food would urge a speedy and fair trial by all mothers whose darlings must be fed from day to day. It is respectfully suggested that mothers, who have not used Lactated Food, should send their post office address at once, and they will receive, free of charge, a full-sized package of the great Food which they are requested to use and test, against any other food, foreign or domestic.

The points of excellence claimed for Lactated Food over all other makes, are as follows: It is purer in composition; it is the only predigested food; it is the most easily assimilated food; it is always tolerated by the weak stomach when other foods are rejected; it is the most perfect flesh builder; it does not produce irritation of the stomach; it is the only food that prevents diarrhœa and dysentry; and last, but not least, it is the cheapest food.

Thousands of testimonials from loving mothers prove every assertion made in favour of Lactated Food. The Wells & Richardson Co., Montreal, P.Q., are the proprietors of this justly celebrated food. All druggists have it for sale.

MARKET MEMORANDA.

The Market Saturday Morning Was a Great One and Prices Were Consequently Somewhat Lower.

The market Saturday morning was unusually well attended, the square being filled to its utmost capacity. Prices ruled a little lower than last Saturday in consequence of all departments of produce being well stocked. The grain market continues fair, and considerable oats, peas and wheat are being offered. Saturday's market quotations were spring wheat, 64c. (standard); fall, 68c. (standard); peas, 55 to 60c.; mummies, 64c.; oats, (white) 32c.; black, 31c.; barley, none offering, 35 to 40c.; rye, 45c.; buckwheat, 40 to 42c. The hay and straw market is booming and ready sales are the order of the day. Hay sold at $8 and $9 per ton and straw $3 per load. Dressed hogs were few in number and the price has taken a drop. They were selling at $7.75 to $8. The meat market remains about the same. Beef sold at 5 and 5½c front quarter and 6 to 6½c. hind quarter; mutton, 8 and 9c.; pork 10 and 11c., no lamb offered. The fowl better supply and prices fair. Turkeys, $1.00 to $1.50; chickens, 40 to 70c. per pair; geese 65c. a piece. Potatoes sold at 75 to 80c. per bag, a steady demand and firm prices. Apples sold from 60 to 90c., according to the quality. Butter plentiful, 20c. per lb., and in some cases 21 and 22c. Eggs in large quantities 16 to 18c. per dozen. No other changes.

OH, WHAT A FRIEND!

IT FAILETH NEVER!

DO YOU INTEND
THE CHAIN TO SEVER?

Do you intend to sever that terrible chain that now binds you to suffering and disease! The links are daily sinking into your very life so deeply that, unless you or your friends use the proper means, death must come.

The chain that binds you is composed of many strong links. These links have been forged from disease. You have, in times past, used various means for deliverance; unhappily, all proved failures. Let us tell you of the friend—the deliver—that faileth never to sever these mighty chains of suffering. It is Paine's Celery Compound, nature's true and unfailing restorer. Oh what a friend it has proved to thousands in Canada! Its history is wonderful, its cures are almost miraculous! Paine's Celery Compound has saved many a man and woman given up as incurable by physicians. Its mighty works have brought joy and gladness into thousands of dark and gloomy homes where the grim reaper was expected to enter. Reader, if you are suffering take counsel before it is too late; trust this friend and rescuer; try its powers for at least a week, before you commit your life to other agents.

OTONABEE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

A most enjuyable and pleasing entertainment was held in Hare's school on the 10th concession of Otonabee, on Friday evening last. There was a large attendance of the children and their parents and friends present. Mr. John Lang, ex-M.P., occupied the chair in a happy manner and delivered a happy opening address. The entertainment was gotten up by the school children, Miss Williamson, teacher, for the purpose of raising money to purchase new maps with. The recitations, dialogues and songs were splendidly given and all did well, the hearty applause after each number testifying to the audiences hearty, appreciation. Too much praise can not bestowed upon the energetic teacher, Miss William, for her trouble, care and labour in preparing the entertainment and assisting very materially in carrying it out successfully. As a result of the work of her and her pupils, the proceeds of the evening amounted to $20. TO BE OR NOT TO BE "IN IT."

A Life Agent called at a friend's place one day,
HE WASN'T IN IT;
He had seen "the bore" coming and fled from his way,
HE WASN'T IN IT;
He had heard so much still, he was tired and sick
Of insurance and agents—'twas all a blank trick,
When one's coil must be shuffled to win it,
HE WASN'T IN IT.

A bit of a draft blew o'er his bald head,
HE WAS IN IT;
Pneumonia sent him straightway to his bed,
HE STAYED IN IT;
His doctor made of it a "quite special" case,
To save him for running still more of life's race,
But the grave took some chances to win it,
AND HE'S IN IT.

When approached by a gent for insuring your life,
GET RIGHT IN IT;
It's the right thing to do for your children and wife,
THEN STAY IN IT.
Remember that fires take your goods "out of sight,"
And that accidents happen each day and each night.
While insurance protects every minute,
IF YOU'RE IN IT.

A Bank Manager's Opinion.

HE IS "IN IT."

The General Manager of one of the leading banks in Canada, writing to a personal friend, says:—"I have no hesitation in saying that I place the CANADA LIFE upon the highest platform. It is in my opinion carefully, economically and honestly managed; its Reserve Funds are well invested; its rates of Premiums are low, and its future is, I think better assured than a great majority of Companies. I have my own life insured in the Company for a round amount, and would not hesitate to increase the amount of my policies should I decide upon taking out further insurance."

A Government Insurance Actuary's Opinion

On the Relation between Ordinary and Tontine Service.

It is frequently asserted by Companies whose business is nearly all tontined, that although the CANADA LIFE may and does pay large ordinary profits, yet it cannot compare so favourably on a long term distribution or tontine period, and that in the end better results can be obtained on a tontine policy in a large American Co. than on an ordinary or tontine policy in the CANADA LIFE. To prove the absurdity of this statement, the following piece of common sense is quoted from Mervin Tabor, late Actuary of the Illinois Goverment Insurance Department. In his well known book, "The Three Systems of Life Insurance," he says: "A company that gives large dividends on the ordinary kind of policies, can give much larger on the same kinds when Tontined, and a company that pays but meagre dividends on the usual forms, adopting perhaps the Tontine system to "cover up" its small surpluses, cannot be relied on for large returns of surplus under the Tontine Forms of Insurance."

The CANADA LIFE does not "cover up" its Quinquennial profits as some Companies do, but publishes them throughout the country.

It can and does surpass other Companies on Quinquennial profits. It should and will surpass them on Tontine profits.

WHY TO BE "IN IT."

BISHOP HAWKE'S REASON:—"I claim that Life Insurance is not only a a humane, but I might say a Christian Institution."

LORD LYNDHURST'S REASON:—"A Policy of Life Insurance is always an evidence of prudent forethought. No man with a dependent family is free from reproach if not insured."

WHEN TO BE "IN IT."

The younger, the cheaper. Therefore insure when young. Besides by insuring in the CANADA LIFE now, you will share in three years' profits.

WHERE TO BE "IN IT."

The best place to be "in it" is in the Company that gives the best returns for the least money, consistent with absolute security. Therefore, in order to be "in it," choose the

A Railway Train for the Chicago Exposition.

Yesterday afternoon a specimen railway passenger train, manufactured at the C.P.R. works, Montreal, consisting of an engine, (625) tender, baggage car, second class coach, smoker, first class day coach and sleeper, passed west—said to be on its way to Chicago to be shown at the World's Fair. The engine is a powerful looking machine, with three driving wheels on each side, and the exterior of the coaches presented an elegant appearance. A detailed reference to the interior cannot be made, the person in charge, with no excess of courtesy, refusing to permit an inspection by press representatives, though others unconnected with either the press or the railway company, were given the privilege. There was a large number at the station to see the cars pass through.

Easter Opening.

The brightness of spring brings with it increasing trade. This, at least, is the experience of Miss Delaney, with whom in fact there scarcely ever seems to be any season of dullness, but rather an overflow of business, and no wonder, for where else are the whispers of fashion more frequently heard at present than in connection with Miss Delaney's early spring display of stylish millinery? It must be delightfully refreshing for ladies at this season of the year to indulge in a visit to the establishment, and take in the bright spring effects which have been personally selected from the fashionable centres the world. Miss Delaney has already had an active demand for her veilings in fancy gauzes and nets, which are in great favour, over one hundred different pieces of which are shown. The new conceits in millinery and fancy novelties, flowers, ribbons and laces give richness and variety to her stock, and evince first-rate skill and taste in her selections. New patterns, bonnets and hats furnish fresh interest to the ladies, and stimulate admiration at the first glance. Miss Delaney also devotes special attention to imported mantles and Eton jackets. Her Easter opening—which is to be a specially marked event this spring—will no doubt be looked forward to with anxious interest; and ladies who do not wish to be disappointed are enjoined to place their orders for Easter early, for their own interest as well as Miss Delaney's.

Miss Marguerite Dunn is a success. She is sympathetic, natural, earnest and in touch with her audience. Many of her recitations were fresh and novel, and decidedly well rendered. The scene from Leah, the Forsaken, was given with much tragic force. Miss Dunn's glorious dark eyes and heavy masses of black hair no doubt materially aid in her reading of the Jewess' part. One can safely predict that this young, charming elocutionist has a very bright future before her. Her gestures are eloquent and natural, and entirely devoid of "posing."— Toronto Mail. Miss Dunn will appear here on the 17th March. Plan of hall at Sailsbury's Bookstore. Tickets 50 and 25 cents. Jackson & Co. furnish piano for this grand concert. 1d

OBITUARY.

The Late John Sullivan.

Last night at about 8 o'clock death closed the life of Mr. John Sullivan, who has been for almost half a century a citizen of Peterborough. He has been ill for three months and his death, though expected, was no less a sad blow to his family and numerous personal friends in town. The deceased gentle was a native of Fethard, County Tipperary, Ireland, where he was born in 1819, May 19th. He came to America in 1852, settling for a short time in Rochester, where he was married and whose two children—Mrs. John Clancy and Mrs. M. McFadden—were born. He subsequently removed to Peterborough and started a hotel on Hunter street, the Peterborough House, which he has conducted for between thirty-five and forty years. He leaves behind him four children, Mrs. John Clancy, Mrs. M. McFadden, Dr. Sullivan, of Springfield, Minnesota, and Miss Sullivan. He has two brothers and a sister living in Ireland, and a brother and sister in Australia. During his long life in Peterborough Mr. Sullivan fulfilled the duties of citizenship in a manner to win general respect. As a friend he was noted for his fidelity and kindness, and many of his personal friends will, in cherishing his memory, call to mind repeated acts of kindness which will make his loss particularly felt. He was a faithful son of the Roman Catholic church and an active and zealous member of the Congregation of St. Peter's Cathedral. For many years he was one of the collectors of the offertory. Though so long away from the Green Isle he still gave it a warm place in his memory, and six years ago paid a long visit to the scenes of his childhood. His name is mentioned with respect in Nicholas Flood Davin's book, "Irishmen in Canada." The funeral takes place to-morrow morning from the family residence, Hunter street, at 9.30 to St. Peter's Cathedral, where requiem high mass will be sung, after which the funeral will proceed to the Roman Catholic Cemetery.

The Late Mrs. Edward Mahood.

A lady whose earthly pilgremage had covered nearly a hundred years—Mrs. Edward Mahood—died yesterday at the residence of her daughter, Miss Mahood, 579 George street. The venerable deceased lady was widow of the late Edward Mahood, who died nine years ago. She was a native of the County of Down, Ireland, where she was born two years before the close of the last century, and was consequently 95 years of age at the time of her death. She came to Canada in 1853. She was married at the age of 20 years and was the mother of nine children—three sons and six daughters—all living but one. She lived successively in Cavan, Otonabee, Smith and Peterborough, where she ended the days of a life that had passed the Psalmist's limit by a quarter of a century. Mrs. Mahood was a Presbyterian in religion and for many years a member of St. Paul's church.

CHURCH CHIMES.

Next Sunday Rev. W. M. Loucks will exchange services with Rev. Mr. Pickford, of Havelock.

At St. Peter's Cathedral next Sunday the members of the C. M.B.A. will take holy communion in a body at the 8 o'clock mass.

Next Wednesday evening at St. John's the leyman's Lenten address will be delivered by His Honour, Judge McDonald, of Brockville.

Rev. Mr. Goldsmith announced that next next Sunday evening he would preach on the subject of "Temperance, from a Christian Standpoint."

At St. Paul's church yesterday, Mr. John Crane presided at the organ, Mr. Arlidge being absent on account of the death of his youngest son.

A letter received from Rev. E. F. Torrance, pastor of St. Paul's, states that his health and strength are steadily improving. He is able to take a forty minutes' walk daily.

The many friends in Peterborough of Miss Jennie McCabe, organist of the R. C. church, Port Hope, will regret to learn of the death of that young lady's mother in the latter town.

St. Andrew's Sunday-school met yesterday at 1.30 p.m. instead of the usual hour, in order to give the teachers and pupils an opportunity to attend the funeral of the late Miss Mann, for some time a teacher in the school.

On Sunday morning at the Charlotte street Methodist church Rev. A. McWilliams, pastor of St. Andrew's, conducted the services and preached the sermons, Rev. Mr. Edwards occupying the pulpit of St. Andrews at the same hour.

At the evening service in St. Paul's Rev. Mr. Goldsmith gave an ocular or rather optical demonstration of his earnestness. In making an animated gesture his hand caught in the cord of his eye glasses, and sent those useful aids to sight spinning into the organ loft, where striking the organ they rebounded to the head of the organist then fell to the floor. The reverend gentleman made no pause in his discourse, which subsequently showed that the clearness of his inner sight was not affected by the accident.

At St. John's church yesterday the rector, Rev. J. C. Davidson, announced that that the last of the series of special offerings by the congregation towards the reduction of the parochial debt, would be made at Easter. It had been contemplated that six of these offerings should be made but owing to the liberal responses made by the congregation the next would conclude the series. At the conclusion of the evening service the rector conducted a devotional afterservice, and Rev. C. B. Kenrick a confirmation class at his rooms.

IN MEMORY OF THE LATE W. J. MASON.

At the George street Methodist church on Sunday morning the memory of a prominent member of the congregation, the late W. J. Mason, was honoured by a memorial service, the sermon being preached by the pastor, Rev. Jos. H. Locke. The music was, of course, appropriate to the occasion. The sermon, which was in sympathy with the occasion, was closed by a special reference to the life and character of the deceased gentleman, especially in his relations to the church. Mr. Mason had, the preacher said, been connected with the church for fifty-two years, during which time his Christian zeal and activity had contributed very largely to the promotion of its spiritual and material interests. He had held many offices of importance; for several years he was leader of a young men's class: for some time a Sunday School teacher and subsequently a successful superintendent. He was also a steward of the church and for several years pew steward, and a member of the Trustee Board. In all these positions he was always found at the post of duty, working faithfully for the interests his several positions represented. His name would be held in reverence and respect and his example was one that would inspire many who sought to be made useful in the promotion of the interests of the church.

TRUE BLUE EXTENSION.

A Strong, New Lodge Instituted at Millbrook.

For some time past the young men of Millbrook in sympathy with the extension of the principles of Orangeism, have been contemplating the advisability of promoting the institution of a new lodge of True Blues, and a few days ago a largely signed application was sent to Bro. J. F. McGill, D. D. G. M., (Centre Durham) Pontypool, which was signed by him and forwarded to the Grand Secretary, Bro. N. Ingram, Port Perry, who issued a warrant for the new lodge in the name of Mr. H. A. Turner. Accordingly on Friday night the new lodge was duly instituted under the name of Maple Leaf, No. 14, by Bros. J. F. McGill, D.D.G.M., assisted by Bro. George Sloan, D.D.G.M., Peterborough District, and other members of the order from Pontypool, Peterborough and Lisgar. The following officers were installed:

Bro Dr Turner	W M
" A Armstrong	D M
" T J Robinson	Chap
" R Clarke	D of C
" P Jones	Rec Sec
" J Vallis	Fin. Sec
" E Jones	Treas
" J Brown	I T
" W Campbell	O T

The lodge starts into existence under very favourable prospects of success with a charter membership of nineteen.

At the conclusion of the business of the evening an adjournment was made to the restaurant of Mr. John Young, where an excellent oyster supper was partaken of to the usual accompaniment of loyal toasts, Protestant songs and speeches.

Our Bow to the Public.

IN making this our first regular spring announcement to the citizens and residents of the town and county of Peterborough, we would address ourselves, not only to that large constituency of customers who have heretofore patronized our well known and highly esteemed predecessors, (Messrs. Hall, Innes & Co.,) but to all other readers of this journal, many of whom we hope to have the privilege of doing business with in the future.

We have a few words to say, not directly about Dry Goods.

We believe, that in all the relations of life where success is attained, mutual confidence is the basis, whether between physician and patient, lawyer and client, or merchant and customer, and, for our part, we intend to merit and expect to win confidence.

A WORD as to our taking charge of this business. It has been a matter of choice, on our part, largely influenced by some knowledge of this, "Canada's Premier Town," and surrounding district, and, as we are here to stay, we are actuated by a desire to do our best, as worthy citizens, to still further advance its interest and fair name.

OUR RECORD extends over a number of years of business life, and, with perhaps pardonable pride, we can say that during all that time, both those from whom we have bought and those to whom we have sold, have been financially benefitted.

OUR POSITION, as direct importers of Dry Goods, with a personal visitation of one of the firm twice a year to the European markets, and direct business connection with the leading manufacturers and warehousemen in Great Britain, place us in a position to give VALUE SECOND TO NONE, and styles the most correct and elegant. In no other line of business does the exercise of taste in selection come so largely into play as in the Dry Goods Trade, and in the markets we visit, there is the amplest room for its exercise.

"OUR STAFF." Almost or quite equal to a good stock of Dry Goods at right prices, as a factor in ensuring the success of a business, is competent, courteous and polite assistants. Our staff of employees in its entirety, will be composed of ladies and gentlemen of whom we expect to feel proud.

OUR AIM shall be to merit your confidence in what we may say to you in our place of business, in what we may tell you in our business announcements, in the reliable character of the goods we may have to offer you, by basing our business superstructure on the three cardinal principles,—

INTEGRITY, INTELLIGENCE AND INDUSTRY.

A WORD AS TO OUR METHOD OF DOING BUSINESS.

We fully recognize the fact that to conduct a successful business at the present day demands that all competition from any and every source should be successfully met, which means, not merely that of a local character, but that emanating from the largest houses of the largest cities, who do business exclusively for Cash, and, as a consequence, have not the factor of bad debts and capital outstanding, as well as office expenses to take into consideration, when marking the profits on their goods. This and all other honest competition we are prepared to meet, and to do this we have decided to offer attractive goods at such close prices as will draw to us that large constituency of the community who buy for Cash We have strong faith in a Cash Business, having found in our experience that this potent factor, Cash, is the key that opens all the doors where bargains are to be had. We have used it this season in making our European and Canadian purchases, and, as a result, have the best class of goods at Rock Bottom Prices.

We have already opened up several cases of new Millinery Goods, the styles of which are to be found correct. MISS WALKER has returned after visiting the centres of fashion, and will, as heretofore, be in charge of the show room, which our customers will be pleased to learn.

We have passed into stock many new Spring Suitings, Trouserings and Spring Overcoats, which we have marked at close prices. We have been successful in securing the services of MR. AMES, as Cutter for our Tailoring Department, who comes to us highly recommended having had a long experience in large city trade. All work in this department guaranteed.

We shall be pleased to see all the old friends of the house, and will consider it a pleasure to show our goods, whether present purchases are contemplated or not.

BAPTIST MISSION CIRCLE.

The Successful Annual Meeting of the Baptist Mission Circle.

There was a good attendance at the annual meeting of the Mission Circle of the Murray street Baptist church.

After devotional exercises and a scriptural roll call, the secretary's annual report—

THE FOURTEENTH ANNUAL REPORT of the Circle, was read as follows:—

March, 1893.

The report of an organization is the mirror through which its work is reviewed for a given time, therefore it must be true, and not only reflect the encouragements but the discouragements.

This year the tone must descend in the scale a note or two, as the membership cannot be reported equal with last year. The cause of this decrease is chiefly owing to removals. Some have gone to distant parts of our own land, while others have sought a home in the great neighbouring republic, where, under the starry banner, we trust they are using their talents in the Master's service. The year closes with a membership of 58. Twelve meetings have been held during the year, with an average attendance of 15. The summer months lowered the average as so many are out of town at that time.

We have been posted in denominational missionary work by periodicals published by our own denomination, and of which we cannot speak too highly. Thirty-two of our members subscribe for the Visitor, and eighteen take the Link. Our president kindly placed on our table the Missionary Review, which furnished general missionary news of all lands and creeds.

Delegates attended the annual associational meeting in June, and their report seemed to draw us closer hand and heart, to the work and the workers in this district. The November meeting was of special interest as reports were given by representatives who attended the annual meeting of the society held at Paris, in October.

Mrs. F. Matthews who represented the circle, briefly sketched the work of foreign missions, and Miss A. Aldridge, representing the mission band, reported on the work of home missions. The interest of our meetings has been kept up in various ways. At one meeting the Grande Ligne secretary's report was read, which showed clearly the work in that field. A talk on missions was given by a lady just before her departure for mission work in India. Letters were read from those in the work. One letter of special interest was written by a native student in India who is supported by our Sunday School.

Appeals were made during the year for extra help to aid special objects in both home and foreign work. As a circle we did not respond. We had all confidence in the worthiness of these objects, but as our own church had extended its work in the town, it was decided that any extra funds raised should be given to the South Mission. Luke 24, 47: "That repentance and remission of sins should be preached in His name among all nations, beginning at Jerusalem."

MARY A. NICHOLLS,
Secretary.

Then followed the reports of the home and foreign mission treasurers, Miss Branch and Mrs. Kendry, and the report of the mission and band and the Endeavour Society by Miss Cochrane and Miss Mann respectively. The amount collected for foreign missions was $72.09 and for home missions $43.80, making a total of $115.87. The officers elected were:

President.....Mrs Hunter
Vice-Presidents.....Mesdames B Matthews [and Scott
Secretary.....Miss M A Nicholls (re-elected)
Home mission Treasurer.....Miss Branch [re-elected
Foreign mission Treasurer.....Mrs Kendry [re-elected

The address of the incoming president was followed by a solo by Mrs. V. Eastwood. Miss A. Waller presented a greeting from the mission circle of the Gilmour Memorial church. Miss Barker gave a short address on the Grand Ligne mission. Mrs. McKee read a paper on Corea; Rev. Mr. Trotter an address on general mission work, and Mrs. B. Matthews on foreign mission work. Miss Mabel Walton contributed a solo. A hymn, prayer by Mrs. Hartley and Mrs. Donnelly, and the benediction by Rev. Mr. Trotter, concluded a very successful annual meeting.

GALWAY.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

COUNCIL MEETING.—The Galway Council met at Mrs. Hartnett's on March 6th. Present—Chas. Cobin, reeve, in the chair, Thomas McNamara, John Gilmore and Chas. McMahon, councillors. After routine, on motion of John Gilmore and Thos. McNamara, the auditors' report was adopted, and the clerk instructed to get printed 100 copies for distribution. Communications were read from R. B. Hamilton, of Registry Department, Ontario, certifying to the registration of births, marriages and deaths in the township of Galway, for the year ending Dec. 31st, 1892, viz.: births, 23, marriages, 3, deaths, 17, and from F. S. Spence, re plebicite in the province. On motion of Chas. McMahon and John Gilmore, a bylaw was passed appointing pound-keepers, pathmasters and fence viewers for the current year. A bylaw to define the duties of overseer of highways in the townships of Galway and Cavendish was read a first time. The reeve was instructed to attend the land sale for taxes in arrears on behalf of the municipality. On motion the following accounts were paid and orders drawn on the treasurer: Patrick Collins, registration of births, marriages and deaths, $4.30; Henry Cobin, treasurer, salary, $20, postage, $2. The council adjourned to the first Monday in June to meet as a Court of Revision.

To Test the Purity of Water.

Test for Lime.—Into a glass of water put two drops of oxalic acid and blow upon it. If it gets milky, lime is present.

Test for Hard or Soft Water.—Dissolve a small quantity of good soap in alcohol. Let a few drops fall into a glass of water. If it turns milky, it is hard; if not, it is soft.

Tests for Iron.—Boil a little nut-gall and add to the water. If it turns grey or lake, black iron is present. 2 Dissolve a little prussiate of potash, and if iron is present it will turn blue.

Test for Acid.—Take a piece of litmus paper. If it turns red, there must be acid. If it precipitates on adding lime water it is carbonic acid. If a blue sugar paper is turned red it is a mineral acid.

Test for Carbonic Acid.—Take equal parts of water and clear lime water. If combined or free carbonic acid is present, a precipitate is seen, to which, if a few drops of muriatic acid be added, an effervesence commences.

Test for Magnesia.—Boil the water to a twentieth part of its weight, and then drop a few grains of neutral carbonate of ammonia into a glass of it, and a few drops of phosphate of soda. If magnesia be present it will fall to the bottom.

Test for Earthly Matters or Alkali.—Take litmus paper dipped in vinegar, and if on immersion the paper returns to its true shade, the water does not contain earthly matter or alkali. If a few drops of syrup be added to a water containing an earthly matter it will turn green.

"An Ax to Grind."

The phrase, "An ax to grind," has frequently been attributed to Benjamin Franklin, but it really belongs to Charles Miner (1780-1865), and it occurs in an essay entitled "Who'll Turn the Grindstone?" originally contributed to the Wilkesbarre Gleaner, a country newspaper in the interior of Pennsylvania, in 1811. The author says that when he was a little boy he was accosted one cold winter morning by a man with an ax on his shoulder. "My pretty boy," said he, "has your father a grindstone?" "Yes, sir," said I. "You are a fine little fellow," said he. "Will you let me grind my ax upon it?" Pleased by the compliment of "fine little fellow," the gentleman's bidding was done by the boy, water being procured for him and the grindstone kept in motion until the boy's hands were blistered, the smiling gentleman keeping up his flattery meanwhile. Before the grinding was done the school bell rang, and after the ax had the proper edge on it the man ungraciously exclaimed: "Now, you little rascal, you've played the truant; scud to school, or you'll rue it." The author says he felt very much wounded, and never forgot the incident, and ever afterward when he saw one person flattering another he said to himself: "That man has an ax to grind."

The essay, it will be seen, is imitated from Franklin's "Don't Pay Too Much for Your Whistle."

The Thimble.

Did you ever take the trouble to look up the history of the curious little bell-shaped indented piece of metal you wear on your finger when sewing, and which you are content to call your "thimble?" It is a Dutch invention, and was taken to England in 1695 by one John Lofting. Its name was derived from the words thumb and bell, being for a long time worn on that member, and called the thumbel; only within the last 150 years has the word "evolnted" into thimble. All records say that the thimble was first worn on the thumb, but we can scarcely conceive how it would be of much use there. Formerly it was made of brass and iron only, but of late years steel, silver, gold, horn, ivory, celluloid, and even pearl and glass have been used in its manufacture. A thimble owned by the queen consort of Siam is shaped like a lotus, of solid gold, thickly studded with diamonds, which are so arranged as to form the lady's name and the date of her birth and marriage. Queen Victoria has a very valuable gold and diamond-set thimble, upon which are engraved many historical scenes from English history.

Wise Words and True.

WIMAN ON AMERICA.

Annexation of Canada Discussed Before the Patria Club.

NEW YORK, March 16.—The March meeting of the Patria Club was held Friday night. The subject for discussion was, "Greater America: Our Relations to It."

The first speaker was Warner Miller, who strongly favored the annexation of Canada. He said that Canada had been the cause of all previous friction between this country and England, and annexation would establish perpetual peace between the two countries.

Erastus Wiman followed ex-Senator Miller. He said he was opposed to annexation of Canada at present, because he deemed it impracticable. "I am in favor of commercial union," he said. "I would build a barbed wire fence around the entire American continent to keep outsiders out and allow perfect freedom of trade within. Canada comprises 40 per cent. of the British Empire, and that empire will never submit to annexation without war. Commercial union can be effected with a high tariff on the products of all other countries, even those of Great Britain."

This last statement brought Ellis H. Roberts to his feet. He was not on the program for a speech. He thought that it would be far easier to arouse the Canadian people to ask for annexation than to obtain the consent of England to the introduction of American manufactures free of duty into Canada at the same time that her own manufactures were forced to pay a duty. "It is preposterous," said Mr. Roberts, "for us to think of trading on equal terms a market of 65,000,000 people for one of 5,000,000."

THE NAVAL REVIEW.

Rear-Admiral Gherardi Expects To Have Forty Warships In Line.

NEW YORK, March 13.—Rear-Admiral Gherardi, who is to be in charge of the naval parade on April 27, spent part of Saturday at the navy yard perfecting his plans for the parade. He passed part of the time aboard his flagship, the Baltimore, which is in the drydock, in consultation with Capt. Bridgman.

The Admiral said he had nearly completed his plans. He said there would probably be 40 warships in line, 28 from foreign navies and 12 from Uncle Sam's shipyards. The warships will assemble at Hampton Roads on April 17, and after a few days spent in getting acquainted the ships will leave on the 24th for this city, where they are expected to arrive on the 26th.

The parade will take place on the following day. The warships will be marshaled below the Statue of Liberty and will form in double line. The parade will be up the North River to One Hundred and Twenty-fifth-street. Admiral Gherardi will probably be in command on board the Baltimore. It is expected that President Cleveland and his party will be aboard the Dolphin.

The Sealing Trouble.

VICTORIA, B.C., March 13.—Collector of Customs Milne Saturday morning received a despatch from Deputy Minister of Marine and Fisheries Smith re proposed protective sealing zone on Russian coast. The despatch reads: "Russian Government proposes this year prohibiting seal hunting and seizing sealers coming within radius of 30 miles Commander Island and Robbin Island and within 10 miles of the Russian coast. Warn sealers accordingly."

Killed on the Track.

HUNTSVILLE, Ont., March 13.—The body of John Tynan, an old settler of the Township of Chaffey, was found yesterday on the railway track two miles north of Huntsville, having been run over by a train. Coroner Riece has decided to hold an inquest.

WHY HE SUICIDED.

Threatened With a Suit for Defamation of Character.

TORONTO, March 11.—Robert Graham, a highly respected citizen of Richmond Hill, committed suicide by hanging himself in his own stable. The unfortunate man had been melancholy for some time past. Yesterday morning he got up rather early, telling his wife he could not rest in bed. After dressing himself he went out, but shortly afterwards returned to the bedroom. He tucked the bedclothes tightly around his wife, who was in very delicate health, saying he felt grieved for her, and after kissing her again went out. It would appear that he then went to the stable and committed the rash deed in the hayloft.

It was probably 10 o'clock in the forenoon when his lifeless form was found by some of the neighbors. No inquest was necessary. It appears to have been a clear case of temporary insanity.

Deceased had been troubled in his mind for some time on account of having had to pay a note of several hundred dollars, which note he claimed he never knowingly signed. His contention was that he had been asked to put his signature to a paper merely to identify another party in a bank. The affair ended in a lawsuit, and the party afterwards threatened Mr. Graham with damages for defamation of character.

The Fat Stock Show Goes to Guelph.

TORONTO, March 11.—At yesterday's session of the Ontario Agriculture and Arts Association, Mr. J. C. Rykert, Q.C., of St. Catharines, was appointed delegate to the convention of the Agricultural Associations at Chicago. It was decided to hold the fat stock show at Guelph unless Toronto consents to establish a permanent building.

The Money Problem.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Secretary Carlisle has received offers from Chicago Bankers to exchange $3,000,000 gold for like amount of small treasury notes. Estimations were made that the amount of small notes that will be needed will reach $70,000,000, for which gold will be paid.

He will forward the small notes at once. It is anticipated that the demand for small notes, for which gold will be paid, will continue to increase in the west. No gold has been engaged at the New York sub-treasury on Saturday.

Emigration to Manitoba.

WINNIPEG, March 11.—The real opening of the immigration season has commenced. The east train arrived in two sections and brought in over 400 settlers for Manitoba and Northwest Territories. The first section arrived at noon with 124 settlers, the second section arrived at 1 o'clock with 250 Ontario people on board.

Encouragement for old People.

It may sound queer to talk about curing old people of Kidney and Urinary troubles after they have passed the alloted period of three score years and ten, but the following extraordinary recovery of an old veteran by Menbray's Kidney and Liver Cure, ought to be of great encouragement to old people :—

BELLEVILLE, March 4, 1893.

Peterborough Medicine Company (Limited.)

GENTLEMEN,—I owe a great debt of gratitude to Menbray's Kidney and Liver Cure for the prompt and speedy relief which I have received from the use of only one bottle of your great medicine. I have suffered from Kidney and Urinary troubles, inflammation of the neck of the bladder, &c. for many a long day. No one knows better than old people how great a blessing it is to be cured. I doctored a lot, but nothing did me so much good as your cure. I have lived about half a century in Belleville, and will be only to glad to speak a good word in favour of Menbray's Kidney and Liver Cure. I can also recommend it for constipation and stomach troubles.

A Secret.

While a woman does not need as much muscular energy as a man, she does need a great deal of endurance, good digestion, good lungs, a good heart and a nervous system equal to every demand upon it. Why so many women have not this endurance, and why stomach, lungs, heart and nerves are not always in the best condition, is answered by the Herald of Health, in the following practical manner.

They do not go out of doors into the fresh air enough and drink it in in large quantities as they ought to do. There are other reasons, no doubt, but I wish to dwell on this one just now.

We laugh sometimes at small eaters, and say they seem to "live on air." We use this expression as a term of reproach, but the truth is we live on air quite as much as on food.

Pettenkoffer, in some lecture he gave to women a few years ago, told them that an adult person on an average required that every twenty-four hours 360 cubic feet of air should be taken into the lungs. This would equal about 2,000 gallons.

Now, both the solid and the liquid food of the same person for each day would not be more than three-quarters of a gallon, so when we laugh about one's living on air, we simply show that we do not know how much more we live on air than on food and drink.

We do not always live in proportion to the amount of food we eat, but we do live in proportion to the air we breathe. I believe if every woman who reads this would make up her mind the coming year to consume more pure air, she would by so much escape headaches, depression of spirit, hysterical troubles, physical weakness, and a hundred other evils, and be a great deal happier and spread happiness in her path, when often she carries gloom and misery.

PANAMA CANAL AFFAIR.

RACY DEVELOPMENTS IN THE GREAT SCANDAL.

A Civil Engineer Swears That Charles De Lesseps Gave Him 300,000 Francs With Which to Bribe—Dispute Between M. Floquet and De Lesseps.

PARIS, March 11.—Ex-Deputy Chantagret testified that M. Souligon, a civil engineer, who did work on the Isthmus, came to him one day with an offer of 30,000 francs for his vote on the Lottery Loan Bill. When he declined the bribe, M. Souligon added: Charles DeLesseps had authorized him to offer any sum up to 300,000 francs for Chautagret's vote.

M. Souligon argued with him for some time.

M. Stephane, clerk for M. Pecopper, Baron De Reinach's partner, testified concerning his experience with a list of more than 100 conspicuous men who were compromised by the Panama scandal. He had secured the list from Baron De Reinach, and after Reinach's death had delivered it to M. Clemenceau. The list was similar to the one held by M. Andrieux.

M. Deschamps said that he had taken Arton's list of compromised deputies to Arton's mistress since the flight of the lobbyist. Deschamps made a sensation while testifying by remarking incidentally that he had been in constant communication with M. Andrieux.

Charles Floquet, ex-Premier and ex-President of the Chamber of Deputies, was the next witness. Before examining him Judge Desjardines had Charles DeLesseps repeat his testimony as to the contribution of 300,000 francs made at M. Floquet's request by the Panama Company to the fund for the campaign against Boulanger in the Department of the Nord. In concluding his statement, M. De Lesseps said:

"I render all homage to the delicacy and loyalty which distinguished M. Floquet's conduct, but I declare positively that he made to me the exact proposals already made for him by Arton."

M. Floquet replied at once in a loud but unnatural tone: "I repeat that denial already made by me before the examining magistrate. The manner of acting and speaking attributed to me by M. de Lesseps is entirely foreign to my personality. As M. de Lesseps puts the matter, it was much worse than if I had brought pressure to bear upon him, as he complains everybody else did. In his testimony he has forgotten, however, that I did not assume office until April 3, 1888, and that the election took place on April 15 and the voting on the Lottery Loan Bill on the 27th."

"Nevertheless, we have proofs that Baron de Reinach sent out the money under your Ministry in 1888," interrupted Charles De Lesseps.

"I do not understand what you mean," replied M. Floquet.

Loud protests came from the body of the court and several persons shouted, "Tell the truth."

De Lesseps and Floquet denied flatly each other's statements, and de Lesseps insisted that Floquet advised him to bribe Baron de Reinach to prevent a suit against the Panama Canal Company, in order that the Government might not be annoyed by the suit.

Henry Brisson has resigned the presidency of the Parliamentary Commission of Enquiry.

To prove his statement that he supported the Panama Canal enterprise from the beginning, M. Clemenceau to-day declared that when Ferdinand and Charles de Lesseps visited him in 1885, they came, not in the name of Hers, as Charles de Lesseps now contended, but in the name of M. Carnot, who had advised them to persuade the deputies to back the undertaking. In this interview M. Clemenceau promised unreservedly to support the canal Company.

M. Clemenceau next made a sensation by turning upon M. Barboux and accusing him of having imparted to The Figaro part of the testimony given before Examining Magistrate Franqueville.

The lawyer looked petrified as Clemenceau almost shouted this charge against him. He said lamely: "I will answer in time. I do not care now to come to blows with the witness."

Clemenceau while on the stand turned savagely upon Charles de Lesseps and challenged him to contradict the statements he was making. M. de Lesseps remained silent, however, except when Clemenceau was attacking Barboux. Then he nodded assent.

M. de Freycient also several times dared M. de Lesseps to contradict him, although in the main he admitted the truth of M. de Lesseps accusation.

Emaciated People Grow fat.

Do you sometimes feel as though your vital energy was sinking, and that you needed some powerful agency to recuperate it? Do you sometimes long for stimulants to brace you up? That is the time to take "Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil," because it contains life giving principles through its power to create flesh and blood. By taking it according to directions emaciated and enfeebled people have been known to actually grow fat at the rate of from five to ten pounds per bottle consumed. Gives Strength and Appetite.

DEAR SIRS,—Last year I was very thin and reducing very fast, owing to the bad state of my blood and appetite. A friend of mine induced me to get a bottle of B.B.B., which I did. I obtained immediate perceptible relief from it, having gained strength and appetite, and now weigh 198 pounds. M. T. MURPHY,

Why don't you try Carter's Little Liver Pills? They are a positive cure for sick headache, and all the ills produced by disordered liver. Only one pill a dose.

As a pick-me-up after excessive exertion or exposure, Millburn's Beef, Iron and Wine is grateful and comforting.

When the kidneys are clogged, good health is an impossibility; but when working properly the reverse is the case. That dull back-ache is the kidney's cry for relief. If Dodd's Kidney Pills are used the result will be marvellous. We emphatically state that we have never known a case of kidney disease that a persistent use of Dodd's Kidney Pills will not cure.

THE GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN NERVINE TONIC
—AND—
Stomach and Liver Cure
The Most Astonishing Medical Discovery of the Last One Hundred Years.
It is Pleasant to the Taste as the Sweetest Nectar.
It is Safe and Harmless as the Purest Milk.

This wonderful Nervine Tonic has only recently been introduced into this country by the proprietors and manufacturers of the Great South American Nervine Tonic, and yet its great value as a curative agent has long been known by a few of the most learned physicians, who have not brought its merits and value to the knowledge of the general public.

This medicine has completely solved the problem of the cure of indigestion, dyspepsia, and diseases of the general nervous system. It is also of the greatest value in the cure of all forms of failing health from whatever cause. It performs this by the great nervine tonic qualities which it possesses, and by its great curative powers upon the digestive organs, the stomach, the liver and the bowels. No remedy compares with this wonderfully valuable Nervine Tonic as a builder and strengthener of the life forces of the human body, and as a great renewer of a broken-down constitution. It is also of more real permanent value in the treatment and cure of diseases of the lungs than any consumption remedy ever used on this continent. It is a marvelous cure for nervousness of females of all ages. Ladies who are approaching the critical period known as change in life, should not fail to use this great Nervine Tonic, almost constantly, for the space of two or three years. It will carry them safely over the danger. This great strengthener and curative is of inestimable value to the aged and infirm, because its great energizing properties will give them a new hold on life. It will add ten or fifteen years to the lives of many of those who will use a half dozen bottles of the remedy each year.

IT IS A GREAT REMEDY FOR THE CURE OF

Nervousness,	Broken Constitution,
Nervous Prostration,	Debility of Old Age,
Nervous Headache,	Indigestion and Dyspepsia,
Sick Headache,	Heartburn and Sour Stomach,
Female Weakness,	Weight and Tenderness in Stomach,

Pains in the Heart,	Liver Complaint,
Pains in the Back,	Chronic Diarrhœa,
Failing Health,	Delicate and Scrofulous Children,

Summer Complaint of Infants.
All these and many other complaints cured by this wonderful Nervine Tonic.

NERVOUS DISEASES.

As a cure for every class of Nervous Diseases, no remedy has been able to compare with the Nervine Tonic, which is very pleasant and harmless in all its effects upon the youngest child or the oldest and most delicate individual. Nine-tenths of all the ailments to which the human family is heir are dependent on nervous exhaustion and impaired digestion. When there is an insufficient supply of nerve food in the blood, a general state of debility of the brain, spinal marrow, and nerves is the result. Starved nerves, like starved muscles, become strong when the right kind of food is supplied; and a thousand weaknesses and ailments disappear as the nerves recover. As the nervous system must supply all the power by which the vital forces of the body are carried on, it is the first to suffer for want of perfect nutrition. Ordinary food does not contain a sufficient quantity of the kind of nutriment necessary to repair the wear our present mode of living and labor imposes upon the nerves. For this reason it becomes necessary that a nerve food be supplied. This South American Nervine has been found by analysis to contain the essential elements out of which nerve tissue is formed. This accounts for its universal adaptability to the cure of all forms of nervous derangement.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., Aug. 20, '86.
To the Great South American Medicine Co.:
DEAR GENTS:—I write to say to you that I have suffered for many years with a very serious disease of the stomach and nerves. I tried every medicine I could hear of, but nothing done me any appreciable good until I was advised to try your Great South American Nervine Tonic and Stomach and Liver Cure, and since using several bottles of it I must say that I am surprised at its wonderful powers to cure the stomach and general nervous system. If everyone knew the value of this remedy as I do you would not be able to supply the demand.
J. A. HARDER, Ex-Treas. Montgomery Co.

REBECCA WILKINSON, of Brownsvalley, Ind., says: "I had been in a distressed condition for three years from Nervousness, Weakness of the Stomach, Dyspepsia, and Indigestion, until my health was gone. I had been doctoring constantly, with no relief. I bought one bottle of South American Nervine, which done me more good than any $50 worth of doctoring I ever did in my life. I would advise every weakly person to use this valuable and lovely remedy; a few bottles of it has cured me completely. I consider it the grandest medicine in the world."

A SWORN CURE FOR ST. VITAS' DANCE OR CHOREA.
CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., June 22, 1887.
My daughter, eleven years old, was severely afflicted with St. Vitus' Dance or Chorea. We gave her three and one-half bottles of South American Nervine and she is completely restored. I believe it will cure every case of St. Vitus' Dance. I have kept it in my family for two years, and am sure it is the greatest remedy in the world for Indigestion and Dyspepsia, and for all forms of Nervous Disorders and Failing Health, from whatever cause.

INDIGESTION AND DYSPEPSIA.
The Great South American Nervine Tonic
Which we now offer you, is the only absolutely unfailing remedy ever discovered for the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, and the vast train of symptoms and horrors which are the result of disease and debility of the human stomach. No person can afford to pass by this jewel of incalculable value who is affected by disease of the stomach, because the experience and testimony of many go to prove that this is the ONE and ONLY ONE great cure in the world for this universal destroyer. There is no case of unmalignant disease of the stomach which can resist the wonderful curative powers of the South American Nervine Tonic.

HARRIET E. HALL, of Waynetown, Ind., says: "I owe my life to the Great South American Nervine. I had been in bed for five months from the effects of an exhausted stomach, Indigestion, Nervous Prostration, and a general shattered condition of my whole system. Had given up all hopes of getting well. Had tried three doctors, with no relief. The first bottle of the Nervine Tonic improved me so much that I was able to walk about, and a few bottles cured me entirely. I believe it is the best medicine in the world. I can not recommend it too highly."

MRS. ELLA A. BRATTON, of New Ross, Indiana, says: "I cannot express how much I owe to the Nervine Tonic. My system was completely shattered, appetite gone, was coughing and spitting up blood; am sure I was in the first stages of consumption, an inheritance handed down through several generations. I began taking the Nervine Tonic, and continued its use for about six months, and am entirely cured. It is the grandest remedy for nerves, stomach and lungs I have ever seen."

No remedy compares with SOUTH AMERICAN NERVINE as a cure for the Nerves. No remedy compares with South American Nervine as a wondrous cure for the Stomach. No remedy will at all compare with South American Nervine as a cure for all forms of failing health. It never fails to cure Indigestion and Dyspepsia. It never fails to cure Chorea or St. Vitus' Dance. Its powers to build up the whole system are wonderful in the extreme. It cures the old, the young, and the middle aged. It is a great friend to the aged and infirm. Do not neglect to use this precious boon. If you do, you may neglect the only remedy which will restore you to health. South American Nervine is perfectly safe, and very pleasant to the taste. Delicate ladies, do not fail to use this great cure, because it will put the bloom of freshness and beauty upon your lips and in your cheeks, and quickly drive away your disabilities and weaknesses.

Large 16 ounce Bottle, $1.00.
EVERY BOTTLE WARRANTED.
Sold by H. S. McDONALD, of Peterborough, and all Druggists in the Dominion of Canada. If your druggist does not happen to have the remedy in stock, ask him to procure it for you from his regular wholesaler.

FEAR A FISHERIES CRISIS.

Newfoundlanders Are Trying to Settle the French Shore Question.

ST. JOHN'S, N.F., March 11.—The report of the Joint Select Committee of both houses of the Newfoundland Legislature on the French Shore question was presented. This early action was taken in consequence of the British Government reminding the Newfoundland authorities that the celebrated modus vivendi expires at the end of the year, and demanding the intentions of the Legislature regarding enactments to carry out the treaty obligations.

The committee's report points out that in the conference between the Newfoundland delegates and the Salisbury Government in 1891 provision was made for the appointment of judges by the Newfoundland Government to decide questions arising out of French fisheries, and also for compensation to fishermen who must be disturbed by the arbitration on the lobster question. Instead of a bill on these lines one was sent out from London for the Legislature to pass with no provision for compensation and the power of adjudication placed in the hands of naval officers armed with arbitrary powers instead of judges as agreed. The bill was promptly rejected by a vote of 23 to 8.

The committee recommends the Legislature to so extend the modus vivendi to 1895 and repudiates the idea that the Legislature desired to recede from its promises to pass a permanent bill, and agrees to do so when a satisfactory bill is agreed upon. It protests against any imperial legislation before such bill is agreed upon as a breach of well understood agreements, and protests also against any piecemeal arbitration which does not contain provision for stopping smuggling operations by the French at St. Pierre.

The report will be considered this evening, and likely passed, but it is feared will not satisfy the Imperial Government, in which event an acute crisis will again arise and cause extreme dissatisfaction.

A FIERY TRAVELER

He Drew His Revolver and Fired at the Passengers.

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., March 11.—As the express on the Chicago and Grand Trunk road was approaching this city from the west last evening a passenger in a forward car suddenly jumped from his seat and, whipping a revolver from his pocket, fired a bullet into the head of a brakeman seated at the forward end of the car.

Three more shots were fired rapidly, one lodging in the breast of C. E. Baxter, a passenger, at the rear of the car.

The wounded brakeman was first to grapple the assailant and endeavor to disarm him. Other passengers rushed to his assistance and the man was soon bound securely with the bell cord. The brakeman, Herbert Pember, was then taken to a doctor's office, where it was found the ball had entered the back of the head near the base of the skull and came out near the right ear without fracturing the skull. Mr. Baxter was even more fortunate.

The ball passed through his coat, vest and shirts and was afterwards found in his sock, having struck a rib, but without force enough to cause serious injury. The assailant was taken to jail. He will not talk further than to deny all knowledge of the shooting. He is a foreigner, and had a third-class ticket from San Francisco to Mondane, France.

His name on the ticket was given as S. Delcarle. One hundred and fifty dollars was found in his pocket. There were seven passengers in the car, and it is remarkable none were killed.

Fire in Wallaceburg.

WALLACEBURG, Ont., March 11.—Fire destroyed the Windsor Hotel here at an early hour yesterday morning. It was owned and occupied by S. Somers and scarcely any of the contents were removed. Loss about $3000, partly covered by insurance. The fire is supposed to have caught from a lamp left burning in the bar-room.

Russia's Admission.

BURGLARY NEAR TROY.

ROUGH AND READY MEANS OF STEALING $5000.

Martin Carey Beaten Into Insensibility by Two Burglars Who Broke Into His House and Stole His Money, Which Was Hidden in Cotton Batting.

HAMILTON, March 13.—Residents of Troy are greatly excited over a daring burglarly and murderous assault which was committed about a mile and a half south of the village early Thursday morning. The victim, Martin Carey, was terribly beaten, and lies at the point of death. The burglars stole $5000, which was hidden in the house, and so far they have evaded arrest.

Carey is a bachelor about 60 years old, and has lived alone for many years. He owns a farm of 50 acres, which is worked on shares by Andrew Ammerman, a married man who lives a quarter of a mile from Carey. The old man lives in a lonely spot, and as he has no near neighbors the burglars could not have selected a better victim. He has a good appreciation of the value of money, being close and miserly, and has accumulated considerable wealth. It is said that he has no confidence in banks, and kept his money hidden away in the house.

About 2 o'clock Thursday morning two men broke into the house, battering in the door with a stick of wood. They were not cautious burglars and did not care whether they alarmed the old man or not, knowing that he was alone in the house. Going to Carey's bedroom they dragged him out of bed, kicked him as he lay upon the floor and then tied his hands and feet and gagged him. Then they coolly went through the house in search of money. Every room was ransacked and some boards on the kitchen floor were removed. The search was unsuccessful, and the burglars returned to the bedroom and renewed their brutal attack on the helpless old man, kicking him into a state of insensibility. It is not known if they compelled him to tell where the money was hidden, as he is still speechless, but at any rate the thugs got about $5000 which was stowed away in a bundle of cotton batting in the bedroom.

The money was in coin and bills. After securing the plunder the robbers gave the poor old fellow a couple of parting kicks and made their escape, leaving him bound and gagged and in a dying condition. The house was left in a terrible state of disorder, everything being topsy-turvey.

Between 7 and 8 o'clock in the morning Nelson Ammerman, nephew of the man who works the farm, went to the house to do some chores. He found the door wide open, and it rather startled him when he discovered Carey bound and gagged lying on the floor. He hurried for assistance, and sent to Lynden for a doctor. It was not long before Dr. Biggar arrived and did what he could for the old man. Carey's hands and feet were untied and the gag was removed from his mouth. He recovered consciousness, but he had lost his power of speech, and it was with difficulty that the neighbors found out what had happened. They had to ask him questions and he would either nod or shake his head in reply. It was in this way that they discovered how much money had been taken. "Did they take any money?" was asked. The old man nodded. After a great deal of trouble it was learned that $5000 was stolen. It is thought that the burglary was committed by men who knew the premises. It was common talk that Carey kept a large amount of money in the house, being afraid to bank it.

Yesterday Dr. Biggar did not have any hopes that Carey would recover. He was terribly beaten, his body being black and blue from the kicks of the brutes.

Carey's condition is unchanged to-day, and as he has not recovered his speech it has been impossible to get all the story of the burglary from him. Some of the neighbors doubt that $5000 was stolen from the old man, but they think a large amount was taken.

DIGNITY UNKNOWN.

The Oklahoma Legislature Goes Out With a Very Bad Smell.

GUTHRIE, O.T., March 13.— Saturday was the last day of the session of the Territorial Legislature, and the scenes that were enacted upon the floor were disgraceful in the extreme.

For 60 days the Legislature sat and quarreled. Within the last few days, however, the members awakened to the fact that the people of the Territory wanted legislation, but in the hurry and confusion of the closing hours what was done was so badly jumbled that in most things the Territory is worse off than it was before. During an attempt to repeal the Anti-Gambling bill yesterday members called each other liars, and at times almost came to blows. Charges of bribery were openly made.

Eight of the 17 children are living.

Mrs. Miller has an aunt who has been the mother of 22 children, 10 of them being quintuplets.

A BARON BOLD.

How He Abused the Confidence of Most and Other Choice Spirits.

NEW YORK, March 12.—Great was the joy of the enemies of John Most Saturday when it was learned that a real live Baron, who had become an Anarchist of the goriest type, and was Most's right bower for months, had been expelled from Most's organization.

The expelled nobleman was Baron von Barnekow, who came to this country from Germany about 18 months ago with recommendations from Heidringhup, the Socialist leader in Holland, to the Socialist labor party. The Socialists received him with open arms, and he became a writer for the Socialist organ, The Volks Zeitung, attacked the Anarchists, and proclaiming Socialism as the ideal destiny of humanity. When the Baron had been writing for several months Mr. Grunzig, one of the editors, found several items charged against himself for dinners and beer in saloons and restaurants, which he says he could not account for. A little investigation showed, he says, that the Baron had represented himself as Grunzig, and had been feeding himself under that name. There were explanations, recriminations and oratorical blue fire at the discovery, and after a very stormy meeting the Baron was expelled from the Socialist labor party. He went over to Most and became a writer for The Freiheit. He outdid Most himself in his diatribes against Socialism, which he described as concentration of the worst evils of capitalism.

About a week ago Most went out to collect some money for some advertisements procured by the Baron. He found, he says, that the Baron had been there before him and had collected the money without the formality of accounting for it. This was reported to Most's Anarchist organization. Its meeting was the stormiest ever known in its history. Men capable of swearing in four or five languages exhausted their powers, and by acclamation it was voted that the Baron would have to get out, which he did.

It is reported that the Peukert group of Astronomists, who do their dynamiting as their individual consciences move them, want the Baron now, and will try to show that the whole thing was an organized conspiracy to get rid of Barnekow.

Before Barnekow went on The Freiheit he had been trying his hand at reporting for the German dailies. To one of them he told a story of the arrest of Most in Newark. It was well written but devoid of foundation.

Barnekow says he was captain of a company of dragoon guards in Germany, and lost in a single night at gambling 300,000 marks, which he was unable to pay, so he had to resign.

Favorable to Dynamite Warfare.

NEW YORK, March 13.—The Times prints the report of the board appointed by the Navy Department to examine the guns of the Vesuvius and the operation of gun mechanism. The conclusions of the board are favorable to the practicability of this mode of warfare. After an extended consideration the board have decided that while the accuracy of these guns leaves a good deal to be desired, it is still reasonably sufficient for the purposes of naval warfare in comparatively smooth water, the only condition under which the board has been able to carry on tests.

The value of guns is increased by the fact that the projectile contains a heavy charge of a high explosive, and also that this explosive can be safely discharged when the projectile that contains it is armed with a fulminate fuse, and though the particular fuse used in the trials has failed to perform its functions, it is evident it can be safely fired from the guns.

Actress Pixley's Ankle Sprained.

NEW YORK, March 13.—The new play, "Her Honor the Mayor," was not produced Friday night at the Columbus Theatre in Harlem on account of an accident which happened to Annie Pixley. During rehearsal in the morning she slipped and sprained her ankle.

A large audience gathered, but they were compelled to return home without seeing Miss Pixley in her new role. The play will be produced just as soon as Miss Pixley is able to tread the boards again.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

THE QUESTION OF SUNDAY OBSERVANCE DISCUSSED.

It Arose From a Resolution By Mr. Charlton In Connection With Canada's Exhibit At the World's Fair—The Treaty With France Not Satisfactory.

OTTAWA, March 14.—After routine Mr. Laurier asked whether a returning officer had been appointed for Vaudreuil, and was informed by Mr. Foster that the same officer who acted at last election had been reappointed, and the writ had been issued. Nomination on 5th, polling on 12th of April.

In reply to Mr. Edgar's question about the evidence in the Caron commission Mr. Costigan said that the evidence was printed and had been distributed. The exhibits were being printed and would be ready as soon as possible.

The following bills were read a third time and passed:

Relating to the Canada Life Assurance Company.

To incorporate the Woodmen of the World.

To revive and amend the act to incorporate the Equity Insurance Company and to change the name to St. Lawrence Insurance Company.

The following bills were read a second time and referred to committee:

To incorporate the North American Canal Company.

To incorporate the Canadian Gas Association.

To amend act respecting the Nova Scotia Permanent Benefit Building Society and Savings Fund.

On the motion for the second reading of the Divorce bill from the Senate for the relief of Martha Ballantyne, the House divided and the second reading was carried 72 for to 31 against. The bill was referred to Private Bills Committe, as were also the bills for the relief of James Balfour and Edmund H. Heward.

The notices of motion were run through, and those unopposed were carried.

Mr. Charlton then moved the following resolution:

"That in the opinion of this House the Canadian department of the Columbian Exhibition should be closed on Sunday, in accordance with British example at previous exhibitions, in deference to the Christian sentiment of the country and as a recognition of the duty resting upon an avowedly Christian people to refuse by official act to do violence to Christian principles, and to decline to lend aid or countenance to any course that will deprive officials, caretaker or laborer of Christian liberties or privileges, or will invite or compel any class of the population to violate divine requirements relating to the observance of the Lord's Day as a day of rest."

Mr. Charlton spoke at some length in support of his motion, claiming that the opening of the exhibition on Sunday was opposed to the Christian sentiment of the people of Canada. He did not want to leave the matter to the Government, but desired to have an expression of opinion from the House.

Mr. McMullen thought it would be a national disgrace if the Canadian section was open on Sunday.

Mr. Amyot said Sunday was the only day on which workingmen would have an opportunity of visiting the exhibition, and they ought to have an opportunity of doing so.

Mr. Maclean said that while he might lay himself open to the charge of being a Sabbath breaker, he nevertheless held that this was a case that when in Rome do as the Romans do. The mover of the resolution had said it was in the interest of the workingman. The speaker was just as much a friend of the workingman as Mr. Charlton. Yet he recognized that with the increasing complexities of civilization there must be more or less Sunday labor, and therefore a law ought to be passed declaring that no man should be compelled to work more than six days out of seven, and he would support a law to that end if introduced by Mr. Charlton. Great companies who had to inflict Sunday labor on their hands did in many cases, and ought to in all, increase their number of hands by one-sixth and compel one-seventh to knock off every day. In this way they give all a day of rest. This was the practical philanthropic view of the question.

The question of Sunday cars had been up in Toronto not long ago and 10,000 of the voters of that city, including the Anglican Bishop and the Roman Catholic Archbishop, had, with other clergymen, voted for it and 14,000 against it. Next time it came up it would carry.

Many good men had favored the opening of the exhibition on Sundays. He was not ashamed to admit that he had spent Sundays in the museums and picture galleries of Europe, and a few months ago he was in Chicago and spent a profitable Sunday afternoon in the new art gallery there. The feeling of many of the best people of Chicago was that if the exhibition was closed on Sundays the people would go to saloons and beer gardens instead. [Hear, hear.] It was not necessary for us to take any stand at present, but to leave the matter in the hands of the Government and see what Great Britain and the other colonies did.

Mr. Foster would like to say a few words before the vote was taken. The practical side of the question was in regard to Sunday labor in connection with the many businesses and different kinds of labor, such as the running of trains and the different lines of travel whilst the exhibition was in progress. But Canada was not the manager of the exhibition. The exhibition was held and entirely within the control of the United States. Those who went there were invited to exhibit their different articles. As to whether it would be open or closed purely depended on the United States. It might very well be that the result which the United States will arrive at will be opposed to by some, but that will not affect the conduct of the United States. Whether the exhibition remained closed or open on the Sabbath would be determined alone by the United States. Those trains would go there and the labor would go on just the same no matter how the Canadian Parliament might protest or not protest. The only thing Canada could do was to close the Canadian department, and that was of no effect so far as labor was concerned.

But before referring to that he would like to have a word to say in respect to those who favored the exhibition being open on Sunday. There were those who favored such buildings being open on Sunday who were just as good men in every respect as those who wanted to see it closed; and he would not say one word against the latter. There was only a divergence of views between the two parties. Britain opened her galleries of art and museums to permit those who worked all the week days to visit the works of art and view the progress of the world. After all it was man who made his own temple. It was man's own frame of mind that constituted the good, and not the letter of the law or the enactment of a statute. He could go to the museum and his soul be elevated to God just as well as in a place of worship. He was not yielding to anyone for the worship of God and the observance of the Sabbath. Some of the noblest philantrophists in the United States asked that the exhibition should be open on Sunday so that the triumphs of arts and sciences might be witnessed.

As to the Canadian department, after all, what was it? The Canadian building! He was entirely in favor of having it closed. But the exhibits of Canadians was everywhere separate. One section were alongside another particular exhibit of articles of the same kind from other countries. Canada could not close these. The only thing that could be done was to draw something over the Canadian section.

What Great Britain would do was not known. He would suggest that the question should be left in the hands of the Government, which was as solicitous of the observance of the rights of Sabbath as any government was. Canada would be guided greatly by Great Britain in the matter. He suggested that, having made this explanation, Mr. Charlton withdraw the resolution.

Mr. Scriver was surprised to hear the Minister of Finance speaking in favor of the cultivation of the artistic æsthetic in preference to the religious.

Dr. Christie favored the resolution.

Mr. Daly moved the adjournment of the debate.

Mr. Charlton characterized the course of those who favored the adjournment as sneaking and cowardly. [Cries of order.]

Mr. Speaker asked Mr. Charlon to withdraw the words, and the latter did so.

Mr. Maclean said that while the British Government at some previous exhibitions had kept their exhibit closed, they did so without any resolution of Parliament, like the one now submitted. Mr. Charlton said he was pained at the prospect of Sabbath desecration. He (Mr. Maclean) had too been pained when he had heard that hon. gentleman charged in this House with running his tugboats on Sunday and who had not seen his way to repudiating the charge. Mr. Charlton had said that to open the exhibition on Sunday would permit of large excursions of workingmen and all the riff-raff, all pandemonium, would be let loose. In other words, this professed friend of labor was now characterizing workingmen as of pandemonium. Mr. Charlton had spoken a great deal in this House against reduction of trade. Mr. Maclean hoped that Mr. Charlton would be heard less hereafter advocating restriction of morals and heard often in support of reduction of trade.

After some further discussion the members were called in, and the House divided on Hon. Mr. Daly's amendment, which was carried, 76 for to 34 against.

Mr. O'Brien voted with the Opposition and Messrs Bechard, Leduc and Mignault, Liberals, with the Government.

After recess Mr. Reid moved his resolution, That in the opinion of this House cheese, the product and manufacture of any foreign country, should not be admitted for entry or in transit unless the name of the country is plainly marked, stamped, branded or labelled in legible letters, both on each cheese and box containing the same, so as to indicate the country of its origin.

Mr. Reid spoke at some length in support of his motion, pointing out the injury which was being done to Canadian cheese by American cheese being marked as Canadian and shipped through Canada.

After some discussion Hon. Mr. Foster pointed out the difficulty there would be in interfering with goods passing through in transit, and the motion was finally withdrawn.

Just before the adjournment Mr. Foster made some explanation of the new French treaty. By the French Tariff Act of 1892 the tariff was entirely reconstructed and all existing tariffs were practically abolished. Maximum and minimum tariffs are provided, but, so far as Canada is concerned, the minimum tariff is as high as the old tariff under which Canadian goods were admitted. Mr. Foster's explanation was lucid, but it looked as if most of the advantages were on the side of France, and after Mr. Foster's statement that he would not ask for the ratification of the treaty this year, it looks very much as if it would not be ratified at all.

Mr. Laurier pointed out that under the proposed treaty France was to get all the advantages under this treaty that were accorded to any other country under a subsequent treaty and, therefore, if we negotiated a treaty with the United States France would get the same benefits.

Mr. Foster replied that in that case it could be cancelled on a year's notice.

Mr. Maclean pointed out that the most serious objection to the treaty was that the Canadian industry most vitally affected had not been consulted in the matter. He referred to the native wine industry, now a large interest in the Niagara peninsula, in the St. Clair peninsula and in Pelee Island. Last week he had met a large deputation of these men in Toronto, and now that they knew how they were to be affected they proposed to come to Ottawa and protest against a treaty which would drive sound native Canadian wines out of our own market in favor of trashy stuff made from prunes and drugs in France. He hoped hereafter, now that we had a department of Trade and Commerce, that the first thing undertaken in negotiating a treaty would be to ascertain how Canadian interests were affected.

The proposed treaty looks like a "gone coon."

Mr. Davis is on the warpath after the Comptroller of Customs, and gives notice that he will enquire on Wednesday whether the Comptroller of Customs is correctly reported as having said in the course of a speech at a banquet in Kingston on Friday that" our friends (meaning Orangemen in Ireland) over there will never submit. Britain may cast them out, but if she does she has no right to look for their further allegiance. They are preparing for action. Their unalterable determination is never to submit to Home Rule, and they will have the sympathy of the Orangemen in Canada. Aye, more than sympathy, they shall have our active aid if that active aid be necessary. We shall be unworthy of our ancestors if we fail in our duty in such a crisis."

Mr. George Taylor, chief Conservative Whip, received a letter yesterday from Sir John Thompson dated at New York on Friday, in which he

"We were all de... mud-sill which we h... Nothing could have ... saw the decorations ... the ... abundance of beauty ... more than ever ... serve the country ... not of men."

The resignation of Judge Kingsmill, which was tendered some time ago, has been accepted, to take effect on April 1, on which date he will be succeeded by Junior Judge William Barnard Rogers.

Mr. A. R. Klein, Q.C., of Walkerton, has been appointed junior judge, to take effect on April 1.

A BRAVE EDITOR.

He Defends His Home Against an Armed Mob.

NEW YORK, March ...—A Panama letter says: Political feeling in Peru is running high, and the newspapers of the interior give frequent accounts of unusual acts of violence growing out of verbal discussion between union civicos, or followers of Dr. Rosas, and members of the constitutional party, which has proclaimed Gen. Caceres as its candidate for the presidency.

In Cuzco recently a party of Rosas' friends in broad daylight attacked and sacked the office of La Reforma, one of Caceras' supposed newspaper organs, smashing the presses, dumping the type into the street and pouring the ink into the gutter.

Two reporters and the foreman were mortally wounded and one printer was killed. The mob then visited the residence of Dr. Colangue, the editor of the paper, pelted it with stones and forced an entrance. Colangue, though he was confined to his bed by fever for a week, arose, armed himself with his rifle and two revolvers and defended his home and family.

Forty shots were exchanged, and, reinforced by his two sons, aged 12 and 16, the editor succeeded in driving the attacking party away. The younger boy was killed by a shot from the mob and Colangue was wounded in a dozen places, his arm having since been amputated.

A DOG'S VALUE.

A Poet Sues to Recover $5000 Damages and Gets $10.

TORONTO, March 14.—Brooke vs. Toronto is the ostentatious designation of that cause celebre of Poet John Brooke and his dog, which has dragged its weary length through the courts for the last three years. In June, 1889, Poet Brooke had a mastiff dog of the feminine persuasion. One day along came those heathen pirates, the dog catchers, and corralled the poet's canine, which was running at large without a tag. Lady Dora, for that was her name, was taken to the pound whence she was released by her devoted master. Shortly after she had a fine litter of puppies, having accomplished which she peacefully gave up the ghost. The poet alleges, however, that it was not puerperal fever that took her off, but a spinal injury received while in durance vile. Reckoning on the deceased canine's prolific powers the poet yesterday in the Court of Assize filed a suit for damages amounting to $5290. An interesting exhibit is Poet Brooke's statement of claim, which reads as follows, spelling and phraseology verbatim:

Actual merchantable value of property.....	$ 800
Puppies in utero.....	800
Prospective damage did me. My dog Lady Dorah would of bred for 7 years, 8 litters each year, 7 a litter & merchantable at $280 each litter.....	4,900
	$6,100

This sum, with the accumulated costs, made up the sum that the poet claimed. When Mr. Brooke has not been in the throes of composition he has been prosecuting his dog case.

Mr. Biggar appeared for the city and Mr. Reed for the plaintiff, and there was quite a legal tilt as to what the bylaw meant by running at large.

His Lordship held that Lady Dora was at large, that her prolificness might decrease, that her progeny might deteriorate and instructed the jury to fix the value of the dog on its own intrinsic worth. This the jury, after short deliberation, settled as $10.

His Lordship will deliver judgment this morning as to whether the city is liable for the amount or not.

DIED AMID SQUALOR.

Did This Woman Come to Her Death in Consequence of a Husband's Neglect?

TORONTO, March 14.—Mrs. F. J. Martin, 84 Northcote-avenue, died suddenly about 11 o'clock Sunday night under somewhat suspicious circumstances. The policeman on the beat was startled to see a man rush down the street in his night-clothes. Catching up to him, the man explained that his wife had taken a fit and that he was going for the doctor. Together they went to 9 Beaconsfield-avenue, the residence of Dr. J. O. Orr who, on arriving, found the woman cold, stark naked and dead. The room was squalid and bore the impress of the direst poverty—little furniture, and no clothing on the bed.

Martin, who is a man of dissipated habits, is designated in the directory as a laborer, but between his sprees follows the occupation of peddler. His story is that, having retired early, he woke up and missed his wife from his side. Reaching over the edge of the bed he felt her cold face. Becoming alarmed he hastened for a doctor. The body was taken to a neighboring undertaking establishment.

Coroner Orr was notified and opened an inquest, which was adjourned until 10 o'clock today at the Gladstone House, as there is suspicion of gross and criminal negligence on the husband's part.

Martin, the neighbors say, has not been working. Mrs. Martin was a sickly woman and three months ago a doctor paid her one visit, since which time she has had no medical attendance. The body of the dead woman is greatly emaciated and Coroner Orr is of the opinion that she died of starvation.

LONDON, March 14.—The Evening Standard applauds Canada's efforts in the French treaty, the text of which has been published here. THE TOWN'S DEFICIT.

When discussing the deficit of the town for the year 1892, at the beginning of the year, THE EXAMINER promised to return to the matter as soon as the auditor's report had been completed, printed and distributed to the ratepayers. This has been done and to-morrow we shall again editorially refer to the subject of the town's finances, substantiating the figures and justifying the position assumed at the time mentioned. Should any ratepayer entertain a doubt as to the fairness of our discussion of the subject and the accuracy of our calculations, based as they will be upon the auditors' report for 1892, he is advised to call at the town clerk's office and procure a copy of the report, if he is not already in possession of one, so that he may compare the correctness of the figures and the fairness of the arguments presented by us in dealing with the question, as we shall do in Wednesday's EXAMINER. This is a very important matter to the ratepayers, and they will fail in their duty to themselves and the town if they do not sift the matter thoroughly.

OPENING OF THE LEGISLATURE

Official notice has been received that His Honour the Lieutenant Governor has been pleased to summon the Legislative Assembly to meet in the new parliament buildings, Toronto, for the actual despatch of business, on Tuesday, April 4th.

SEED TESTING AND DISTRIBUTION OF SEED GRAIN.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

SIR,—Knowing that farmers generally are much interested in the above subjects, permit me to place before your readers the following:—

SEED TESTING.

The work of testing the germinating power of grain and other agricultural seeds is now in active progress at the Central Experimental Farm in Ottawa. Up to the present over 1,600 samples have been tested and reported on this season, and on the whole with very gratifying results, showing a good percentage of vitality. There are, however, some districts in the Dominion from which samples have been received of very poor quality and quite unfit for seed. In some parts of Manitoba the harvest season of 1891 was very unfavourable and considerable quantities of grain were left out in stook or stack all winter and threshed in the spring of 1892. A number of samples of such grain have been tested and they show a very low percentage of vitality, many of them ranging from 15 to 40 per cent. only, and are quite unfit for seed. In some other parts of the Dominion, and especially in some sections of Ontario and Quebec, the weather during the last harvest period was very wet, and the grain in the stook was subject to repeated wettings before it could be housed, and in the meantime some of it sprouted. A large proportion of such samples also show a low degree of germinating power, and if sown as seed will be likely to result in poor crops.

Any farmers desiring to send further samples for test should forward them without delay; the packages should contain about one ounce each, and they can be sent to the Experimental Farm free through the mail. The samples are tested and reports can usually be furnished in about ten days after the grain is received.

SEED DISTRIBUTION.

Last year 16,905 sample bags of promising sorts of grain, weighing 3 lbs. each, were sent free through the mail to 9,114 farmers residing in different parts of the Dominion. This large quantity of grain, over 25 tons, was all of first quality and consisted of the most promising sorts which have been tested on the several Experimental Farms. By instruction of the Hon. Minister of Agriculture a similar distribution is now in progress for this year, and already over 3,000 samples have been sent out and a large number are being mailed daily. The object of this distribution is to place in the hands of good farmers in all parts of the country samples of the best varieties of oats, barley, wheat, peas, etc., so that they may shortly be available for seed in every district in the country, and eventually result in the displacing of poor, mixed and enfeebled sorts, with varieties possessed of great vigour and fertility. The number of samples sent to one applicant is limited to two in each case, and on this basis a very large number can still be supplied. With careful and judicious handling these 3 lb. samples will generally produce from one to three bushels the first year, and at the end of the second season the grower usually has seed enough for a large field. The advantages resulting from this large distribution of the best sorts of grain obtainable will no doubt in a few years be generally manifest in an improvement in the quality and an increase in the quantity of the average grain crops of the Dominion. A circular is sent with each sample which the recipients are expected to fill up and return at the close of the season, with particulars as to the character and growth of the grain. The request is also made that a sample of not less than one pound of the product be returned to the Central Experimental Farm, so that information may be had as to the measure of success attending its growth. Samples are sent to applicants as long as the supply lasts. Letters can be sent to the Experimental Farm at Ottawa free of postage.

THE HAWAIIAN TREATY.

Doesn't Go With the Present Administration, Says a Man.

NEW YORK, March 13.—The Herald's Washington special says: "A gentleman closely connected with the administration is authority for the statement that the Hawaiian matter will be taken up immediately by Judge Gresham and that a message transmitting a treaty of some kind will be sent to the Senate during the present special session.

"This gentleman, who is in a position to know, predicted further that the treaty would be on annexation lines, though not call different in its terms from the Harrison treaty. Features will be added, he states, which will leave no possible chance for the sugar syndicates to reap any benefits and which will relieve the United States from any financial responsibility for the support of the islands. In other words, this gentleman says the attitude of this administration is not unfavorable to annexation, but is opposed to the Harrison treaty."

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOUR COLUMN

"FOR CHRIST AND THE CHURCH."

[All communications intended for this column must be marked "Christian Endeavour" and sent to Box 113, Peterborough, not later than Friday previous to date of issue.]

Topic for week ending March 12—"Neglected Opportunities: the loss to others, to ourselves." Esther iv, 14, Heb. ii, 1-3.

For such a time as this (Esther iv, 14.) Esther had come to a time when her whole future would be affected by the performance of a single act. The destiny of her people was trembling in the balance. Her own life was hanging on a single thread.

Crises are continually occurring in human life. Every moment of indecision is a golden opportunity to be improved or neglected. You have had such times. What have you done with them?

If thou altogether holdest thy peace at this time. (Esther iv, 14). The point arrived at is one which may seem trifling, but its results shall be eternal. The question is not, "What is the form of the duty demanded?" but "What is the principle involved?" Does the proposed action make for righteousness? Then it must be done, or you are criminally responsible.

How shall we escape if we neglect so great salvation? (Heb. 2; 3.)

It is the privilege of every sinful soul to receive by faith, Christ—the one mediator between God and man. Full provision has been made on calvary for all sin, no matter how deeply dyed, no matter how long standing. Reader, have you accepted the invitation of the Holy Spirit? Christ is the way. There is no other way that will lead to the truth, no other way that will lead beyond the gates of pearl to the city of gold. If you have neglected; will you embrace this opportunity and accept now?

QUESTIONS.

Can we make up for opportunities lost?

What is the only use to which we can put lost opportunities?

When we lose a good opportunity, what do we lose besides the opportunity?

Suppose one is blind to his opportunities how could you open his eyes?

We have only once to live; therefore let us live to some purpose. The day that dawned this morning will never dawn again. The opportunities which it brought with it will never come again, and if we fail to fill it with the service it requires of us, there will be no possibility of returning into it to repair the mischief. The wheels of time's chariot have ratchets to them, and they move only forward.—D. M. Taylor, D.D.

It is decreed in the providence of God that, although the opportunities for doing which are in the power of every man, are beyond count or knowledge. Yet the opportunity once rejected, no man, by any self-sacrifice, can atone for those who have fallen or suffered by his negligence. J. E. Ewing.

DAILY READINGS.

First day—"Neglect not the gift that is in thee," (I. Tim. 4, 11-16.)

Second day—"An opportunity lost," (Matt. 25, 1-13.)

Third day—"An opportunity used," (II. Kings, 5, 1-4.)

Fourth day—"Work while it is day," (John, 9, 1-5.)

Fifth day—"In season, out of season," (II. Tim. 4, 1-5.)

Sixth day—"How shall we escape," (Heb. 2, 1-3.)

Seventh day—"Neglected opportunities; the loss to others, to ourselves," (Esther 4, 14; Heb. 2, 1-4.)

WORDS FOR OUR WORKERS.

Don't let us become "catch-up Endeavour societies; but "Keep-up societies."

Warm up before you go to the meeting, otherwise you and others like you may put out the fire before it is fairly started.

It is the mission of every Christian Endeavourer to make it plainly evident that the church is not an institution, but a living organism, the body of Christ, the dwelling place of the Holy Spirit.

Are you having sentence prayers in your society? If not, why not? Try it. Every member who recognizes God as his or her Father, should say a word or sentence of prayer. Perhaps it would be a good plan to have a special subject for prayer.

"IF YOU WOULD SERVE YOU MUST GROW."

Growth is necessary for service. The little child becomes serviceable only as it matures into manhood. Suppose a restraining power were laid upon each of these little ones and growth were stopped, what would be the results? Why, there would not be any. When we destroy a bud we destroy a rose also. We plant the seed, we reap later on the harvest. Why? Because the rain and sunshine from Heaven bring forth life and growth.

By far the most important matter in all growth is the beginning of it. Throw the proper influences around the child and you have done much toward directing perfect growth. Select your seed well, prepare your ground carefully, and you have taken important steps toward reaping the harvest. So must we, dear Christians, if we wish to "grow in grace and in the knowledge of our Lord and Master, Jesus Christ," be first planted in grace. No matter how good an outward appearance our lives make, our service will never be acceptable to God until it is prompted by a loving and grateful heart, trusting in the Lord Jesus Christ.

The most important thing then is the being—the doing is a most natural result. There are some Christians who can speak and pray gloriously in the meetings, and yet go out from the meetings to be mean and irritable in their homes and in business the next day, forgetting all their preaching, and becoming selfish, narrow and wordly. This would not be so if they were planted and rooted securely in grace.

But let us remember that after we are planted in grace we still need the daily care of a thoughtful Master. Now and then dead branches have to be pruned from a growing tree in order that it may bring forth fruit. So it is with the Christian, "Whom the Lord loveth he chasteneth."

We must not only grow in grace, but grow in God's ways, and under his fostering care. "Consider the lilies how they grow. They toil not, neither do they spin." There is no effort there, and so with us—it is rather a matter of letting ourselves grow. Interpose no barrier between yourself and the benefits of his loving kindness.

Results of this growth will be loyalty to Christ, love of our neighbour, and brotherly sympathy for all Christians.

DUMMER.

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Very successful revival services have been held in connection with Stony Lake, North Dummer and Warsaw Methodist churches, the pastor, Rev. Mr. Lewis, having been labouring energetically and successfully for the welfare of the people. On Tuesday evening last the closing meeting was held, and in addition to the pastor Mr. Winch and Mr. Lindsay, of Peterborough, took part. This was one of the most successful of the series. At Warsaw about twenty-four have signified their desire to lead a new life and are becoming connected with the church. In the three appointments about one hundred and ten have professed conversion. Rev. Mr. Lewis is one of the most popular pastors Dummer has ever had, and is working faithfully in the cause of the Master.

Anniversary services will be held in the Zion Methodist church North Dummer, on Sunday, 26th March, when Rev. Mr. Locke will occupy the pulpit both morning and evening. On the same day Rev. Mr. Lewis will occupy the pulpit of the George street Methodist church.

"TO BE OR NOT TO BE IN IT."

A Life Agent called at a friend's place one day,
HE WASN'T IN IT;
He had seen "the bore" coming and fled the city way
HE WASN'T IN IT;
He had heard so much said, he was tired and sick
Of insurance and agents—'twas all a blind trick,
When one's coil must be shuffled to win fame,
HE WASN'T IN IT.

A bit of a draft blew o'er his bald head,
HE WAS IN IT;
Pneumonia sent him straightway to his bed,
HE STAYED IN IT;
His doctor made of it a "quite special" case,
To save him for running still more of life's race,
But the grave took some chances to win it,
AND HE'S IN IT.

When approached by a gent for insuring your life,
GET RIGHT IN IT;
It's the right thing to do for your children and wife,
THEN STAY IN IT.
Remember that fires take your goods "out of sight,"
And that accidents happen each day and each night
While insurance protects every minute,
IF YOU'RE IN IT.

A Bank Manager's Opinion.
HE IS "IN IT."

The General Manager of one of the leading banks in Canada, writing to a personal friend, says:—"I have no hesitation in saying that I place the CANADA LIFE upon the highest platform. It is in my opinion carefully, economically and honestly managed; its Reserve Funds are well invested; its rates of Premiums are low, and its future is, I think better assured than a great majority of Companies. I have my own life insured in the Company for a round amount, and would not hesitate to increase the amount of my policies should I decide upon taking out further insurance."

A Government Insurance Actuary's Opinion
On the Relation between Ordinary and Tontine Service.

It is frequently assertedby Companies whose business is nearly all tontine, that although the CANADA LIFE may and does pay large ordinary profits, yet it cannot compare so favourably on a long term distribution or tontine period, and that in the end better results can be obtained on a tontine policy in a large American Co. than on an ordinary or tontine policy in the CANADA LIFE. To prove the absurdity of this statement, the following piece of common sense is quoted from Mervin Tabor, late Actuary of the Illinois Goverment Insurance Department. In his well known book, "The Three Systems of Life Insurance," he says: "A company that gives large dividends on the ordinary kind of policies, can give much larger on the same kinds when Tontined, and a company that pays but meagre dividends on the usual forms, adopting perhaps the Tontine system to "cover up" its small surpluses, cannot be relied on for large returns of surplus under the Tontine Forms of insurance."

The CANADA LIFE does not "cover up" its Quinquennial profits as some Companies do, but publishes them throughout the country.

It can and does surpass other Companies on Quinquennial profits. It should and will surpass them on Tontine profits.

WHY TO BE "IN IT."

BISHOP HAWKE'S REASON:—"I claim that Life Insurance is not only a a humane, but I might say a Christian Institution."

LORD LYNDHURST'S REASON:—"A Policy of Life Insurance is always an evidence of prudent forethought. No man with a dependent family is free from reproach if not insured."

WHEN TO BE "IN IT."

The younger, the cheaper. Therefore insure when young. Besides by insuring in the CANADA LIFE now, you will share in three years' profits.

WHERE TO BE "IN IT."

The best place to be "in it" is in the Company that gives the best returns for the least money, consistent with absolute security. Therefore, in order to be "in it," choose the Laymen's Meeting at St. John's.

At the last of the series of fortnightly laymen's meetings to be held to-morrow evening in St. John's church, the speaker will be Judge MacDonald, senior judge of the county of Leeds. Besides his judicial position, His Honour is a member of the Royal Commission on Prohibition, and has always taken an active interest in religious and philanthropic works. As a member of St. Andrew's Brotherhood he took a prominent part in the late convention at Kingston, and concisely summed up its results at the memorable farewell meeting. His subject to-morrow night will be "The call to Work."

Interior Changes to Meet Accommodation.

So great has been the increase in Messrs. Fairweather & Co.'s great hat and fur business during the past season that more room was the watchword with the firm in order that more accommodation might be afforded them. Accordingly several alterations have been made in their establishment with this end in view. All the shelving and cornices on both sides of the shop have been removed. On either side now is a ledge two and a half feet high and three feet broad, on which their gigantic stock of spring hats and caps are piled mountains high. The store has also been artistically papered throughout and presents a very attractive and bright appearance. Mr. Fairweather is now prepared to add greatly to his stock by these changes, which not only give unlimited room, but in addition goods can be handled much more conveniently and easily.

Easter Opening.

The brightness of spring brings with it increasing trade. This, at least, is the experience of Miss Delaney, with whom in fact there scarcely ever seems to be any season of dullness but rather an overflow of business, and no wonder, for where else are the whispers of fashion more frequently heard at present than in connection with Miss Delaney's early spring display of stylish millinery? It must be delightfully refreshing for ladies at this season of the year to indulge in a visit to the establishment, and take in the bright spring effects which have been personally selected from the fashionable centres the world. Miss Delaney has already had an active demand for her veilings in fancy gauzes and nets, which are in great favour, over one hundred different pieces of which are shown. The new conceits in millinery and fancy novelties, flowers, ribbons and laces give richness and variety to her stock, and evince first-rate skill and taste in her selections. Her patterns, bonnets and hats furnish fresh interest to the ladies, and stimulate admiration at the first glance. Miss Delaney also devotes special attention to imported mantles and Eton jackets. Her Easter opening—which is to be a specially marked event this spring—will no doubt be looked forward to with anxious interest; and ladies, who do not wish to be disappointed are enjoined to place their orders for Easter early, for their own interest as well as Miss Delaney's.

Do You Need Furniture.

Most house keepers, and especially those starting to keep house, do need furniture. It will pay you to examine the stock and learn the prices at A. Clegg's warerooms, and it will surprise many people to learn that the floor space in these warerooms is equal to about seven ordinary double stores if they were all on one flat, and that they contain the largest and most valuable single stock of furniture between Toronto and Montreal. Furniture of all grades. Prices lower than ever. Remember the place, 427 George Street. d-61-2.-w-11-2.

Bound for the Nor' West.

He is taking with him a carload of settler's effects. A carload of horses were shipped to Brandon this morning by Mr. Greer, a horse buyer, who has been purchasing suitable animals at the Cavanagh House here for some time past.

Those who attended the recital given by Miss Marguerite Dunn at Association Hall were amply repaid, as it is rare indeed that Toronto has witnessed a recital that gave such entire satisfaction as that given by Miss Marguerite Dunn. She was not heralded in big trumpets, but advertised in a very unostentatious way, consequently the excellence of the programme was all the more appreciated. Miss Dunn has all the personal charms, talent, education and training to place her in the front rank of elocutionists, a position she will occupy ere long.—Toronto EMPIRE. Miss Dunn will appear here on the 17th of March. Do not fail to hear her. Tickets on sale at Sailsbury's Bookstore. Price 50 and 25 cents. Piano supplied by Jackson & Co.

Imagine the chagrin and mortification the passengers suffered when the coveted rubber was discovered, the young lady joyfully exclaiming, "Oh, here it is! I had both rubbers on the one foot all the time and did not know it."

But one opinion prevails throughout the world, and that is so strongly in favor of Perry Davis' PAIN-KILLER, that no other article ever attained so wide spread popularity. 25 cents buys a big bottle.

Miss Delaney's spring purchases are arriving every day. She has secured some genuine surprises for her customers, in styles and prices. tf

From Over the Border.

Mr. Harry Neil, the genial manager of H. Calcutt's brewery, entertained his fellow employers and a few invited friends to a tempting oyster supper on Thursday night last. Some 22 lovers of the bivalves were present and spent a "hale, hearty, good time" in discussing the elaborate feast. The tables were beautifully decorated with flags, festoons and flowers. After the usual felicitous toasts were proposed and amusingly responded to, a musical entertainment was begun, which afforded unlimited enjoyment and pleasure. Among the talented contributors were Messrs. Clare Calcutt, Harry Neil, Butcher, Geo. Chambers, Sanderson, Alex. Paterson, Whitaker and others. The guests present will long remember with delight the associations and friendship of the evening, and all dispersed at an early hour, voting Mr. Neil "the best host out."

A VALISE HELD IN PAWN.

The Keeper of a Hunter Street Junk Shop up Before the Magistrate This Morning.

There was only one case on the docket before the magistrate this morning. Mrs. Annie Wood, a Jewess, who resides on Hunter street and keeps a second hand shop next to the Central Livery Stables was arraigned on the following charge:—That she did take in pawn for the repayment of $1.00 loaned and interest or premium or profit thereon the sum of 50c, a valise or gripps sack containing a quantity of clothes and goods of said Jos. B. Speers, and without reasonable cause did refuse to deliver back to the said Jos. B. Speirs the said goods, though tendered the sum of $1.50 by said Jos. B. Speirs, on the 15th day of March, inst, contrary to the statute on that behalf.

In his testimony Mr. Speers, the complainant, stated that he came to Peterborough from Lindsay yesterday and wishing to raise enough money to go to Campbellford, where he had secured a situation as marble cutter, he took the valise and a new pair of pants and called at Mrs. Wood's shop. He did not wish to sell the goods in the valise as they were valuable while he also was loath to part with the pants which were a new pair. He asked the defendant if she would take a pair of pants in pawn. This the witness stated she did, giving him a dollar as requested, and with the understanding that if the goods were redeemed at any time within two weeks she was to accept $1.50 in exchange for them—thus defendant was to receive 50 cts for the trouble. Complainant further stated that after getting the money and telephoning to Campbellford for a situation which he secured, he borrowed $1.50 and returned in a short time to Mrs. Wood's shop and offered her this amount for the return of his property as he thought was mutually agreed upon. Defendant refused to deliver over the valise and pants without his giving her 5¢ and stoutly averring that she had bought the goods from him. Before this, however, witness deposed that he had gone to the establishment and asked for his apron and cap, which he got. Upon being unable to recover his goods, witness went and saw Chief Rossel and went back to the shop a second time to recover his property, but to no avail, hence he lodged the information.

Mrs. Wood when put in the box indignantly maintained she had bought the goods from Spier in a lawful manner She did not want to get into trouble as she had rent to pay and a family of nine children to support. She has been in this country 17 years, had always conducted a proper business and never got into difficulty before. She was honest in the present transaction, as she bought the valise and pants fairly for the sum of $1.00 Defendant produced a book in court and showed the magistrate the entry of the item. Complainant had written the entry himself. Speir acknowledged this and said he had done so because Mrs. Wood and her daughter had told him they could not write. He said he had no idea that there was a scheme being worked, or that there was any crookedness in the affair when he did so. He simply pledged the goods for a loan. The value of same to him was $25.

The magistrate ordered the complainant to pay the shopkeeper the $1.50, and remarked to her that she had better be very careful how she did business, and not to attempt to carry on a junk shop without a license or she would soon find herself in a different place from which she was now. She had made fifty cents very easily.

This ended the case and the woman left the court room stating she had paid a license of $10 in Toronto for seventeen years, and had never been caught in the pawn business—and they had more detectives in the city than in Peterborough.

Our Bow to the Public.

IN making this our first regular spring announcement to the citizens and residents of the town and county of Peterborough, we would address ourselves, not only to that large constituency of customers who have heretofore patronized our well known and highly esteemed predecessors, (Messrs. Hall, Innes & Co.,) but to all other readers of this journal, many of whom we hope to have the privilege of doing business with in the future.

We have a few words to say, not directly about Dry Goods.

We believe, that in all the relations of life where success is attained, mutual confidence is the basis, whether between physician and patient, lawyer and client, or merchant and customer, and, for our part, we intend to merit and expect to win confidence.

A WORD as to our taking charge of this business. It has been a matter of choice, on our part, largely influenced by some knowledge of this, "Canada's Premier Town," and surrounding district, and, as we are here to stay, we are actuated by a desire to do our best, as worthy citizens, to still further advance its interest and fair name.

OUR RECORD extends over a number of years of business life, and, with perhaps pardonable pride, we can say that during all that time, both those from whom we have bought and those to whom we have sold, have been financially benefitted.

OUR POSITION, as direct importers of Dry Goods, with a personal visitation of one of the firm twice a year to the European markets, and direct business connection with the leading manufacturers and warehousemen in Great Britain, place us in a position to give VALUE SECOND TO NONE, and styles the most correct and elegant. In no other line of business does the exercise of taste in selection come so largely into play as in the Dry Goods Trade, and in the markets we visit, there is the amplest room for its exercise.

"OUR STAFF." Almost or quite equal to a good stock of Dry Goods at right prices, as a factor in ensuring the success of a business, is competent, courteous and polite assistants. Our staff of employees in its entirety, will be composed of ladies and gentlemen of whom we expect to feel proud.

OUR AIM shall be to merit your confidence in what we may say to you in our place of business, in what we may tell you in our business announcements, in the reliable character of the goods we may have to offer you, by basing our business superstructure on the three cardinal principles,—

INTEGRITY, INTELLIGENCE AND INDUSTRY.

A WORD AS TO OUR METHOD OF DOING BUSINESS.

We fully recognize the fact that to conduct a successful business at the present day demands that all competition from any and every source should be successfully met, which means, not merely that of a local character, but that emanating from the largest houses of the largest cities, who do business exclusively for Cash, and, as a consequence, have not the factor of bad debts and capital outstanding, as well as office expenses to take into consideration, when marking the profits on their goods. This and all other honest competition we are prepared to meet, and to do this we have decided to offer attractive goods at such close prices as will draw to us that large constituency of the community who buy for Cash We have strong faith in a Cash Business, having found in our experience that this potent factor, Cash, is the key that opens all the doors where bargains are to be had. We have used it this season in making our European and Canadian purchases, and, as a result, have the best class of goods at Rock Bottom Prices.

We have already opened up several cases of new Millinery Goods, the styles of which are to be found correct. MISS WALKER has returned after visiting the centres of fashion, and will, as heretofore, be in charge of the show room, which our customers will be pleased to learn.

We have passed into stock many new Spring Suitings, Trouserings and Spring Overcoats, which we have marked at close prices. We have been successful in securing the services of MR. AMES, as Cutter for our Tailoring Department, who comes to us highly recommended, having had a long experience in large city trade. All work in this department guaranteed.

We shall be pleased to see all the old friends of the house, and will consider it a pleasure to show our goods, whether present purchases are contemplated or not.

A Successful Township Sunday School Convention.

The fourth annual convention of the Sunday School Association of the township of Otonabee, held in Keene on Wednesday, March 8th, was, in attendance and interest, the most successful yet held. Both sessions, afternoon and evening, were held in the Methodist church. The afternoon session was opened by devotional exercises by Rev. F. Andrews, of Keene Presbyterian church, after which the minutes of the last convention were read and approved. After the appointment of a nominating committee and singing, Rev. J. Thom, of Ashburnham, gave a thoughtful, profitable and interesting address on "Child nature, its characteristics and claims." Verbal reports from the different Sunday schools were then given, after which the nomination committee presented their report as follows:—

President—Mr. R. A. Ward.
Vice-President—Dr. W. F. Harrison.
Secretary-Treasurer—Mr. R. English.
Executive Committee—Mr. W. F. Mather, Mr. Eason and Dr. Shaw.

After singing Miss Forsyth read a paper on, "Home Influence, its value to the Scholar and to the School," and Mr. M. W. Matchett followed with another paper on the same subject. After another hymn had been sung, Miss L. Kennedy, of Cold Springs, addressed the children, taking as her subject, "Five Lessons from the Life of Christ." Not only the children, but all present, were deeply interested in, and pleased with this address. An able address on "Attention, how to obtain and how to retain it," by Rev. F. Andrews. The taking up of the collection, the announcements, and the benediction closed the afternoon session.

The evening session was opened by devotional exercises by Rev. E. E. Howard, of Keene Methodist church, after which the president-elect, Mr. R. A. Ward, was introduced and made a brief address. Rev. D. Thompson, of Hastings, then delivered a very forcible and practical address on "How to Cultivate a Missionary Spirit." "The Bible History of the Sunday School Lessons of the Present Quarter," by Mr. R. A. Ward, was next on the programme, and was ably handled. Rev. Mr. Howard followed with an address on "Our Older Pupils, their Relation to Us and Ours to Them." After tendering thanks to all who had assisted in anyway in making the convention the success that it was, the proceedings were brought to a close by the benediction, pronounced by Rev. D. Thompson. The executive committee are to decide the time and place of the next convention.

LADY MOWAT'S DEATH.

It is with the deepest regret that we announce the death of Lady Mowat, wife of the premier of this province, which occurred at midnight, as recorded in our news columns. The deceased lady was a daughter of the late John Ewart, and was married in 1846. The affliction which has fallen upon the premier in the severance of a union which has lasted nearly half a century is heavy indeed, and we feel sure that the heart of the community will go out to the bereaved gentleman and his family. For many years before her death Lady Mowat had been a great sufferer, but before losing her health she was during a long period of years a true helpmate to her distinguished husband, being always ready with sympathy and wise counsel to encourage him in the honourable and onerous duties that became his lot in life. —Globe.

HYBERNATING IN FLORIDA.

A Breezy Letter From the Land of Flowers.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 9th.

MY DEAR EXAMINER,—Would you not like to know where a couple of your readers are spending a happy holiday? In St. Augustine, the oldest city on this continent, but as the population is only about half that of Peterborough, it is a city by virtue of its cathedral only. Though so small a place, it is called the Mecca of the South. All northerners who come to Florida linger in old St. Augustine, and in the summer it is the place of resort for many southerners from the interior,—the seabreeze tempers the heat and they say at no time last summer did the mercury rise higher than 93 degrees. It is not the intensity of the heat, but the length of its duration that makes living here so enervating. Summer proper lasts from May to November, and to-day, the 9th of March, is uncomfortably warm—80 degrees. This town was settled by the Spaniards 30[illegible] years ago, and to a northener driving up the narrow main street for the first time it seems incredible that so foreign looking a place can indeed be in America. The street is guiltless of sidewalk and so narrow that carriages have difficulty in passing. Treasury street is 7 ft wide. St. George, the main street is an improvement on that, but on it last week, a woman, a child and a dog were run over. No trifles like this affect the serene southern indifference one iota. The very names over the store doors are of "foreign aspect and of different clime," Hernandez, Genovar, Carrera, and Canova. This was when the Spaniards had to protect themselves against hostile Indians from within as well as from foes by water. The city gates are all that remain of the wall, but they are in good repair, as is Fort Marion with its dungeons and Spanish coat of arms. From it to the barracks extends the sea wall which is a favourite walk for the level headed, as when the tide is in and the bright sun shining on the water, it makes one a trifle dizzy. The wall, fort and many buildings are made of coquina. The old slave market stands in a beautiful plaza in the middle of the town, an innocent sulphur spring occupying the spot where the block used to stand. The Roman Catholic cathedral and Trinity church face either side of this plaza. At the former we heard two splendid sermons from Dr. McGlynn, of New York, and at Trinity Church a converted Jew named Ben-Oliel is giving a series of most interesting Lenten lectures. About five years ago a Mr. Flagler, partner of Rockfeller, took up his abode in St. Augustine, and has since proved himself a substantial sort of god-father to the town. He has built a beautiful memorial (Presbyterian) church here, the building itself, the chandeliers and all ornamentations being cruciform. His own residence is an exact though smaller counterpart of the White House, and is remarkably ugly. With scant ceremony he turned a large creek into the Matanzas River, and to fill up the vacuum he had eighty acres of soil taken up bodily and brought here by train.

HERE STANDS THE PONCE DE LEON,

the finest hotel in the world. It, too, is built of coquina with red brick facings, and has a large court in the middle filled with tropical plants, a large fountain and flowers. Over the arched gateway are "Bien Venio" in coloured electric lights. In the century plants, twining like a rope round the fountain and wherever they can be put, are more coloured lights, and to sit on the loggias listening to the bands and to the splashing of water falling, is about as near Fairyland as one can get in this prosaic age. Inside the Ponce the public are free to examine the beautiful works of art, rare old books and furniture that are scattered round, and one mantel is said to have cost ten thousand dollars. What charms me most is a set of Shakespeare paintings, each one the artist's conception of one of Shakespeare's heroines, Desdemona, Ophelia, etc. One large piece which is greatly admired, "A Scene on the Bosphorus," is by Bridgeman, a Canadian. This fact quite cheered me up, because most of the Americans whom we have talked with, regard Canada as a bleak, small district of the north, whose people are looking forward with anxious eyes to annexation as their only hope in life. Two other magnificent hotels, the Cordova and the Alcazar—are monuments of Mr. Flagler's zeal and good taste. The town is very full of strangers now—5,000 being said to be here. Flowers are plentiful, roses, violets, all early flowers and vines are in luxurious bloom; peach and pear trees are in blossom. It is a little early yet for orange blossoms here, but the ripe fruit is hanging from the trees in profusion everywhere. It is impossible not to be charmed with the soft-voiced, easy-going people. Every one here moves slowly, nothing matters much or is ever on time. In the post office they keep up a placard stating that the "Northern Mail is Late To-day." It is always late, and one sad day last week it did not come at all.

The climate here is very changeable—when the weather is fine it is perfect, the sky is so blue, and the sea breeze is very refreshing, but when it is disagreeable it is intensely so, the dampness seems almost tangible. Let consumptives flee St. Augustine, but no more charming spot could be found in which to spend a winter holiday.

"Clear in the Plaza the three bells chime—
At morn, and at noon, and at vesper time,
The quaint fort lieth in a dream of days,
When the Spaniards wended the sandy ways;
And the dark-eyed children play and call
To the fleeting ships from the old sea-wall."

THE WAY THE ASSESSING IS DONE.

To the Editor of the Examiner

DEAR SIR,—Give me a little space to refer to the high rate of assessment the present assessors are making. If the few examples that have come under my notice, are any guide, the assessment all around will be high. I know of properties assessed nearly up to their market value. Can it be that the Council has given instructions to the officers to put the assessment away up so that the city fathers may get credit for a low rate, while at the same time the people may pay higher taxes than they did last year—the taxation pill being su ar coated with high assessment. If the council want money for public purposes, the people will pay it, but the people object to being roped in for paying high taxes under a low rate, by the help of high assessment. I believe, too, that the assessment roll should be published so that we can see whether the assessment is fairly made, one property with another. Yours, etc.

A SHORTENING.

Down the street through the busy way
A lady passed on marketing day.
Who, pausing at a grocery store,
Stepped quickly in at the open door.
With bated breath and anxious mien
She queried: "have you COTTOLENE?"

The grocer, leaving off his work,
Interrogated every clerk;
But none up to that time had seen
An article called "COTTOLENE."

"What is it?" said he to the dame,
"That answers to this curious name.
What is it made of? What's its use?
My ignorance you'll please excuse."

"You're not the merchant for my dimes,
I see you're quite behind the times.
For COTTOLENE, I'd have you know,
Is now the thing that's all the go,
An article of high regard;
A healthful substitute for lard.
Its composition pure and clean;
For cooking give me COTTOLENE."

As from his store the lady fled,
The grocer gently scratched his head—
On his next order, first was seen,
"One dozen cases COTTOLENE."

INEFFECTIVE.

An Example and a Moral of Want of Thought.

I have sketched a woman whom you all have seen, or, at least, many a one just like her, as you will recall from my description. She has no alertness about her expression and carriage and a lack of attention about what she wears. It is not so much that she is not dressed fashionably, and it certainly is not that she is not pretty or attractive, for she is often both in an appealing sort of way. But she is somehow ineffective. And that a woman never should be no matter what she wears. You don't know just how to find fault with the big felt hat that is turned up at one side, and has a lot of tips and a bow or so adjusted aimlessly for trimmings, but it simply won't do at all. Her hair is pretty, but there is no meaning to the line it makes as it is drawn back to the tilly coil that pushes the hat awkwardly in the back. The extra feather that hangs down over the coil hangs wrong, too. Whether it is the feather's fault, or the coil's, or the dear little woman's, you don't know. She has fur around the neck of her coat, but it neither ornaments her coat or affords becoming softness about her face and chin. It is just there in the aimless way everything else she has on is worn. It comes around her neck at the back and down on either side at the front, and the fastening of the coat is all bare, and it comes together queerly anyhow. Part of the queerness of the coat is that the sleeves are not full at the shoulders, and this gives final effect to her uncertain air. She carries her head a little forward, too, and the whole result is —well, it isn't pleasing, and she seems to know it isn't and to be meekly in despair about it, too. There is a moral in all this for those who would avoid such an appearance. Don't wear anything without definite purpose; for, if you do, the first thing you know you will be all be-gewgawed rather than ornamented, and all "togged out" rather than carefully attired.

Emaciated People Grow fat.

Do you sometimes feel as though your vital energy was sinking, and that you needed some powerful agency to recuperate it? Do you sometimes long for stimulants to brace you up? That is the time to take "Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil," because it contains life giving principles through its power to create flesh and blood. By taking it according to directions emaciated and enfeebled people have been known to actually grow fat at the rate of from five to ten pounds per bottle consumed. In big bottles, 50c. and $1.00, at all Drug Stores.

Encouragement for old People.

It may sound queer to talk about curing old people of Kidney and Urinary troubles after they have passed the alloted period of three score years and ten, but the following extraordinary recovery of an old veteran by Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure, ought to be of great encouragement to old people :—

BELLEVILLE, March 4, 1893.

Peterborough Medicine Company (Limited.)

GENTLEMEN,—I owe a great debt of gratitude to Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure for the prompt and speedy relief which I have received from the use of only one bottle of your great medicine. I have suffered from Kidney and Urinary troubles, inflammation of the neck of the bladder, &c. for many a long day. No one knows better than old people how great a blessing it is to be cured. I doctored a lot, but nothing did me so much good as your cure. I have lived about half a century in Belleville, and will be only to glad to speak a good word in favour of Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure. I can also recommend it for constipation and stomach troubles.

JAMES HAROLD.

Pulverize the Soil.

There is a good deal in the following from The Prairie Farmer: There are several results to be gained by thoroughly pulverizing the soil before planting the seed. If this is done, in nearly all cases the seed will germinate quicker and better, and plants will make a thriftier start in growth. A certain amount of heat and moisture is necessary to induce a good germination of the seed, and in a majority of cases this can be secured by placing it in contact with the soil, and a fine tilth will help materially in this. Then when the soil is in a good tilth the fine tender roots of the plants will be better able to penetrate the soil to advantage. One of the principal advantages gained in pulverizing the soil is that the plant food is brought into a more available condition for the use of the plants and this helps materially in securing a much better growth. In many cases, even in a thin, cropped-down soil, a much better growth and yield can be secured if the soil is prepared in a fine tilth before sowing the seed, and kept so during growth by frequent cultivating, than would otherwise be possible. By bringing the soil to a good tilth before planting, it is easier to keep it in a good tilth afterwards while the plants will make a more vigorous start to grow. Thoroughly fining the soil aids it to retain moisture as well as to draw it from the sub-soil by capillary attraction. While fair crops may be grown in a rich soil with different preparations, the best growth and yield is only possible by having the soil in a fine tilth before planting the seed, and as far as possible keeping it in such a condition during growth.

Roughly Said, But True.

The guns in use on the ships of our modern navy have a plate of steel armour fastened over them and bent slightly back, so that a missile striking it would be deflected upward. A visitor to one of the ships said he supposed that this was a serviceable protection to the men who were working the guns. "Lor' bless yer!" replied the old salt who was explaining the mechanism of the big rifle; "tain't to protect the men It's to keep the works from gettin' knocked out of order. There's men enough."

"March to search" is the old adage. It searches out any weakness of the system, resulting from impure blood. Those who use Ayer's Sarsaparilla find March no more searching or even disagreeable than any other month. This medicine is a wonderful invigorator.

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

Is superior to all other preparations claiming to be blood-purifiers. TWO GOWNS.

A Handsome Reception Dress and an Empire Ball Toilet.

At the left in to-day's illustration you see a dinner or reception dress for a young girl. It is made of cream-colored crepe, with satin squares in the same color, and is trimmed with flowers of faint shades. The under slip is cut princess fashion, either of cream-colored silk or satinette. The waist is whaleboned, so as to fit close to the figure. The skirt is lined with muslin, and has a false hem, about half a yard high. At the bottom of the dress, the two skirts are separate and on the inner skirt is a flounce, either pleated, shirred or gathered according to taste. It is fastened behind. In making it the following method is the best to make the dress fit well. No breast darts are made, but instead the folds of the waist-material are pleated in under the belt. These pleats are concealed by the large bow at the waist. In the back there are no pleats whatever. The V-shaped bodice has ribbons crossing it, starting from the shoulder knots and loosely tied in front. The front breadths have rounded darts, but are cut away very much at the back, in order to give the proper shape over the hips. This skirt is about three yards in width. The sleeves are very large and puffed, the puffs being sewn on separately after having been pleated.

The other costume is an Empire ball toilet. About the bottom of the skirt are several rows of Greek embroidery in gilt arabesque patterns. The under slip is either of colored or of white taffeta and the Eton jacket is of the same material as the foundation of the skirt. The Eton jacket is cut of material on the straight, and is lined with muslin. The bows are made either of the same material as the jacket, or else from a piece of silk tissue. There are large puffed gauze sleeves. Swede gloves embroidered in gold.

FLORETTE.

"A Bird in the Hand," Etc.

Will Somers, the celebrated jester to Henry VIII., happened to call on Lord Surrey, whom he had often, by a well-timed jest, saved from the king's displeasure, and who, consequently, was always glad to see him. He was, on this occasion, ushered into the aviary, where he found my lord amusing himself with his birds. Somers happened to admire the plumage of a kingfisher. "By my lady, my prince of wits, I will give it to you." Will skipped about with delight, and swore by the great Harry he was a most noble gentleman. Away went Will with his kingfisher, telling all his acquaintances whom he met that his friend, Surrey, had just presented him with it. Now, it so happened that Lord Northampton, who had seen the bird the day previous, arrived at Lord Surrey's just as Will Somers had left, with the intention of asking the bird of Surrey for a present to a lady friend. Great was his chagrin on finding the bird gone. Surrey, however, consoled him with saying that he knew Somers would restore it if he (Surrey) promised him two some other day. Away went a messenger to the prince of wits, whom he found in raptures with his bird, and to whom he delivered his lord's message. Great was Will's surprise, but he was not to be bamboozled by even the monarch himself. "Sirrah," said Will, "tell your master that I am much obliged for his liberal offer of two for one, but that I prefer one bird in hand to two in the bush."

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for a number of years, and it has always given me satisfaction. It is an excellent dressing, prevents the hair from turning gray, insures its vigorous growth, and keeps the scalp white and clean."—Mary A. Jackson, Salem, Mass.

Gives Strength and Appetite.
DEAR SIRS,—Last year I was very thin and reducing very fast, owing to the bad state of my blood and appetite. A friend of mine induced me to get a bottle of B.B.B., which I did. I obtained immediate perceptible relief from it, having gained strength and appetite, and now weigh 163 pounds.

The Power of Nature.

When the kidneys are clogged, good health is an impossibility; but when working properly the reverse is the case. That dull back-ache is the kidney's cry for relief. If Dodd's Kidney Pills are used the result will be marvellous. We emphatically state that we have never known a case of kidney disease that a persistent use of Dodd's Kidney Pills will not cure.

An Inactive or Torpid Liver must be aroused and all bad bile removed. Burdock Pills are best for old or young.

HINTS FOR THE MONTH.

Sowing, Planting, Pruning, Propagating—Making Gardens—Raising Vegetables.

While March is called the first month of Spring, often the early part of it, at least in the North, has anything but a Spring-like aspect. Still as the sun gains in power, the days are often warm, and in hand-bed work considerable progress in growth may be obtained with protection at night, by means of straw mats, or what is even better, oiled muslin laid over the sash. If the sun shines brightly, and there are indications of a cold night, just as soon as the sun leaves the glass cover it up so as to enclose all the heat. In very severe cold spells some loose hay under the mat or canvas will also be necessary.

SIMPLE METHOD OF PROPAGATING.

What is called the mud system of rooting cuttings is often used for small quantities. A shallow dish of any kind which will hold two or three inches of sand is selected. The sand is entirely covered with water, which is renewed, as evaporation takes place. Cuttings or slips are set in this mud bath, which is placed in the warmest window of the house. Being surrounded by moisture they can stand the sun without wilting. Root the hardier kinds first, such as Geraniums, Verbenas and Fuchsias; Coleus, Heliotropes, etc., can be left until later. This method is well adapted for small house conservatories, as well as the window. A bottom heat, ten or fifteen degrees above the air in the room, causes the quickest growth and this is sometimes obtained by heating an enclosed space with a common oil lamp placed below it. Young seedling plants are very apt to (what gardeners term) "damp off" in their young stages. It is found that this occurs simply from exposure. If the young plants just as soon as they can be handled are lifted and reset in the soil deep enough to expose only the seed leaves, this damping off is completely checked and it rarely occurs again.

MAKING THE GARDEN.

At the outset clean up, spade the beds and borders and edge the grass so that all will be neat and trim. Plant trees and shrubs before the buds begin to push into leaf, provided the soil is in a suitable condition to work easily. The surest time to plant evergreens is just before leafing out. If the roots have been badly cut, the top must be reduced when planted. Do this pruning so that an evenly balanced top is retained; not a mere shearing, but a trimming out of the young wood. Where a Winter covering has been used, take it off gradually; stir the manure on the lawn with a coarse rake or, a drag of brush. Rolling or beating down the lawn in Spring is very beneficial. If the grass has died out in patches, spread a thin coating of soil, then sow grass seeds thickly, the earlier the better. A sprinkling of White Clover will often do well in an old lawn.

STARTING CUTTINGS IN SAND.

PRUNING MUST BE DONE AT ONCE.

if not done in Autumn. Red currants fruit on little spurs of old wood, hence the pruning consists in shortening the young growths. The black currant fruits on last year's wood, and the shoots must be simply thinned out if too thick. Gooseberries fruit on spurs and young wood, and want thinning merely. Raspberries send up new wood each year, the old wood being useless. Grape vines bleed if pruned in Spring, but it is a mooted question if it does any harm. If operated upon just before the leaves appear, the bleeding stops when the leaves open.

IN THE VEGETABLE GARDEN.

The first seeds to sow are peas, broad beans (rarely grown), onions, carrots, parsnips and lettuce. A little cold does not hurt them and usually they do better sown early. It is of no use to plant in the open ground corn, beets, lima and bush beans, cucumbers, melons and squashes until steady, warm days come. Cabbage and lettuce may be planted early if they have been hardened off before taking them out of the hotbed. A cold night or two checks their growth, but does not kill them. Onions are often sown in a hotbed and then transplanted. The difficulty of weeding in their young state is thus avoided; if set in good onion land in rows a foot apart, the plants in the rows two inches apart, an enormous crop may be had.

are raised from seed sown so thick as to prevent each other's full growth. The best for these purposes is Silver Skin. Even thinnings of ordinary onion beds, thrown on the ground ultimately form perfect little onions suitable for pickles. Onion sets of any kind put out as soon as frost is gone, will in a month give young green onions. Planted thickly, part may be used for green onions and the remainder left to furnish a winter crop of full size. Beets may also be thinned at first and used for greens, being finally left a foot apart for winter supplies. Even carrots and parsnips may be sown thick enough to give a pulling of young roots for the table and left at uniform distances apart afterwards for the main crop. Radishes may be sown every three weeks for a succession of crops during all summer months.

A. P. Noakes, Mattawa, Ont., writes:—"I have been troubled for years with rheumatism and nervous debility, and after using six boxes of your Dr. Williams' Pink Pills am entirely restored to health, and can do a good day's work." Sold by all dealers, or sent by mail at 50c. a box or six boxes for $2.50. Dr. Williams' Med. Co., Brockville, Ont.

Beware of Cholera.
The healthy body throws off the germs of cholera therefore wisdom counsels the use of Burdock Blood Bitters this spring to purify the blood, regulate the system, and fortify the body against cholera or other epidemics.

Why don't you try Carter's Little Liver Pills? They are a positive cure for sick headache, and all the ills produced by disordered liver. Only one pill a dose.

A Cure for Constipation and Headache
Dr. Silas Lane, while in the Rocky Mountains, discovered a root that when combined with other herbs, makes an easy and certain cure for constipation. It is in the form of dry roots leaves, and is known as Lane's Family Medicine. It will cure sick-headache in one night. For the blood, liver and kidneys, and for clearing up the complexion it does wonders. Druggists sell it at 50c. a package.

A Cure for Croup.
Croup kills thousands where cholera kills tens. For this dread disease no remedy can compare in curative power with Hagyard's Yellow Oil. It loosens the phelgm, gives prompt relief, and soon completely cures the most violent attack.

A Suitable Gift.
A tube of Dyer's Jelly of Cucumber and Roses for making the skin soft and smooth will be acceptable to any lady. Druggists keep it. W. A. Dyer & Co., Montreal.

COL. RANKIN IS DEAD.

HE HELPED TO MAKE THE HISTORY OF CANADA.

Trained as a Civil Engineer—Fought as a Rebel—Traveled With Indians—Became a Member of Parliament—Ended as a Miner.

WINDSOR, Ont., March 14.—Col. Arthur Rankin, father of McKee Rankin, the actor, died yesterday morning after a two months' illness from dropsy.

In the death of Col. Arthur Rankin, Canada loses a citizen who has occupied a very conspicuous place in its history for more than half a century. The story of his life is the history of his country and he himself was one of the heroes in the tale. The son of an Irish officer, who had fought under Wellington on the field of Waterloo and had shared in the glory of the Peninsular war, Arthur Rankin was born in a martial atmosphere and all his life he has been a splendid representative of the race he sprung from. A man of wide intellectual accomplishments, cultured tastes and striking dignity of manners, he will long be remembered by those who have known him as a thorough gentleman.

Arthur Rankin was born in Montreal in 1816. There he received his education and was trained for his profession as a civil engineer. Coming west when a young man, and at a time full of stirring incidents, he soon became a conspicuous figure. The mutterings of discontent over the old family compact were beginning to be heard from one end of the country to the other and soon culminated in the rebellion of 1837, young Rankin joining the Loyalists as an officer.

It was on Dec. 4 that 400 patriots crossed from Detroit and landed a short distance above where the ferry dock now stands and in an hour were utterly defeated and routed at the battle of Windsor. It was for the valor displayed on the field that day that young Lieut. Rankin enjoyed the distinction of having his name publicly honored in the House of Lords by the distinguished Lord Brougham.

To be a gentleman in those days was to be of necessity a disciple of the code of honor and until the duel was made a crime by law he never allowed an insult to go unchallenged if he felt his adversary entitled to his recognition. Sometimes to a few friends he would forget his usual reticence and recount the incidents of his repeated attempts during a session of Parliament, away back in the fifties, to induce the premier, the late Sir John A. Macdonald, to challenge him for his utterances on the floor of the House. But the wily statesman allowed his irritated adversary to hug his wrath and in after years they became warm friends.

In 1840 a very romantic courtship ended in the marriage of Mary, daughter of Col. Alexander McKee, to Col. Rankin, and the social position that the young couple occupied for forty years in their home at Thornfield and in eastern cities is evidence of how happy the union was. Three years later, in his 27th year, Mr. Rankin started on his tour to England with a large band of Ojibway Indians, giving exhibitions of the red man in all his characteristics.

Ever since the rebellion Arthur Rankin had been strongly interested in questions of national interest, and in 1854 the opportunity to enter public life, for which he had been waiting for a long time, at last came. Col. Prince had been called up from Parliament to the Legislative Council and at the end of a keenly fought contest with his son, the late Albert Prince, Arthur Rankin became a member of the House of Commons for the County of Essex, at a time when two or three of the greatest questions in the history of his country were soon to be adjusted. Lord Elgin was Governor-General.

Six years before this time he had written an article in a Canadian journal advocating a confederation of all of the provinces, which at that time received a good deal of attention. Long after this, and 18 years after his public advocacy of the scheme, he had the supreme satisfaction of seeing it all accomplished by the union of all parties and all the provinces concerned.

In addition to his public duties Col. Rankin engaged in many important enterprises, sometimes meeting with great financial success and as often falling in with misfortunes. Almost 50 years ago he was led by the tales of explorers to investigate the rumors of mineral wealth on the shores of Lake Superior, and on Dec. 4, 1846, opened the first mine in the Bruce mining district, an enterprise that was afterwards consolidated into the Montreal Mining Company. When the Cathcart came down the Detroit River in the spring of 1847, with 300 tons of copper ore consigned to Baltimore, it carried the first cargo from that rich field of mineral wealth that ever came down the lakes.

His very last utterances in reference to passing events were made but a few days since. "For my own country," said he, "some great change will surely come within the next quarter of a century, and if I were young again the scheme of imperial federation would commend itself strongly to me. It may be mythical and perhaps impossible, but nothing can be fairly called a myth that all agree would be a success if it could be accomplished."

LADY MOWAT DEAD.

She Had Been an Invalid For Several Years.

TORONTO, March 14.—Last Friday Lady Mowat, wife of Ontario's Premier, was stricken with paralysis, the immediate cause of which was said to be a clot of blood on the brain. She was at Dr. Holford Walker's private hospital, Isabella-street, where early last night her relatives were summoned in momentary anticipation of her death. She rallied, however, and recognized those around her. But at midnight she died.

Lady Mowat was nearly 69 years of age; she was the daughter of the late John Ewart of Toronto and married Sir Oliver some 46 years ago. There are five children, Mr. Fred Mowat, sheriff of the city; Mr. Arthur Mowat, Mrs. C. R. W. Biggar, Mrs. Thomas Langton and Miss Mowat.

Suicided With a Sickle.

BRUSSELS, March 14.—Charles Mitchell, a well-to-do farmer on lot 13, concession six, Township of Morris, committed suicide Sunday evening by cutting his throat with a sickle. The act was committed half way between the house and barn. About three years ago he showed symptoms of insanity and was sent to the asylum, but recovered. He leaves a wife and family.

Ben Goes a Hunting.

INDIANAPOLIS, March 14.—Ex-President Harrison will leave on his duck hunting excursion with General Boyd to-night. He is in excellent health.

A CLAN GATHERING.

The Macleans Will Do Homage to Their Reigning Chieftain.

TORONTO, March 14.—The city directory contains the names of some 140 Macleans or McLeans, male and female. It will interest many of them to know that the hereditary chief of the clan is Sir Fitzroy D. Maclean, Bart., and that he is to be grand mogul at a gathering of the family in Chicago during the World's Fair. The idea originated in Chicago, where the members of the clan resident there met last week, and decided to invite Sir Fitzroy to meet his clansmen in America, the date of the gathering being from June 11 to 15. Lady Fitzroy Maclean will also be present. A committee has been appointed to secure a suitable banquet room at a down town hotel, where the reception, banquet and ball can be given. There will be printed and distributed 3000 invitations to the Macleans to this entertainment. W. B. Maclean of the Conger Lumber Company of this city has charge of organizing the Macleans of Canada and bringing them to the entertainment.

Why you take Cold and Cough.

Generally caused by exposure to cold, wet feet, sitting in a draught, coming from hot and crowded places, in thin dress, or wearing damp clothes, stockings, or any other cause tending to check suddenly the perspiration. The result produces inflammation of the lining membrane of the lungs or throat, and this causes phlegm or matter, which nature tries to throw off by expectoration. In many cases she is unable to do so without assistance, and this is

SMART SPRING MANTLES!

In our north window we display some of the very newest patterns of Imported Mantles for Spring wear.

They are style all over. The craft of the skilled German model garment makers is manifest in these Mantles, and the attention of ladies is especially drawn to the new material and exquisite taste which has been displayed in these two directions.

We make the point that our Mantles are new—wholly new—new in design, new in shape, and new in price.

Ladies who have looked elsewhere for something to suit them in a Spring Mantle, will have no difficulty in making their final selections from our stock. We are perhaps a little early in exposing these Mantles, but the temptation was too strong, and besides, some one must lead, so we take the consequences of our unusual advanced preparations for this spring season of 1893.

Free Trade With the United States

AND ALSO PREFERENTIAL TRADE

With Great Britain If We Can Get It.

But He Fears We Cannot Get the Latter Concession—He Is Replied To By Dr. Montague, Who Says His Policy Is a Shot-Gun Prescription—The House Is Treated To An Interesting Debate Between the Two Members.

OTTAWA, March 15.—At 3.27 o'clock Hon. Mr. Foster moved that the House go into committee of supply, and immediately Mr. McCarthy rose and moved the following resolution:

That since the introduction of the protective system sufficient time has elapsed for the establishment and development of such manufacturing industries as under existing conditions can be successfully carried on in Canada; moreover, many manufacturers, sheltered behind the rampart thus erected, have formed combinations and trusts which prohibit competition and create and maintain monopolies;

That the existing tariff, defensible only as a protective measure, has proved in many instances oppressive and burdensome to the great mass of the consuming classes and especially to those engaged in agricultural pursuits, is unfair and unequal in its incidence and has been productive of discontent verging on disloyalty among those who suffer from its injustice;

That no sufficient reason has been adduced or exists requiring investigation respecting the foregoing facts, which are notorious, nor justifying delay in the passage of remedial legislation, which is imperative;

That in the opinion of this House the tariff ought to be at once amended in respect of the matters herein indicated, and also by the substantial reduction of customs duties in favor of the United Kingdom, in whose markets all Canadian products are admitted duty free, and of those nations which under treaty obligations with Great Britain would be entitled to the same advantages, graduated, however, so as not unnecessarily to prejudice the business of the country nor to do wrong to those who have imported and paid duties in accordance with its provisions;

And this House declares its readiness to make a like reduction in favor of such other portions of the empire or with such other foreign countries, especially the United States of America, as are willing to reciprocate in matters of trade with Canada on fair and equitable terms.

He said that he made no apology for bringing up the trade question again, although it had been fully debated already, because it had so far been treated as if the National Policy had always been the policy of the Conservative party, and free trade always the policy of the Opposition. This was not so. The National Policy had only been adopted in 1876, and he proposed to show what was intended when the policy was adopted.

He then quoted the resolutions introduced by Sir John Macdonald in 1876, 1877 and 1878 to show that Sir John had not at first contemplated any great amount of protection as opposed to free trade. He referred to the speeches of Mr. Colby and others, some of whom, like Mr. Colby, he classed as protectionists and others as still adhering to free trade. He quoted from the campaign speeches of 1878 to show that it was anticipated that the National Policy would secure the home market to the farmer, and quoted freely from Mr. Colby's speech to show that it was not anticipated that protection would increase prices or tend to create rings or combines. It was not intended that the system of protection should be permanent, but that it should be used tor the fostering of industries until they were able to support themselves, and that there should then be a return to free or freer trade.

He thought that the time had now come when those manufactures which were likely to continue could support themselves. It had been contended in the initiation of the policy that prices would not be advanced or combines formed, and that if such combines were formed they would be promptly put down. The two propositions on which he had supported the National Policy were that prices would not be unhanced, and second that combines would not be formed, and if they were, the protection to those combines would be taken away.

He then proceeded to argue that these anticipations had not been realized, and he held that the time had come when protection should be taken away. There was not an industry now which was not in a combine so as to be practically a monopoly. In any case there was some trust or other combination. He held that some advantages had flowed from the National Policy; but there had been industries established long before the National Policy came into existence. He challenged the correctness of the census statistics of industries, and attributed the great increase in the number of employes to the difference in the way of paying the enumerators in 1891. In 1891 there was not the same incentive to find persons employed in industrial pursuits, because in 1891 the enumerators were paid 15 cents a hundred for all the employes found. He said we were not to attribute all the increases to the National Policy, because such industries as baking, blacksmithing, etc., would exist without the National Policy.

He had analyzed the figures of 1881 and 1891 with the result that in 1881 there were 112,000 employes engaged in industries which could be affected by the National Policy. For 1891 he had not the full returns, but he had taken from the tables published and found that in 1891 there were 168,323 persons engaged in industrial pursuits dependent on the National Policy. This was the home market provided for the farmer. He then entered into an analysis of the output of the protected industries, which he estimated at $335,000,000, and claimed that the people of Canada were paying about 30 per cent. of that amount in excess of what they ought to pay. He dealt with the questions of cottons, and entered into an elaborate calculation to show that, while the price of raw cotton had fallen very much and was lower to-day than was ever known, the price of the manufactured article had not decreased in anything like the same proportion. All the cotton companies since the promoting of the combine had entered their stock and paid handsome dividends of from 10 to 35 per cent. on the inflated capital.

Taking up bar iron he quoted prices in Liverpool, Montreal, Hamilton and Toronto to show that the rolling mills were making about sixty per cent more than they should. Next he took up wall paper, the duty on which, he said, varied from 35 per cent. to over 200 per cent. Continuing, he claimed that he had shown that the prices of goods manufactured in Canada were unduly increased and that the people were demanding a general reduction of duties.

In this connection he took the opportunity of laying on the table 117 petitions from Patrons of Industry, which, he claimed, fully represented the farmers of Manitoba and the North west. He contended that the people of this country demanded tariff reform, and tariff reform they would have. [Applause.]

Discontent existed, and it was caused by the tariff. He quoted from the reports of The Globe's commissioners to show that an annexation feeling exists, and held that oppression always tended to cause disloyalty.

Mr. Maclean: Then why don't you give Ireland Home Rule? [Laughter.]

Mr. McCarthy: I am not discussing the Home Rule question. If anyone likes to bring up the Irish question I shall not hesitate to express my opinion. He continued to argue that the tariff was exciting an annexation feeling, and said he did not want a trade policy which would drive even the Liberals to adopt annexation. He had no sympathy with the men who cried out for annexation as a relief. He thought there were constitutional means of redress, and they were by reducing the burdens of the people.

Turning to the position of the farmer he held that he was taxed on all his raw material as well as on all the manufactured goods he consumed. In Manitoba alone about $100,000 duty had been collected on agricultural implements last year. About one-third of the agricultural implements in Manitoba were imported from the United States, and he estimated that on account of the 35 per cent. duty the farmers of Manitoba paid at least $300,000 a year in excess of the duty to the Canadian manufacturer.

He then took up the question of barbed wire, and quoted from a letter which stated that the four barbed wire manufacturers in Canada had formed a combine. He next came to binder twine, and said that the recent reduction of duty only saved the farmer $1 per year. He admitted that the farmer was protected, but entered into a calculation to show that the total increase in home market was about $12,000,000, which amounted to very little when it was taken into account that the output of the farmers of Ontario alone was about $260,000,000. He thought that all the benefit the farmer got from his protection was about $1.70 per head.

Turning to the policy which he proposed, he said that he wished it to be understood that he was opposed to any policy which discriminated against Great Britain. He thought it mean in us to take advantage of British free trade and to discriminate against British goods. He favored preferential trade with Great Britain, but questioned whether it was wise to wait until Great Britain adopted some policy of fair trade. A great change had, however, taken place lately. The people to the south of us had declared for free trade.

Mr. Maclean: No, sir.

Mr. McCarthy continued that Mr. Cleveland had declared himself in favor of free trade, which was shown by the Democratic platform in Mr. Cleveland's inaugural address.

Mr. Tisdale: Not a word about free trade in it.

Mr. McCarthy explained that he meant that the Democratic party was in favor of a revenue tariff and was opposed to protection as protection. He went on to advocate an immediate reduction of the tariff. It would be time enough by and by to try to make preferential terms with Great Britain. He admitted that protection was gaining ground in Great Britain. The farmers of England were worse off to-day than the farmers in any other part of the world. [Great applause.]

He did not conclude at 6 o'clock.

After recess, Mr. McCarthy continuing said that the prospects of preferential trade with Great Britain were so remote that it would not be wise for us to postpone action on that account. The adoption of his resolution would not preclude preferential trade arrangements being made with Great Britain later. Of the food products imported into Great Britain, 90 per cent. came from foreign countries and 10 per cent. from the colonies. If a tax was put on food products in Great Britain it would mean a tax of about £14,500,000, and it was doubtful whether any British Government would take such action, at least in the near future.

He claimed there was no necessity for delay in reducing the tariff, and quoted from speeches of Hon. Mr. Ouimet, Sir John Thompson and others to show that only a short time ago several of the ministers were of the opinion that action on the tariff should be taken at the present session.

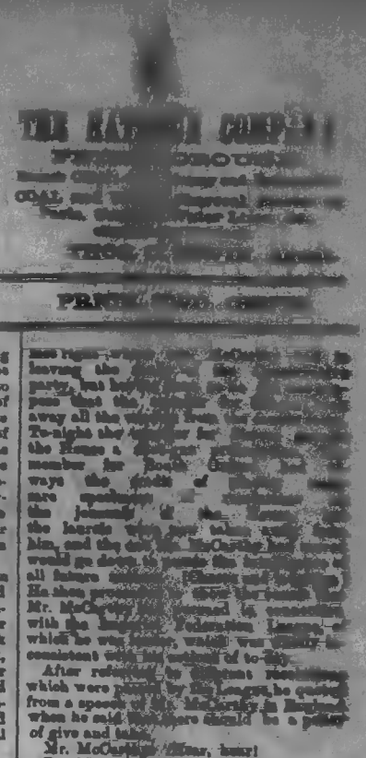
What he advocated was an immediate reduction of the tariff on a revenue basis. He proposed to reduce the tariff immediately towards Great Britain. He did not propose to reduce it towards the United States, but hoped that some arrangement will be come to before long for freer trade between Canada and the United States.

With respect to the loss of revenue, he thought that the increase in imports would compensate by this volume for the loss by the reduction of rates. He concluded by quoting from some of his own speeches to show that he never pretended to be a protectionist. He had always thought that the National Policy would only exist for a limited period.

In concluding he moved, seconded by Mr. Hodgins, the amendment to the motion to go into committee of supply quoted above. Mr. McCarthy concluded at 9.15, and was greeted with great applause when he resumed his seat.

Dr. Montague, who arose amid cheers, said that it was always a difficult task to follow one who had so long a parliamentary experience as had Mr. McCarthy. It was also a regret that he experienced, as well as those who were politically associated with him, that they could not join in the cheers which were given the hon. gentleman who had so very long acted with them, but who seemed now to pursue a different course.

In choicest terms he referred to the per-



[illegible] leaving the party, [illegible] pass that [illegible] away all the [illegible] from the Tories. To-night the member for [illegible] the House a [illegible] member for South [illegible] says the people of [illegible] more speakers [illegible] the journals of the [illegible] the leaders were put [illegible] him, and the day the McCarthy [illegible] would go down to [illegible] all future [illegible] He then proceeded [illegible] Mr. McCarthy [illegible] with the [illegible] which he was [illegible] consistent with [illegible] of to-day.

After referring to [illegible] which were [illegible] from a speech of Mr. McCarthy's in England when he said [illegible] there should be a policy of give and take.

Mr. McCarthy: Hear, hear!

Dr. Montague: Yes, but you want to give all and take none. Continuing, he went on to say that Mr. McCarthy was either not consistent then or he was not consistent to-day. Proceeding, he showed that Britain knew that we had a strong neighbor to the south of us, and that to maintain her strength on the American continent it was to her interests, where her money was also invested, to see that she protected us. Britain knew that Canada required a revenue. She knew that we had a grand and great work in the Canadian Pacific Railway, which she was also interested in. It was Britain's interest, therefore, to see that she contributed to the success of Canada and not cast too heavy burdens upon us. What would the miserable three or four per cent. amount to which Mr. McCarthy referred to in Toronto? [Hear, hear.] Britain's trade went through Canada. Did he believe that sentiment controlled Britain? If he did he was counting a long way without his host.

Britain opened her markets to the world, and in a few years it was said that the markets of the world would be open to her. But many years have passed, and still the bars against her have not been taken down, but were getting higher. [Hear, hear.]

He (McCarthy) admitted that in a few years it was not impossible that Britain might adopt protection. The reason why Britain purchased our products was because they were better than any else she could get. [Hear, hear.] If we sold our butter, wheat, flour, etc., to Britain it was because they were the best she could get. There was a time when Canada appealed to Britain to take down her barriers, and that appeal was not heard in vain. [Cheers.] She did not disregard the voice of the colony. [Hear, hear.] Then in 1891 the member for South Oxford moved a resolution that we should take down our barriers against the United States in the expectation that they would follow suit and take down theirs against us. The member for Simcoe was putting a similar resolution, only that he was inserting the word Britain instead of the United States. [Cheers.] If our trade with Britain was to remain great we would require to have busy industries.

Then, when Canada went to seek for better trade with the United States, as she might do, Mr. McCarthy ought to see that his resolution would be at once a barrier against us obtaining the same. The member for Simcoe turned out to be a particular friend of the farmer. He congratulated him on his becoming so, but would observe that he was only dressing himself in the worsest garments of his friends opposite, in which they had cut a very sorry figure since 1878.

Mr. McCarthy's practical knowledge to benefit the farmers was not of a practical kind. Just see what was imported from Britain in the way of what the farmer required. He then showed that it was all luxuries, or nearly so, that was imported. There might be some iron and a line of clothes which were imported and used on the farm. That was all. The difference between the Opposition and the member for Simcoe was that while he considered the National Policy right at its inception, they held that it was wrong all the time. [Hear, hear.] Now Mr. McCarthy came forward with a new policy for the Government. If Mr. McCarthy would look to Europe and the United States he would find that the majority of all great nations showed that they had not built up their industries through a 13, 14 or 15 years' protection, but through many years, yea centuries of protection. [Cheers.]

Those who voted against that resolution would not be voting in a feeling against Britain or in favor of combines, but they would be voting confidence in the Administration. [Cheers.] He asked Mr. McCarthy to rise in his seat and say where the farmers were better off than they were in Canada to-day.

The position of the Government to-day, he said, was a most tenable one when they stated they would enquire into the whole matter and that they would change the duty as the necessities of the country require. He (Mr. McCarthy) objected to it because he says there was no reason for delay. The hon. gentleman's movement upon the question of imperial or mutual preferential trade ought to warn him to make haste slowly upon these matters. [Hear, hear.]

Clubs named after him (Mr. McCarthy) are being established in various parts of Canada. They have laid down no definite idea upon the tariff as their policy. It was wise that they have not done so, for if his future was to be judged by his past they might wake up some morning to find the whole platform upon which they have had built floated out from under them and they without a policy or anything to maintain and sustain them.

What was the reason for this great haste, Mr. McCarthy said, for the suffering masses of Canada? Oh, the burdens that are bearing upon the farmers of this country! He told about the horrible burdens upon the Canadian farmer and he wound up by showing that the only farmers that could compare with the farmers of Canada were a thousand times worse off than the farmers of this Dominion.

Mr. Cameron: He cannot find them in America.

Dr. Montague: He will not name them in America, he will not name them in Europe. The honorable gentleman may perhaps say that silence did not always give consent. He favored the N. P. at its inception, but he did not think it has done just as it ought to have done. He (McCarthy) guarded himself somewhat cleverly by quoting from his speeches in order that those who followed him might not quote them. But he did not quote all his speeches, and for fear that he might have forgotten them, and they are good speeches, he would read these speeches of the hon. gentleman for the in-

THE HAVELOCK REEVESHIP.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—In the late election for reeve of Havelock, Mr. W. J. Wiseman failed to qualify for that office in respect to property without incumbrance, and through this failure we are without a reeve yet, and are put to the extra cost of having a nomination, and it will be a miracle, if not an election; for it is rumoured that Mr. J. A. Gould will be one of the contestants for the office. Will the people elect another man to the office who cannot qualify again, and not look to the interest of the village a little and also at the unnecessary expense the ratepayers will have to pay in taxes at the end of the year, which could have been saved but for some of those who are so anxious for opposition in bringing out and running unqualified men to office who are incapable? Some of the noisy ones, it is said, have gone so far with their knowledge to say that they would support a dog for reeve in preference to men of experience. It is hoped that the time is not far away when Havelock electors will settle down to business and elect on Thursday a fit and proper person to represent them as reeve, and who can qualify without any doubt at all in reference to property qualifications. Mr. A. McAuley will be a candidate again for the reeveship. Thanking you for your valuable space I remain, Yours, etc.

TELFORDIAN TEMPERATURE TOPICS.

Mr. Telford Makes Some Observations on the Weather and Temperature of the Past Month.

The wee short month has again gone. Although steady, there was nothing out of the usual way—snow and frost and again frost and snow for a change, with little rain to soften it. The month came in mild but on the morning of the second day the self-registering thermometer stood at zero; on the fourth morning's observation 13 degrees below zero, at 1 p.m. at 10 below, at night 8 below; on the 5th at 18 degrees below zero, but again keeping above a little until the 7th at 1 p.m., coming down to zero, and on the morning of the 12th we find it down to 8 below, on the 14th down to 4 below, and again on the 17th down to 14 below; then we come to the 20th at 12 degrees below, and the 21st at 7 below; the 25th at 5 below, and the 27th at 8 below. It will therefore be seen we had no extremes of cold, although ranging low, only on five five days being above the freezing point, the highest on the 14th being 40 degrees above zero; and bear in mind, those last given above, are any time during the 24 hours, consequently the mean temperature stands at 12-19/28 degrees. Rain fell on 5 days to the depth of 88/100 of an inch, and snow fell on 10 days to the depth of 29¼ inches. Auroral lights of the 111th degree on the 5th and 15th, and one of the 1st degree on the 4th. We had two severe gales during the month, but the severest of the season swept across us on Sunday, the 19th, and following day blowing a regular hurricane and drifting everything full of snow. We had four times halo, twice fog, and three times white frost. Our black migrating acquaintances, with their, "Caw, caw," made their first appearance on Monday, the 27th. The following is the different points from which the wind was blowing at sunrise during the month respectively, namely, northeast 4 days, northwest 14 days, east 2 days, southeast 4 days, west 2 days, east 1 day, and north 1 1 day.

The care shown by the SUN LIFE in the selection of its risks will be understood when it is known that the death rate in 1892 was less than that in 1891 by $16,000, notwithstanding the vast increase in business. The significance of this point will be clearly seen in the profits paid by the Company.

GOD HELP ME MY PLEDGE TO KEEP.

A pledge I have signed of the temperance kind,
And a very good one too I think;
It makes it quite plain, that I'm to abstain
From rum, and all such cursed drink.
To my pledge I'll be true, and this will I do
Each night e'er I lay me to sleep;
I'll kneel by my bed, while this prayer is said,
God help me my pledge to keep.

God help me my pledge to keep,
God help me my pledge to keep,
I'll kneel by my bed while this prayer is said,
God help me my pledge to keep.

Though but a short time it's saved many a dime,
Thank God for the glorious change;
I now have new chums—given up bar-room hums,
Its time, though it seems to me strange.
Hotel-keeper Mac, as he turns me his back,
Though the corner of his eye takes a peep;
He knows me no more since I pass by his door,
God help me my pledge to keep.

God help me my pledge to keep,
God help me my pledge to keep,
He knows me no more since I pass by his door,
God help me my pledge to keep.

No more at his bar will I smoke my cigar,
On that I have made up my mind,
And now that I'm free, with God helping me,
I'll stick to the pledge that I have signed.
Though hard to give up old Satan's vile cup,
We all should think first ere we leap,
It surely shall end, but when, my dear friend?
God help you a pledge to keep.

God help you a pledge to keep,
God help you a pledge to keep,
This drinking shall cease, but when, my dear friend?
God help you a pledge to keep.

Prohibition would soon close every saloon,
If you all put your name on the pledge,
Then vote as you pray, for that is the way
To drive in the teetotal wedge.
But till this is done there are great risks to run,
The hill we are climbing is steep,
Yet we'll never give up till we banish the cup;
God help us our pledge to keep.

God help us our pledge to keep,
God help us our pledge to keep,
We'll never give up till we banish the cup,
God help us our pledge to keep.

THOUSANDS SICK

IN THE COUNTRY!

HONEST AND CANDID ADVICE!

WHAT THE PEOPLE SHOULD DO!

We mean to be honest and candid with our people; we speak for their physical welfare; we help those who cannot afford to help themselves by furnishing them with medicine. Our business is not a money making one in all respects, our objects are not mercenary and selfish.

From our own experience and the experience of the best and ablest physicians, we can truly assert that seventy-five out of every hundred people in Canada suffer from sick headache and nervous dyspepsia.

These are truly distressing ailments and lead on to dangerous and often fatal results. Sick headache results from biliousness, nausea and wind on the stomach. Those afflicted by nervous dyspepsia have a sense of weight in pit of stomach, pressure on the heart, palpitation and short breath, dizziness, nervous irritation and excitability, constipation, bad taste in mouth and great depression of spirits.

Thousands of our Canadian people have found a cure from these distressing troubles by using Paine's Celery Compound. No remedy ever given to the world has produced such grand results as this wondrous prescription of Professor Phelps, the eminent physician. Have you made a trial of Paine's Celery Compound, afflicted one? If you have not, let us assure you that you will never be free from your troubles until you use it. We seriously recommend it to you; it will cure you, and give you a new existence such as you never expected to gain. Delay not its use; your life is in danger, and the hours are very precious.

The Power of Nature.

For every ill nature has a cure. In the healing virtues of the Norway Pine lies the cure for coughs, colds, croup, asthma bronchitis, hoarseness, etc. Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup represents the virtues of Norway Pine and other pectoral remedies. Price 25c.

A Great Surprise.

Is in store for all who use Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs, the great guaranteed remedy. Would you believe that it is sold on its merits and that any druggist is authorized by the proprietor of this wonderful remedy to give you a sample bottle free? It never fails to cure acute or chronic coughs. All druggists sell Kemp's Balsam. Large Bottles 50c. and $1.

Restored to Health.

DEAR SIRS,—For years I was troubled with indigestion, but being advised to try B. B. B. I did so and find myself quite restored to health. HOWARD SULLIVAN,
Mgr. Sullivan Farm, Dunbar, Ont.

Sir John Abbott Coming Home.

LONDON, March 14.—A special cable to The News correspondent in London, from Genoa, states that Sir John Abbott's health is not in a much better condition than when he first took up his residence in southern climes. In view of this the ex-Premier of Canada has decided to return to Canada almost immediately.

On March 22 he will leave Genoa and will embark on the steamship Kaiser Wilhelm for New York. The doctors deem that quiet home treatment will be more efficacious now.

More Probably Lord Aberdeen.

LONDON, March 14.—A statement is published here that Lord Brassey has been offered the post of Governor-General for the Dominion of Canada. It, however, does not come from an official source and not much importance is attached to it. The rumor probably arises from a confusion of the governorships of Canada and Australia, for Lord Brassey is something more than a possibility for the latter position.

To Fortify Esquimalt.

LONDON, March 14.—There is considerable satisfaction expressed at the statement of the Right Hon. H. C. Campbell-Bannerman, Secretary of State for War, in the House of Commons that the defenceless state of the fortifications at Esquimalt will soon be remedied. The Canadian Government, he said, had offered to bear a proportion of the necessary expenditure, which the War Office deems very fair. This offer has been accepted, and the work of repairing the fortifications will proceed at once.

Home Rule Bill.

LONDON, March 14.—In the House of Commons yesterday Sir William Vernon Harcourt announced that the second reading of the Irish Home Rule Bill would be postponed until after Easter. The announcement was received with cheers by the Opposition.

After a long discussion this evening the House of Commons rejected by a vote of 287 to 250 T. W. Russell's motion that the Evicted Tenants' Commission be impeached.

Young Tupper Presented.

LONDON, March 14.—Hon. C. H. Tupper, the Canadian Minister of Marine and Fisheries, was yesterday presented at the levee in St. James' Palace. He was presented to the Prince of Wales, acting on behalf of the Queen, by Lord Rosebery, in recognition of the young Canadian's appointment as the British agent on the Behring Sea Arbitration Board.

TO BE OR NOT TO BE "IN IT."

A Life Agent called at a friend's place one day.
HE WASN'T IN IT;
He had seen "the bore" coming and had flown his way
HE WASN'T IN IT;
He had heard so much said, he was [illegible]
Of insurance and agents—'twas all a blank to him,
When one's coil must be shuffled to win it,
HE WASN'T IN IT.

A bit of a draft blew o'er his bald head,
HE WAS IN IT;
Pneumonia sent him straightway to his bed,
HE STAYED IN IT;
His doctor made of it a "quite special" case,
To save him for running still more of life's race,
But the grave took some chances to win it,
AND HE'S IN IT.

When approached by a gent for insuring your life,
GET RIGHT IN IT;
It's the right thing to do for your children and wife,
THEN STAY IN IT.
Remember that fires take your goods "out of sight,"
And that accidents happen each day and each night.
While insurance protects every minute,
IF YOU'RE IN IT.

A Bank Manager's Opinion.

HE IS "IN IT."

The General Manager of one of the leading banks in Canada, writing to a personal friend, says:—"I have no hesitation in saying that I place the CANADA LIFE upon the highest platform. It is in my opinion carefully, economically and honestly managed; its Reserve Funds are well invested; its rates of Premiums are low, and its future is, I think better assured than a great majority of Companies. I have my own life insured in the Company for a round amount, and would not hesitate to increase the amount of my policies should I decide upon taking out further insurance."

A Government Insurance Actuary's Opinion

On the Relation between Ordinary and Tontine Service.

It is frequently assertedby Companies whose business is nearly all tontines, that although the CANADA LIFE may and does pay large ordinary profits, yet it cannot compare so favourably on a long term distribution or tontine period, and that in the end better results can be obtained on a tontine policy in a large American Co. than on an ordinary or tontine policy in the CANADA LIFE. To prove the absurdity of this statement, the following piece of common sense is quoted from Mervin Tabor, late Actuary of the Illinois Goverment Insurance Department. In his well known book, "The Three Systems of Life Insurance," he says: "A company that gives large dividends on the ordinary kind of policies, can give much larger on the same kinds when Tontined, and a company that pays but meagre dividends on the usual forms, adopting perhaps the Tontine system to "cover up" its small surpluses, cannot be relied on for large returns of surplus under the Tontine forms of insurance."

The CANADA LIFE does not "cover up" its Quinquennial profits as some Companies do, but publishes them throughout the country.

It can and does surpass other Companies on Quinquennial profits. It should and will surpass them on Tontine profits.

WHY TO BE "IN IT."

BISHOP HAWKE'S REASON:—"I claim that Life Insurance is not only a humane, but I might say a Christian Institution."

LORD LYNDHURST'S REASON:—"A Policy of Life Insurance is always an evidence of prudent forethought. No man with a dependent family is free from reproach if not insured."

WHEN TO BE "IN IT."

The younger, the cheaper. Therefore insure when young. Besides by insuring in the CANADA LIFE now, you will share in three years' profits.

WHERE TO BE "IN IT."

The best place to be "in it" is in the Company that gives the best returns for the least money, consistent with absolute security. Therefore, in order to be "in it," choose the Species of a Belgian Plant.

There is on exhibition in the window of W. J. Mason & Sons, grocers, a large plant in bloom which is universally admired by the ladies and all lovers of horticulture. It is a European plant grown principally in Belgium and is, a variety known as the Azania. This rare species of floriculture belongs to Mr. Frank Mason. It is a slow growing shrubby plant and is propagated and grown in nurseries. It bears annually a rather peculiar but pretty pink flower and is at present in full bloom. The plant, from its large and luxuriant growth, somewhat resembles the well known oleander.

Waterworks Construction and Extension.

The Peterborough Water Company has already begun the work of excavating and preparing the foundation for the construction of their new pump house, just above the new dam. The large suction pipe to the foundation of the house has been laid. Work, after a cessation of a number of weeks, caused by the cold weather and the ice in the river, is being resumed on the new dam as fast as practicable. As soon as spring opens the extension work will be re-commenced. The size of of the extension pipe will be either 16 or 20 inches; the size has not been determined upon yet. All these are works of considerable magnitude, and will afford employment to much local labour for a number of months to come. The Waterworks Company is an institution giving employment to a large number of men. A prominent shareholder stated yesterday that they expended the sum of $10,000 each year on capital account.

Peterborough Laundry Improvements.

Mr. Alfred Parker, the well known proprietor of Parker's Steam Dye Works, has assumed the management of Peterborough Steam Laundry Company's establishment. As soon as the weather will permit a large two storey brick building will be erected on Charlotte street, next to Mr. Parker's dye works, in order to satisfy the ever increasing demands and very wide patronage of the firm. At present the company under Mr. Parker's able management will do their utmost to facilitate the speedy output of work. Last week an order was given for three large brass vats at an expense of $300. These will be placed in the new building. This method of soaking the goods thoroughly is the most modern and best out, and no chemicals are used that are injurious to the linen. The goods are also washed by hydraulic pressure, The Peterborough Laundry Company will thus in a few weeks have the most commodious and convenient quarters, and complete and latest machinery of any similar industry in the province. Mr. Parker's name has for many years been synonymous with cleanliness, neatness and usefulness, and a better class of work than ever before is assured, the numerous patrons who desire the best laundrying that can be possibly done without the slightest injury to the fabrics.

The mill property in Lakefield, and limits in Harvey, Burleigh and Anstruther, were withdrawn at $60,000. As we go to press they are being offered in separate parcels. There were quite a number present at the sale but the bidding was confined to three different parties.

It Pays Better in the Long Run.

The modern idea of business enterprise on a retail scale is that a strictly cash business pays buyer and seller far better than a credit business. There is not nearly so much expense connected with the former, and the seller is therefore able to give the cash buyer the direct profit. With this end in view, I beg to inform my customers that on and after Easter Saturday, April 1st, I will do a strictly cash business. And in order to show my customers the advantage it will be to pay cash, I intend to begin by making a big reduction of fifty per cent. on the price of Easter beef. Heretofore the price of Easter beef has been 15 cents per pound, but on and after April 1st, I will sell it for 10 cents per pound. This is the best value that can be offered. Telephone orders paid on delivery. Cash is King! See posters.

Do it for the Sake of Others.

The aphorism "Man is influenced by his neighbours" contains good sound philosophy. Now this is the weather when a citizen who has had the sidewalks in front of his residence cleaned all winter by the snow plough, might take out his axe and shovel, and if only from humanitarian motions alone, remove the snow, slush and ice in front of his residence. A few sacrificing persons have done this and pedestrians are thankful. But the sidewalks were, in the back and cross streets never more uneven in surface or slushy than at present and by once cleaning the walk it would remain that way for months to come, as it is not probable that the beautiful will mantle mother earth again. A few minutes devoted by each party would remove the snow from the walk—which it will take old Sol days to do—then look, too at the comfort all passers-by would enjoy if everybody—and they should, too—was alike in this respect.

Morris & Howden has the Floor.

We beg to inform our customers and the public generally that we have decided to adopt the cash policy. Commencing on Easter Saturday, April 1st, we will sell for cash and cash only. The days of long credit and high prices are on their last legs. With us the nimble sixpence is better than the slow shilling, but to our customers we are bound to give a bigger benefit. By way of a send-off we will begin on April 1st with a slashing reduction of fifty per cent. on the former price of Easter beef as follows:

Price of Easter beef in former years.....15c. per lb.
Price of Easter beef at Morris & Howden's on and after April 1st.....10c. per lb.

This will be a big saving to our customers on their beef bills and will pay them well for whatever difference there may be in buying for spot cash instead of on credit. Telephone orders paid for on delivery. We will not be undersold by anyone in the business. The same prime quality of meat kept on hand as heretofore. Hurrah for Easter.

1414 Arch Street, Philadelphia, January 11th, 1892.

Miss Marguerite Dunn has unusual natural ability as a reader. There are few readers who have the power of giving to an audience the soul of the author's lines to the degree possessed by Miss Dunn. One listening to her realizes that he is in the presence of more than a mere entertainer. She is all that in a true sense, and is at the same time one who inspires you into a pure atmosphere of spiritual life.

FISH KILLED IN AN UNLAWFUL MANNER.

A Dealer Fined $10 and Costs at the Police Court This Morning for Offering for Sale Speared.

There were only two cases to occupy the attention of the court this morning, but they kept his worship on the dais from ten o'clock until after the noon hour.

The first matter to come up was a dog case. These have been quite frequent of late. Mrs. Carrie C. Mathieson charged Wm. Morris with harboring a vicious dog, which complainant alleges was a nuisance and severely bit her young son, Glenn Mathieson, twice on the arm on Monday. Mr. R. R. Hall appeared for the defendant. After three witnesses had been examined the case was enlarged until Saturday night at 7 o'clock.

ILLEGALLY CAUGHT FISH.

M. T. Ostrom, fruit and fish dealer, was charged that on Monday, 13th of March, there was in his possession a quantity of fish know as bass which had been killed in a manner prohibited by law, viz.: by snaring or netting. Mr. R. M. Dennistoun appeared for the prosecution, and Mr. E. B. Stone for the defence.

David Breese, who laid the information, was the first witness examined. He said: I am fishery inspector for this district, and on the 13th March seized some fish exposed for sale in front of Mr. Ostrom's store. I examined them and it looked as if they had been snared across their backs. They were bass and I could find no hook marks. I confiscated the fish. I had previously warned Mr. Ostrum that if I saw any more snared fish I would seize them. The two produced in court are some of those I seized.

To Mr. Stone, I believe the fish were caught with a snare or netting. They were unlawfully caught in my opinion.

To Mr. Dennistoun, I seized probably a couple of dozen fish, 35 lbs in all.

Wm. Brownscombe, sworn, said the fish appeared to be caught with a snare or net. I examined the majority of fish and came to the conclusion that they were all caught that way, I have fished more or less for forty-three years.

To Mr. Stone, I never snared a fish but have often seen fish which have been snared.

E. J. Hartley, sworn, said all the fish appeared to have been caught by a snare, not by a hook as no marks were on their mouths.

Mr. Stone raised the objection that three days had not elapsed between the summons and the time it was returnable, as demanded by the statutes. He asked the magistrate to note this point.

M. T. Ostrom, sworn, said:—To Mr. Stone:—I bought the fish from Mr. Cragg, Hiawatha. Never knew there was any law prohibiting me buying fish from a dealer except in close season. Have been buying from Mr. Cragg for five years. Mr. Breese stated in my shop that he could not tell whether they had been snared or not. He said he was going to make a test case of this.

To Mr. Denniston—I cannot tell how they were caught. I wanted to get Mr. Breeze, to scale the fish in my presence to see if there were any marks on them and he wouldn't. Those marks were not on when they left the store. The only reason why Mr. Breeze seized the the fish was because he could not see a hook mark in their mouth. A mark on a bass will easily show because it is the tenderest fish.

Chas. Guy was the next witness. He said the reason Mr. Breese seized the fish was because he could only find one with a hook mark on. The marks of the hook are apt to become closed and not plain when the fish is frozen.

To Magistrate—If fish were all marked in that way as the two before me are, I would say that was a snare mark.

A. E. Ostrum was next called and corroborated the evidence of his brother. There were no marks on the fish when in their possession.

After argument by counsel the magistrate fined the defendant $10 and $3.15 costs, payable within 10 days. The counsel of the defendant has entered an appeal against the decision of the magistrate before the general sessions.

Our Bow to the Public.

♥ ♥ ♥ ♥ ♥ ♥ ♥

IN making this our first regular spring announcement to the citizens and residents of the town and county of Peterborough, we would address ourselves, not only to that large constituency of customers who have heretofore patronized our well known and highly esteemed predecessors, (Messrs. Hall, Innes & Co.,) but to all other readers of this journal, many of whom we hope to have the privilege of doing business with in the future.

We have a few words to say, not directly about Dry Goods.

We believe, that in all the relations of life where success is attained, mutual confidence is the basis, whether between physician and patient, lawyer and client, or merchant and customer, and, for our part, we intend to merit and expect to win confidence.

A WORD as to our taking charge of this business. It has been a matter of choice, on our part, largely influenced by some knowledge of this, "Canada's Premier Town," and surrounding district, and, as we are here to stay, we are actuated by a desire to do our best, as worthy citizens, to still further advance its interest and fair name.

OUR RECORD extends over a number of years of business life, and, with perhaps pardonable pride, we can say that during all that time, both those from whom we have bought and those to whom we have sold, have been financially benefitted.

OUR POSITION, as direct importers of Dry Goods, with a personal visitation of one of the firm twice a year to the European markets, and direct business connection with the leading manufacturers and warehousemen in Great Britain, place us in a position to give VALUE SECOND TO NONE, and styles the most correct and elegant. In no other line of business does the exercise of taste in selection come so largely into play as in the Dry Goods Trade, and in the markets we visit, there is the amplest room for its exercise.

"OUR STAFF." Almost or quite equal to a good stock of Dry Goods at right prices, as a factor in ensuring the success of a business, is competent, courteous and polite assistants. Our staff of employees in its entirety, will be composed of ladies and gentlemen of whom we expect to feel proud.

OUR AIM shall be to merit your confidence in what we may say to you in our place of business, in what we may tell you in our business announcements, in the reliable character of the goods we may have to offer you, by basing our business superstructure on the three cardinal principles,—

INTEGRITY, INTELLIGENCE AND INDUSTRY.

A WORD AS TO OUR METHOD OF DOING BUSINESS.

We fully recognize the fact that to conduct a successful business at the present day demands that all competition from any and every source should be successfully met, which means, not merely that of a local character, but that emanating from the largest houses of the largest cities, who do business exclusively for Cash, and, as a consequence, have not the factor of bad debts and capital outstanding, as well as office expenses to take into consideration, when marking the profits on their goods. This and all other honest competition we are prepared to meet, and to do this we have decided to offer attractive goods at such close prices as will draw to us that large constituency of the community who buy for Cash We have strong faith in a Cash Business, having found in our experience that this potent factor, Cash, is the key that opens all the doors where bargains are to be had. We have used it this season in making our European and Canadian purchases, and, as a result, have the best class of goods at Rock Bottom Prices.

We have already opened up several cases of new Millinery Goods, the styles of which are to be found correct. MISS WALKER has returned after visiting the centres of fashion, and will, as heretofore, be in charge of the show room, which our customers will be pleased to learn.

We have passed into stock many new Spring Suitings, Trouserings and Spring Overcoats, which we have marked at close prices. We have been successful in securing the services of MR. AMES, as Cutter for our Tailoring Department, who comes to us highly recommended, having had a long experience in large city trade. All work in this department guaranteed.

We shall be pleased to see all the old friends of the house, and will consider it a pleasure to show our goods, whether present purchases are contemplated or not.

O'CONNEL THE LIBERATOR.

Splendid Debate in the Catholic Association Rooms Last Evening.

A large and enthusiastic audience assembled in the Catholic Association rooms Tuesday evening to listen to the debate on the subject, "Resolved that O'Connel is Ireland's Greatest Man." Mr. Wm. Brick occupied the chair, and the programme opened with a well rendered instrumental solo "Regret and Hope" by Miss M. Morrow. This was followed by a vocal solo, "Twixt Love and Duty," rendered in excellent voice by Miss K. Simons. The vocal duet "Jaunita," by Misses M. Ball, M. Ball, M. McCabe and M. Begley, was excellently rendered, and was followed by a vocal solo "To-morrow will Do," by Miss M. Baker, rendered in sweet voice and greeted with an encore. Misses L. and M. E. Mahoney in "Drifting with the Tide," acquitted themselves very creditably while Mr. R. J. Hiller in the comic song "If I Could Back the Winner," pleased the audience immensely. The accompanists during the evening were Misses M. Butler and K. Hurley.

The next number on the programme was the debate, "Resolved, That O'Connell is Ireland's Greatest Man." The speakers on the affirmative were Messrs. T. J. Begley, G. Riley, and P. Ryan; on the negative, Messrs. R. J. Hiller, F. Dwyer and D. McCabe. The speeches on the affirmative traced the work of the great Liberator, and showed the difficulties he had to contend with after the rising of '98 and the Emmett revolution; how with the nation behind him he wrested Catholic Emancipation from the British Government, and paved the way for the coming national triumph—Home Rule. The speeches were eloquent and forcible, especially the effort of Mr. P. Ryan. The negative traced the history of such Irishman as Wolfe, Tone, Emmett, Fitzgerald and Grattan, and endeavoured to prove that they were more deserving of Ireland's gratitude than O'Connell. Father Matthews' work was also dwelt upon, but the judges, Messrs. W. Rudkins, T. Dunn and R. W. Muncaster, after a brief deliberation, decided that the affirmative had won the debate, and that Daniel O'Connell is Ireland's greatest man.

Growth and Prosperity.

The wonderful growth of Galveston, and especially that portion known as North Galveston, during the past few years, has been due not only to local improvements and the natural result of rapid settlement and capital liberally invested, but also to the rapid growth of manufacturing industries which here find an unusually profitable field. Thus we find a combination of conditions for continual growth that is unsurpassed in any other portion of the country, namely, a genial and healthful climate, an industrial growth capable of supporting a large population, and agricultural attractions that cannot be excelled. The opportunities are just as good at the present time for making money, either in city property or small fruit farms. The latter class of farming always results in large profits to those who have been fortunate enough to invest.

The property of the North Galveston Association cannot be otherwise regarded than as offering splendid inducements alike to homeseeker and investor. The fullest investigation of this property is cordially invited. The Association is represented by T. Hurley Peterborough, Ont. who will be happy to furnish all information desired. The address of the General Office is: The North Galveston Ass'n, Box 963, Minneapolis Minn.

THE TOWN'S FINANCIAL POSITION

As intimated in yesterday's issue, the EXAMINER returns to the consideration of the town's finances, to which some little attention was paid at the close of the past year and the beginning of the present. We wish it to be distinctly understood that we enter upon the matter with a sole desire of arriving at the truth, and in the same spirit as any citizen or ratepayer would do in attempting to reach an exact understanding of the financial operations of the past year, and our current financial position, and if the result shows that our financial affairs are in a very unsatisfactory condition, it is the facts and not we, that are to blame. It is now some days since the auditors' report of the town accounts of the year 1892 has been available for consideration by the ratepayers. From a careful study of this we have deduced certain facts, and although it is difficult to make figures popularly intelligible, we have tried to present them in as simple a manner as possible. Let us begin by presenting the following tabular statement:

Balance of liabilities over assets as per auditors' report 1892		$ 9,355 21
Deduct balance of liabilities over assets for 1891	$ 2,773 82
Less difference between the uncollected taxes and claimed as assets, and the amount collected or included in the report of 1892	20 11
		$3,734 71
Balance due for 1892 as per report		$ 5,620 50
Add to this, deficit shown in auditors report, 1892, page 68, re Nicholls Hospital	$ 2,727 90
Deduct from this deficit of 1891 on same account, auditors' report, page 71	1,205 38
Net deficits re. Nicholl's Hospital, 1892		1,522 52
Add also unpaid accounts belonging to '92, presented to council of '93, Jan. 13th, and Feb. 6th, but not included in auditors' report of liabilities		597 39
Add also sundry accounts of '92 yet unpaid, the greater part of which are in the council's hands		200 00
Also add Mr. Allan McDougall's bill for information supplied by Mr. Henderson, re. valuation of Water Works plant, yet to be paid, 1892		150 00
Add 10% balance due Farley re. Edison drain contract, to be paid August 1st, next		160 00
Total net deficit on financial operations of 1892		$8,250.41
Add total deficit for 1891 as above		$ 2,773 82
Add deficiency re. Nicholl's demand, 1891		1,205 38
Total amount of existing current liability		$12,229 61

From this it will be seen that, according to the auditor statement of current assets and liabilities, page 43, for the year 1892, there is a balance of liabilities over assets of the considerable sum of $9,355.21. From this gross total deduct the sum of the liabilities over assets for the year 1891 (auditors' report '91, page 46) $3773.82. From this amount take the difference between the uncollected taxes, and claimed as assets and the amount collected or included in the report of 189—$392.11—and we get the sum of $3,734.71, which being deducted from the gross liabilities over assets, $9,355.21, we get as a result $5620.50, which is the deficit for '02 as shown by the auditors' report, based on all the accounts of '92 that came before them. But this sum does not by any means represent the total deficiency in the financial operations of 1892.

We have to increase this amount by the amount of the deficit shown in the auditors' report of 1892, (page 68) re Nicholls hospital, $2,727.90. But in all fairness from this amount should be subtracted the deficiency in same account, $1,205.38, (auditors' report, 1891, page 71), leaving $1,522.52, as the net deficit re Nicholls hospital for 1892. Add this to the total of the deficit as shown by the auditors' report and we get $5,620.50 plus $1,522.52 making a total of $7,143.02. But there are other items that still further swell the deficit. We must add to this the amount of unpaid accounts belonging to 1892, and presented to the council on January 13th and February 6th 1893, but not included in the auditors' report of liabilities. These accounts amounted to $597.39, which, added to $7,143.02, increases the deficiency to $7,740.41. But there is still more to be added, namely, the amount of sundry accounts of '92 yet unpaid, the greater part of which are in the hands of the council, which are, at a low estimate, at least another $200, and the deficit for '02 grows by that amount and reaches $7,940.41. We must increase this by two more unpaid bills of '02—Allan McDougal's account for information supplied by Mr. Henderson, $150.00, and ten per cent. balance due Farley, re Edison drain contract. Both these accounts amount to $310, which, being added to the above figures, $7,940.41, we get the grand total of $8,250.41, the total net deficit upon the financial operations of the year 1892. This sum of $8,250.41 is as exact a statement of the deficit for 1892 as it is possible to arrive at. It will, in all probability, be increased when a few more accounts of 1892 are presented. The deficit of $8,250.41 does not, however, represent the total of the current liability which the present Council have to face and provide for. There must, to show the extent of our liability, be added the deficit of 1891, $3,773.82, and the deficiency on Nicholls Hospital account, $1,205.38 for '91, making a total of $13,229.61.

The existence of such an enormous liability is a direct result of the violation of the sound pay as you go business principle. It was the plain duty of the council of '92 when they found on entering office that there was a deficit of over three and a half thousand, to provide for wiping out that liability instead of adding to it between three and four times over, and ending their year with a net liability of thirteen and a quarter thousand dollars. This way of proceeding for a few years, will place the property owners in the position of enquiring whether they or the tax collectors own the property.

Speaking of the method of carrying over accounts and the deficiency in the Nicholls Hospital account, we venture to say that the public would be far better pleased if the board of the Nicholls Hospital, according to the terms of their charter of incorporation, make their demands from time to time during the year, as required by the Act, thus avoiding the unsatisfactory practice of creating arrearages that have eventually to be faced. It is not in the interests of the hospital, which is doing a good work, that these deficiencies should accumulate from year to year. If from the cause of increased illness, the expenses of the Hospital are greater one year than another, the ratepayers have their attention drawn more directly to the amounts required, if monthly demands are made.

It is not a pleasure to have to criticise the actions of men with whom we have daily business transactions, or as patriotic citizens to deal with matters which do not place our town in a very favourable financial light. But our duty to the public is paramount to every other consideration. A newspaper's function is to guard the public interests, and in the discussion of our financial affairs the EXAMINER has had no other object than to present to the public the financial affairs of the town as they exist.

It will be seen from the above that the EXAMINER, a few months ago, in claiming the existence of a deficit on the financial operations of the year 1892, of $6,000, was quite within the mark, and that the deficit instead of being $6,000 is $8,250.41.

ROYAL TEMPLARS OF TEMPERANCE.

Visiting Lodges Hospitably Entertained by Peterborough Council No. 97 Last Evening.

A large number of Royal Templars of Temperance—numbering not less than 100—from Springville and North Monaghan councils, paid a fraternal visit to Peterborough Council No. 97 R. T. of T., last evening. Their splendid lodge rooms on Water street were well filled and a most enjoyable and sociable time was spent by all present, the local brethren and sisters doing all in their power to extend to the visitors a cordial welcome.

The following lengthy but finely rendered programme was then executed:—

Bro. S. R. Armstrong, P. C., presided in an agreeable manner, and in a few opening remarks expressed himself as well pleased with the large number of visitors present. He trusted that they would thoroughly enjoy themselves, and pass a capital time, socially and and fraternally. On behalf of Peterborough Council he extended the warmest greetings to the visiting brethren.

Duet (mouth organ and piano)	Bro Williamson and Mr Geo McWilliams
Vocal solo	Sister Tully

During the evening timely and appreciative speeches were delivered by Bro. Wilson, S.C., of Springville lodge, and Bro. H. Williamson, of North Monaghan lodge. Near the conclusion of the programme refreshments were served and came in for a liberal share of attention.

The proceedings terminated shortly before twelve o'clock, when the visiting Templars returned home, vowing that they would not soon forget the kindness and hospitality of the Royal Templars of Temperance in Peterborough.

AN APPEAL FROM INSPECTOR GARVIN.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

SIR,—Kindly grant me space to make an appeal to the good citizens of Peterborough for clothing—cast off or new, with which to clothe pupils who are unable to go to school for lack of such. Even adult clothing that could be made over would be acceptable.

If sent to me the chief of police and myself will see that they are properly distributed.

Let me request that such articles be sent through the children attending our schools. The kindly interest in their fellow beings that such action would awaken could not fail to develop nobility of character.

Let me request also that a fund be established for the purchase of school books, etc. for the children referred to. Mr. W. G. Morrow has kindly consented to act as treasurer and to disburse amounts as instructed in writing by the Public School Inspector. The writer starts this fund to-day with a contribution of $5.

Yours,
J. W. GARVIN.

LAKEFIELD.

From Our Own Correspondent.

The fine weather of the last few days has rendered the roads in some places almost impassable.

A case of scarlet fever was reported to the Medical Health officer this week. As the case is isolated and every care is being taken, it is hoped it will not spread.

The sale of the mills and limits of the Lakefield Lumber Co. to-morrow is awaited with much interest by our citizens, who hope some strong and energetic firm like the Rathbun will secure possession of them.

The electric lights on the streets are very much missed now. The nights are dark and the roads bad, and many are the enquiries as to when we may expect them to be relight, and strange to say the most anxious to again see them are those who opposed their use at first.

The new court of the Canadian Order of Foresters, to be known as "Court Selwyn," was organized on Monday evening by Bro. H. Nesbitt, D.D.H.C.R., assisted by Bro. R. Q. Dench, D.D.H.C.R. and a number of the Lakefield brethren. The court starts with a membership of fourteen and some twelve or fifteen names of others who will join later on, so that there is nothing in the way of future success. The following officers were elected and installed:

C.R.	Bro. Fred McKee
V.C.R.	" Peter Preston

Fin. Sec.	" Wm. Boll
Rec. Sec.	" Garvin Preston

WRINKLES, and hollow cheeks, and dull, sunken eyes, don't always mean that a woman's old. Half the time they only show that she's overworked or suffering. To such women, to every woman who is tired or afflicted, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription safely and certainly brings back health and strength. It's a legitimate medicine that corrects and cures; a tonic that invigorates and builds up; a nervine that soothes and strengthens. For all the derangements, irregularities and weaknesses peculiar to women, it is the only guaranteed remedy. If it doesn't benefit or cure, you have your money back.

A great many medicines "relieve" Catarrh in the Head. That means that it's driven from the head into the throat and lungs. But, by its mild, soothing, cleansing and healing properties, Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy perfectly and permanently cures.

NOT HOOPS.

But the Stiffened Skirt That is to be the Skirt.

The skirt that is to be the skirt is not the least in the world like the old hoop horror. It fits tight about the hips and well over them, in other words it outlines the curves of the figure as far as grace and modesty permits. From that point the skirt flares till at the top it is five breadths around. Most of the fulness is thrown to the back, but the flare shows at the sides and in front when one stands in profile. Crinoline as we understand the word in its former significance is not used. A stiff stuff is that is light and pliable. It goes in between the silk lining of the gown and the stuff of which it is made. The same stiffening is used to make the sleeves hold their own. The whole effect is crisp and charming, and bears no resemblance to the hideous hoops at the thought of which we all hide our heads and shriek that we never will, all the while silently hoping and wishing that we won't be made to whether we will or not.

The girl pictured wear[illegible]vely ball toilet of white bengaline trimmed with pearl passementerie. The skirt is somewhat full and the connection with the waist is covered with a very wide belt of the passementerie. The pointed opening at the neck has a few soft folds of chiffon outlining it, and at the base of the opening is a band of the passementerie. Ruffles of the silk are carried over the shoulder and full over the short puffed sleeves which are gathered into bands of the passementerie to fit the arms. You may fearlessly put bright yellow and pink together, if you will, so to speak, take the curse off with a judicious application of black. But there! It is all very well to say that, and yet it is only just one sort of bright yellow that will go with one sort of bright pink. Then, too, the black is added according to that inspiration and instinct which makes the imported dress a thing of beauty and one hundred and fifty dollars, and the modern creation of the ordinary dressmaker something unspeakable, and dared only because the wearer has been assured, by such an injudicious person as myself, that bright yellow may be put with pink.

FLORETTE.

Emaciated People Grow fat.

Do you sometimes feel as though your vital energy was sinking, and that you needed some powerful agency to recuperate it? Do you sometimes long for stimulants to brace you up? That is the time to take "Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil," because it contains life giving priniciples through its power to create flesh and blood. By taking it according to directions emaciated and enfeebled people have been known to actually grow fat at the rate of from five to ten pounds per bottle consumed. In big bottles, 50c. and $1.00, at all Drug Stores.

Encouragement for old People.

It may sound queer to talk about curing old people of Kidney and Urinary troubles after they have passed the alloted period of three score years and ten, but the following extraordinary recovery of an old veteran by Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure, ought to be of great encouragement to old people:—

BELLEVILLE, March 4, 1893.

Peterborough Medicine Company (Limited.)

GENTLEMEN,—I owe a great debt of gratitude to Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure for the prompt and speedy relief which I have received from the use of only one bottle of your great medicine. I have suffered from Kidney and Urinary troubles, inflammation of the neck of the bladder, &c. for many a long day. No one knows better than old people how great a blessing it is to be cured. I doctored a lot, but nothing did me so much good as your cure. I have lived about half a century in Belleville, and will be only to glad to speak a good word in favour of Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure. I can also recommend it for constipation and stomach troubles.

JAMES HAROLD.

Out-of-Door Exercise.

E. P. Smith says, in The American Cultivator: If one has plenty of barnyard room the animals should be turned loose in it in the day-time all through the winter, or even a field that is near at hand, confining them in the barn or under some shelter at night. It is a great mistake to shut the cows up in winter and make them weak and tender. They will eat less hay and require less care if permitted to roam around the fields during the pleasant days. They can do no damage on plowed fields, but they will gain a great deal of good. Many skin and lung diseases are avoided in this way also. By confinement in close buildings they are apt to get dirty and filthy, and their lungs grow weak by being filled continually with vitiated air. The only true way is to turn them out in the daytime, and confine them in stanchions at night. If there is a running brook in the field it will be well to let the cows water themselves. Cold running water is very different from quiet, icy water. The former is good for them, the latter is injurious.

A Human Cable.

The spinal cord, while it is a sort of cable carrying messages to and fro between the brain and the skin, is at the same time a series of thirty-one segments, each segment connected with a pair of spinal nerves. These thirty-one segments occupy only seventeen or eighteen inches of the spinal canal, which is twenty-six to twenty-eight inches long. The thirty-first segment is found opposite the base of the first lumbar vertebra. If one takes a cosmetic pencil it is very easy to draw, on a thin person, an outline of the spinal cord upon the back over the vertebral column, and in this way one gains a clear knowledge of these puzzling relations.

Jar for Bread-Crumbs.

A stone jar for bread-crumbs is indispensable to a well-appointed pantry. Many housekeepers buy cracker dust for cooking purposes, but bits of grated bread will be found dainter and more appetizing, and in no way is bread kept better than in a deep stone jar.

"March to search" is the old adage. It searches out any weakness of the system, resulting from impure blood. Those who use Ayer's Sarsaparilla find March no more searching or even disagreeable than any other month. This medicine is a wonderful invigorator.

Some symptoms of worms are:—fever colic, variable appetite, restlessness, weakness and convulsions. The unfailing remedy is Dr. Lowe's Worm Syrup.

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

Is superior to all other preparations claiming to be blood-purifiers. First of all, because the principal ingredient used in it is the extract of genuine Honduras sarsaparilla root, the variety richest in medicinal properties. Also, because because it is always the same in appearance, flavor, and effect, and, being highly concentrated, only small doses are needed. It is, therefore, the most economical blood-purifier in existence. It

PANAMA CANAL TRIAL.

THE DISCLOSURES CONTINUE TO BE DISGRACEFUL.

M. Bourgeois, Late Minister of Justice, Tries Hard To Sustain An Honest Front—He Asserts That the Charges Against Him Are Infamous Falsehoods.

PARIS, March 14.—M. Bourgeois, late Minister of Justice, took the stand, amid murmurs of excitement on the part of the audience. He emphatically repudiated all the insinuations contained in the evidence of Mme. Cottin. He denied having authorized any body to act in his behalf. He said that he had only permitted Mme. Cottin to see her husband from motives of humanity.

Judge Desjardines: Mme. Cottin has not said anything against you.

M. Bourgeois: I read the report of the trial and therefore I am here to deny the insinuations.

Judge Desjardines: The report was perhaps inaccurate.

The Advocate-General: If the personal character of M. Bourgeois had been called in question without my being able to defend it, I, who perhaps owe my place here to him, should not have hesitated to resign.

M. Bourgeois then resumed: I do not know what this new manoeuvre means. I do not even wish to know, but I feel it may prejudice the disclosure of the truth and give rise to the idea that justice is not free. In leaving my office to protest I wished to say that I would not allow the accused to become accusers, nor the Minister of Justice himself to become accused.

These words, uttered with firmness and dignity, caused a manifest sensation in court and everybody looked at the defendants and their counsel to see the effect produced.

M. Barboux, rising, said: I do not forget that M. Bourgeois was only yesterday the Minister of Justice, and I ask him respectfully to say what manoeuvres he alludes to.

M. Bourgeois, sternly: I do not know, but I am conscious of them.

M. Barboux: Nobody here doubted the sincerity of Mme. Cotte's evidence.

Charles De Lesseps here arose and in a bold manner, in tones that rang through the court room, said: "M. Bourgeois attacked me a little while ago. Well, monsieur, here I am, face to face with you. What have you to say to me?"

De Lesseps folded his arms and looked defiantly at Bourgeois."

Judge Desjardines indignantly spoke up: I cannot allow these dialogues. The law must be recognised by all.

M. Bourgeois proceeded to reply in deliberate language to M. Barboux. I have not, he said, to discuss the truth of what M. Barboux chooses to say, but I affirm in portion the evidence in which I was called in question. M. Soinoury was not aware of the facts. His statements did not dispose of the charges against me. Therefore I am here to rebut them. The whole affair is the result of a manoeuvre, the authors of which I do not know.

With this M. Bourgeois retired from the witness stand, and the hearing was suspended.

The Cattle Schedule.

LONDON, March 14.—The question of the admission of Canadian cattle alive into Great Britain is still undecided.

Sir Charles Tupper is unceasing in his efforts to further the accomplishment of the Canadian Government's desires for an early admission.

But Mr. Herbert Gardiner, the President of the Local Board of Agriculture, is hampered by the extended opposition developed by the recent declaration of Mr. Chaplin on the matter.

While it has not yet become a burning party question, Mr. Gardiner still feels that he must act very cautiously.

You Lie Perkins as a Scrapper.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 14.—Melville D. Landon, better known as Eli Perkins, was one of the passengers on a train leaving Chicago yesterday morning en route to this city. Shortly before leaving Chicago Mr. Laudon began a heated argument with the porter of the car. The porter resented the remarks of Mr. Landon, and in the fight which followed the lecturer was badly bruised and disfigured. On arriving here the porter was discharged.

All Were Negroes.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 14.—A negro planter was murdered by a negro desperado. A negro mob seized the murderer from the sheriff, hanged him and then filled him full of bullets.

DEAR SIRS,—Last year I was very thin and reducing very fast, owing to the bad state of my blood and appetite. A friend of mine induced me to get a bottle of B.B. B., which I did. I obtained immediate perceptible relief from it, having gained strength and appetite, and now weigh 193 pounds.

WOMEN.

Rev. Dr. Talmage Discusses Their Position and Their Foibles.

Rev. Dr. Talmage lectured in Cooke's Church, Toronto, on Thursday evening, 9th March. During the afternoon Miss E. Atkinson (Madge Morton) interviewed him, and thus reports what the famous Brooklyn pastor said in the office:

Dr. Talmage walks well, talks well, thinks well and looks—fresh. It is not the wearisome kind of "fresh"; though just the graceful, easy, fascinating veariness of mind that comes to the man who is ever reaching out into thought's boundlessness. He is erect, broad-shouldered, smooth-shaven. His eyes are blue-grey, his hair iron-grey, and in face, calm and restful in repose, is benignant when he speaks. Dr. Talmage is essentially a happy-looking man, and courteously said he would be glad to give his opinions in answer to three queries. They related to women's dress, working women and women suffrage.

Regarding the dress, he was emphatic in saying he believed that at no time did women dress more modestly or in more womanly fashion than now. In the east, where they followed the fashions of the Bible times, the manner of appareling was far less commendable than that of our own land and time. Fashions have improved, he thinks, judging from the fashion plates of a hundred years ago, and those in the Bible. I suspected the doctor hadn't seen the spring numbers of the Paris books, but anyway it is rather cruel to judge next summer's women by advance sheets of their clothes.

About tight clothing, he thought that while many did injure their health and happiness by foolishly adopting a style of dress to alter their forms, yet most women were too fond of their own comfort to go to extremes.

"There are fools among women as well as among men," he said, and the tone was almost apologetic.

Dr. Talmage is a broad-minded friend of the working woman. His face was very decided and his eyes enthusiastic as he said, "She should have every door thrown open to her and be allowed to make a living in any way she chooses, if it be an honest one." He thinks man's sense of gallantry, if nothing else, should prevent his standing before her in the honest efforts to toil for bread. "She is a finer creation," he went on. It was no compliment, it was a fact; her arm was weaker, and, except in extreme cases, as in nursing the sick, her endurance less. It was pleasant to hear so earnest a plea for the woman who works, and all the more delightful in that the entreaty for courtesy of old-fashioned times came from a man of to-day's thought and to-day's big world.

Dr. Talmage doesn't believe that nine-tenths of the women would use votes if they had them. He thinks few would care to exercise the ballot-rights which are being lectured for. "A few professional women might," he said, but he did not believe the majority would. The women of his family would not. They "wouldn't be seen near a ballot box, and," he added, smiling, "they do just as they like." Husbands and wives would, he thought, vote the same way, for they usually thought the same way. He would like to see it tried; and there was more languid curiosity in his face than any reflected ardor from any woman suffragist that ever appealed to the government, the county and the big blue beyond for her withheld vote.

Altogether, the Brooklyn doctor does not expect great things would come from woman suffrage. He does not think it would relieve the oppression of wage-earners, "because," he said, "women are the chief oppressors of women." He spoke of washerwomen and under-paid factory and sewing girls, and agreed that perhaps a more complete reformation might be worked by the "own doorstep" plan, in which every woman began with her own servant, her own washerwoman and her own sewing-girl.

Women "drag up the past" regarding women, he declared. They cannot forgive a woman for a fault or a sin. Men do; but women, never. A woman may be living happily in a home, and another woman will sadden it with a rumor that is thirty years old.

"Do you think women gossip more than men?"

That was the question, and the doctor's hands moved in a quick gesture to emphasize his negation. "No!" he cried, "Men are the worst gossips in the world!"

He joined a little in my maliciously triumphant laugh, and repeated the assertion, adding, "They will sit around with a cigar between their teeth, and talk more diabolism than—" and there he stopped. May I be forgiven for thinking he meant to say, "than women could in twenty years of afternoon teas."

Women do talk of more trivial matters, it was suggested. Dr. Talmage laughed—a merry laugh, with an eye-twinkle accompaniment—and came to the logical conclusion that it were better to discuss small affairs than great ones, providing, of course, the discussion were on the gossip plan.

And then I came away, thinking of Dr. Talmage as a man who liked the way women of to-day dressed, would let them work, and yet accord to them all the politeness and all the consideration shown the grande dames at court; held that they did not want to vote like a man, because they were trusted down town alone, and had averred that they didn't gossip as much as men.

A. P. Noakes, Mattawa, Ont., writes:—"I have been troubled for years with rheumatism and nervous debility, and after using six boxes of your Dr. Williams' Pink Pills am entirely restored to health, and can do a good day's work." Sold by all dealers, or sent by mail at 50c. a box or six boxes for $2.50. Dr. Williams' Med. Co., Brockville, Ont.

A Cure for Constipation and Headache

Dr. Silas Lane, while in the Rocky Mountains, discovered a root that when combined with other herbs, makes an easy and certain cure for constipation. It is in the form of dry roots leaves, and is known as Lane's Family Medicine. It will cure sick-headache in one night. For the blood, liver and kidneys, and for clearing up the complexion it does wonders. Druggists sell it at 50c. a package.

A Cure for Croup.

Croup kills thousands where cholera kills tens. For this dread disease no remedy can compare in curative power with Hagyard's Yellow Oil. It loosens the phelgm, gives prompt relief, and soon completely cures the most violent attack.

A Suitable Gift.

A tube of Dyer's Jelly of Cucumber and Roses for making the skin soft and smooth will be acceptable to any lady. Druggists keep it. W. A. Dyer & Co., Montreal.

McCARTHY'S POLICY.

formation of the House. He would see that he said in 1883 "The policy has been beneficial on the whole."

He said that after the N.P. had been in force nine years, mind you. And again: "The condition of our people will compare favorably with that of any other people who are known to us, or of any other people that we are brought in contact with; and I am sure it will be found that the policy we adopted here and which the country has twice ratified by a very large vote has on the whole been exceedingly beneficial." [Cheers.]

Place it alongside of a statement that the N.P. is actually causing disloyalty! Once more he said: "I need not say that the N.P. is necessary for this country and that it has brought comfort to many a distressed home." [Cheers.]

Mr. McCarthy: Where was that reported?

Dr. Montague: In The Standard, the last copy of The Standard. The speech was made in February, 1887, and the hon. gentleman will find it on the last page of The Standard that is bound in the library. [Cheers.]

His conversion was as sudden as the conversion of Saul of Tarsus on the road to Damascus, but instead of going as Saul did to preach the gospel of peace and contentment he went abroad to preach the gospel of gloom and despair. [Cheers.] Where were the changed conditions? Let him point them out. We have more industries, we have more people employed. That he will admit. We have more capital. Our credit was better in markets of the world. There was money in the savings banks, a fact which in that same speech at Bowmanville he declared was a test of the people's prosperity. There was more money in banks. There were more bank notes in circulation. The prices were lower than they were in 1887, and yet he says the burdens are falling on the people.

He (Montague) then went on to show how he accused Mr. Blake of making an acrobatic feat at Bowmanville when he accused the latter of supporting the N.P. and said that Mr. Blake had gone back on all his principles. But Mr. McCarthy had done the same thing to-day. [Cheers.] He (McCarthy) supported it in 1885, he supported it in 1886, he supported it in 1887, he supported it in 1888, and by his statement made at Stayner he said that he was always consulted by the chieftain of the Conservative party. He did not wish to undervalue the services which he performed to that chieftain, therefore if he was consulted by hon. gentlemen he was as responsible as anybody else, perhaps more than his chieftain's other followers, for the policy which he placed before this country. [Cheers.]

In 1891 he accepted a Conservative nomination, and in his speech at Stayner he declared that he agreed in the main with the Liberal-Conservative party, and that the points, those points on which he disagreed with the party, were so small that he did not see fit at his nomination to address a single word with regard to them.

And then there came that trying time in the history of the Conservative party and the history of this country when the old chieftain, who through many years, in storm and sunshine, had led the Conservative forces to victory at Ernesliffe, on the banks of the Ottawa, lay fighting that hopeless contest with a relentless foe from the result of which there was no appeal. When the end came the Conservative members of both Houses met with sad and gloomy hearts to express their sorrow for the demise of the greatest Canadian that has ever occupied a place in public affairs, and the member for North Simcoe, who was the mouthpiece of the Conservatives of the two Houses on that occasion, penned an address to the widow of that deceased statesman.

The charges preferred against the N.P. were the same old charges which had been heard in that House many times over. He made statements that would put Sir Richard to blush for their enmity without one word of proof. [Hear, hear.] The only proof produced was The Globe. Well, he was hard up for proof. [Laughter.] In The Globe Mr. McCarthy also found that there was disloyalty lurking in some quarters of Canada, disloyalty because of the N.P. That could not be disloyalty with Britain, because Britain had nothing to do with the N.P.

If it was political union with the United States these people desired it was not a tariff of 30 per cent. that they were fleeing from to go to a country where the tariff was 30 per cent. Sir Richard Cartwright had accused the manufacturers of Canada of stealing $30,000,000 from the Dominion Treasury, but to use the language of the member for North Norfolk, the member for Simcoe went him one better and said they amounted to $90,000,000. [Hear, hear.]

The statement was too ridiculous to need contradiction. The statement also that the foundries were making 60 per cent. profits was simply nonsense. He showed that the arguments of Mr. McCarthy in regard to tweeds and agricultural implements were equally erroneous. As for the latter, they were as cheap as in the United States. In the Northwest to-day the price of binders was only about five per cent. difference either one way or the other between Canada and the United States. He gave statistics to show that under the N. P. the cotton industries in Canada increased so as to give employment to an increase of 7000 hands. Before Mr. McCarthy could talk of combines he would have to show that they had increased prices.

In conclusion he reviewed the last portion of Mr. McCarthy's amendment respecting special trade relations with the United States, and showed that Canada had always been willing to have fair trade with the United States or any other country. In a very brilliant peroration he drew a bright picture of the development of the country and a most hopeful forecast for her future. At a quarter to eleven he took his seat amid loud and prolonged applause.

Messrs. Edgar and Taylor followed and Mr. Ives moved the adjournment of the debate.

The House adjourned at 12.10 a.m.

Mr. Larke has received to-day the official notification of the manner of the admission of exhibitors at the Columbian Exposition. Each exhibitor will be entitled to one pass for himself and such employes and attendants as will be actually required to instal and take care of it during the exhibition. The necessary certificates to obtain reduced fares to Chicago and return for exhibitors and their employes are now ready and can be had on application to Mr. Larke. It is daily becoming more evident the necessity for pushing forward the exhibit from Canada. A letter advises that 20,000 cars are now under way for Chicago, and there is reason to expect that there will be a blockade in the exhibition grounds and the Chicago yards.

The Committee on Agriculture met this morning, Dr. Sproule in the chair. Prof. Saunders made a long and interesting statement of work on the Central Experimental Farm, especially as related to the hybridization of plants, in the course of which he said that more experiments had been made last year in this district at the central farm than any other place in the world. He exhibited three cases of grains in which were exhibited the parent plants, male and female, and the crosses which had been obtained by mixing the seed and pollen. This was especially interesting in the case of crosses of two-rowed and six-rowed barley, which had resulted in a variety of from two-rowed to fine six-rowed.

Mr. Gobeil, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, was also examined and gave some information with respect to what is being done by the department in quarantine matters. The work at all the quarantine stations, he said, was well advanced. Grosse Isle would be entirely completed and in working order by the first of next month, and the new British Columbia station at Williams' Head would be ready by the first of June.

SMART SPRING MANTLES!

In our north window we display some of the very newest patterns of Imported Mantles for Spring wear.

They are style all over. The craft of the skilled German model garment makers is manifest in these Mantles, and the attention of ladies is especially drawn to the new material and exquisite taste which has been displayed in these two directions.

We make the point that our Mantles are new—wholly new—new in design, new in shape, and new in price.

Ladies who have looked elsewhere for something to suit them in a Spring Mantle, will have no difficulty in making their final selections from our stock. We are perhaps a little early in exposing these Mantles, but the temptation was too strong, and besides, some one must lead, so we take the consequences of our unusual advanced preparations for this spring season of 1893.

TO COMMEMORATE WAR.

An Observation Tower to Be Built at Lundy's Lane.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., March 16.—The Lundy's Lane Observatory Company has been formed to build an observation tower on the famous battle ground and cemetery, located on Drummondville hill, just about a mile from the Falls. A site has been secured for $5000 by the company, on which the observatory will be constructed.
It will cost in the neighborhood of $6000. There will be a two-story large frame building 50 feet square. A part of this will be used for the purpose of storing the relics of the Lundy's Lane Historical Society, and make a very interesting museum.
These relics have been gathered from the battlefield and from recent excavations made in that vicinity. The tower and observatory will be constructed of steel, and a roomy elevator will carry visitors to the commodious parapet above. It will probably be operated by electricity.
This tower will rise quite a distance above the Brock monument. It will be equipped with a telescope and be provided with every facility for obtaining an unobstructed view of the magnificent scenery surrounding the historic battleground.
The company which will erect the structure consists of John A. Orchard, president; James Wilson, secretary-treasurer, and James A. Lowell, M.P., Rev. Canon Bull and H. C. Symmes as directors.

C.O.C.T. OFFICERS.

Inspector Appointed—Next Meeting to Be Held in Toronto.

BERLIN, Ont., March 16.—The Canadian Order of Chosen Friends elected these officers for the ensuing term:
A. E. Lyon, Guelph, grand councillor; vice-councillor, W. P. Bell of Kingston; grand recorder, W. Montaigne, re-elected; grand treasurer, W. F. Campbell, re-elected; medical adviser, Dr. Woolverton, Hamilton; prelate, Rev. H. I. Allen, Enterprise; marshal, C. Kister, Chippawa; warden, J. A. Matthews, London.
An inspector for the order was appointed. A salary of $1500 a year was granted the grand recorder and $500 was given to the grand councillor. The next session will be held in Toronto.

An Emperor's Fiscal Policy.

VANCOUVER, B.C., March 16.—Steamship Empress of India arrived yesterday from China and Japan. The principal topic of interest in Japan is the outcome of the petition to the Emperor by the members of the House of Representatives against the Government's fiscal policy, especially the proposed expenditure of large sums of money in connection with the navy.
The Emperor in his reply upholds the Government's policy, but to soothe the petitioners' troublesome spirit donates $300,000 a year for six years out of his private income and directs government officials to contribute 10 per cent. of their salaries towards a fund for building warships.
The magnanimity of the Emperor's act has made a profound impression, and members of Parliament and private wealthy persons are voluntarily contributing large sums towards the same purpose.

An Age of Combines.

MONTREAL, March 16.—A despatch from St. John, N.B., says that overtures have been made to the proprietors of the rolling mills and cut nail factories here with the intention of their purchase by a syndicate of American and Canadian capitalists.
There is some talk in Montreal of a similar combine, although those interested deny the truth of the rumor. The factories interested here would be Peck, Benny & Co., Montreal Rolling Mills, Pillow, Hersey & Co. and Abbott & Co.

To Sift the Hawaiian Affair.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—President Cleveland has appointed Congressman Blount of Georgia chairman of a commission to go to Hawaii to look into the whole question. He will have two fellow commissioners. Blount, his wife and secretary have started for San Francisco to sail thence.

THE KEMPTVILLE CASE.

DEVELOPMENTS POINT MORE AND MORE TO MURDER.

Prof. Ellis Completes the Analysis of the Stomach of the Deceased—Another Mystery In Connection With the Case—The Dead Man's Will.

TORONTO, March 16.—Prof. Ellis of this city has completed the analysis of the stomach of Alexander Kennedy, one of the victims of the recent poisoning case at Kemptville, Ont., and will forward his report in time for the inquest which will be resumed on Tuesday next.
Government Detective Greer has been confined to his house since returning from the Wonch case at Collingwood, but will probably leave for Kemptville to-morrow.
The case promises to be one of the most complicated in the criminal history of Ontario. Since the inquest local authorities have been at work and many new developments have been discovered regarding the crime, for a crime it is now universally admitted to be around the district.
Alexander Kennedy, the male victim, was one of the best known figures in and far beyond Grenville County. He was an Edinburgh Scotchman, and had reached the ripe age of 67 years. Forty years previously he went to Kemptville when that place was a mere roadside stopping place with no pretensions. By trade he was a blacksmith, and he and his brother John carried on a most successful business.
Mrs. John Kennedy was about 60 years of age and had a fine robust constitution.
It now transpires that the will of the deceased, which has been searched for with unflagging energy by several of his relatives and friends, cannot be found. The deceased, "Sandy" Kennedy, as he was familiarly called, made a will on Monday, Dec. 5, 1892.
A thorough search of the rooms and outhouses, as well as the extensive kitchens, has been made for any further clues or evidence, but without result. The whole affair is still clouded in mystery, causing an indefinable feeling that continues to keep the people talking about the tragedy.
It may be said that suspicion still rests on the girl Lizzie Poole, the adopted child of Mr. and Mrs. John Kennedy, who made the porridge on the fatal morning, and it is affirmed that some green stuff was found sprinkled over the front of the dress she wore the morning of the deaths, but this lacks confirmation. Suspicion has also spread to other points, and a large amount of comment was expressed over the fact that no inquest was held on the body of Mrs. Kennedy, and that the previous evidence taken on Sandy's death appeared to have been considered sufficient to satisfy the law.

A CHINESE HORROR.

Villagers Who Had Suffered By the Pirates Get a Chance for Revenge.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 16.—The steamer City of Rio de Janeiro arrived from Yokohama and Hong Kong. A Yokohama paper prints an account of the extermination of a band of pirates in a Chinese village last January. On the 15th of that month two piratical crafts, having run into one of the inlets in the vicinity of the city of Shehpu, called Fan-tu, for shelter, some of the pirates landed. Fan-tu had suffered repeatedly from depredations of the numerous sea pirates along the coast of Chekiang, and had lost some of their number at the hands of the desperadoes. Some of the pirates who landed were recognised by the inhabitants of the village. A consultation was held, and 300 well armed villagers surprised the pirates in the early hours of the morning. They burst open the hatches and doors of the cabins and poured a stream of bullets upon the 50 or 60 pirates who were huddled together for warmth on the lower deck of the junks.
Thoroughly taken by surprise, hardly any resistance was made. All of the pirates but two were almost hacked into mincemeat by the exasperated villagers. The two pirates who were not treated this way were saved to be made away with in a different manner.
It seemed that among the villagers who had been killed by the pirates was a son of the patriarch of the village. At daylight the two pirates escorted by the community were led to the grave of the young man and after being secured to a couple of stakes put up for the purpose, two of the nearest relatives of the dead man plunged their knives into their breasts, and ripping open their bodies extracted their hearts, which were then put smoking hot on a plate and placed on the table, upon which were already lighted candles and an incense burnt.
The female relatives of the deceased, dressed in mourning colors of white, gathered by the side of the grave, crying and calling out to the spirit of the dead to receive the sacrifice that was being offered as vengeance.
The villagers ransacked the piratical junks and got gold, silver, cash and silks, satins and rice. The junks were towed into the stream and burned.

FRANCE AND THE VA[illegible]

Serious Friction Is Threatened [illegible] Pope.

HUMBERT IS PLEASED.

ROME, March 15.—Serious friction is threatened between the Vatican and France in regard to the appointment of a primate in Africa to succeed the late Cardinal Lavigerie. The Pope demands that France shall provide the primate with a fixed allowance for his maintenance, and to this the French Government object. The Pope, therefore, holds that if the primate is to look to the church for support the church should not submit to dictation by interference as to the appointment, and the Pope has intimated that he may nominate an Italian for the office. In such an event a serious conflict will surely result, as France would decidedly object to having an Italian primate over Catholics, the large majority of whom are either French or subjects of France.

CAMPBELL'S DOWNFALL.

He Was Postmaster at Whitewood and a Politician.

WINNIPEG, March 15.—D. Campbell, member for the Northwest Legislature and postmaster at Whitewood, has skipped out. Many registered letters have been missing at Whitewood postoffice lately, and the authorities had succeeded in bringing the thefts so clearly home to Campbell that he departed for parts unknown. From his high position his downfall creates a great sensation.

LOST THEIR HORSES.

And Had a Scared Look Through a Hole In the Ice.

GODERICH, March 15.—Yesterday Doctors Secord and Smith left Kincardine for Goderich. Owing to the bad condition of the roads they took the lake route. When about 16 miles north of here and some distance from the shore, the team broke through the ice and were drowned. The occupants of the cutter escaped without injury. They made their way to the shore and were brought to Goderich this morning.

A Railway Deal.

NEW YORK, March 16.—The Board of Directors of the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad yesterday completed the purchase from J. Pierpont Morgan of the New York and Northern Railroad, and the property will be formally turned over April 1.
The terms of the transaction are withheld, but include the delivery of a majority of the preferred and common stock and the second mortgage bonds. The New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad is to have the right to participate in any addition to the New York Central facilities in New York which the New York and Northern will furnish. A reorganization of the New York and Northern is proposed.

HOMESTEAD, Pa., March 16.—The Carnegie Steel Company has ordered a new press for its armor plate works at this place, an enormous piece of machinery that will cost over $1,000,000, from Wilworth & Co. of Manchester, England. It will be the largest piece of machinery of the kind in this country and perhaps in the world.
The press will have a capacity of 16,000 tons. The machines will arrive here by the first of next year. It is claimed that by the aid of this machinery the company will be able to make the greatest forgings in the world, and a plate of 200 tons can be worked in one piece.

Columbus In Wood.

HAMILTON, March 16.—Kasper Ostler, an employe of the Hamilton Screw Works, has completed an immense wood carving representing the landing of Christopher Columbus on American soil. Ostler has been employed on the work for seven hours a day for the past seven months. All the details of the carving are historically correct in every particular. Commissioner Lark has secured space for the work in the Canadian department at the World's Fair.

Horrible Fanaticism.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 16.—An anti-Baptist fanatic has been arrested in Latrig, Government of Saratoff, for having murdered a girl of 14 years. He had been preaching before a roomful of people in a private house concerning his power to raise the dead.
At the end of his sermon he strangled the girl with the consent of her parents in order that he might demonstrate his pretended ability to bring her back to life.

WINTER BUTTER MAKING.

North Smith Factory Will Take the Initiative—Extensive Impovements to be Made—The Stockholders Will Put in the Necessary Machinery.

In view of the prospects of an increase in the cheese business this season, and believing the time has come to move in the matter of a winter butter factory. The directors of the North Smith Dairy Company decided to call a general meeting of the stockholders for Tuesday, the 14th inst. The attendance was larger than usual, and it was decided to raise the factory and put in a basement story, thereby making a larger and better make-room, which will allow the present make room to be used as additional curing room. It was also decided to put in an engine and the improved machinery used in cheese factories. The cost of these improvements and machinery is expected to be about four hundred and fifty dollars. It was also decided to begin winter butter making at the close of the season. It is expected that the additional cost of the machinery and fitting up the factory for winter use will be about six hundred dollars. When these improvements are effected North Smith will be one of the largest and best equipped factories in the Peterborough district.

It is to be hoped and expected that a large number of the patrons of the neighbouring factories will co-operate with North Smith in the winter butter factory. By so doing an opportunity will be given of demonstrating whether this branch of dairying can be made practicable and profitable in this section, and that, too, without any pecunary risk, except to those who are or may become stockholders in the North Smith Dairy Company.

JUDGE MACDONALD'S ADDRESS

THE LAST OF THE LAYMEN'S MEETINGS IN ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

The Call to Service—The Laity a Potent Body—Their Opportunities for Work—Religion in Athletics—Plain but Effective Talk—Remarks by the Rector—The Next Address—Brotherhood of St. Andrew Movement.

The last of the series of the fortnightly laymen's meeting held under the auspices of the local chapter of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew during the list of special Wednesday evening Lenten services occured in St. John's church Sunday school room last evening. The edifice was comfortably filled. After the singing of a hymn and prayer, Rev. Mr. Davidson gave a brief opening address. He said they had now come to the last of the laymen's meetings which they had been holding and they expected the warmest sympathy and co-operation of every laymen. He felt sure that the audience would lend such aid to Judge MacDonald, who would address them this evening. He hoped these meetings would bring before the laity the privileges of the laity. In past ages he felt that the church had lacked the assistance of the laity. It was not the time to ask why this had been. By the hearty co-operation of the Bishops of the church and the laity, they were able to hear and advance the work of the church, in the home and on the streets. This work of laymen was sometimes thought to be an encroachment upon the work of the clergy. The clergy felt authoritatively that power which God had given them of the laying on of hands. But it was the great privilege of all—clergy and laity—to lead their brethren to Jesus Christ. St. Andrew before his spiritual career had been begun, went out in search of his brother, Simon, and brought him to Jesus Christ. This was a work which, if the laity did not do, could not be done by anyone else. There were men who could not be approached by a clergymen, and were often prejudiced towards them, buf they could be and very often the Gospel put to them in this practical way had brought wonderful results. The great danger was that the clergy was separated in thought and possibility and practicability from the laity, and they, too often did not know on what particular standpoint their views had come in. In these meetings men came in and treated religion not as from the pulpit, but treated it from the street and in the market place. This does not only apply to platform speeches, but they (the clergy) desired the confidence, sympathy and advice of all, so far as possible, in the cause of their common Master. If the laity would tell the clergy in private how doctrines, thoughts and suggestions given out affected them, it would result beneficially and all would be much profited. The speaker felt deeply the privilege of having Judge Macdonald of Brockville, among them. (Applause) His name was known throughout the Dominion, in his judicial capacity and also for the great help he had given the Church and the cause of Christ, in this our beloved country. He felt exceedingly grateful to His Honor for coming to Peterborough. (Applause.)

THE CALL TO WORK.

Judge Macdonald expressed his extreme pleasure at being present on the rector's invitation. The judge said he did not intend delivering an address, but rather to give a simple talk to his auditors, and if it partook too much of the nature of a sermon, the rector would please not take offence.

The well known layman kept his promise in this respect, and for an hour held the closest attention of the audience. He is a fine-looking man, with a bright expressive countenance, an elastic step and an ogile frame. He is of graceful carriage and reminds one strongly that the lacrosse stick and cricket bat are not unfamiliar to his use. His words were simple and earnest, his illustrations apt and forcible, his narratives striking and plain, while his suggestions were practical. In his premise he endorsed the remarks of the rector and said the impression that the Church of England was only a church for the clergy, was wrong there was no church where the laity was afforded such an opportunity of taking part in the services as in the Church of England, and if they did not take part it was their own fault. They should have done so. The day had come when in this new organization, the Brotherhood of St. Andrew's, they had a potent influence for the laity to work and labour in the interest of the cause of Christ. He thanked God when at the Kingston convention that such a movement had ever been started, But his subject was the call to service. The speaker based his remarks on 34th verse of the 13th chapter of St. Mark's gospel. Christ called his servants to work and told them to watch. The law and the prophets which Christ came to fulfill, was the love of God and love of man. Christ came to fulfill the law and the prophets. How did he fulfill it? His life was a life of work and of service. Even on the cross God forgave His enemies and His life was a life of service there. Christ never asked or called upon any person to fulfill a service that he had not trod the path Himself.

CHRIST'S FOOTSTEPS HAD BROKEN THE WAY

and all we had to do was to follow Him. When God was upon earth he found a society, a household—the church, which was built upon the prophets, Christ himself being the corner stone. That church in which we express our belief—the Holy Catholic church—is the church which calls us to service.

The next point was to whom the call was addressed. In the words of the context, the man was a house holder and the word "every man" referred to the whole household, but we could not interpret it in this way. The speaker thought that it was not broad too to apply the call to every baptized person. Every baptized person however was not in a position to respond to this call because they have not fulfilled those promises which were extended to them in baptism. No man who was living in conscious sin was in a position to do service for God. Let each one ask if there was not a time when they professed to serve God but were living in conscious sin. If so, it must strike us all that our service had been barren. A man to do acceptable service to God must be in having communion with Jesus Christ. The person who was not a regular communicant was neglecting one of God's last commands to His disciples. A man might go through the holy communion mechanically—but there were several strong commands in God's Word against this. As many as were led by the spirit of God, they were the sons of God. We were all apt to be governed by our feelings. The speaker advised all not to be so governed, for nothing was more deceitful than our feelings—one moment we were high in hope, the next in the darkness of despair. If there was in the heart of anyone a desire to do good we should thank God and take courage, for no such thought came from the Devil. We should strengthen this thought—it was our duty. We should do this by three means. First by prayer. It was only by the use of prayer that we could dwell in loving communion with God. Jesus Christ was constantly in prayer. The next means of grace, of was the study of God's Word. There were chapters, he admitted, that were genealogical, and dull reading. They were there for the construction of genealogy and were useful. What he meant by studying the Bible was comparing passages of the old and new testaments, the study of the new testament and the Gospels. The next was the holy communion. The speaker did not wish to be understood that no one was to come to the holy communion except they who were perfect. If we came as the church asks, we should come repenting of our sins and intending to draw near God by faith.

The next point was what should be the nature of the service? This depended upon a great deal—ability, fitness and what God required of us. The speaker wished to illustrate who might perform service. A little child could perform service, crippled people could, and often do render loving service to God. The faithful Sunday School teacher might be a ministering servant; young men might render service to young men in a hundred ways, and the Brotherhood of St. Andrew opened up the way for this in many methods. He had his own opinion that a young man might serve God in athletics. (Applause). The judged instanced several cases of this. Athletics in this country were degraded by the things which came in connection them. Fraud and deceit had injured all manly sports. We had to keep these evil things away. If we could only apply St. Paul's rule to do everything to the glory of God, everything would be all right. He believed that Christian young men entering athletics not only induced others to join, but raised the tone in general. (Applause). We could render service to God in our families. In our homes we should be kindly affectionate one to another. We should be hospitable. Another thing we must take into account was the fact that the devil told us the service was which was small, would not be appreciated and here he touches our pride, or that another service was too great for us to perform, and there the evil one touches our fears. There was no work too great or too small for us to perform. We had to watch against spiritual pride. We all needed humility. We but when we faced it, the obstacle was easily rolled aside. We should do the first thing that come to hand. We often undertook too much work. We should take the field of labour next to us. Do what we could was all God asked of us. We should take the words of consecration and make them ours. If we could not live up to them, let us try to. The Lord Jesus Christ came from his own glorious home in heaven to die for us and save our bodies and souls. Were we going to serve him faithfully? By prayer and study of his word and the taking of the holy communion he would take our weak strength and make us strong. The speaner closed exhorting his hearers in the words of the Apostle to be steadfast in the work of the Lord, for they knew that their labour would not be in vain.

At the conclusion Rev. Mr. Davidson thanked the speaker for his kindly, inspiriting address, and Judge Macdonald suitably replied.

The next address will be on Wednesday evening in the church. Speaker: the Rev. Prof. Lloyd, Principal of Trinity College School, Port Hope. Subject: "Parables of Rejection."

TO BE OR NOT TO BE "IN IT."

A Life Agent called at a friend's place one day.
HE WASN'T IN IT;
He had seen "the boys" coming and fled from the way
HE WASN'T IN IT;
He had heard so much said, he was tired and sick
Of insurance and agents—'twas all a blank trick,
When one's coil must be shuffled to win it,
HE WASN'T IN IT.

A bit of a draft blew o'er his bald head,
HE WAS IN IT;
Pneumonia sent him straightway to his bed,
HE STAYED IN IT;
His doctor made of it a "quite special" case,
To save him for running still more of life's race,
But the grave took some chances to win it,
AND HE'S IN IT.

When approached by a gent for insuring your life,
GET RIGHT IN IT;
It's the right thing to do for your children and wife,
THEN STAY IN IT.
Remember that fires take your goods "out of sight,"
And that accidents happen each day and each night.
While insurance protects every minute,
IF YOU'RE IN IT.

A Bank Manager's Opinion.

HE IS "IN IT."

The General Manager of one of the leading banks in Canada, writing to a personal friend, says:—"I have no hesitation in saying that I place the CANADA LIFE upon the highest platform. It is in my opinion carefully, economically and honestly managed; its Reserve Funds are well invested; its rates of Premiums are low, and its future is, I think better assured than a great majority of Companies. I have my own life insured in the Company for a round amount, and would not hesitate to increase the amount of my policies should I decide upon taking out further insurance."

A Government Insurance Actuary's Opinion

On the Relation between Ordinary and Tontine Service.

It is frequently assertedby Companies whose business is nearly all confined, that although the CANADA LIFE may and does pay large ordinary profits, yet it cannot compare so favourably on a long term distribution or tontine period, and that in the end better results can be obtained on a tontine policy in a large American Co. than on an ordinary or tontine policy in the CANADA LIFE. To prove the absurdity of this statement, the following piece of common sense is quoted from Mervin Tabor, late Actuary of the Illinois Goverment Insurance Department. In his well known book, "The Three Systems of Life Insurance," he says: "A company that gives large dividends on the ordinary kind of policies, can give much larger on the same kinds when Tontined, and a company that pays but meagre dividends on the usual forms, adopting perhaps the Tontine system to "cover up" its small surpluses, cannot be relied on for large returns of surplus under the Tontine Forms of Insurance."

The CANADA LIFE does not "cover up" its Quinquennial profits as some Companies do, but publishes them throughout the country.

It can and does surpass other Companies on Quinquennial profits. It should and will surpass them on Tontine profits.

WHY TO BE "IN IT."

BISHOP HAWKE'S REASON:—"I claim that Life Insurance is not only a a humane, but I might say a Christian Institution."

LORD LYNDHURST'S REASON:—"A Policy of Life Insurance is always an evidence of prudent forethought. No man with a dependent family is free from reproach if not insured."

WHEN TO BE "IN IT."

The younger, the cheaper. Therefore insure when young. Besides by insuring in the CANADA LIFE now, you will share in three years' profits.

WHERE TO BE "IN IT."

The best place to be "in it" is in the Company that gives the best returns for the least money, consistent with absolute security. Therefore, in order to be "in it," choose the Any Cast Off Clothing Thankfully Received.

Relief Officer Pope would like all those citizens who have any cast off clothing, socks, boots, etc., in their possession to acquaint him of the fact, and he will see that such articles are distributed among the deserving poor of the town—where they are most needed. Mr. Pope says that in dispensing charity he often goes into homes where the children have barely enough clothes to cover them, and are frequently found with shoes unfit for wear, and in some cases without any boots or socks at all. Many people have second hand clothing in their possession, which would be very serviceable indeed. The other day he found a family of six children all with their boots and stocking so worn that they scarcely afforded any protection for the feet at all.

A Great Thoroughbred Stock Sale.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. John Haggart, auctioneer, sold by public auction at Elm Grove farm in Otonabee at the residence of Mr. Jos. Redmond, several thoroughbred shorthorn cattle. There was a large atttendance of breeders present from all parts of Eastern and Western Canada. The bidding was spirited. One cow "Fanny B," sold for $140 to Duncan McLaren, Renfrew. One shorthorn heifer, $110, Mr. R. R. Sangster, Lancaster, Ont., purchaser; 1 ten months old bull, $93, 1 bull calf, $60, to D. McLaren, Renfrew; 1 heifer, "Minnie Wimple," $91, R. R. Sangster, Lancaster; 1 heifer, 1 year old, $76; 1 bull calf, $85. The remainder of the cattle which were grade, sold well. All the shorthorns sold were of the very best breed and will be taken to the east and west. That it pays a farmer to breed thoroughbred stock is proven by the high prices at which Mr. Redmond's fine herd of shorthorns sold for at yesterday's sale.

Lakefield Mills Sold.

The Dickson Company purchased the mills, water power and other Lakefield property belonging to the Lakefield Lumber Company, at yesterday's sale. The price paid was $55,000. To the Dickson Company these mills are a very valuable adjunct. They will now have any quantity of room to hold all the logs they require in the waters above Lakefield, and hence they will be able to commence the season's cutting much earlier at Lakefield than at either Peterborough or Harwood. The new owners will have everything put in readiness at once, and the Lakefield mills will be run to their full capacity, which will be good news for the people of Lakefield. The Peterborough mills and the Harwood mills will be operated as usual, and the output of lumber this season will be a very large one. The company are said to have more logs on hand than the three mills can handle. If the logs are got out of the way this year, next fall and winter will be a busy one in their limits in Cavendish and Anstruther.

The limits were also offered for sale but were withdrawn at the following figures: Harvey limits, $1,500; Anstruther, $5,030; Burleigh, $3,500.

Most house keepers, and especially those starting to keep house, do need furniture. It will pay you to examine the stock and learn the prices at A. Clegg's warerooms, and it will surprise many people to learn that the floor space in these warerooms is equal to about seven ordinary double stores if they were all on one flat, and that they contain the largest and most valuable single stock of furniture between Toronto and Montreal. Furniture of all grades. Prices lower than ever. Remember the place, 427 George Street. d-61-2.-w-11-2.

Church Building Delayed.

The question of the erection of a new building for worship in the south part of the town in connection with St. Paul's church has been delayed by the Presbytery to whom the matter was referred until next sitting. A deputation from St. Pauls church favouring the proposition, and one from St. Andrews church opposing the erection of the new building appeared before the Presbytery in Port Hope on Tuesday. A definite decision will be given at next meeting in July. St. Paul's church has had the site purchased for some time, but under the circumstances the sanction of the Peterborough Presbytery is essential.

Queen of Elocutionists.

Sara Lord Bailey who made such an eminently successful Canadian tour last year and became a decided favourite everywhere, will give one of her renowned recitals in the opera house on Tuesday next, March 21st. She will be assisted by the best local talent procurable. The Lynn Item cntains the following complimentary notice of her: "Sara Lord Bailey gave a spirited interpretation of Lew Wallace's thrilling description of the "Chariot Race" in Ben Hur; her rendition gave evidence of having caught the author's conception, and the selection received a highly meritorious presentation. In response to a persistent encore, Miss Bailey gave an amusing selection, which was received with hearty laughter." Remember at opera house here on Tuesday night next.

It Pays Better in the Long Run.

The modern idea of business enterprise on a retail scale is that a strictly cash business pays buyer and seller far better than a credit business. There is not nearly so much expense connected with the former, and the seller is therefore able to give the cash buyer the direct profit. With this end in view, I beg to inform my customers that on and after Easter Saturday, April 1st, I will do a strictly cash business. And in order to show my customers the advantage it will be to pay cash, I intend to begin by making a big reduction of fifty per cent. on the price of Easter beef. Heretofore the price of Easter beef has been 15 cents per pound, but on and after April 1st, I will sell it for 10 cents per pound. This is the best value that can be offered. Telephone orders paid on delivery. Cash is King! See posters.

Fancy Dress Hockey Match.

A large number of the hockeyists now have an event on the tapis which, if the weather permits and the energy of the promoters does not flag, will be carried out to completion. It will be something unique, grotesque and highly ludicrous. It is proposed to hold at the skating rink early next week a fancy dress hockey match, such as was held in Kingston a few days ago and created such a furore. All the players in the game will represent some historical or comical character, and thus quaintly clad, the sides will battle each other with all the gusto and vigor of a hockey contest where honor and glory are at stake. To add to the sense of the ridiculous, the costumers or players will be men who have never been on skates in the space of their short lives, and the contest will therefore be all the more laughable and exciting. Several enthusiastic young men have volunteered to dress and play hockey, as they have the satisfaction of knowing that by their strange garbs they will be able to remain incognito throughout the game.

Another of their Popular Meetings.

The Christian Endeavourers of St. Paul's church held another of their numerous and well attended social meetings in the Sunday school room on Tuesday evening. Mr. Strachan presided, and together with the other members of the society endeavoured to make everyone present feel thoroughly "at home." A programme of unusual merit and splendid ability was carried out to the delight of all. The following ladies and gentlemen took part and were liberally applauded: Mr. Strachan, reading; Mr. Crane, solo; Miss E. Brown, recitation; Misses Heubeck and Sherlock, Messrs. Wesley and Squires (of St. Andrew's church) quartette; Mr. Nelson, reading; Misses A. and M. Paterson, instrumental duet; Mrs. Sanderson, solo; Miss Walker, reading; Masters Percy and Leslie Owens, and Laing, musical trio; Mr. A. Laing, reading; Mrs. A. J. Johnston, solo; St. Andrew's church quartette, selection. The proceedings throughout were characterized by sociability and good nature—making the meeting one of the brightest and pleasantest ever held by St. Paul's church Y.P.S.C.E.

As a pick-me-up after excessive exertion or exposure, Millburn's Beef, Iron and Wine is grateful and comforting.

A largely attended and enthusiastic meeting of the Shamrock Lacrosse club was held last evening. The boys turned out in full force and are bent on booming "Canada's National Game," as they like to term it, for all that it is worth this season. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—

President—Frank Fairen.
Captain—Fred White.
Secretary—Thos. McDonough.
Executive Committee—Fred Metcalf, P. Carroll and T. McNamara.

It will be remembered that the Shamrocks, both the senior and junior divisions, had a signally successful and highly satisfactory career last year. They played many games and made their powers recognized on several occasions. Although they were not successful in discomfiting the indomitable junior Peterboroughs still they, in the language of the turf, "trotted them many a hard heat," and hope to see a repitition of the interesting encounters again this year. The Shamrocks will commence practice as soon as the ground is in shape and the weather will allow of it.

Morris & Howden has the Floor.

We beg to inform our customers and the public generally that we have decided to adopt the cash policy. Commencing on Easter Saturday, April 1st, we will sell for cash and cash only. The days of long credit and high prices are on their last legs. With us the nimble sixpence is better than the slow shilling, but to our customers we are bound to give a bigger benefit. By way of a send-off we will begin on April 1st with a slashing reduction of fifty per cent. on the former price of Easter beef as follows:

Price of Easter beef in former years.....15c. per lb.
Price of Easter beef at Morris & Howden's on and after April 1st.....10c. per lb.

This will be a big saving to our customers on their beef bills and will pay them well for whatever difference there may be in buying for spot cash instead of on credit. Telephone orders paid for on delivery. We will not be undersold by anyone in the business. The same prime quality of meat kept on hand as heretofore. Hurrah for Easter.

COMPLIMENTARY CONCERT

Tendered by the Band to Their Numerous Admirers and Friends in the Market Hall This Evening.

A grand complimentary concert will be tendered in the market hall by the 57th Battalion and Peterborough fire brigade band this evening at 8 o'clock. It is as a token of appreciation of the efforts rendered by their numerous friends and admirers in behalf of the new instrument fund.

The members have been practising faithfully and zealously for the past few weeks in preparation for this concert, and as a result of their diligent efforts it is confidently expected a splendid and highly artistic programme will be presented. Invitation cards have been sent out to all those who have in any way assisted the band, but as nothing which is human is perfect, certain parties may have been unintentially overlooked and they are respectfully requested to be present all the same and it is hoped by the members that no one will take umbrage at the fact of their not having been honoured with an invitation.

The following difficult and choice numbers will be executed on the programme:

Alarm Clocks!

There are a great many small Alarm Clocks which have been running for a few years and are now out of order, which the owners are allowing to remain idle, because they think it will cost too much to repair them. If you bring them to us you will find that we will make them run as well as they ever did, at a very small charge. We have already changed hundreds of them from being merely rubbish into good timepieces. If you want to buy a new one, we will sell you an Alarm Clock at a lower price than any one else in the trade. We sell only the very best make and warrant every one.

THE "COMET" FOR 1893

is as far ahead in the field of Pneumatic Bicycles as a buggy is compared with a farm waggon. The COMET easily wins every time, and if you want to ride the boss 'cycle, you must have the COMET and no other.

The COMET PNEUMATIC BICYCLE gets there every time for durability, comfort, style and easy-going—that's beyond dispute. Its Canadian record is away up, for, among the members of the Century Road Club who rode their century during the past season, more were mounted on COMETS than on all other makes of wheels put together.

The COMET for 1893 is built in three styles, viz: Light Roadster, Road Scorcher and Track Racer, the heaviest of which does not weigh over 35 pounds. Further information on application to

♥ ♥ ♥ ♥ ♥ ♥ ♥

IN making this our first regular spring announcement to the citizens and residents of the town and county of Peterborough, we would address ourselves, not only to that large constituency of customers who have heretofore patronized our well known and highly esteemed predecessors, (Messrs. Hall, Innes & Co.,) but to all other readers of this journal, many of whom we hope to have the privilege of doing business with in the future.

We have a few words to say, not directly about Dry Goods.

We believe, that in all the relations of life where success is attained, mutual confidence is the basis, whether between physician and patient, lawyer and client, or merchant and customer, and, for our part, we intend to merit and expect to win confidence.

A WORD as to our taking charge of this business. It has been a matter of choice, on our part, largely influenced by some knowledge of this, "Canada's Premier Town," and surrounding district, and, as we are here to stay, we are actuated by a desire to do our best, as worthy citizens, to still further advance its interest and fair name.

OUR RECORD extends over a number of years of business life, and, with perhaps pardonable pride, we can say that during all that time, both those from whom we have bought and those to whom we have sold, have been financially benefitted.

OUR POSITION, as direct importers of Dry Goods, with a personal visitation of one of the firm twice a year to the European markets, and direct business connection with the leading manufacturers and warehousemen in Great Britain, place us in a position to give VALUE SECOND TO NONE, and styles the most correct and elegant. In no other line of business does the exercise of taste in selection come so largely into play as in the Dry Goods Trade, and in the markets we visit, there is the amplest room for its exercise.

"OUR STAFF." Almost or quite equal to a good stock of Dry Goods at right prices, as a factor in ensuring the success of a business, is competent, courteous and polite assistants. Our staff of employees in its entirety, will be composed of ladies and gentlemen of whom we expect to feel proud.

OUR AIM shall be to merit your confidence in what we may say to you in our place of business, in what we may tell you in our business announcements, in the reliable character of the goods we may have to offer you, by basing our business superstructure on the three cardinal principles,—

INTEGRITY, INTELLIGENCE AND INDUSTRY.

A WORD AS TO OUR METHOD OF DOING BUSINESS.

We fully recognize the fact that to conduct a successful business at the present day demands that all competition from any and every source should be successfully met, which means, not merely that of a local character, but that emanating from the largest houses of the largest cities, who do business exclusively for Cash, and, as a consequence, have not the factor of bad debts and capital outstanding, as well as office expenses to take into consideration, when marking the profits on their goods. This and all other honest competition we are prepared to meet, and to do this we have decided to offer attractive goods at such close prices as will draw to us that large constituency of the community who buy for Cash We have strong faith in a Cash Business, having found in our experience that this potent factor, Cash, is the key that opens all the doors where bargains are to be had. We have used it this season in making our European and Canadian purchases, and, as a result, have the best class of goods at Rock Bottom Prices.

We have already opened up several cases of new Millinery Goods, the styles of which are to be found correct. MISS WALKER has returned after visiting the centres of fashion, and will, as heretofore, be in charge of the show room, which our customers will be pleased to learn.

We have passed into stock many new Spring Suitings, Trouserings and Spring Overcoats, which we have marked at close prices. We have been successful in securing the services of MR. AMES, as Cutter for our Tailoring Department, who comes to us highly recommended, having had a long experience in large city trade. All work in this department guaranteed.

We shall be pleased to see all the old friends of the house, and will consider it a pleasure to show our goods, whether present purchases are contemplated or not.

EXPOSURE AND NEGLECT.

Caused by Some Person or Persons Unknown, is the Verdict of the Coroner's Jury—The Post Mortem—An Open Verdict.

The inquest into the death of the infant found under the Bethune street bridge on the 7th inst., was resumed at the police court room last night.

Dr. King was the first witness called. He deposed that after the usual tests were applied, unmistakable evidence was found that the child had lived. Continuing, witness said: There were no marks of violence on the body, and I could not tell why the child died unless, it was from neglect and exposure. It did not bleed to death.

To a juryman—I am certain the child lived for an hour or two at any rate. The scalp was ragged, the ear being torn from the side of the head. This laceration must have been caused by some animal—a cat or a dog, perhaps.

To the Coroner—The child was well formed and all the organs of the body up to a healthy standard.

THE POST MORTEM.

Dr. King having performed the post mortem upon the remains, as ordered by the jury, on Thursday last, handed in his statement to the coroner. The following extracts are taken from it:

"Having performed a post-mortem on the body of the infant found dead, I find it to be that of a developed male child that had fully reached maturity. On examining the body, no marks of violence were to be found, nor any signs of putrefaction. The left ear was absent, being torn from its situation, and above the ear the scalp was torn and ragged as if produced by the teeth of an animal such as a dog or cat, leaving the impression that either one or the other had torn it away. There were no peculiar marks or deformities on the body. From the above condition am certain that the child was born alive and breathed for a little time, and that if proper care had been bestowed it would have lived."

At the conclusion of Dr. King's testimony, the coroner remarked that they had no other witnesses to produce. The Chief of Police told him that he thought he had a clue once or twice, but found he was on the wrong track. The question was what it was wise for the jury to do in the matter, adjourn or not. An open verdict might be brought in now and the matter of inquiry into the death might not necessarily end here. After an hours consultation the "twelve good men and true" returned the following verdict (which is regarded as an open one), to Coroner Dr. Bell:—

"That the said unnamed child came to its death on or shortly before the seventh day of March, inst., from exposure or neglect caused by some person or persons unknown to the jury. Signed,
F. W. MILLAR,
Foreman.

And all the remaining eleven jurors.

CRISP CURLING CHRONIQUES.

What is Going on at the Rink Where the Curlers Mostly Congregate.

The points game among the members of the Granite division will be played at the rink on Saturday afternoon and evening. The games in the afternoon will commence at 3 o'clock, and at night at 7:30 o'clock.

The third competition for the Peterborough-Lindsay Challenge Cup will take place to-morrow. The two skips of the Peterborough's who will go to Lindsay are Messrs. Dennistoun and Pentland. The two skips who will fight against the two rinks of Lindsayites who will come here are Messrs. W. H. Budden and C. McGill.

In a thirteen point game played at the rink this morning R. H. Kells was defeated by A. E. Thompson, by a score of 13 shots to 8.

Several curlers were on the ice last night and the three rinks were kept alive with the roarin game. In a scratch match W. H. Budden, skip, defeated J. B. Pentland's quartette by 5 shots. Skip Geo. Brown played E. B. Edwards and defeated his opponent by 1 shot. And still another mixeup match occurred between Skips A. Blade and W. Snowden. The contest evoked considerable interest, 14 ends were played, the former triumphing over the latter by a score of 18 shots to 6.

RETIRING FROM THE DRY GOODS BUSINESS.

Mr. J. J. Sheehy After an Eight Years' Successful Business Career has Decided to Retire.

By reference to Mr. J. J. Sheehy's advertisement in this issue of the EXAMINER, it will be noticed that Mr. Sheehy, after conducting one of the most successful and prominent dry goods establishments in Peterborough for the past eight years, has decided to retire from active business. His shop will be closed to-morrow, Friday, the 17th inst., in order that all goods may be marked down in preparation for his great closing out sale, which undoubtedly will be the most sweeping sacrifice of dry goods offered to the people of Peterborough town and county. His store will be opened on Saturday morning at nine o'clock, when the great sale will commence. Remember this is a bona fide sale and reliance can be placed on the announcement that when Mr. Sheehy asserts he is going out of business he means what he says, and everything in his mammoth premises will be cleared out in his closing sale.

TELEPHONE TAPS.

The Work of Fitting up the new "Central" Going Bravely on—The Work of Erecting New Polls to Begin Next Week.

The new "Central" office of the Bell Telephone Company situated in the new market building is undergoing extensive changes and will afford much more room and greater convenience to the employees of the company than their present confined quarters on Simcoe street. Four men are engaged at the improvements being made. On entering the new exchange from George street a comfortable and handy public office greets the visitor. This is supplied with an artistic oak counter and desk, back of which will be found seated the vigilant local manager, Mr. J. S. Knapman. This is separated by a neat partition from the operating room which will occupy the middle portion of the office and is in size 14 feet by 15 feet 9 inches. The department to the back and facing the market square is 14 x 17 feet and will be utilized for the distributing rack and lightening arrester board. The premises are wonderfully well lighted and very attractive throughout. A large cellar extends under the whole office. This has been planked, and will be used as a repository for the company's supplies. The office is fitted up downstairs with a furnace, toilet rooms and other conveniences.

The work of putting in new poles will be commenced some day next week. A line of new poles will be erected on Charlotte street from George to Aylmer, and on George street from Charlotte street to Peter Hamilton's foundry. When the job is completed all the old Ontario Telephone lines of poles will be removed—that is, where they are at present two lines of poles, as on Simcoe street for instance, one line will be taken down.

The company expects to begin the work of connecting the wires with their new "Central" five or six weeks hence.

THE GERMAN ARMY BILL.

CAPRIVI HOLDS GALLANTLY OUT AGAINST OPPOSITION.

He Wants the Fence Effective Up to His Idea of a Standard — Refuses Concessions Offered By Those Who Have to Bear the Heavy Taxes.

BERLIN, March 16.—After a series of conferences with Chancellor Von Caprivi Herr von Bennigsen has offered for the National Liberal party to agree to an increase of the annual number of recruits by 48,000.

Although this concession is an increase of 8000 men above the former offer of the National Liberals, and was stated by Herr von Bennigsen as the ultimatum of his party, Chancellor Von Caprivi declined it.

The Chancellor still holds out for the full increase of 60,000 provided for in the Army Bill. His attitude toward Herr von Bennigsen's proposal is believed to seal the fate of the Army Bill in the committee.

It is generally believed that the measure will be defeated at the second reading in the committee to-morrow.

Discussion of the probability of dissolution of the Reichstag is becoming general. The Kreuz Zeitung to-day expresses the opinion that in view of the Government's determination to pass the bill without alterations an appeal to the country has become inevitable and urges the Conservatives to prepare their organization for a general election. Several Radical journals take a similar view of the situation. In some quarters the conviction exists that a Cabinet crisis is at hand. Everything points, however, to Chancellor Von Caprivi's retention of his post.

Don't Like Russia.

LEIPSIC, March 16.—Count Misbach, Baron Manteuffel and other Agrarian Conservative leaders, declared at a public meeting they would support the Army bill only upon the condition that the Government abandon its purpose of concluding a commercial treaty with Russia.

BLAKE IN ENGLAND.

He is in General Request for Platform Speaking.

LONDON, March 16.—The Echo says: It is noteworthy that Mr. E. Blake, M.P. for Longford, the Canadian Ex-Minister, is more in request for platform work than any other member of Parliament on the Government side. He is in the west of England to-day, in the Midlands or the North the next, in a Metropolitan constituency the next again; and on every occasion Irish Home Rule fills up his hour's speech. If there be any single man who can make Home Rule what the British Philistine calls "respectable," that man is Mr. Blake, the Nationalist M.P.

Mr. Blake's appearance is eminently "respectable." And his discourse is sententious and solid, in the style loved of the average Briton. There is something substantial and reassuring about the air and demeanor of the Ex-Minister of Justice for the Canadian Dominion. Mr. Blake is called an orator. That depends upon what one means by orator. Bright and Gladstone are orators in the true sense—the sense in which we say that a poet is born, not made. In this sense Mr. Blake is not an orator. He does not, and cannot, move his hearers. He cannot inspire them, elevate them. He is fluent, correct, ratiocinative (like a lawyer), sententious, wise, but the very reverse of poetic.

DR. BARNARDO'S HOMES.

Inspector Moylan Is Hauled Over the Coals.

LONDON, March 16.—There was a crowded meeting in Exeter Hall yesterday on behalf of Dr. Barnardo's homes.

The report of Mr. Moylan, the Inspector of Canadian Penitentiaries, was again discussed. A statement was read from this gentleman denying that his report, which alleged that criminals were shipped from Great Britain to Canada, applied to or condemned child emigration. No details, however, were contained in the communication giving specific instances of the alleged action of poor guardians in Great Britain in shipping criminals to the Dominion.

Therefore a resolution was moved by Canon Girdlestone, seconded by Rev. Mr. Myers, regretting that Mr. Moylan had refused to communicate the desired details, and protesting against the use of such language as was contained in his report on the Canadian penitentiaries.

WRINKLES, and hollow cheeks, and dull, sunken eyes, don't always mean that a woman's old. Half the time they only show that she's overworked or suffering. To such women, to every woman who is tired or afflicted, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription safely and certainly brings back health and strength. It's a legitimate medicine that corrects and cures; a tonic that invigorates and builds up; a nervine that soothes and strengthens. For all the derangements, irregularities and weaknesses peculiar to women, it is the only guaranteed remedy. If it doesn't benefit or cure, you have your money back.

A great many medicines "relieve" Catarrh in the Head. That means that it's driven from the head into the throat and lungs. But, by its mild, soothing, cleansing and healing properties, Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy perfectly and permanently cures.

BE DEMURE IN POKES.

Two Pretty Suits For a Boy and a Girl.

If you have taken up the 1830 styles for your outdoor attire, and wish to be entirely consistent, you will put yourself into a revolutionized poke bonnet that will flare from a narrow beginning, away under the chin, to a coal scuttle climax that roofs in the forehead and away beyond the eyes. Close against the head in such headgear, down deep at the bottom of the coal scuttle, is a roll of ribbon and sundry bows, and, besides, a double row of white lace ruching to lie close to the cheeks as the bonnet narrows under the chin. At the back the bonnet is cut up sharply so that if you are denied any display of the front of the cheek and the ear, you gain a lovely view at the back that is quite upsetting. The flare of curtain at the back lifts in a distracting way to admit of the coiffure beneath shooting out. A single triumphant feather waves upright from the summit of the crown, so that in any view its splendor and bravery suffers no eclipse. Such a bonnet is a strange and wonderful thing to look at off the head, but, for all that, I will confess that a pretty face in it is perfectly lovely. The bonnet is a wonderful combination of demureness and coquetry, and that is what the modern girl is, or aims to be.

The lace for this little girl's dress is taken crosswise for the skirt and lengthwise for the bodice. The two lace ruffles fall over an underskirt of pink surah, and the waist is draped over the same silk. A folded sash of the silk meets in a big bow at the back. The dress has a round yoke of lace trimmed with a gathered lace ruffle, and the sleeves are short puffs, ending in lace ruffles. The boy's suit is after the current Russian styles and is made of dark blue woolen stuff lined with serge. The tiny knickerbockers and blouse are adorned with herring bone stitching in white silk. The belt runs through loops sewed to the blouse and fastens with silver buttons. The blouse has two pockets and closes invisibly in front; it is plain in back.

Do you sometimes feel as though your vital energy was sinking, and that you needed some powerful agency to recuperate it? Do you sometimes long for stimulants to brace you up? That is the time to take "Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil," because it contains life giving principles through its power to create flesh and blood. By taking it according to directions emaciated and enfeebled people have been known to actually grow fat at the rate of from five to ten pounds per bottle consumed. In big bottles, 50c. and $1.00, at all Drug Stores.

Encouragement for old People.

It may sound queer to talk about curing old people of Kidney and Urinary troubles after they have passed the alloted period of three score years and ten, but the following extraordinary recovery of an old veteran by Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure, ought to be of great encouragement to old people:—

BELLEVILLE, March 4, 1893.

Peterborough Medicine Company (Limited.)

GENTLEMEN,—I owe a great debt of gratitude to Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure for the prompt and speedy relief which I have received from the use of only one bottle of your great medicine. I have suffered from Kidney and Urinary troubles, inflammation of the neck of the bladder, &c. for many a long day. No one knows better than old people how great a blessing it is to be cured. I doctored a lot, but nothing did me so much good as your cure. I have lived about half a century in Belleville, and will be only to glad to speak a good word in favour of Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure. I can also recommend it for constipation and stomach troubles.

JAMES HAROLD.

Honoring a Reformer.

Mrs. Caroline B. Buell, reading the stories told at the Washington suffrage convention of the naming of calves, mules, etc., after prominent reformers, is reminded of a similar incident. She says: "A temperance worker in Indian Territory, whose heart was all right, whatever else might be said, once wrote me: 'At last I have secured money enough to buy a pony to use in my temperance work. I have named it Francis Willard and have tied a white ribbon on its tale.'" This is certainly a unique way of honoring the white ribbon. It is the reverse of the method adopted in France during the war in La Vendee, when the royalists tied red, white and blue cockades to the ends of their horses' tails in order to show their contempt for the colors of the republic.—Boston Woman's Journal.

Why Not Take Two or Three?

Col. Cole Hoyle (to Daughter).—Yes, Libby; while you have been galivanting around Europe gettin' your education, your old Pops has been peggin' away until he has grown rich as mud. We have finished our new works and are just makin' things hump. Yes, indeedy; we can take the crude oil in one end of the buildin' and when it reaches the other, it comes out thoroughly refined.

Libby (languidly)—Dear Father, won't you try to find time to take a trip through the works yourself, the first thing in the morning?

Jingle.

There was an old man
Lived out in the West,
Who dined on cold bran,
And slept in a chest;

And if he'd a guest
Who liked not such fare
He'd mildly suggest
That he sup on fresh air.

Vanquished by the Foamin'.

"My reg'ler time f'r drinkin'," hiccoughed the poor inebriate, blowing the froth from the top of the mug, "has scum round again."

"March to search" is the old adage. It searches out any weakness of the system, resulting from impure blood. Those who use Ayer's Sarsaparilla find March no more searching or even disagreeable than any other month. This medicine is a wonderful invigorator.

Some symptoms of worms are:—fever colic, variable appetite, restlessness, weakness and convulsions. The unfailing remedy is Dr. Lowe's Worm Syrup.

When the kidneys are clogged, good health is an impossibility; but when working properly the reverse is the case. That dull back-ache is the kidney's cry for relief. If Dodd's Kidney Pills are used the result will be marvellous. We emphatically state that we have never known a case of kidney disease that a persistent use of Dodd's Kidney Pills will not cure.

An Inactive or Torpid Liver must be aroused and all bad bile removed. Burdock Pills are best for old or young.

What is Dandruff?

A disease of the scalp that causes falling of the hair, fading of the hair, in fact, death of the hair. It irritates the scalp and causes scales and eczematic eruptions produces baldness. Bear in mind that Anti-Dandruff removes Dandruff with three applications—stops falling and restores fading hair to its original colour Sold by druggists at 75 cents per bottle.

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

Is superior to all other preparations claiming to be blood-purifiers. First of all, because the principal ingredient used in it is the extract of genuine Honduras sarsaparilla root, the variety richest in medicinal properties. Also, because Cures Catarrh the yellow dock, being raised expressly for the Company, is always fresh and of the very best kind. With equal discrimination and care, each of the other ingredients are selected and compounded. It is because it is always the same in appearance, flavor, and effect, and, being highly concentrated, only small doses are needed. It is, therefore, the most economical blood-purifier in existence. It Cures SCROFULA makes food nourishing, work pleasant, sleep refreshing, and life enjoyable. It searches out all impurities in the system and expels them harmlessly by the natural channels. ORANGE GRAND LODGE.

RESOLUTION IN FAVOR OF N. CLARKE WALLACE.

Also Express Sympathy With the Loyalists in Ireland—The Grand Master's Address Relative With Loyalty to the Old Flag.

ORANGEVILLE, March 15.—The Grand Lodge of Orangemen for Canada West opened yesterday. Five hundred visitors are present. Grand Master Nicholson of Hamilton presided and delivered a very able address. Speaking of attending the Grand Lodge of British America in Montreal last year, he said: "Although our meeting took place in the great Roman Catholic city of Montreal we are pleased to be able to say that nothing was done to indicate the slightest antipathy to our association by the Roman Catholic citizens of that city, and we were indeed highly pleased to observe the growth there within a comparatively few years of the spirit of religious toleration. We are also pleased to be able to say that our brethren there can, with perfect immunity from insult, walk with their banners and music through the streets of that city." He said the association viewed the appointment of Clarke Wallace to be Comptroller of Customs with the utmost satisfaction, and, on the question of Home Rule, expressed the hope that the bill would not become law.

Dealing with the annexation question, he said: "It is exceedingly difficult to realize that any Canadian should be found so false to the land of his birth or adoption as to advocate that she should cut asunder the silken ties that for over a century have bound her to the Motherland of Britain and to favor the annexation of our fair Dominion to an alien nation.

"I regret to say that a few such men have been found who have urged that because in their opinion greater material prosperity might be obtained that we should desert the British Empire, with its glorious history and traditions, and cast in our lot with a country which has never evidenced any sympathy for us and whose form of government we have ever deemed far inferior to our own.

"I have been more than pleased to observe that this traitorous suggestion has been indignantly spurned by the people of Canada, and that those who have been so lost to every sense of honor and patriotism have been the subject of the contumely and reproach of every loyal man. The first of patriotism have been kindled by the bare suggestion that the meteor flag of England should be lowered and that of another nation float where for over a century it had triumphantly waved."

It was moved by Bro. R. B. Wallace, P.C.M., East York, seconded by W. J. Parkhill, P.G.M., that the following committee be appointed to draft a letter expressing sympathy with the loyalists in Ireland in their struggle against Home Rule. Committee: E. F. Clarke, M.L.A., grand treasurer; Dr. Oronhyatekha, Judge W. W. Fitzgerald, P.G.M.; H. A. E. Kent, P.C.M., Toronto; W. J. Parkhill, P.G.M.; R. B. Wallace, P.C.M.

Moved by Dr. Oronhyatekha, seconded by W. Bro. Griffith, C.M., Wentworth:

Resolved—That we tender to Most Worshipful Brother N. C. Wallace our most hearty congratulations on his promotion to an important position in the Government of our great Dominion, feeling sure that in our distinguished brother the Government will find an able and loyal adviser, whose pre-eminent executive abilities will enable him to administer the affairs of his department in such a manner as will redound to the advantage of the crown and country.

Among those present are J. L. Hughes, Deputy Grand Master; R. Birmingham, G. Sec.; E. F. Clarke, M.L.A., G. Treas.; Rev. William Walsh, Brampton, G. Chap.; C. H. Baillie, G. Lect.; Charles Palling, G. D. of C.; William Lee, D.G.Sec.; Major James Bennett, P.G.M.; William J. Parkhill, P.G.M.; W. W. Fitzgerald, Q.C., P.G.M.; Major H. A. L. White, P.G.M.

FIGHT IN INDIA.

British Forces Strengthening the Frontier Against Russia.

CALCUTTA, March 15.—The British have had a severe battle with the tribes beyond Chitral, where the British have for some time been endeavoring to strengthen the Indian frontier against the possibility of Russian encroachment.

The British recently occupied Chilas, beyond Chitral, with a garrison and fortified the place with the intention of holding it permanently. The mountain tribes took offence and made an attack on the fort, which was bravely defended by the British. The conflict was desperate and sanguinary and the natives were at length driven off with a loss of 200 men. The British then took the aggressive and marched against the entrenched villages of the hostile tribes.

Owing to the mountainous character of the country the expedition was extremely hazardous, but the British troops acquitted themselves gallantly, storming village after village, under the command of Major Daniell, who was himself shot through the heart while leading his men in an assault on one of the villages. Every point occupied by the hostile natives was carried, the British losing 23 killed and 30 wounded in the fighting.

The tribesmen, finding themselves unable to resist any longer, submitted to British authority. The result of the struggle greatly strengthens the British position at what was considered its weakest point in the vicinity of the Hindu Koosh.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for a number of years, and it has always given me satisfaction. It is an excellent dressing, prevents the hair from turning gray, insures its vigorous growth, and keeps the scalp white and clean."—Mary A. Jackson, Salem, Mass.

WHEN WOMAN LOVES TOO MUCH.

Then She Becomes Embodiment of a Nuisance to the Object of Her Affections.

When a woman loves severely she begins to be unlovable, says the London World. For she begins to be unreasonable and, for her great love's sake, to do her best to make miserable the all too fortunate winner of her affections. She insists upon accusing him of virtues which he knows are not included in his character, and taxing him with failings of which he is just as completely innocent, and with that intolerable iteration which is supposed by women to be some sort of argument. The result is that the man begins in time to believe that he is good where he is not, and to turn bad simply because she says he is so already. He may be as chaste as a mullet—"for chaste love the mullet hath no peer"—but she will worry him by the assiduity of her suspicions and her consequent lamentations out of the secure highway of connubial affection into the hazardous bypaths that lead past other men's orchards to the Tom Tiddler's ground of the divorce court. Simply because she loves him so—and she pleads no other excuse, when on occasion he attempts a reasonable discussion of their misunderstandings—she will make his bad seem good to him and make his good become bad, till the seven take possession of him, and, like one of the bedevilled swine of Gadara he rushes violently down a steep place into the sea. She has no wicked intentions whatever. On the contrary, her intentions are all detestably good. And when the man rakes his mind for some reason for his own misdemeanors he can remember nothing better than that she "drove him to it." Which is a poor excuse; yet true enough. So gardeners by frequent little pinchings abort the upright growth of trees into lateral obliquities.

There are very many men so deplorably human that to keep on accusing them of an offense is sufficient to make them commit it. They will in time live down to any moral standard that may be fixed for them by women, the women who love them, and, like the oysters, alternately tickled and irritated by the grains of sand which the Chinese drop into them, will grow to forget their natures altogether. No woman can be quite so miserable as she who loves only one man at a time, for the time she loves him, and being unable to absorb all her own unhappiness she persists in offering him half of it. Because she is so insanely jealous of his time and his society she will, "for the sweet love she had of him," waste the one and try to engross the other, until she torments him from innocence into artifice and from artifice into revolt, and so in the sad end of it she can say: "I knew I was right all the time." Does the discovery break her heart? Not a bit of it. Women who love at this high pressure do not break their hearts. They start—after a pause to repair damages and to make a collection, as it were, of neighborly sympathies—loving again, somebody else. Such women, in the extremity of their affection for him, will throw vitriol in a man's face; will poison him with fly papers—murder him. So it is not good for a woman to love severely; neither good for him nor for her. The sensible man, when he sees it coming, will put up the hurricane shutters, back engines, skid the wheels, throw salt in the fire—do anything, in fact, that will meet the emergency, slacken speed or reduce the temperature. Unless he be a salamander. As to which, by the way the ancients were divided in opinion, some averring that he ate the fire up, the rest that he was so cold that he put the fire out. Either of which procedures was sufficient to meet the circumstances.

At Sunset.

It isn't the thing you do, dear,
It's the thing you've left undone,
Which gives you a bit of heartache
At the setting of the sun.
The tender word forgotten,
The letter you did not write,
The flowers you might have sent, dear,
Are your haunting ghosts to-night.

The stone you might have lifted
Out of a brother's way
The bit of heartsome counsel
You were hurried too much to say,
The loving touch of the hand, dear,
The gentle and winsome tone
That you had no time or thought for
With troubles enough of your own.

The little act of kindness,
So easily out of mind;
Those chances to be angels
Which every mortal finds.
They come in night and silence,
Each chill, reproachful wraith,
When hope is faint and flagging,
And the blight has dropped on faith.

For life is all too short, dear,
And sorrow is all too great,
To suffer our slow compassion
That tarries until too late.
And it's not the thing you do, dear,
It's the thing you leave undone,
Which gives you the bit of a heartache
At the setting of the sun.
—Margaret E. Sangster.

General Butler's voice grew very nasty during the later years of his life, the Boston Globe says, and strangers sometimes found it difficult to catch what he said in conversation. One reporter at least, in interviewing him, was completely bewildered by this trouble; but as the General's private secretary obligingly wrote out the talk on a typewriter, the newspaper man went away happy.

DISCUSSING A TUNNEL AND MUNCHING APPLES.

Another Attack on Bribery at Elections—Nickel Coinage Adopted—Divorces Granted—Fresh Water Fishing.—An Old Election Case.

OTTAWA, March 16.—Two annual customs were observed yesterday. One was discussing that great bore, the proposed Prince Edward Island tunnel, and the other was the distribution of apples amongst the members of the House and of the press by Mr. George Taylor, chief Government Whip.

Mr. Taylor established the custom a year or two ago of sending a barrel of winter apples into room 16 for the Conservative members and the Press room, but this year he improved on himself by sending in two barrels, with the result that the whole House was treated to apples. Every desk in the House was decorated with four or five apples, and much munching varied the business of the first half hour of the House.

In the five minutes before 6 o'clock, and which may be the last opportunity this session for private members to get their motions before the House, Mr. Maclean got the House to adopt a resolution in favor of a nickel coinage in place of the present five cent pieces and the copper cents. He contended that this metal was better for the purpose than copper; that it was clean, white and odorless, that several countries had adopted it, and that Canada, seeing that she has had the greatest supply of nickel, ought to use it and to try and induce England to use it and then the other great countries would follow.

A small amount would be required for Canada, but the amount of metal required for the subsidiary coinage of the world was enormous and Canada, if she had this wide market for her nickel, would experience a great impetus to her mining industry.

After recess the following bills were read a third time and passed:

To revive and amend the Act to incorporate the Moncton and Prince Edward Island Railway and Ferry.

To revive and amend the Act to incorporate the North Canadian Atlantic Railway and Steamship Co.

Respecting the Columbia and Kootenay Railway and Navigation Co.

The House then went into committee on Mr. Weldon's bill to disfranchise persons who have taken bribes at elections.

Mr. Jeannotte at once tried to repeat his trick motion that the committee rise, but this time it was voted down and the House passed the whole evening in committee on the bill, but did not make any great progress, only four clauses being carried. On the fifth clause Mr. Jeannotte moved an amendment, that the person offering a bribe should be disfranchised, as well as the person accepting it, which was carried, and the committee rose and reported progress and the House adjourned at 11.40.

It is not likely that the bill will be reached again this session.

Owners of Yorkshire coach horses have supposed that that valuable class of horses had been omitted from the premium list of the Chicago Exposition, and have asked that a special class be made for them. A letter from Mr. Buchanan, chief of the agricultural department of the fair, to the Canadian commissioner, received to-day, states that this is impossible, but that the Yorkshire coach horses were found in most cases to have been registered in the Cleveland Bay stud books, and therefore they could be shown and would be eligible for the awards offered in the Cleveland Bay class.

Letters from Chicago say that Mr. Dimock is urging forward the preparations for the installation of the Canadian exhibits as rapidly as possible.

A very large deputation from Collingwood, Thessalon, Spanish River and other places on Georgian Bay, had an interview with Hon. John Costigan, acting Minister of Marine and Fisheries, to-day with reference to recent changes in the regulations for fresh water fishing. These regulations provide that next year the size of the mesh in the nets used shall be increased from 4 3-4 inches to 5 inches, and the length of the net used shall be limited to 6000 feet for each boat.

At present the boats use nets running from 15,000 to 20,000 feet. A very large business is done on the Georgian Bay in freezing fresh fish, and a considerable amount of capital is invested. The deputation claimed that the business would be practically ruined by the new regulations. Mr. Costigan promised that the matter should receive consideration.

It is not often that a controverted election case outlives the Parliament for which the election was held, but such a case is being heard at the Supreme Court this morning. It is that of Lush against Waldie, the defendant being John Waldie, who represented Halton in the last Parliament. His election was protested, but he won his case, and after various vicissitudes the matter reached the Supreme Court. Meanwhile the Parliament was dissolved, and at the last general election Waldie was defeated, but still the Supreme Court has to give its decision as to whether Mr. Waldie was legally entitled to his seat. Mr. Aylesworth, Q.C., appeared for the appellant and Mr. R. A. Grant for the defendant. The reason for carrying on the case thus far is to settle the question of costs.

At a meeting of the Railway Committee of the House to-day a bill to incorporate the Automatic Telephone and Electric Company was passed. The head office of the company will be in Montreal, but it is the intention of the promoters to do business all over Canada, and in this way it may become a formidable opponent of the Bell Telephone Company.

Mr. Ferguson represented the new company before the committee, and Mr. Gemmell was present on behalf of the Bell Company. The latter proposed some amendments to the bill, which were to the effect that the company should be subject to the control of municipalities in which they proposed doing business and submit its list of rates to the Governor-General-in-Council before doing business.

These amendments were adopted. A clause was also inserted preventing the company from amalgamating with any other telephone company.

The Private Bills Committee of the Commons passed the Martha Ballantyne divorce bill this morning. Mr. Gibson, M.P., was in charge of the bill.

The divorce case of James Balfour, which was also referred to this committee, some objections being taken to the insufficiency of the evidence in the House, was also passed. It will be remembered Mr. Amyot said that the only ground on which the Senate had granted the divorce was on the admission of guilt on the part of Mrs. Balfour.

An act for the relief of Edmund Holyoke Howard was also passed.

At Public Accounts Committee to-day Mr. McMullen moved for all vouchers and papers connected with expenses of Lieut.-Governor Royal, Northwest Territories.

BRUSSELS, March 16.—The French police have arrested two brothers named Schoupp on suspicion of hatching an Anarchist dynamite plot, in connection with the notorious French Anarchist Mathieu, who was accused of being concerned in Ravachol's crimes and who is wanted by the French authorities for supposed complicity in the deadly explosion at the Very restaurant.

Two infernal machines and a quantity of arms were found in the lodgings occupied by the Schoupp Bros., and the police believe Mathieu is in Brussels engaged in contriving some villainous plot, to be consummated possibly in Paris. The police are on Mathieu's track.

SMART SPRING MANTLES

In our north window we display some of the very newest patterns of Imported Mantles for Spring wear.

They are style all over. The craft of the skilled German model garment makers is manifest in these Mantles, and the attention of ladies is especially drawn to the new material and exquisite taste which has been displayed in these two directions.

We make the point that our Mantles are new—wholly new—new in design, new in shape, and new in price.

Ladies who have looked elsewhere for something to suit them in a Spring Mantle, will have no difficulty in making their final selections from our stock. We are perhaps a little early in exposing these Mantles, but the temptation was too strong, and besides, some one must lead, so we take the consequences of our unusual advanced preparations for this spring season of 1893.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

D'ALTON McCARTHY'S AMENDMENT DEFEATED.

The Majority Against It Was 68—Laurier Voted for It—The French Treaty Affair Up Again for Explanation—It Is Signed.

OTTAWA, March 17.—It may now be considered as definitely settled that, "barring accidents," as the sporting gentry say prorogation will take place before Easter. Mr. Foster said as much in the House this afternoon, and in order that this may be accomplished Wednesdays have been taken for Government business for the balance of the session, it being arranged that on the only private members' day left, Monday, the order for Wednesdays will be followed, which will give an opportunity for public bills and orders to be reached again.

Quite an interesting discussion sprang up on the French Treaty, caused by Mr. Lister when the orders of the day were called reading the cablegram which appeared in yesterday's Montreal Star with reference to the alleged indignation caused in England, and the statement made by Mr. Foster in the House on Monday night that he would not ask for the ratification of the treaty at present.

Hon. Mr. Foster said that the whole telegram was based on an error. He had not said that he would not ask for the ratification of the treaty this session, but that under the circumstances he would not press for its ratification at present. As to the insult to France which the despatch spoke of, he could not understand how any insult could be offered. It was a fundamental part of the treaty that it should be ratified by the Canadian Parliament and the treaty had been submitted to Parliament with a full and frank explanation of its provisions, for the consideration of Parliament.

Mr. Edgar read two telegrams from Sir Charles Tupper to Sir John Thompson, and from Sir John Thompson to Hon. Mr. Bowell, dated Feb. 6, which were in the supplementary papers relating to the treaty brought down last night. These telegrams showed that on that day Sir John Thompson wired that no draft treaty had been received, and no ratification should be made until approval was cabled, as it was not clearly understood what either side proposed.

Sir Charles Tupper's reply to this was that the treaty had been signed before the cablegram had been received.

Mr. Davies said that the impression left on the mind of the House by Mr. Foster's speech on Monday night certainly was that he did not propose to ask the House to ratify the treaty this session.

Mr. Mills condemned the treaty, which he thought one-sided, and said that if the Government had made a mistake in agreeing to such a treaty it was well that it had been reserved for ratification by Parliament. He approved of Mr. Foster's course in not being in a hurry to ask Parliament to take action.

Mr. Lister tried to create the impression that Mr. Foster had said that Parliament would not be asked this session to ratify the treaty.

Mr. Foster said that his words were before the House and meant neither more nor less than what he had said. A matter of this kind should be considered calmly and fairly without any political bias. It was a question between this country and France.

The clause about the ratification of the treaty by Parliament was a fundamental one. He did not think it would be any insult to France if Parliament rejected the treaty. Only a few months ago the French Government had negotiated a treaty with Switzerland, which the French chamber rejected, and nobody suggested that any insult had been offered to Switzerland.

Sir Richard Cartwright wanted the Minister of Finance to tell the House on Monday whether it would be asked this year to ratify the treaty.

Mr. O'Brien wanted to know whether the treaty had been made by the authority of the Government.

Mr. Foster thought that the papers before the House would sufficiently show the amount of authority which had been given.

Mr. Tarte said: "Was Sir Charles Tupper really authorized to sign the treaty? If not, it would be best that we know it now."

Mr. Foster said that the papers would show all the authority which had been given. He had not given any verbal authority when he was in England.

The matter then dropped and the debate on Mr. McCarthy's amendment was resumed.

Hon. Mr. Ives, who was greeted with applause on rising, said that Mr. McCarthy had stated that there was great discontent in the country—"discontent verging on disloyalty." How was this discontent shown? He referred to the small majority of the Government after Sir John Macdonald's death, when it was down to 15 or 20, and of the result of the bye-elections, which had run the majority up to 65 or 70, and argued if there had been any such discontent in the country as Mr. McCarthy claimed it would have shown itself during the bye-elections.

Quite recently there had been six bye-elections and every one of them had been carried by acclamation. [Applause.] This did not show discontent with the Government. The member for North Simcoe may be discontented, but that did not prove that the farmers of the country were unhappy. [Laughter.]

He then took up Mr. McCarthy's statements with reference to the cost of cotton and other articles, and said he defied anyone to show that it cost a family of seven persons $20 a year more to live than it would under a revenue tariff.

As to Mr. McCarthy's idea of making a reduction of 10 per cent. in favor of Great Britain, he pointed out that all the countries having treaties with Great Britain which contained the most favored nation clause would get the benefit of that reduction, and he read the names of some 25 countries with which Great Britain had such treaties, to show how general the reduction would be. He continued at considerable length to answer the statements made by Mr. McCarthy.

Mr. Costworth said that Mr. McCarthy made a speech not so good as he frequently heard from members on the back benches, and not at all of the character that was to be expected from a lawyer of so high a standing as was the member for North Simcoe. There was no policy which any government could devise that would not operate more against one class than the other. The Opposition could not say but free trade would do this.

In his opinion there was no policy which more favorably met the views and wishes of all classes than the National Policy. Mr. McCarthy was greatly worried over the farmers, but he has not one word to say in favor of the mechanics. There were some 720,000 mechanics against 400,000 farmers. These mechanics desired consideration just as well as the farmers. He had not one word to say against the farmers, for he had farmers in his own constituency. What Mr. McCarthy asked simply was to take one-third off the duties now imposed on goods imported from Great Britain. That was all he asked. Mr. Costworth gave a long list of articles, showing that the tariff was not oppressive on the masses, but that the duties were principally placed upon luxuries.

Mr. Costworth continued the debate after recess and Mr. Kenny followed, making a splendid speech.

Hon. Mr. Laurier endorsed the resolution of Mr. McCarthy with the exception of the last paragraph, which proposed a reduction of duties on our imports from Great Britain and all the numerous countries with which she has favored nation treaties. He agreed that such a policy would inevitably and above all prevent the accomplishment of the treaty of reciprocity with the United States, upon the advisability of which both sides of the House were agreed, only varying in their ideas of its extent.

Hon. Mr. Foster: And yet you are going to help him carry it. [Hear, hear.]

Hon. Mr. Laurier: The hon. gentleman's interruption is too thin to have any weight. He went on to say that he would have to accept the resolution as a whole, because the rules of the House forbade his amending any one part of it. Would he be justified in voting against it on that account and so declare it was not true that the tariff ought to be reduced, that the farmers were not oppressed, and that there was no discontent in the country? [Opposition cheers.] Nay; the chief reason he had for supporting the resolution was its strong and vigorous condemnation of the National Policy.

Mr. O'Brien spoke on the same lines as McCarthy. He said it was the Government, and not he, who were deserting the N.P.

Mr. McNeill said that it was with great regret that he had to oppose Mr. McCarthy, with whom he had been personally and politically associated for so many years and with whom he was to-day on the best of terms. The reason why he opposed McCarthy was because he was forsaking Conservative principles.

Mr. Casey rose amidst cries of "Question." He asked for five minutes and got it.

Mr. Foster: You are no worse off than I am, because I had a speech prepared and had to bottle it up again.

The House divided at 1.10 a.m. and the amendment was lost on the following division: Yeas, 64; nays, 116.

The House adjourned at 1.45 a.m.

Hon. Mr. Costigan to-night gives notice of two bills, one "an act relating to the custody of juvenile offenders in the Province of New Brunswick," which is intended to make provision for the judges in the province committing juvenile offenders to the reformatory recently established through Lady Tilley's efforts, and the other, "an act respecting public officers," which relates to the issuing of a commission by the Governor-General on payment of fees.

Hon. Mr. Foster to-night gives notice of the following resolution: "That it is expedient to provide for the payment to two commissioners to represent Canada at the World's Columbian Exposition in 1893, of such sums for their services as are determined by the Governor-in-council."

In this connection it may be stated that a rumor has been floating about for some time that Senator Tasse and Mr. Adam Brown, ex-M.P., are likely to be the two commissioners.

The bill consolidating the Maritime Province sugar refineries was thrown out by the Banking and Commerce Committee this morning. Speeches were made against the measure by several members. Among the speakers was Alexander McKay, who entered a vigorous protest against the bill being allowed to pass. He took strong grounds against combines generally, and, while admitting that Parliament cannot altogether prevent consolidation of business interests, it should not sanction any measure to facilitate such combines. While the bill only affected the Maritime Provinces refiners, who could say when they might unite with the other refineries, if not in a pooling of receipts, at least in a partition of territory, or some arrangement whereby competition in the trade would be destroyed, and the public left to the mercy of a monopoly?

Mr. Boyle of Monck also spoke against the bill.

FOUGHT A MOB.

Trinity Students in Dublin Have a Scrimmage in the Streets.

NEW YORK, March 17.—A special to The Evening Post from London says:

There was an exciting scene in Dublin yesterday. After the Unionist meeting 300 Trinity collegians paraded the streets bearing the British ensign. A large and menacing crowd followed yelling, "Tear it up!" and singing "The Boys of Wexford." The students, armed with cudgels, repulsed the ugly rushes of their opponents, who, however, seized the flag. At Grafton-street a sharp struggle occurred until the flag was recaptured and the Collegians entered the college. There were several skirmishes later in the evening. The police finally dispersed the rival factions.

DRIVEN FROM HOME.

Because His Daughter Taught Colored Children.

MARION, S. C., March 17.—B. W. Crowe and his family have been driven from the town of Nebo by anonymous threats, destruction of their property and fear of assassination. Crowe is a white man and his daughter taught a school for negro children. On Saturday night the school was overturned and destroyed. Crowe received anonymous letters threatening him with death unless he left town before April 1st. He departed yesterday.

Her Satchel Stolen.

HAMILTON, March 16.—Yesterday a Mrs. Phelps, living at Rockwood, Ont., was robbed of a satchel containing a number of valuable papers, tickets and some change. She was writing a note in Morgan's ticket office, James-street north, at the time and had left the satchel on the counter. A small boy was noticed entering and leaving the office about the time of the robbery, but an accurate description of the lad could not be secured by the police, who were immediately notified.

CHAMPION [illegible]

THE AUSTRALIAN [illegible] AMERICA.

He Will Be Backed [illegible] Against Any Candidate Or [illegible] Says He Is Anxious to Row—[illegible] Match Coming on the Pacific [illegible]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 17.—James Stanbury, the champion oarsman, and his trainer, Alexk McLean, arrived on the steamer Alameda from Australia yesterday morning.

Stanbury has been induced to come to America by what he has heard concerning the big events to take place during the World's Fair at Chicago.

"I am very anxious to row anyone," said he, "and I will post a deposit to bind the match at any reasonable time my opponent may name; mile and a-half straight away or three miles with a turn would satisfy me."

"I have learned that Gaudaur recently issued a challenge to the world. I am prepared to accept this challenge and will find all the backing he will name. The same proposition is open to any other man in this country or England."

Stanbury said farther that the ex-champion of Australia, Wm. Beach, would probably come hither on the next steamer.

LADY MOWAT'S FUNERAL.

An Immense Concourse of Friends Pay Their Respects to Her Memory.

TORONTO, March 17.—The funeral cortege of the late Lady Mowat was one of the largest ever witnessed in Toronto. The service was of the simplest character. There were no pall-bearers. The chief mourners were Sir Oliver Mowat, Sheriff Mowat, Arthur Mowat and Rev. Dr. Mowat. The Lieut.-Governor and staff were present. The Provincial Government was represented by Hon. Messrs. Fraser, Hardy, Ross and Gibson, and these connections and friends were also present. Mr. Justice Maclennan, Col. Duff, C. R. W. Biggar, George Ewart, C. C. Strange, Dr. Primrose, Thomas Langton, Herbert M. Mowat, Joseph F. Mowat, Major Craig, Edward Craig, D. W. Murray, Prof. McLaren, Principal Kirkland, B. B. Hughes, George Kiely, J. R. Cartwright, deputy minister; S. F. Beasedo, private secretary to Sir Oliver; W. T. Burton of Hamilton, Canon Cayley and others.

The service at the house was conducted by Rev. Dr. Caven, Prof. McLaren and Rev. Dr. Mowat, brother of the Premier.

The services at the grave were conducted by Dr. Caven.

The staff of the Parliament Buildings were all in attendance.

THE TROY BURGLARY.

Martin Carey Tells the Story of the Assault.

HAMILTON, March 17.—No arrests have yet been made in connection with the Troy burglary, but there are pretty strong suspicions. Old Martin Carey is sufficiently recovered to talk of the affair. He says that two tall men with their faces blackened and otherwise disfigured forced his door open about 2 o'clock.

They demanded his money, but he refused to give it, saying that he had deposited it in the bank a few days before. They choked and struck him, but he refused to yield up the fruits of many years' hoardings. So finally they bound him hand and foot, gagged him and covered him with a horse blanket. They then proceeded to search for gold, cutting the floor and walls at every place where there was any trace of an opening.

At last they took down some old pails that hung from the ceiling and were filled with onions and other garden seeds. Upsetting these on the floor they found that in the bottom of one was the gold and in the other was the bills. They then took the blanket off Carey and left him bound and gagged, in which condition he was found next forenoon.

Carey's bed consists of a box filled with pea-straw. His house is a hovel, and the township assessor says it is the filthiest human abode in Beverly. Some years ago the old man was robbed of a large sum of money.

IN HARD LUCK.

A Carpenter's Terrible Tumble From a Shaw-street Building.

TORONTO, March 17.—George Beckway, a carpenter of Bracondale, was engaged on a new building in Shaw-street yesterday when he slipped from the scaffold and fell 20 feet to the ground. His spine was injured by the fall and the lower part of his body paralysed. He was taken to the hospital in the ambulance. The injured man is suffering much from shock, and it is difficult yet to ascertain whether he will survive or whether the paralysis will be permanent.

High School Burned.

NEWMARKET, March 17.—Last night the High School building was completely destroyed by fire. The conflagration is supposed to have been caused by the furnace pipes overheating and igniting the woodwork. The fire had made considerable progress before it was discovered. When the alarm sounded the brigade turned out promptly and rendered their services, but too late to save the building or contents.

The loss is estimated at about $7000; partly covered by insurance.

Fire at Uxbridge.

UXBRIDGE, March 17.—About 5 o'clock a.m. yesterday fire was discovered in the liquor store of W. Ruddy. The firemen were promptly on hand and put it out; not, however, before considerable damage had been done.

The building, which is owned by the Heary estate, is badly damaged inside. The loss has not yet been ascertained, but is fully covered by insurance.

Sons of England.

MONTREAL, March 17.—The Supreme Lodge of the Sons of England assembled yesterday.

A recommendation, adopted with the General Purposes Committee's report, was that the Secretary, John W. Carter of Toronto, be created a Past Grand Supreme President in recognition of his services.

Smallpox at Victoria.

VICTORIA, March 17.—The Northern Pacific steamship Tacoma arrived here yesterday afternoon with three cases of smallpox on board among the Chinese.

One Home of Her Majesty Queen Victoria.

OSBORNE HOUSE, ISLE OF WIGHT.

Next to Balmoral, It Is Her Majesty's Favorite Residence, She and Her Husband Having Bought It—Succinct History of the Beautiful Place—Its Art Treasures.

For a great many years now it has been the custom of Queen Victoria to pass Christmas at Osborne, in the Isle of Wight, and to that residence the various items of traditional Christmas fare—the baron of beef, the gigantic turkeys, the boar's head—are forwarded from her majesty's other domains, while at her orders her annual bounties are distributed in England and Scotland. Osborne house has always been a great favorite with the Queen; indeed, were her partiality for Balmoral not such an accepted fact, it might almost be said that it was the favorite par excellence. There she leads a more private and free existence. Save for the occasional visits of her ministers and the dispatch of the affairs of the state, which she never neglects she lives at Osborne like some wealthy, unpretentious private land owner. With the exception of the reception given to the admiral and officers of the French squadron in August last, there has been no official royal visit in the Isle of Wight since Napoleon III. came there in 1857 as her guest.

Although the meeting of sovereigns in each other's dominions have not as a rule the extreme political importance with which the public invests them, yet they entail a certain ceremonial, the fulfillment of a stated programme, which invariably includes a grand review of the naval or military forces. The guest assumes the uniform of the regiment in the foreign land of which he is generally honorary chief, and the host returns the compliment on the same lines; but the circumscribed area on the Isle of Wight is ill adapted for a large display of forces, and, save on rare occasions, it is difficult to gather the whole of the British fleet in the waters of the Solent.

Moreover, Osborne house has by no means the room requisite for the accommodation of a number of illustrious guests, such as Windsor castle possesses, and even with the recent additions it is no more than sufficient for the queen, her suite, and the many children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren which it is her pleasure to see around her there. As it is her own private property, she justly considers that she is exempted from the obligation of making it the scene of official receptions and enjoys the immunities the fact confers.

The etymology of the name of Osborne has never been definitely settled. Some believe it to be the corruption of Oysterbourne, formerly given to the locality on account of the large number of bivalves found on the adjacent shores. Others are of the opinion that the name comes from William Fitz Osborne, to whom the Isle of Wight (the Vecta or Vectis of the Romans) was conceded in the portioning of the land after the Norman conquest. Whichever interpretation is adopted, it gives indication that the domain was recognized in a remote antiquity.

After having belonged to the Bowermans, an old family of Isle of Wight origin, it passed into the hands of a certain Eustace Mann, who, during the troubled times of the civil war, buried a considerable sum in gold and silver coins in a wood on the estate, which henceforth was styled the silver thicket; but, having neglected to mark with accuracy the exact spot in which his treasure lay, neither Eustace nor his descendant was ever able to recover it. His granddaughter married a Blackford, and it is from a member of that family that the queen and the prince consort purchased the property of Osborne, being advised thereunto by Sir Robert Peel, then secretary of state. The property has been largely added to by its royal owners and now covers 2,000 acres, possessing capital preserves and magnificent timber.

The situation is unrivaled as a peaceful, smiling, highly cultivated English landscape. The house is erected on a gentle eminence, sloping down to the Solent in velvety lawn, broad terraces and lovely gardens. The house itself is not imposing, nor can it be said to belong to any particular and homogeneous epoch of architecture. The chief facade of white stone is flanked by two towers of unequal height. The tallest, measuring 107 feet in height, is called the flag tower, and from its summit floats the royal standard when Queen Victoria is in residence. From the windows you see eastward the extending waters of Spithead merging in the bigger channel; in front, on the mainland, lies Southampton, with its busy maritime thoroughfare and the perpetual passage of big transatlantic steamers, ponderous war ships and passenger craft. At the foot of the hill is Cowes, with its lesser fleet of yachts, its fashionable regattas and private landing stage for the queen, over whose head, to use the consecrated phrase, "the royal standard is broken" every time she alights from her vessel.

The house itself was restored and enlarged from plans and designs made by the prince consort himself. Although chiefly built of brick, it affects a certain Italian air. The windows are framed in slender columns of Byzantine style; the interior is as exquisitely comfortable as the most fastidious epicure could desire. The Queen's apartments are situated in front of the flag tower. They contain an immense and valuable collection of art treasures and pictures by Delaroche, Overbeck, Cope, Winterhalter, Ary Sheffer, etc. The building appears at its best when seen from West Cowes, for then it seems to emerge from a sea of dense foliage and its whiteness contrasts agreeably with the vivid green of the majestic trees and the bright blue of the sea. A Swiss chalet which nestles under the shadow of Osborne house was entirely given up to the royal children in their nursery and school days; there they could play at will and indulge their respective tastes; some of them were very fond of gardening, preferring, however, the cultivation of vegetables to that of flowers; to this day the gardens of the chalet are kept up as they were at that now remote period, and the products are still forwarded to the married princes and princesses at home and abroad, some green stuff being regularly sent to the Empress Frederick in Germany.

Queen Victoria has remained faithful to these early predilections as she has to all that related to her beloved consort; she ever longs for the repose and peace of the island, for the sedentary charm of its half unofficial seclusion, and since of late years she has allowed herself to shake off some of the gloom that has so long darkened her life and saddened her entourage, it is at Osborne that she likes to hold those family fetes that rejoice her warm maternal heart. It must, however, be acknowledged that it is sometimes hard for aged veterans and equally old cabinet ministers to take a four hours' journey from town, and to affront the by no means always pleasant crossing in midwinter, to respond to her majesty's invitations. Although only eight miles from the mainland, the climate of the Isle of Wight is considerably milder even than that of the south coast; snow and frost are almost unknown, and there never is any fog, while the proportion of bright sunshine is considerable. It would, therefore, not be strange if, with advancing years, Queen Victoria were frankly to give the preference to Osborne over northern, bleak and cold Balmoral.

TO BE OR NOT TO BE "IN IT."

A Life Agent called at a friend's place one day,
HE WASN'T IN IT;
He had seen "the bore" coming and [illegible]
HE WASN'T IN IT;
He had heard so much said, he was tired [illegible]
Of insurance and agents—'twas all a blank [illegible]
When one's coil must be shuffled to win it,
HE WASN'T IN IT.

A bit of a draft blew o'er his bald head,
HE WAS IN IT;
Pneumonia sent him straightway to his bed,
HE STAYED IN IT;
His doctor made of it a "quite special" case,
To save him for running still more of life's race,
But the grave took some chances to win it,
AND HE'S IN IT.

When approached by a gent for insuring your life,
GET RIGHT IN IT;
It's the right thing to do for your children and wife,
THEN STAY IN IT.
Remember that fires take your goods "out of sight,"
And that accidents happen each day and each night.
While insurance protects every minute,
IF YOU'RE IN IT.

A Bank Manager's Opinion.

HE IS "IN IT."

The General Manager of one of the leading banks in Canada, writing to a personal friend, says:—"I have no hesitation in saying that I place the CANADA LIFE upon the highest platform. It is in my opinion carefully, economically and honestly managed; its Reserve Funds are well invested; its rates of Premiums are low, and its future is, I think better assured than a great majority of Companies. I have my own life insured in the Company for a round amount, and would not hesitate to increase the amount of my policies should I decide upon taking out further insurance."

A Government Insurance Actuary's Opinion

On the Relation between Ordinary and Tontine Service.

It is frequently assertedby Companies whose business is nearly all tontine, that although the CANADA LIFE may and does pay large ordinary profits, yet it cannot compare so favourably on a long term distribution or tontine period, and that in the end better results can be obtained on a tontine policy in a large American Co. than on an ordinary or tontine policy in the CANADA LIFE. To prove the absurdity of this statement, the following piece of common sense is quoted from Mervin Tabor, late Actuary of the Illinois Goverment Insurance Department. In his well known book, "The Three Systems of Life Insurance," he says: "A company that gives large dividends on the ordinary kind of policies, can give much larger on the same kinds when Tontined, and a company that pays but meagre dividends on the usual forms, adopting perhaps the Tontine system to "cover up" its small surpluses, cannot be relied on for large returns of surplus under the Tontine Forms of Insurance."

The CANADA LIFE does not "cover up" its Quinquennial profits as some Companies do, but publishes them throughout the country.

It can and does surpass other Companies on Quinquennial profits. It should and will surpass them on Tontine profits.

WHY TO BE "IN IT."

BISHOP HAWEIS'S REASON:—"I claim that Life Insurance is not only a a humane, but I might say a Christian Institution."

LORD LYNDHURST'S REASON:—"A Policy of Life Insurance is always an evidence of prudent forethought. No man with a dependent family is free from reproach if not insured."

WHEN TO BE "IN IT."

The younger, the cheaper. Therefore insure when young. Besides by insuring in the CANADA LIFE now, you will share in three years' profits.

WHERE TO BE "IN IT."

The best place to be "in it" is in the Company that gives the best returns for the least money, consistent with absolute security. Therefore, in order to be "in it," choose the

It Pays Better in the Long Run.

The modern idea of business enterprise on a retail scale is that a strictly cash business pays buyer and seller far better than a credit business. There is not nearly so much expense connected with the former, and the seller is therefore able to give the cash buyer the direct profit. With this end in view, I beg to inform my customers that on and after Easter Saturday, April 1st, I will do a strictly cash business. And in order to show my customers the advantage it will be to pay cash, I intend to begin by making a big reduction of fifty per cent. on the price of Easter beef. Heretofore the price of Easter beef has been 15 cents per pound, but on and after April 1st, I will sell it for 10 cents per pound. This is the best value that can be offered. Telephone orders paid on delivery. Cash is King! See posters.

Port Hope Gun and Rod Club.

The Port Hope Rod and Gun club have organized for the coming season. The finances of the organization are in a safe condition. The following officers were elected; President, J. G. Jackson; Vice-President, M. J. O'Brien; Secretary, R. H. Holland; Treasurer, S. J. Vandille; Captain, T. Tuer. The club have undertaken the erection of a handsome club house in the park, which will cost considerable. It was decided to hold a merchandise shoot, and a committee was appointed to wait upon merchants and others and solicit contributions for such a shoot, which will be held on the 22nd inst. What about the Peterborough Gun Club organizing at once? The home club might take a lesson from the enterprise, spirit and enthusiasm shown by their brother lovers of the gun in Port Hope.

Sara Lord Bailey, the Elocutionist.

On Tuesday night next, at the opera house, a rare elocutionary entertainment will be afforded Peterboroughonians. One of the cleverest and versatile reciters in America, Miss Sara Lord Bailey, will again appear here. Her unbounded popularity wherever she goes is still the marvel of her exceptionally fine talents and brilliant attainments. Of her the Guelph Daily Mercury says:

'SARA LORD BAILEY.—A good audience spent an enjoyable evening at the city hall last night. Sara Lord Bailey, elocutionist, of Boston, Mass., made her first appearance before a Guelph gathering, and ably sustained the reputation which had preceded her. She has a graceful appearance, and throws herself heartily into the spirit of her recitations. In "A Life for Life" and "The Chariot Race" her fine dramatic powers were fully brought out, and her audience got a vivid realisation of the scenes she pictured. In "The Engineer's Signal," the "Drummer's Bride," the "Experiences of a Genius" and "Money Musk," her skill in the imitation of varied and difficult sounds was capitally displayed. In the last piece she was very effective. The Ruggleses go to a Dinner Party" and "How the Ladies Usually Fish," were bright and laughable selections, true to life, Mrs. Raggles especially being a clever interpretation of the character. Miss Bailey will be a warm favourite here should she return.'

At the opera house here on Tuesday night next, assisted by local talent.

St. Patrick at St. Peter's.

To-day being St. Patrick's Day, services were held in St. Peter's Cathedral. The first mass was at 8 o'clock and the last a high mass at nine, Rev. Father O'Connell being the celebrant. Rev. Father Collins preached an eloquent sermon on the life and labours of St. Patrick, the patron saint of Ireland. The choir was present, and the solos during the mass being taken by Misses M. McCabe and M. Dunn, the latter singing the hymn "All Praise to St Patrick with splendid effect. During the service inspiriting Irish airs were excellently rendered by Misses May McIntosh and S. Guerin on violins, Miss K. Hurley presiding at the organ.

Everything Ready.

Mr. J. J. Sheehy's store has been closed to-day, during which time Mr. Sheehy and his large staff of clerks have been busy marking all goods down to manufacturers' prices. We are informed that everything is now ready for the great sweeping sale which commences to-morrow (Saturday) morning at 9 o'clock. One of the departments deserve special mention, viz., the table linen department. In that stock is included a magnificent lot of goods fresh from the Irish looms. These goods are of such a nature that anyone looking at them will surely be struck at once with their extraordinary value. Another feature is the immense stock of 1200 parasols, no two of which are alike, which with all other goods must go at cost price.

Death of Mrs. Geo. Hilliard.

The EXAMINER regrets to have to chronicle to-day the sudden death of Mrs. Hilliard, widow of the late George Hilliard, ex-M.P. The deceased lady had been in a delicate state of health ever since the death of her husband, which took place last June, and although there has been indications of an improvement in health within the past week, her end came very suddenly to-day at noon. Mrs. Hilliard was the daughter of the late Hon. John Gove, of Ackworth, N. H., and was married to her late husband in 1852. She has been long and intimately known by a large proportion of our community, and will be mourned by many, who will miss her for her estimable virtues of both heart and hand. She had a family of five children, three sons and two daughters, viz.:—George, the eldest, married and settled in Manitoba, Mrs. Ross of New York city, and Charles, Frank, and Helen of the home circle. The sympathy of the community will go out to the family in their sad affliction so soon after the death of their father.

Morris & Howden has the Floor.

We beg to inform our customers and the public generally that we have decided to adopt the cash policy. Commencing on Easter Saturday, April 1st, we will sell for cash and cash only. The days of long credit and high prices are on their last legs. With us the nimble sixpence is better than the slow shilling, but to our customers we are bound to give a bigger benefit. By way of a send-off we will begin on April 1st with a slashing reduction of fifty per cent. on the former price of Easter beef as follows:

Price of Easter beef in former years.....15c. per lb.
Price of Easter beef at Morris & Howden's on and after April 1st.....10c. per lb.

This will be a big saving to our customers on their beef bills and will pay them well for whatever difference there may be in buying for spot cash instead of on credit. Telephone orders paid for on delivery. We will not be undersold by anyone in the business. The same prime quality of meat kept on hand as heretofore. Hurrah for Easter.

TESTIMONIAL:

National School of Elocution and Oratory.
1414 Arch Street, Philadelphia, January 11th, 1892.

Miss Marguerite Dunn has unusual natural ability as a reader. There are few readers who have the power of giving to an audience the soul of the author's lines to the degree possessed by Miss Dunn. One listening to her realises that he is in the presence of more than a mere entertainer. She is all that in a true sense, and is at the same time one who inspires you into a pure atmosphere of spiritual life.

THE BAND COMPLIMENTARY CONCERT.

The Music Loving People of Peterborough, Delighted With the Fine Effects and Excellent Selections.

The grand complimentary concert given in the market hall last evening by the band to their scores of admirers and friends was a signal success. The enjoyable musical event was well attended, fully five hundred citizens being present to listen to the enchanting selections. The musicians, 21 strong, took up their stand in the centre of the hall and for nearly two hours entertained their auditors with capital contributions rendered with exquisite taste and artistic finish. The only objection to the arrangements was that the chairs provided were not able to accommodate the large numbers present and many were obliged to stand. It would have been better had the band converted their concert into a promenade one. The selections were difficult, and with the exception of Balfe's overture of the Bohemian Girl, of entirely modern musical type. Each number was rendered with precise but intelligent correctness, due attention being given to the expression and variation of tempo demanded by the composition, with the result of giving evidence both of the careful training that had been given, and also of the musically excellent, and musically intelligent application to the work in hand. High as expectation had been raised respecting the tone of the new instruments those present last evening were delightfully surprised at its excellent quality—its evenness, fullness, clearness and richness. In ensemble playing it was to be noticed that the several instruments harmonized beautifully in all the chromatics of every part of every scale. If the makers of the new instruments, Messrs. Dan Godfrey Sons, London, England, are as well pleased with their work as are the boys of the Fifty-Seventh band and those who heard their music with such delight last night, then there is indeed satisfaction all round. Reference to the excellent performance of the band would be incomplete without mention of the cornet solos contributed to the programme by Mr. W. H. Calder. His numbers were, Millar's "Dream of Love," and Horam's "Hungarian Song." They were played with very pleasing smoothness, excellent taste and easy execution. This is Mr. Calder's first appearance as a soloist, and the excellent manner in which he acquitted himself last night will always ensure him a hearty welcome. He has, it is learned, been practising only a short time on the B-flat cornet, and if he perseveres in practice will soon take a front rank among the cornet soloists of the Province.

Last night's programme was the most varied in style, and doubtless the best in performance, ever presented by the band, and as last night was only a beginning, the public may know what rich treats to expect before the season is over. The band with their new instruments are very much in the position of a lady with a new Easter dress—she's all right in this respect, but she can't go out because she has no Easter bonnet. The band cannot go out in public creditably without new uniforms. They have a small nucleus of a uniform fund, and all the earnings of the band by coming entertainments will be devoted to this fund. The object of this fund being a matter of dress is directly in the line of a lady's genius, and the ladies of Peterborough might very properly be placed in charge of the uniform fund.

THEY MEET TO SAY GOOD BYE

To One of Their Number in Departing for the Northwest.

After the splendid band concert given last night at the market hall and which proved to be such a brilliant success, the members of that musical organization adjourned to the Palace Restaurant where a tempting oyster supper was tendered Mr. Hilliard Jones, one of the cleverest players and most zealous workers in the band on the occasion of his departure from Peterborough on Tuesday next. Mr. Jones who has been identified with the band some five or six years, leaves for the Canadian Northwest on a prospecting tour. A merry time was spent by the musicians and everything passed off delightfully as at a wedding. Mr. Fraser, the genial president of the band, was in the chair, and the duties of vice chairman were well carried out by the popular bandmaster, Mr. F. W. Miller. The first toast was made by Mr. Walter Barlow in a few complimentary remarks congratulating the band on the success of its concert and coupled with the toast came the name of Mr. Millar, sr., the oldest member of the band. He made a timely speech recalling many pleasant associations and indelible reminiscences in his long experience and regretted that an auricular difficulty which interfered with his hearing had compelled him to sever his connection with the band after being so many years identified with that body. The health of "our guest" was enthusiastically drank and responded to by Mr. Hilliard Jones in a capital speech. He thanked "the boys" for their expressions of kindness and good will, and wished the band all prosperity. He would long remember his connection with them. The toast of "Our Bandmaster" was loyally honoured and Mr. Millar made a witty reply. He thanked the members for their encouragement, earnestness and energy shown in the band's interest and said he had the best band now he ever had during the long time of 18 years that he had been their bandmaster. Mr. Fraser responded to the toast of "The President," and Mr. Calder to the toast of "Our Secretary," both making neat speeches. Brief speeches were also made by Messrs. John Fanning, John Anderson, and W. Honusell. Humorous songs were also given by Messrs. Robert Mein, R. Shevlin and others. The proceedings were brought to a reluctant close at an early hour this morning.

CRISP CURLING CHRONIQUES.

What is Going on at the Rink Where Curlers Most do Congregate.

An interesting match for the silk hats occurred at the rink last night. The ice was in good condition and as skips Wm. Snowden and Wm. Croft did battle for the "stove-pipes," the interest was keen. Twelve ends were played. Following is the score:

W H Robertson,	Thos Boddy,
Ed Brown,	Geo Howson,
J Stanger,	A Blade,
Wm Croft, skip.....7	Wm Snowden 25

Skip Thos. F. Connal will play Skip Geo. Boucher for the oysters this evening.

Skip C N Brown will play Skip George Boucher for bivalvular superiority on Monday next.

An interesting game took place last night between the following rinks with the following result:—

D Bartlett,	E H D Hall,
Gus Sawers,	C J Leonard,
T F Connal,	C N Brown,
Geo Boucher, skip..13	E B Edwards, skip..10

14 ends were played.

The third competition in the Peterborough-Lindsay Challenge Cup series is being played to-day in a four rink competition. Skips Dennistoun and Pentland went to Lindsay to-day noon, and Skips Budden and McGill are doing battle here.

AN OFFER FROM THE W.C.T.U.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—Be Inspector Garvin's appeal for clothing and school books for children of poor parents, the W. C.T.U. will undertake to provide school books and clothing for one year for one child of poor and honest Protestant parents, whose wages are not spent in drink, but who, for some good reason, are not able to clothe and send their children to school. The parents must promise regular attendance, and the name will be kept private if requested. The public is not to infer that we limit our charities to the class mentioned, for such is not the case, but in this case we prefer to do so.

On behalf of the W.C.T.U.,

City Lodge, That is the Name.

There was a very large company assembled in the Y.M.C.A. last evening of those interested in forming a new lodge of the Independent Order of Good Templars. In the absence of Bro. Corey Simmonds, Grand Organizer, Bro. George J. Early, Provincial Deputy, occupied the chair. The officers of the lodge were elected and will be duly installed in the Sons of Canada lodge rooms over Mr. M. T. Ostrom's store, George street, on Thursday night next. It was decided that the name of the new lodge should be known as "City Lodge." The number of the organization is not yet known, owing to the charter, which has been sent for to the Grand Lodge, not having arrived yet. City lodge, I.O.G.T., will in the future meet every Thursday night in the Sons of Canada lodge rooms. This organization has already a membership of nearly sixty, and prospects for its being one of the most vigorous and successful temperance bodies in the Province are promising, indeed.

THE "COMET" FOR 1893

is as far ahead in the field of Pneumatic Bicycles as a buggy is compared with a farm waggon. The COMET easily wins every time, and if you want to ride the boss 'cycle, you must have the COMET and no other.

The COMET PNEUMATIC BICYCLE gets there every time for durability, comfort, style and easy-going—that's beyond dispute. Its Canadian record is away up, for, among the members of the Century Road Club who rode their century during the past season, more were mounted on COMETS than on all other makes of wheels put together.

The COMET for 1893 is built in three styles, viz: Light Roadster, Road Scorcher and Track Racer, the heaviest of which does not weigh over 35 pounds. Further information on application to

Our Bow to the Public.

♥ ♥ ♥ ♥ ♥ ♥ ♥

IN making this our first regular spring announcement to the citizens and residents of the town and county of Peterborough, we would address ourselves, not only to that large constituency of customers who have heretofore patronized our well known and highly esteemed predecessors, (Messrs. Hall, Innes & Co.,) but to all other readers of this journal, many of whom we hope to have the privilege of doing business with in the future.

We have a few words to say, not directly about Dry Goods.

We believe, that in all the relations of life where success is attained, mutual confidence is the basis, whether between physician and patient, lawyer and client, or merchant and customer, and, for our part, we intend to merit and expect to win confidence.

A WORD as to our taking charge of this business. It has been a matter of choice, on our part, largely influenced by some knowledge of this, "Canada's Premier Town," and surrounding district, and, as we are here to stay, we are actuated by a desire to do our best, as worthy citizens, to still further advance its interest and fair name.

OUR RECORD extends over a number of years of business life, and, with perhaps pardonable pride, we can say that during all that time, both those from whom we have bought and those to whom we have sold, have been financially benefitted.

OUR POSITION, as direct importers of Dry Goods, with a personal visitation of one of the firm twice a year to the European markets, and direct business connection with the leading manufacturers and warehousemen in Great Britain, place us in a position to give VALUE SECOND TO NONE, and styles the most correct and elegant. In no other line of business does the exercise of taste in selection come so largely into play as in the Dry Goods Trade, and in the markets we visit, there is the amplest room for its exercise.

"OUR STAFF." Almost or quite equal to a good stock of Dry Goods at right prices, as a factor in ensuring the success of a business, is competent, courteous and polite assistants. Our staff of employees in its entirety, will be composed of ladies and gentlemen of whom we expect to feel proud.

OUR AIM shall be to merit your confidence in what we may say to you in our place of business, in what we may tell you in our business announcements, in the reliable character of the goods we may have to offer you, by basing our business superstructure on the three cardinal principles,—

INTEGRITY, INTELLIGENCE AND INDUSTRY.

A WORD AS TO OUR METHOD OF DOING BUSINESS.

We fully recognize the fact that to conduct a successful business at the present day demands that all competition from any and every source should be successfully met, which means, not merely that of a local character, but that emanating from the largest houses of the largest cities, who do business exclusively for Cash, and, as a consequence, have not the factor of bad debts and capital outstanding, as well as office expenses to take into consideration, when marking the profits on their goods. This and all other honest competition we are prepared to meet, and to do this we have decided to offer attractive goods at such close prices as will draw to us that large constituency of the community who buy for Cash We have strong faith in a Cash Business, having found in our experience that this potent factor, Cash, is the key that opens all the doors where bargains are to be had. We have used it this season in making our European and Canadian purchases, and, as a result, have the best class of goods at Rock Bottom Prices.

We have already opened up several cases of new Millinery Goods, the styles of which are to be found correct. MISS WALKER has returned after visiting the centres of fashion, and will, as heretofore, be in charge of the show room, which our customers will be pleased to learn.

We have passed into stock many new Spring Suitings, Trouserings and Spring Overcoats, which we have marked at close prices. We have been successful in securing the services of MR. AMES, as Cutter for our Tailoring Department, who comes to us highly recommended, having had a long experience in large city trade. All work in this department guaranteed.

We shall be pleased to see all the old friends of the house, and will consider it a pleasure to show our goods, whether present purchases are contemplated or not.

One Home of Her Majesty Queen Victoria.

OSBORNE HOUSE, ISLE OF WIGHT.

Next to Balmoral, It Is Her Majesty's Favorite Residence, She and Her Husband Having Bought It—Succinct History of the Beautiful Place—Its Art Treasures.

For a great many years now it has been the custom of Queen Victoria to pass Christmas at Osborne, in the Isle of Wight, and to that residence the various items of traditional Christmas fare—the baron of beef, the gigantic turkeys, the boar's head—are forwarded from her majesty's other domains, while at her orders her annual bounties are distributed in England and Scotland. Osborne house has always been a great favorite with the Queen; indeed, were her partiality for Balmoral not such an accepted fact, it might almost be said that it was the favorite par excellence. There she leads a more private and free existence. Save for the occasional visits of her ministers and the dispatch of the affairs of the state, which she never neglects she lives at Osborne like some wealthy, unpretentious private land owner. With the exception of the reception given to the admiral and officers of the French squadron in August last, there has been no official royal visit in the Isle of Wight since Napoleon III. came there in 1857 as her guest.

Although the meeting of sovereigns in each other's dominions have not as a rule the extreme political importance with which the public invests them, yet they entail a certain ceremonial, the fulfillment of a stated programme, which invariably includes a grand review of the naval or military forces. The guest assumes the uniform of the regiment in the foreign land of which he is generally honorary chief, and the host returns the compliment on the same lines; but the circumscribed area on the Isle of Wight is ill adapted for a large display of forces, and, save on rare occasions, it is difficult to gather the whole of the British fleet in the waters of the Solent.

Moreover, Osborne house has by no means the room requisite for the accommodation of a number of illustrious guests, such as Windsor castle possesses, and even with the recent additions it is no more than sufficient for the queen, her suite, and the many children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren which it is her pleasure to see around her there. As it is her own private property, she justly considers that she is exempted from the obligation of making it the scene of official receptions and enjoys the immunities the fact confers.

The etymology of the name of Osborne has never been definitely settled. Some believe it to be the corruption of Oysterbourne, formerly given to the locality on account of the large number of bivalves found on the adjacent shores. Others are of the opinion that the name comes from William Fitz Osborne, to whom the Isle of Wight (the Vecta or Vectis of the Romans) was conceded in the portioning of the land after the Norman conquest. Whichever interpretation is adopted, it gives indication that the domain was recognized in a remote antiquity.

After having belonged to the Bowermans, an old family of Isle of Wight origin, it passed into the hands of a certain Eustace Mann, who, during the troubled times of the civil war, buried a considerable sum in gold and silver coins in a wood on the estate, which henceforth was styled the silver thicket; but, having neglected to mark with accuracy the exact spot in which his treasure lay, neither Eustace nor his descendant was ever able to recover it. His granddaughter married a Blackford, and it is from a member of that family that the queen and the prince consort purchased the property of Osborne, being advised thereunto by Sir Robert Peel, then secretary of state. The property has been largely added to by its royal owners and now covers 2,000 acres, possessing capital preserves and magnificent timber.

The situation is unrivaled as a peaceful, smiling, highly cultivated English landscape. The house is erected on a gentle eminence, sloping down to the Solent in velvety lawn, broad terraces and lovely gardens. The house itself is not imposing, nor can it be said to belong to any particular and homogeneous epoch of architecture. The chief facade of white stone is flanked by two towers of unequal height. The tallest, measuring 107 feet in height, is called the flag tower, and from its summit floats the royal standard when Queen Victoria is in residence. From the windows you see eastward the extending waters of Spithead merging in the bigger channel; in front, on the mainland, lies Southampton, with its busy maritime thoroughfare and the perpetual passage of big transatlantic steamers, ponderous war ships and passenger craft. At the foot of the hill is Cowes, with its lesser fleet of yachts, its fashionable regattas and private landing stage for the queen, over whose head, to use the consecrated phrase, "the royal standard is broken" every time she alights from her vessel.

The house itself was restored and enlarged from plans and designs made by the prince consort himself. Although chiefly built of brick, it affects a certain Italian air. The windows are framed in slender columns of Byzantine style; the interior is as exquisitely comfortable as the most fastidious epicure could desire. The Queen's apartments are situated in front of the flag tower. They contain an immense and valuable collection of art treasures and pictures by Delaroche, Overbeck, Cope, Winterhalter, Ary Sheffler, etc. The building appears at its best when seen from West Cowes, for then it seems to emerge from a sea of dense foliage and its whiteness contrasts agreeably with the vivid green of the majestic trees and the bright blue of the sea. A Swiss chalet which nestles under the shadow of Osborne house was entirely given up to the royal children in their nursery and school days; there they could play at will and indulge their respective tastes; some of them were very fond of gardening, preferring, however, the cultivation of vegetables to that of flowers; to this day the gardens of the chalet are kept up as they were at that now remote period, and the products are still forwarded to the married princes and princesses at home and abroad, some green stuff being regularly sent to the Empress Frederick in Germany.

Queen Victoria has remained faithful to these early predilections as she has to all that related to her beloved consort; she ever longs for the repose and peace of the island, for the sedentary charm of its half unofficial seclusion, and since of later years she has allowed herself to shake off some of the gloom that has so long darkened her life and saddened her entourage, it is at Osborne that she likes to hold those family fetes that rejoice her warm maternal heart. It must, however, be acknowledged that it is sometimes hard for aged veterans and equally old cabinet ministers to take a four hours' journey from town, and to affront the by no means always pleasant crossing in midwinter, to respond to her majesty's invitations. Although only eight miles from the mainland, the climate of the Isle of Wight is considerably milder even than that of the south coast; snow and frost are almost unknown, and there never is any fog, while the proportion of bright sunshine is considerable. It would, therefore, not be strange if, with advancing years, Queen Victoria were frankly to give the preference to Osborne over northern, bleak and cold Balmoral.

IS HE IN IT?

A life [illegible] a family [illegible]

HE WASN'T IN IT;

He had seen "the have" coming [illegible]

HE WASN'T IN IT;

He had heard so much said, he got [illegible]

Of [illegible]—was all a hoax you see,

When one's call must be shuffled to win it,

HE WASN'T IN IT.

A bit of a dandy blew o'er his bald head,

HE WAS IN IT;

Pneumonia sent him straightway to his bed,

HE STAYED IN IT;

His doctor made of it a "quite special" case,

To save him for running still more of life's race,

But the grave took some chances to win it,

AND HE'S IN IT.

When approached by a gent for insuring your life,

GET RIGHT IN IT;

It's the right thing to do for your children and wife,

THEY STAY IN IT.

Remember that fires take your goods "out of sight,"

And that accidents happen each day and each night,

While insurance protects every minute,

IF YOU'RE IN IT.

A Bank Manager's Opinion.

HE IS "IN IT."

The General Manager of one of the leading banks in Canada, writing to a personal friend, says:—"I have no hesitation in saying that I place the CANADA LIFE upon the highest platform. It is in my opinion carefully, economically and honestly managed; its Reserve Funds are well invested; its rates of Premiums are low, and its future is, I think better assured than a great majority of Companies. I have my own life insured in the Company for a round amount, and would not hesitate to increase the amount of my policies should I decide upon taking out further insurance."

A Government Insurance Actuary's Opinion

On the Relation between Ordinary and Tontine Service.

It is frequently assertedby Companies whose business is nearly all tontine, that although the CANADA LIFE may and does pay large ordinary profits, yet it cannot compare so favourably on a long term distribution or tontine period, and that in the end better results can be obtained on a tontine policy in a large American Co. than on an ordinary or tontine policy in the CANADA LIFE. To prove the absurdity of this statement, the following piece of common sense is quoted from Mervin Tabor, late Actuary of the Illinois Government Insurance Department. In his well known book, "The Three Systems of Life Insurance," he says: "A company that gives large dividends on the ordinary kind of policies, can give much larger on the same kinds when Tontine, and a company that pays but meagre dividends on the usual forms, adopting perhaps the Tontine system to "cover up" its small surpluses, cannot be relied on for large returns of surplus under the Tontine Forms of Insurance."

The CANADA LIFE does not "cover up" its Quinquennial profits as some Companies do, but publishes them throughout the country.

It can and does surpass other Companies on Quinquennial profits. It should and will surpass them on Tontine profits.

WHY TO BE "IN IT."

BISHOP HAWKE'S REASON:—"I claim that Life Insurance is not only a humane, but I might say a Christian Institution."

LORD LYNDHURST'S REASON:—"A Policy of Life Insurance is always an evidence of prudent forethought. No man with a dependent family is free from reproach if not insured."

WHEN TO BE "IN IT."

The younger, the cheaper. Therefore insure when young. Besides by insuring in the CANADA LIFE now, you will share in three years' profits.

WHERE TO BE "IN IT."

The best place to be "in it" is in the Company that gives the best returns for the least money, consistent with absolute security. Therefore, in order to be "in it," choose the

BASEBALL BRIEFLETS.

The Peterborough Club Arrange Preliminaries and Elect Officers.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough baseball club was held at the Olympic rooms over the Palace Restaurant last night. The attendance of lovers of the diamond was large, no less than twenty-five enthusiasts being present. Mr. F. D. Mackay occupied the chair and after some discussion the following officers were elected for the ensuing season:

Hon. President—G. W. Hatton.
President—R. B. McKee.
1st Vice-President—Sam Ray.
2nd Vice-President—W. J. Green.
Manager—Samuel Forster.
Assistant Manager—Chas. Giddey.
Secretary—"Dan" McCabe.
Treasurer—F. D. Mackay.

The Secretary was instructed to correspond with all the baseball clubs in the district with the end in view of forming a midland baseball league. Port Hope, Cobourg, Lindsay, Belleville and Oshawa have evinced a willingness to enter such a league and it is hoped that arrangements can be made in ample time when such a move could be consummated and playing begun as soon as the baseball season opens. The great baseball house of Spaulding & Co., in Chicago, have as mentioned in last nights EXAMINER offered a handsome pennant with the name emblazoned thereon, to the club coming out conquerors at the end of the season of any league that may be organized. Two representative were elected at last night's meeting to confer with baseball men from the other towns named, and endeavour if possible to call a meeting of the clubs interested at no distant date and enquire into the probabilities of forming a league.

The meeting then adjourned to meet again in a few days.

BRANTFORD, March 13th.—The Courier of this week devotes a column to the case of Archie Rymal of this city, who was discarged some time ago from the hospital here as incurable, and went to his mother's home to die. He was so far gone that he could not move hand foot, foot or head, and could not change his position without assistance. His wife hearing of so many so-called incurable cases being cured by Dodd's Pills, after every other known remedy had failed, purchased a box. After taking nineteen boxes, Rymal is as well as ever, and has gained in weight from 107 to 145 pounds. The case is startling, but true.

MR. KENDRY AND "CIVIS."

On Saturday last we referred to the fact that "Civis" had written a letter in our columns which Mr. Kendry claimed cast reflections upon himself and which he alleged were libellous.

We then stated that the communication had been published during our absence from town, without our knowing the nature of it and without careful examination on the part of our editorial manager, and we offered Mr. Kendry free use of our columns to make such comments on the communication as he saw fit, at the same time expressing our entire unacquaintance with the merits of the case and expressing our regret that anything should have been published in our columns which might tend to wrong him in any manner.

In accepting the letter, our staff whilst not closely scanning the contents, relied for its authenticity upon the good standing of the writer thereof, Mr. A. P. Poussette, Q. C., and the latter in a communication below, over his own signature, takes any responsibility in the matter, voluntarily acknowledges being its author and relieves us of any further responsibility.

So far as the EXAMINER is concerned our columns are always open, and shall always be open, for the fair discussion of all public questions.

We presume that Mr. Kendry considers himself a public man and must expect to have his actions criticized. We have always insisted that such criticism shall be fairly conducted, and if Mr. Kendry thinks he is above all criticism, he will have to retire to a less public platform than he at present occupies.

However, if the letter of "Civis" has placed Mr. Kendry in a false light before the public, we regret that it should have had a place in our columns.

The Letter of "Civis."

To the Editor of the Examiner:

SIR,—I regret to find that the letter over the above name in connection with the street railway franchise has been the cause of an action for libel being brought against you.

The letter in question was penned by me, and I am willing to assume the responsibility for it, but I did not intend to say anything libellous, nor do I think the letter can be so construed.

I am sorry that my friend Mr. Kendry feels aggrieved, and you are aware that I am the last person who would wittingly say anything to wound either him or Mr. Mulhern. As there is really no accusation against either, I am at a loss to see upon what ground the action has been brought.

Your obedient servant,
A. P. POUSSETTE.

PRESBYTERY OF PETERBOROUGH

Quarterly Meeting at Port Hope—Important Recommendations—Resignation of Rev. Jas. Drummond.

The Presbytery of Peterborough met in Port Hope on the 14th of March, thirteen ministers and elders were present. The Rev. A. McWilliams was chosen moderator for six months. It was agreed that on a vote taken at any regular meeting of Presbytery, meetings may be held elsewhere than in Peterborough or Port Hope. The Rev. Thos Sedgwick, of Tatamagouche, N.S., was unanimously nominated as moderator of the next general assembly.

The resignation of the Rev. Jas. Drummond, of Centreville, was accepted. The Rev. Jas. A. Bloodsworth was appointed as moderator of session during the vacancy, with power to moderate in a call as soon as the people shall be prepared for the step.

The following ministers were elected as delegates to the assembly: Messrs. MacWilliams, Brown, Oswald, Bloodsworth, Smith, Cleland and Ewing.

The elders chosen were those at present representing the congregations of St. Paul's, Peterborough; Coldsprings, Hastings, Cobourg, Bethesda, Vernonville, and Brighton.

Reports were read from Standing Committees on "State of Religion," "Sabbath Schools," "Temperance," "Sabbath Observance," "Systematic Beneficence," "Statistics," "Home Missions," and "Augmentation."

The following recommendations in connection with the report on the state of religion were adopted:—

1. That at this sederunt we shall give special thanks to God for whatever signs of spiritual life we have seen in our congregations, for the increased attention of our young people to divine things and for the various means that under the spirit of God have been used for this purpose, such as Christian Endeavour, and Women's Foreign Missionary Societies, for faithful preaching and Sabbath school teaching and for parental work at home.

2. That in our family worship we should offer prayer for a blessing on our own congregations in this presbytery and throughout the whole church, and on all our missions.

3. That each minister and elder should be reminded of the duty and privileges of faithful personal dealing with sinners, and that the salvation of sinners and sanctification of saints be the grand aim of all in preaching.

4. That special care be given to the young, as they are the hope of the church and the world.

5. That the attention of the General Assembly's Sabbath Observance Committee be called to the evils arising from the late hours to which our merchants' shops are kept open, especially on Saturday nights, in which we feel the people are as much to blame as the merchants, and the terrible desecration of the Lord's Day by the running of trains; and to ask them to adopt some means of abating these evils.

6. That united and determined efforts be put forth to secure the total removal of the liquor traffic from our land by immediate and honest legislation.

The following recommendations were adopted in connection with the report on temperance.

1. That the faithful and fearless preaching and teaching of the truths of scripture in connection with the subject of temperance be enjoined; that in combatting of the evils of intemperance Christ and his gospel be conspicuously kept in the foreground as the sole refuge for perishing men, as the sovereign remedy for every ill, and as the only guide to true character; and that earnest efforts be made by Christian love, moral suasion and legal restraint to rescue and save the intemperate.

2. That the Bible be used as the text book for instilling the principles of temperance and that care be taken in our homes and schools for memorizing of passages bearing on the subject.

3. That parents be exhorted to exercise vigilant oversight over their children so as to prevent their loitering near hotels or forming loose companionship, and that care be taken to make home life attractive so as to remove temptations to form associations that are beyond parental control.

4. That the plan of organization and of pledge-signing recommended by the General Assembly be adopted, as far as possible, in all our congregations and Sabbath schools.

5. That until total prohibition is secured the fullest advantage be taken of every prohibitory feature of the legislative measures in operation such as the reducing the hours for the sale of liquor, the closing of hotels and liquor stores when possible, and so hedging in the traffic as to promote public morality and domestic peace.

6. That we rejoice in tokens of decrease of intemperance, and that we urge upon our people to use all Scriptural, constitutional and righteous means to work for the entire abolition of the evil.

The final consideration of the difficulty between the St. Paul's and St. Andrew's churches, regarding the site of the mission school proposed to be erected by the former in the south part of the town, was deferred until next meeting.

Mr. Bennett was appointed to represent the Presbytery on the Assembly's Home Mission Committee in room of Mr. Torrance, who is unable to attend.

The next meeting was appointed to be held in St. Andrew's church, Peterborough, on the first Tuesday of July at nine o'clock, a. m.

An abstract report of the W. F. M. S. was adopted.

Messrs. McWilliam, Cleland and Dingwall were appointed to draft a minute in connection with the death of the late Rev. A. Bell and report at next meeting.

Messrs. MacWilliam, Duncan and Smith were appointed a committee to arrange for the celebration of the jubilee of the Rev. Jas. Cleland, who will have completed his fiftieth year in the ministry if spared until May next.

Dr. Smith was appointed to take the place of Mr. MacWilliams as Convenor of the Committee of group No. II, on Presbyterial visitation.

Presbytery Clerk.

THE COLTS UPPERMOST

In their Struggle with the P. C. I. Boys at Hockey Last Night.

An interesting and exciting hockey match was played on the ice at the rink between 7 and 8 o'clock last evening between the Peterborough Colts and the Peterborough Collegiate Institute Hockey Club. Although only gotten up on an hour or two's notice, still everything passed off successfully, and there was a fair gathering of spectators. Mr. W. B. Carmichael refereed the game in an impartial manner. There were only six players on each side, instead of the regulation seven. The teams were composed as follows:

Jr. Peterboroughs.		P. C. I.
Wasson	goal	Hamilton
Borland	point	Halliday
Hickson	cover point	Adams
King	forwards	E Grubbe
Merrick		McWilliams
Stenson		Davidson
H Lewis	goal umpires	A Laing

The match was a fast one and the honours throughout about evenly divided. The combination play of the Collegians was favourably commented upon, and the work of Halliday as point and Hamilton in goal was very effective, preventing the P. C. I. boys' opponents from scoring many a goal. The best of feeling existed throughout the struggle which lasted forty one minutes. Where the Colts had the advantage over the scholars, was in their heavier weight and superior checking powers. The game ended five goals to three in favor of the Juniors. Following is the summary:—

Time.	Player.	Winner.
10 min.	Grubbe	P.C.I
1 "	Merrick	Colts
10 "	King	Colts
1 "	Davidson	P. C. I
5 "	King	Colts
1 "	King	Colts
4 "	Grubbe	P. C. I
1 "	King	Colts

For the Colts Merrick and King played an exceptionally fine forward form. In the remaining eight minutes neither side scored.

THE "PITTSBURG" LAMP

Is the most successful Lamp in the market today.

It burns any kind of oil, gives a powerful light, easily managed and handsome in appearance.

Made in every style, and suitable for all kinds of lighting — Churches, Factories, Halls, Drawing Rooms, Dining Rooms, &c., &c.

We make a specialty of this Lamp and would invite your inspection of the different kinds before buying an inferior article.

Sold Only in Peterborough by China Hall and Silver Bazaar,

Macfarlane Wilson.

HOW DO YOU DO

when you buy shoes or clothing? Don't you go to the place (if you can find it) where they tell you that you may wear the articles out, and then, if you're not satisfied, they'll refund the money? Why not do the same when you buy medicine?

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is sold on that plan. It's the only blood-purifier so certain and effective that it can be guaranteed to benefit or cure, in every case, or you have your money back.

It's not like the ordinary spring medicines or sarsaparillas. All the year round, it cleanses, builds up, and invigorates the system. If you're bilious, run-down, or dyspeptic, or have any blood-taint, nothing can equal it as a remedy.

The worst cases of Chronic Catarrh in the Head, yield to Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. So certain is it that its makers offer $500 reward for an incurable case.

A BOLERO JACKET.

An Ornamental as Well as a Most Useful Accessory.

A most useful accessory just now is the Bolero jacket. It is a sort of zouave, short, and with the upper edge turning over in wide lapel collars. It may be made in black velvet, the lining and the collars being of white satin, or black, the collars heavily embroidered, and a bit of embroidery in the corners in front, and in the little short-waisted point at the back. There is also a row of embroidery up the sides to beneath the arm. This is very necessary, because the jackets open under the arms. They are split right up each side like a ripe chestnut. This, too, although they are not shut up in front, but in no other way could the arm holes go over the great sleeves of the dress over which the jacket is to be worn.

The jacket shown is lace trimmed and is upon a suit of figured silk. The opening in front of the basque, has the material arranged about it to give it a blouse effect. The back of the waist is plain. In the back the shirred lace follows the line of the low neck, then along the shoulder seam and forms a little cape over the sleeve. At this point the lace is turned and fastened along the armhole in light folds, which forms the jacket. Then the corner of the lace jacket is fastened to the front of the basque. The high folded girdle must be cut on the bias. The lower part of the puff sleeve reaching to the elbow has an elastic drawn through it to make it fit more closely. A short turn down collar is cut out of double material. The bell skirt is perfectly smooth.

What Women Are Doing.

Mme. Patti is not the only singer in her establishment. She owns one hundred canaries.

Marshy N. Lyles, a colored woman of Sylvania, Ga., has begun the pursuit of learning at the local school. She is seventy years old.

Emaciated People Grow fat.

Do you sometimes feel as though your vital energy was sinking, and that you needed some powerful agency to recuperate it? Do you sometimes long for stimulants to brace you up? That is the time to take "Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil," because it contains life giving principles through its power to create flesh and blood. By taking it according to directions emaciated and enfeebled people have been known to actually grow fat at the rate of from five to ten pounds per bottle consumed. In big bottles, 50c. and $1.00, at all Drug Stores.

Encouragement for old People.

It may sound queer to talk about curing old people of Kidney and Urinary troubles after they have passed the alloted period of three score years and ten, but the following extraordinary recovery of an old veteran by Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure, ought to be of great encouragement to old people :—

BELLEVILLE, March 4, 1893.

Peterborough Medicine Company (Limited.)

GENTLEMEN,—I owe a great debt of gratitude to Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure for the prompt and speedy relief which I have received from the use of only one bottle of your great medicine. I have suffered from Kidney and Urinary troubles, inflammation of the neck of the bladder, &c. for many a long day. No one knows better than old people how great a blessing it is to be cured. I doctored a lot, but nothing did me so much good as your cure. I have lived about half a century in Belleville, and will be only to glad to speak a good word in favour of Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure. I can also recommend it for constipation and stomach troubles.

JAMES HAROLD.

Has a Double Advantage.

As a remedy against the apple tree borer and to promote the vigor of trees, the trunks and lower limbs may be washed in May with the following mixture: Take two-thirds of a pailful of slaked lime, the same as for whitewash, add one pint of gas tar and one pound of hard soap. Dissolve one pint of lye and put into the mixture then add enough common soil to produce a proper consistency for applying with a whitewash brush.

A Point to Remember.

Many people forget the fact that plants do not eat, but drink. They can only appropriate the fertilizing elements in any plant food while it is in a liquid or dissolved state. Thus it is seen not only are the liquid excrements lost by passing down through the stable floors, as they do in many cases, but the rains still farther rob the value of the solid portion by washing away the more soluble portions.

How it is Done.

Cattle at shows are often seen with horns polished bright and smooth as a pane of glass, and it is a cause for wonder how it was done. The usual mode of polishing horns is to take off the rough parts with a flat file, then rub smooth with sandpaper, a coarse quality at first, followed by that which is finer. Neatsfoot oil is then rubbed in briskly.

Climate and Sheep.

Climate, it is said, changes the nature of a sheep's fleece. An example of this is taking place in Australia. The fleeces of the strains of English sheep taken into that country are said to be getting much lighter owing to the fact that a heavy fleece is not necessary under a warm sky.

How It Can be Made to Pay.

The manurial product in stock growing should pay every expense except that for food, and will easily do this, and more, if properly handled. Being thus free from expense for labor, care and housing, there should not be much difficulty in making an animal pay for its food.

"March to search" is the old adage. It searches out any weakness of the system, resulting from impure blood. Those who use Ayer's Sarsaparilla find March no more searching or even disagreeable than any other month. This medicine is a wonderful invigorator.

Some symptoms of worms are:—fever colic, variable appetite, restlessness, weakness and convulsions. The unfailing remedy is Dr. Lowe's Worm Syrup.

An Inactive or Torpid Liver must be aroused and all bad bile removed. Burdock Pills are best for old or young.

What is Dandruff?

A disease of the scalp that causes falling of the hair, fading of the hair, in fact, death of the hair. It irritates the scalp and causes scales and eczematic eruptions produces baldness. Bear in mind that Anti-Dandruff removes Dandruff with three applications—stops falling and restores fading hair to its original colour Sold by druggists at 75 cents per bottle.

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

Is superior to all other preparations claiming to be blood-purifiers. First of all, because the principal ingredient used in it is the extract of genuine Honduras sarsaparilla root, the variety richest in medicinal properties. Also, because Cures Catarrh the yellow dock, being raised expressly for the Company, is always fresh and of the very best kind. With equal discrimination and care, each of the other ingredients are selected and compounded. It is because it is always the same in appearance, flavor, and effect, and, being highly concentrated, only small doses are needed. It is, therefore, the most economical blood-purifier in existence. It Cures SCROFULA makes food nourishing, work pleasant, sleep refreshing, and life enjoyable. It searches out all impurities in the system and expels them harmlessly by the natural channels. AYER'S Sarsaparilla gives elasticity to the step, and imparts to the aged and infirm, renewed health, strength, and vitality.

An Evening.

They were sitting together in Scudder's little studio one gray Sunday afternoon. Boecklin had been talking in his slow desultory fashion, while Scudder lounged back in his old chair, and the smoke changed from gauzy curls to slow drifts that hung between them. Scudder was just saying, as he strolled over to the little north window, where the fading light flowed in palely: "That reminds me of something I came across not long ago; only, in this case it was a girl—a young thing with the face of some one I've seen somewhere," he added, musingly. "I heard you were to rehearse for the Christmas festival over there," he went on, with an indefinite movement of his head toward somewhere outside the little window, "so I went over, and at the door I met Chicboism, and he took me up to a seat with the tenors, and, after a while, I noticed this girl at the end of the row of sopranos near us. Her shabby attempt at the picturesque in the things she had on—a little fine soft something she'd wound around her throat, and her hat," he added, vaguely—"made her stand out from the rest, and somehow I fell to studying her."

He knocked the ashes out of his pipe, and began refilling it from a rude little box on the sill. "At first I thought she was merely listless and absorbed, but I found—she was waiting for something." He struck a match on the window-casing, and as he held it over the bowl of his pipe it flashed his pale face out of the gloom and showed Boecklin lounging back, with his hands clasped behind his head. "I liked it, you know, because there were none of the vulgar marks of expectancy; her eyes were off a little, but she wasn't looking toward anything, and she was merely quiet, with just a suggestion of tense straining for—for what she looked for. And after a while he came. I knew he had come, because she drooped back slowly, and she made a sort of indefinite movement of her hand toward—nothing, and the strained quiet gave way to a sort of—of muffled vibration. I was so near that it was all plain to me."

After he had puffed for a few moments in silence he took the pipe from his mouth, and examined the bowl casually.

"He was one of the violinists." He paused again, and smiled slowly.

"Once when she saw that he looked her way, she turned to the woman near her and said something—some little thing, wishing to impress him, I fancy, with the fact that she was not thinking of him. But he was not looking at her; as far as I could tell, he never once saw her. He had the habit all you fiddlers have, Boecklin, of—when the 'cellos or the others take the theme, and you rest for some measures—of staring off over the audience or the chorus, as though you were looking for some one, and once—he smiled and bowed to some one sitting with the altos. It's a very trivial thing when you think of it, but—it was a blow to her. I suppose in her mind he had stood wholly alone and unrelated until then—that's how I make it out—and when she saw there were—others, it was a blow. She had been singing along until then—." He was gazing down abstractedly at the glowing end of Boecklin's cigar as it waxed and waned, and he did not go on.

When Boecklin asked, with drowsy interest, "Which of the men was it? you know I know those fellows," Scudder winced slightly, and half closing his eyes, made a mental note of the dusky, half-defined figure and the glowing spark.

"It was you," he said.—Maude Menefee, in Harper's Weekly.

Very Likely.

"There's a great deal of jealousy among the flowers," said Hawkins. "It is my firm belief that the violet is blue because it isn't a rose."

Helpful Hints.

Brushing the hair twice a day tends to cleanliness and a silky condition of the wonderful scalp covering.

A cupful of strained honey, one-half a cupful of olive oil and the juice of a good lemon furnish an agreeable remedy for a hoarse cold. Cook the ingredients five minutes, and take a teaspoonful once in two hours. Avoid exposure in a frigid atmosphere.

Moist sand is the best thing for preserving the freshness of cut flowers. Press the ends of the stalks into the granulated silex and wet the sand daily. If the flowers are kept in water, add a little salt or a bit of saltpeter, and clip the ends of the stalks every day.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for a number of years, and it has always given me satisfaction. It is an excellent dressing, prevents the hair from turning gray, insures its vigorous growth, and keeps the scalp white and clean."—Mary A. Jackson, Salem, Mass.

Gives Strength and Appetite.

DEAR SIRS,—Last year I was very thin and reducing very fast, owing to the bad state of my blood and appetite. A friend of mine induced me to get a bottle of B.B.B., which I did. I obtained immediate perceptible relief from it, having gained strength and appetite, and now weigh 193 pounds.

AN EXAMPLE.

An Empire Gown of Pale Pink Crepe de Chine.

How would you like such an Empire gown as this one, which is made of pale pink crepe de chine over a tight-fitting foundation, cut princess? The breadths of the upper dress are the entire width of the crepe taken crosswise, but cut out a trifle at the hips to improve the shape of the dress, and are then joined with the seams of the foundation, above the waist line. It is absolutely necessary to have the under dress fit faultlessly and it will then be an easy matter to drape the crepe over it. The under dress has the usual number of whalebones in the waist and can be worn without a corset if desired. It fastens at the back with hooks and eyes and the crepe is fastened with invisible hooks catching in tiny silk loops. The sleeves are of bengaline, of the same shade as the crepe, and the belt under the arms is also made of that material. The yoke and the bretelles are formed of corn guipure lace, the design outlined by faint gold threads. The rear view of this gown is exactly like the front, save that a large paste buckle is placed in front as shown. The foundation dress is lined, but the crepe is not.

A pretty finish for an Empire skirt is ruching. A gown of yellow silk for instance, has a little Empire bodice of terra cotta velvet, with immense sleeves. About the skirt is a little ruche of yellow silk, not hemmed but edged with terra cotta. Such a finish makes concession, even in the Empire style, to the demand for flare at the foot of the skirt, and also resists wear better than the plain edge would. Bits and pieces can be used in making the ruching. It is a foreshadowing of the return of the quilling with which the dames of long ago used to trim everything. So better buy up cheap ribbon that you find in the inch and half-inch widths.

WELL DIGGING APPARATUS,

WELL DIGGING APPARATUS.

through the pulley at B, the one suspended from the top of the framework, and then through the pulley at D. A horse is hitched to the free end and easily raises the earth which is put in the box E after being lowered. H, H, are two inch boards laid on top of the ground. F, F, are also 2-inch boards fastened at one end but loose at the other so they can be spread apart to allow the box E to descend into the well. When it comes up loaded they are again placed as shown in illustration and the box rests upon them. K is a sort of track over which the loaded box is pulled to be emptied. A small truck can be run under the box after it is raised, over the track K and on the cross pieces F, F. This makes the unloading much easier. Or use a short sled built stone boat fashion dragging it away by means of a horse.

A Cure for Constipation and Headache

It is in the form of dry roots leaves, and is known as Lane's Family Medicine. It will cure sick-headache in one night. For the blood, liver and kidneys, and for clearing up the complexion it does wonders. Druggists sell it at 50c. a package.

A LIQUOR BILL.

The Licensed Druggists Object to Outsiders Selling Patent Medicines.

TORONTO, March. 17.—The Ontario College of Pharmacy have prepared a bill affecting the sale of patent medicines and proprietary articles generally found in drug stores. The bill will be presented at the coming session of the Legislature. The object is to prohibit the sale of the articles above referred to by anyone except a licensed druggist.

The amendments complained of are those repealing sections 24 and 25 of the Act as it stands at present. These, if passed, will allow none but qualified druggists to keep open store for retailing medicines of any kind, not even castor oil or glycerine.

Section 24 as amended would read as follows:

"No person shall sell or keep open shop for retailing, dispensing or compounding poisons, or medicines of any kind, or sell or attempt to sell, any of the articles mentioned in schedule 'A' of this act, or any mixture or compound containing any of the articles so mentioned in schedule 'A,' unless such person is registered in accordance with the provisions of this act, and unless such person has taken out a certificate under the provisions of section 18 of this act."

Schedule "A" mentioned in the clause enumerates all the poisons that enter into the composition of patent medicines. The section also prevents the sale of Paris Green and London Purple, unless the storekeeper is five miles from the place where a licentiate of the College of Pharmacy is doing business.

The amendments to section 25 make it read as follows:

"The articles named in schedule 'A' and any mixture or compound containing any of the said articles shall be deemed to be poisonous within the meaning of the act, and the Council of the Ontario College of Pharmacy may, from time to time by resolution, declare that any article in the resolution named ought to be deemed a poison within the meaning of the act."

This clause, as amended is interpreted by the manufacturers to mean that at any time the College of Pharmacy will be at liberty to add additional articles to those enumerated as poisons and thus reach almost any compound that could be put up.

The bill, if passed, would cut off a large business done by the general stores throughout the country and by some of the large Toronto stores which have added patent medicines to their already large stock of wares. Patent drugs sold by the ordinary storekeeper are often sold at a considerably less price than in drug stores. In this way the bill would not be welcome to the general public. It is bound to encounter strong opposition when it comes before the Assembly.

The medicine manufacturers of Canada met at the Board of Trade building yesterday to take concerted action to oppose the passing of the amendments.

All the large manufacturers in Canada, as well as those American firms doing business here, were represented.

There are 5000 dealers in the Province of Ontario who handle patent medicines, and it is proposed to enlist their assistance in opposition to the bill. Every one of these will be reached by circular and requested to interview the local member before he comes to the meeting of Parliament and endeavor to get him to promise to oppose it.

CLAIMED HE WAS ILL.

A Happy Witness Who Denied That He Had Been Drinking.

TORONTO, March 17.—Isaac Walton, not the ancient fisherman, but a worthy looking citizen of East York, was on trial at the Sessions yesterday charged with getting goods under false pretences. This serious charge was preferred against him by the manager of the Metallic Roofing Company, from whom Walton bought $66 worth of steel shingles on 30 days' credit. The complainants alleged that Walton had declared that he was "owner of a farm which was practically unincumbered." As a matter of fact it was only a small lot which he was purchasing, and on which he had only paid $1000. The defence was that Walton had a right to say that he "owned" the lot in question and that he had said "place," not "farm." Walton failed to pay at the expiration of the thirty days, but asked for more time. This was refused and the company claimed they sent a man next day for the material but were refused it. The defendant's little son swore that his father expected the man to come next day and stayed home, but he failed to appear. Next morning defendant went away and the Company's man came, but the witness had not authority to let the man carry off any material.

One witness for the defence gave such irrelevant answers as to cause the court to titter and to call forth the suggestion from Attorney Dewart that perhaps he was drunk. He claimed he was ill. Several times while the judge was addressing the jury that witness interspersed half audible remarks and was finally threatened by His Honor with the cells. When he left a note was found on the table, apparently addressed to Mr. Dewart. It said:

The certificate of my illness is in existence. Now make an apology to the court and stand the consequences. FREEMAN.

The case was given to the jury, but they failed to bring in a verdict before the court adjourned.

PASSED BY PROXY.

Charges that Certain Dental Students Have Duped the College.

TORONTO, March 17.—Dean Wilmot sometime ago received an intimation from Belleville that several of the students who had tried the matriculation examinations were represented by proxy. Several letters to this effect have been received from an anonymous source, and the Belleville students feel their position keenly but can do nothing to relieve their position.

Naturally they are eyed askance by the other students, who suspect that they are present under false pretences.

The dean has handed the letters over to the boys, who are doing their utmost to trace the ownership of the scurrilous pamphlets.

The idea is prevalent that they emanated from a student who was plucked in trying the examination and is venting his spleen in this cowardly manner.

The council meets on March 23, when an endeavor will be made to sift the charges to the bottom, and ascertain if there is any foundation for the charges contained in the anonymous letters.

Dr. W. R. Wilmot, secretary of the college, refused to speak of the matter further than admitting that the letters had been received.

BOSTON, Mass., March 17.—The annual meeting of the East Cambridge Women's Christian Temperance Union held last evening was abruptly interrupted by the sudden death of one of the speakers, Rev. Wm. Graham, pastor of the First Reformed Presbyterian Church, of Boston. Mr. Graham was introduced to speak on "The Temperance Outlook."

He arose and said: "I came out of a sick bed to show the side I am on." The sentence was hardly spoken when he fell back dead.

His Head Split Open.

CHICAGO, March 17.—Joseph Bass, a tailor, was found at the corner of Walsh and May-streets last night with his head split open with an ax. He was unable to tell who had assaulted him and died while being conveyed to the hospital.

Why you take Cold and Cough.

Generally caused by exposure to cold, wet feet, sitting in a draught, coming from hot and crowded places, in thin dress, or wearing damp clothes, stockings, or any other cause tending to check suddenly the perspiration. The result produces inflammation of the lining membrane of the lungs or throat, and this causes phlegm or matter, which nature tries to throw off by expectoration. In many cases she is unable to do so without assistance, and this is

SMART SPRING MANTLES

In our north window we display some of the very newest patterns of Imported Mantles for Spring wear.

They are style all over. The craft of the skilled German model garment makers is manifest in these Mantles, and the attention of ladies is especially drawn to the new material and exquisite taste which has been displayed in these two directions.

We make the point that our Mantles are new—wholly new—new in design, new in shape, and new in price.

Ladies who have looked elsewhere for something to suit them in a Spring Mantle, will have no difficulty in making their final selections from our stock. We are perhaps a little early in exposing these Mantles, but the temptation was too strong, and besides, some one must lead, so we take the consequences of our unusual advanced preparations for this spring season of 1893.

BIG GUNS SPEAK AT AN IRISHMEN'S DINNER.

D'Alton McCarthy, Nicholas Flood Davin, Judge Kingsmill, F. C. Denison, Rev. Dr. Briggs, Rev. Dr. Potts and Others Also Speak.

TORONTO, March 18.—St. Patrick was a Protestant. So said Mr. Henry O'Hara in proposing the toast of "The Day and All Who Honor It" at the ninth annual banquet of the Irish Protestant Benevolent Union last night.

There were none present to disclaim him as their patron saint, and it goes on record that since the time he had done converting Ireland and driving out its snakes and toads, he has, as a genial disembodied spirit, been occupied in forming benevolent societies through the length and breadth of the universe.

It was a rare galaxy of wit and talent that gathered about President W. J. McMaster at Caterer Webb's festive board last night. One hundred and fifty Irish Protestants ate, drank and made merry with speeches, song and Marcicano's music.

The vice chairs were occupied by Messrs. R. H. Bowes, T. A. Lytle, R. C. Hamilton, James Hunter, Frank Somers and S. B. Windrum, and among the guests with seats of honor at the various tables were Nicholas Flood Davin, M.P.; D'Alton McCarthy, M.P.; E. F. Clarke, M.L.A.; Police Magistrate Denison, Ald. Small, Principal Dickson, Judge Kingsmill, C. W. Bunting, Dr. Thorburn, Dr. Fyfe, D. T. Symonds, Rev. Dr. Potts, Rev. Dr. Briggs, Rev. William Patterson, William Simpson, Starr Dick-Lawder, and others, legal, medical, ministerial and commercial too numerous to mention.

The bill of fare had quite a national air with Wexford croquettes, Ballinasloe beef, Monaghan turkey, Donegal mutton, Shannon salmon, Irish potatoes, College Green pudding, Enniskillen lemon pie, sowans and other supposititious Irish dainties. But it was the feast of reason which followed the coffee and cigars that was the feature of the evening. After Secretary Moon, in a rich County Monaghan accent, had read letters of regret from Lieut.-Governor Kirkpatrick and several of the Ontario Cabinet, the speeches began. They were political in character, and, in their hostility to the Home Rule measure proposed by Gladstone, the direct antithesis of the utterances at the Irish National League banquet the night previous.

"The Queen," "The Prince and Princess of Wales and the Royal Family," "The Governor-General and Lieut.-Governor of Ontario," were drank in brimming bumpers and with appropriate honors. Then came the "Army, Navy and Volunteers," proposed by Judge Kingsmill. He was, he said, the son of a British soldier and was proud of what the Army and Navy had done for Britain in every quarter of the globe. In that Army and Navy there had always been a fair proportion of Irishmen. "Charge your glasses," said the judge "and drink to the bottom."

Col. Denison responded in a warlike speech that upheld the ancient martial fire of the Denison family. He compared the prowess of the British Army to that of the Macedonian phalanx, the Roman Legion and the Spanish Invincibles. The Navy had never shrunk from battle shock or cannon's roar. For 100 years back no battle had been fought nor fierce field won in which Irishmen had not struggled side by side with Englishmen. Turning to the Canadian volunteers the Colonel traced their patriotic career from the war of 1775 to the conflict of 1812, and reminded his hearers that to the French as well as English was honor due. At the Battle of Chateauguay that brave old warrior Bishop Macdonald had led one flank, promising absolution to all who fought for Canada and threatening excommunication if they did not win. "Let us remember that we are a united country and stand true to that union and allegiance to the Motherland."

Henry O'Hara, in proposing "The day and all who honor it," gave an account of St. Patrick's career, claimed him as a Protestant, and deprecated the efforts of those of another faith who would monopolise so good a man.

Rev. Dr. Briggs, in response, made a speech scintillating with witty sayings and sparkling quotations. A good dinner, he thought, lubricated business. The influence of St. Patrick was no flash in the pan, but burned more or less brightly still. Goldwin Smith had pointed out the importance of Ireland in the seventh, eighth and ninth centuries, but Ireland was doing something better now in keeping the British Cabinet awake. The lesson to be drawn from the legend of St. Patrick and the snakes was that we should banish all serpentine counsels and designs from our midst.

Rev. Dr. Potts briefly proposed "The Land We Left and the Land We Live In," coupling with it the name of Nicholas Flood Davin, of whom he gave a glowing eulogy. And then that prairie poet, philosopher and parliamentarian felt for his front hair, which was not there, and spoke to this effect: Sitting on Cave Hill and looking toward Belfast he had thought that a greater poem might be written on Ireland and her achievements than that penned by Oliver Goldsmith from his seat on the Swiss mountain. From the small population of Irish Protestants in the Old Land had gone forth to all parts of the world a body of men that had won lasting fame as governors, statesmen, warriors, litterateurs, poets and philosophers.

On a day like this it was fitting to travel over what this extraordinary race had done. Among governors, the Marquis of Dufferin was a great man who had done good service for England in Canada, Russia, India and Turkey. At another time when England was threatened with the loss of her Indian dependencies, John and Henry Lawrence had saved that vast domain to the Empire. The Ulster men in India had not rested until the Star of India blazed upon their breast.

Among warriors it would require an eloquent tongue to tell of those nameless heroes who had died in the shock of battle. Wellington, an Irishman, had beaten time and again that modern Alexander, and in the supreme battle of Waterloo, when England's destiny was at stake, had caused Napoleon to bite the dust. And who would lead Englishmen under similar circumstances, who but Wolseley? The names of the heroes of the Soudan told that they were Irish. In Egypt Admiral Seymour had commanded the navy in the recent conflict. Among statesmen Burke was pre-eminent. From his quarry all succeeding statesmen had taken stones to build their speeches.

Palmerston had an Irish mother and in appearance, oratory and graceful badinage was native of the soil. In Canada Baldwin had won for us responsible government, Hincks was our greatest financier and Sullivan our greatest orator.

Six of the signers of the Declaration of Independence were Irishmen. Six of the Presidents of the United States were descendants of the Emerald Isle, including Ulysses S. Grant, greatest of American warriors and statesmen. Among his Catholic fellow-countrymen there was too much of the alcohol of rhetoric. He had upbraided them for that at a great meeting in Montreal, despite a warning from his friend, Sir John Macdonald, that he was about to speak to the murderers of D'Arcy McGee. He had shown them what Ireland had done in the building of that grandiose structure, the British Empire, and had won his audience.

In literature the founder of that literature novel was Lawrence Sterne, so much admired by Thackeray and Carlyle. Steele had founded The Spectator and had discovered Addison. As a refutation of those cynics who dubbed the Irish turbulent and witty but not profound, forgetting that brilliancy often conceals profundity, as the glimmer of the sea upon the sea shows not how deep it is, he would point to the elevator and philosopher Berkeley, who wrote the "Theory of Vision." After the first great heretic had been Scotus Erigena, an Irishman.

Mr. Davin concluded a twenty minutes' address with a brilliant peroration. The countries, resources and wealth of the great northern empire, a great English nationality, that in literature, art and all fields of endeavor will do such things as may enable her to stand up the peer of the great nations of the past, but with material wealth and resources with which they could not compare."

"For they are quarreling fellows," sang an old gentleman near by when Vice-President Hamilton proposed "The Dominion Parliament and the Ontario Legislature."

This called forth the political deliverances of the evening. D'Alton McCarthy, who had come in at the end of the feast, as he said, responded for the Dominion Parliament. Mr. McCarthy's texts were his own present political attitude, the Manitoba school question and the Home Rule measure for Ireland.

On the first, Mr. McCarthy claimed that he was the only impartial man in the House, and for that reason he was sitting on the cross benches with few friends on either side. His party had only lately discovered what an evil character he was. The House of Commons was a Conservative body which nothing less than a revolution or an explosion could move.

People must not be disappointed if members did little on the questions that were agitating their constituents. As Irish Protestants we should regard the views of the minority as entitled to every fair consideration at the hands of Parliament. But the majority also had rights. Throughout all Canadian history the minority had dictated the policy that had tended toward disunion and disintegration of the Dominion.

Alluding particularly to the Manitoba school question Mr. McCarthy said that it was the views of Quebec and not the minority of Manitoba that were being consulted in the matter.

As far as he could learn the feelings of the Catholic minority in Manitoba would not be outraged if there was not a dual and a separate system. He had thought that Parliament could not fail to be a unit on that question, but he was mistaken. It was unnecessary to force upon their young constitution a dual system; nor had any man explained to him why so sparsely populated a district should have a separate school system. With reference to Home Rule across the seas, a feeling had been stirred up among the Protestants of Ulster that threatened the disruption of the Empire. Gladstone's measure was antipathetic to the Protestant minority, who wanted no Home Rule under the thumb of a priesthood, and such as Mr. Gladstone was endeavoring to impose upon them.

"Let us give Ulster a free field, and in the meantime see that our legislative bodies do not petition and resolve to the contrary."

E. F. Clarke, M.L.A., spoke for the Ontario Legislature and corroborated Mr. McCarthy's sentiments. There had been too much truckling to the majority in Ireland.

Gladstone's Home Rule Bill was a weakening of the union, and would be disastrous to the peace and prosperity of Ireland. The Legislature of Ontario should not countenance by their support any Home Rule measure that had not the assent of a reasonable number of the northern Irish Protestants.

"The time has come when we should give no uncertain sound in favor of our kith and kin across the sea, where there has already been too much pandering for political exigencies."

The big guns of the dinner having boomed, the diners filed out before the lesser toasts were disposed of, satisfied that the ninth annual banquet had been the best in the history of the society.

UNIQUE SWINDLERS.

They Wanted to Make a Raise By the Latest Dodge.

TORONTO, March 18.—A Toronto detective has just returned from Chicago, where he went to locate a trio of clever swindlers, who have obtained considerable money from Toronto merchants in a novel manner.

Complaints have been made by local merchants for the last two months of being swindled out of small amounts by what purports to be the World's Fair Pictorial Souvenir Company of Chicago. This company is apparently composed of three men, who are working the scheme in concert. One of the men is in Chicago, one at Windsor or Detroit and the other at Sarnia. Matters have become too warm for the two men in Canada, and they have disappeared. The World's Fair Pictorial Souvenir Company have sent out several hundred letters to Canadian merchants, who were selected from Bradstreet's Commercial Agency's book. The latter stated that, having found the rating of the merchant all right, the World's Fair Pictorial Souvenir Company had shipped a full line of rapidly-selling World's Fair souvenirs on consignment. The merchant was instructed to display the goods, and after they were sold, to remit for them, less the commission. If the goods did not prove good sellers, the merchant could ship them back at the expense of the consignors. After receiving these letters, a postal followed, either from Windsor or Sarnia, printed in the usual form of notification used by the customs inspectors, notifying the merchant that a valuable consignment for him from the World's Fair Pictorial Souvenir Company was detained for customs duties and fees, which amounted to $5, and would be forwarded on receipt of that amount. Many letters found their way to Windsor and Sarnia, containing the necessary $5, and that was the last the merchant ever heard of his money. The customs officials at Windsor discovered the scheme and the swindlers decamped. It appears that the man at the Chicago end would send out 500 or 600 letters to all parts of Ontario and the Province of Quebec, from a list obtained in the commercial directory. He would forward this list to his confederates at Windsor and Sarnia, and they would send out their postals a day later.

A BOY'S FOLLY.

Mrs. Wade Has a Narrow Escape From An Ill-Directed Bullet.

HAMILTON, March 18.—There was great consternation at the Ascension rectory for a few minutes yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Wade was in the kitchen with her youngest child and the servants busily engaged in cutting up oranges when a bullet was shot through the window, only missing striking her by a few inches.

As it was, Mrs. Wade was struck under the eye with a piece of broken glass. The shot was fired by a young imitator of William Tell from an upstairs window in the neighborhood, and coming into contact with the glass was fortunately diverted downwards.

The narrowness of the escape is seen in the fact that the bullet is large enough to have inflicted a mortal wound. The young man who fired it says he was aiming at a cat, and promises that he will give up the practice of hunting for that sort of game, in this city at any rate. What with catapults and revolvers the chances of a long life are getting rather scarce.

MET DEATH IN THE B[illegible]

A SAPLING THAT BECAME A DEADFALL.

John Dodds, a Pioneer from Somerville, Killed By a Falling Tree—His Head Was Smashed.

DUNDAS, Ont., March 18.—A terrible accident occurred yesterday near Somerville, through which Mr. John Dodds lost his life. The unfortunate man went out to the woods some time during the early morning to fell some trees, which were to be cut into cordwood during the day by Mr. John Stonabaugh and himself.

The first tree felled lodged on a small one and beat it down almost to the ground. Then, as the large one cleared itself, the other returned to position with lightning speed and a broken limb which was entangled in its branches was driven with terrified force, striking the unfortunate man on the side of the head and crushing the skull and almost cutting off the whole upper portion.

As Mr. Stonabaugh did not start out early, Mr. Dodds laid where he fell for some hours and was found after some searching by Mr. Stonabaugh, unconscious and bleeding. He was conveyed with all possible speed to his home and medical attendance summoned, but nothing could be done to relieve him. Death ended his suffering about 2 o'clock.

Deceased was about 30 years of age. A wife and five small children are left to mourn his death. His father, George Dodds, lives about 2½ miles from Stayner, Ont.

BRIGGS AND SMITH.

A Large Majority of Presbyterian Ministers Vote Against Them.

CINCINNATI, O., March 18.—The ballot of the Presbyterian ministers on the Briggs and Smith heresy case and on the doctrine of Biblical inerrancy, inaugurated some time ago by The Cincinnati Post, is practically complete. A few scattering votes from far distant regions—India, Asia and Africa—will drop in during the course of the next two months, but these cannot change results.

Blank ballots were sent to every twelfth Presbyterian minister whose name was found upon the church roll in the General Assembly minutes of 1892. Of the 2325 ballots received, 229 endorsed the deliverance of the General Assembly at Portland on the inerrancy of the Scriptures.

Professors Briggs and Smith are overwhelmingly defeated by a majority equal to that in the last Presbyterian general assembly at Portland. The Bible is also endorsed as a book practically without error and containing the true messages of God to man. Higher criticism as explained by Prof. Briggs is condemned as destructive and as an aid to infidelity.

Against this vote stand 80 ballots from ministers who do not approve of the deliverance and are mostly on the side of Prof. Briggs and Smith.

A dozen or more of the dissenters declare, however, their faith in the Bible as an inerrant book, but claim that the general assembly at Portland overstepped its rightful powers in enforcing a new dogma on the church.

DISLIKES NOTORIETY.

Melvin Long of Nelson Issues a Writ for $5000 Against the Pink Pillers.

HAMILTON, March 18.—A writ has been issued by S. F. Washington, on behalf of Melvin Long of Nelson, claiming $5000 damages from Fulford & Co. of Brockville, proprietors of the Pink Pill remedy. Long was advertised in all the papers in February as the "Halton Miracle," and there was a column and a half of elaborate description of Mr. Long's sufferings from inflammatory rheumatism and how he was cured by taking Pink Pills.

Mr. Long objects to having himself advertised as a miracle freak and has instructed his solicitor to enter an action for damages. The subject of suing for libel all the papers that published the article is also under consideration.

A SPLENDID ST. PATRICK'S DAY CONCERT.

The Best Local Talent Contribute to its Success—A Large Attendance—A Varied and Pleasing Programme.

The gathering at the Opera House last evening to attend the union concert given under the auspices of the Emerald Benefical Association and the Catholic Young Man's Association was exceedingly large and the entertainment was decidedly a success all around. The evening's programme was introduced to the large company by Prof. Butcher's full orchestra who rendered in a very artistic manner Mozart's XII. mass, "Hallelujah Chorus" and giving the auditors a worthy prelude of what was in store for them during the remainder of the evening. Mr. Wm. Brick, Secretary of the C. Y. M. A. then took the chair and in a few opening remarks extended a hearty welcome on behalf of the C. Y. M. A. and E. B. A. societies to all present, also thanking them for their kindness and assistance in coming This was the first union concert these organizations had ever held. In the past the citizens by their patronage supported very liberally the E.B.A., and he felt sure that in supporting the C.Y.M.A. also, they would finds its aims and objects equally meritorious. As the programme was a rather lengthy one, the chairman stated he would take up no more of their time. The pretty song "Dear Little Shamrock" was then rendered in an intelligently correct manner, and ably exhibiting their careful training, by a number of little misses. Their names were Gracie Ball, Bebe Costello, Nellie Simons, Loretto Clancy, Kate Overend, Irene Doris and May Donaghue. The little girls were charmingly attired in green and white, very pleasing to behold.

Miss Marguerite Dunn, the talented young elocutionist from Toronto, favoured in the next number reciting in an admirable and inspiriting manner that old recitation which always appeals so strongly to the warm hearts of Emerald's sons "Erin my Country." Miss Dunn is graceful, easy and accomplished in her presentation on the stage and has a musical, resonant voice. In answer to a hearty encore she contributed a bright and humorous selection "Aunt Melissa and the Boys." This popular Queen City reciter also appeared rendering two more selections during the evening and was liberally applauded. Her dramatic powers were shown in the best light in her recital of McDowell's "Gipsy Flower Girl." "Tit for Tat" was also entertainingly given. Miss Jackson in her soprano solos, "When the Tide Comes In," and "The Night Bird's Coming," sang in a clear and well modulated, though not a strong voice. Miss Jackson has sung frequently at the best concerts in Peterborough, and is always a desirable and enjoyable number. It is needless to say that the comical "Dan" Donohue scored a success in his well known witty songs. His style and mein seemed to catch the house, whom he convulsed with roystering laughter, and he was recalled each time. His contributions, "Duffy's Blunders," "Darby Lafferty, the Celebrated Quack," "Paddy Carey," and "The Hat My Father Wore," were given in his inimitable style. The baritone solos of Mr. Michael Dunn were given in creditable style and execution. His powerful voice was heard with delight and he received warm approval from his auditors as testified in their liberal applause. "Love's Proving," and "The Song that Reached My Heart," were effectively rendered. In "The Kerry Dance," and "Killarney," Miss Mary Dunn, with her cultured soprano voice, sang with much spirit and feeling, using her magnificent vocalising power with fine effect. The pianoforte duet of Misses M. McCabe and M. Butler was rendered with excellent technique and fine taste. The Peterborough Octette Club composed of Messrs. Manning and Crane, tenor; Messrs. Drope and Nelson, bass; Mrs. W. A. Sanderson and Miss Jennie Rose, alto, and Miss Fawcett and Mrs. H. Stapleton soprano, were among the sterling features of the evening. "A Bridal Chorus from Rosemaiden" was choicely rendered, the voices of the soloists blending very sweetly and harmonizing to a nicety. The Octette Club were rapturously applauded, and in their second selection Martin's "Lullaby" they excelled probably their previous number. Prof. Butcher's orchestra waltz "The Sounds from the Alp's" was appreciatively played during the second part of the programme. A two act drama with its didactic lessons, "The old aunts visit from the city" was produced during the evening in fine form. Miss Maggie McCabe impersonated "Aunt Peabody," from Peabodyville, Misses Katie Lynch and M. Begley, the two city sisters and Miss M. Butler, a lady student visitor. They all did well and must have expended much time and pains in preparing their respective parts. The brilliant accompanists during the evening and to whom can be ascribed not a little of the evening's success were Mr. Fred Clarke, Mr. H. C. Armstrong and Miss Kate Dunn. The concert which was a St. Patrick's day musical success was concluded shortly before 11 o'clock by Mr. Chairman Brick cordially thanking all the performers for valued assistance, and the singing of the national anthem.

CAMPBELLFORD CHRONIQUES.

The home of Mr. W. H. Ashton, says the Herald, was the scene of a pleasant event on Wednesday night of last week, when his sister-in-law, Miss Nettie L. White was given in marriage to Mr. W. F. Dunk, of Campbellford. A number of friends witnessed the ceremony and an enjoyable evening was spent. The bride who is the fourth daughter of Mr. John White, was the recipient of many pretty and useful presents. May peace and prosperity be the lot of the happy young couple.

One day recently Mr. Jasper Locke's team drew to Campbellford 213 bushels of wheat or 6¼ tons in all. Chas. Smith's team drew 185 bushels representing in weight 5½ tons.

A lecture entitled "Faith of the Irish" will be given in the Catholic church on St. Patrick's Day.

It is asserted, says the Herald, upon what appears to be a fact, that the Rathbun Company's mill will not be rebuilt during the coming summer, so that the large force of men that found employment there last year will be compelled to seek for something to do elsewhere.

About half a dozen changes in business are expected to take place in the next few weeks.

A few cases of scarlet fever are reported in town.

The congregation of the Presbyterian church, Stirling, have decided to erect a building for worship as soon as spring opens.

REFUSE CHEAP IMITATIONS

TRULY WONDERFUL!

The Like Never Seen Before!

STRIKING! CONVINCING! POSITIVE!

A Magnificent Victory!

Written up, furbished and polished miracles have had their short day; their influence and catching power with sensible and intelligent people has vanished like the passing cloud. Our thoughtful people now look for strong and stern facts, backed up by the solid fortress of truth.

Our young Dominion can never become a fertile field for quacks and quackery; the soil is entirely unfitted for the sustenance and growth of fraud and deception.

A new era of light, life and joy for our suffering people was inaugurated when Paine's Celery Compound commenced its wonderful work. Our Canadian people have beheld with admiration mighty cures at their very doors, the people of every village, town and city know of friends and neighbors who have been saved from death through the use of Paine's Celery Compound.

Read the following letter of testimony from Mrs. D. O'Connor, of Guelph, Ont. Mark the strong endorsation! The facts are vouched for by a Mayor and a Justice of Peace.

MRS. D. O'CONNOR.

Messrs. Wells & Richardson Co.

I have much pleasure in giving testimony regarding the great benefit which I received by using Paine's Celery Compound I was a great sufferer from indigestion for 25 years, was nervous for the past 16 years, and had cramps for over 20 years, and tried remedy after remedy without effect, and had given up all hope being cured. Last September I had an attack of these troubles and came near dying. I had such terrible pains in my back, that often I almost fainted; I have also been troubled with neuralgia for years; had noise in the head, so that I could not sleep at night, and could hear every hour the clock struck. My heart was also affected, and I was low-spirited and despondent at times. I had a pain under my left shoulder blade and suffered from rheumatism, which was so bad during the last two years, that I could hardly write.

Seeing your advertisement of Paine's Celery Compound, I thought I would try it; and, after using six bottles, I find it has acted like a charm, and I am now completely recovered. I have recommended it to others who tried it, and obtained great relief, and can cheerfully recommend it to all who suffer from nervous debility.

Yours respectfully,
MRS. D. O'CONNOR.

We have known Mrs. D. O'Connor for many years and can say that her statements can be relied upon.

TO BE OR NOT TO BE "IN IT."

A Life Agent called at a friend's place one day,
HE WASN'T IN IT;
He had seen "the boss" coming and fled from his way
HE WASN'T IN IT;
He had heard so much said, he was tired and sick
Of insurance and agents—'twas all a blank game
When one's call might be a summons to win it,
HE WASN'T IN IT.

A bit of a draft blew o'er his bald head,
HE WAS IN IT;
Pneumonia sent him straightway to his bed,
HE WANTED IN IT;
His doctor made of it a "quite special" case,
To save him for running still more of life's race,
But the grave took some chances and won it,
AND HE'S IN IT.

When approached by a gent for insuring your life,
GET RIGHT IN IT;
It's the right thing to do for your children and wife,
THEN STAY IN IT.
Remember that fires take your goods "out of sight,"
And that accidents happen each day and each night.
While insurance protects every minute,
IF YOU'RE IN IT.

A Bank Manager's Opinion.
HE IS "IN IT."

The General Manager of one of the leading banks in Canada, writing to a personal friend, says:—"I have no hesitation in saying that I place the CANADA LIFE upon the highest platform. It is in my opinion carefully, economically and honestly managed; its Reserve Funds are well invested; its rates of Premiums are low, and its future is, I think better assured than a great majority of Companies. I have my own life insured in the Company for a round amount, and would not hesitate to increase the amount of my policies should I decide upon taking out further insurance."

A Government Insurance Actuary's Opinion
On the Relation between Ordinary and Tontine Service.

It is frequently asserted by Companies whose business is nearly all tontine, that although the CANADA LIFE may and does pay large ordinary profits, yet it cannot compare so favourably on a long term distribution or tontine period, and that in the end better results can be obtained on a tontine policy in a large American Co. than on an ordinary or tontine policy in the CANADA LIFE. To prove the absurdity of this statement, the following piece of common sense is quoted from Mervin Tabor, late Actuary of the Illinois Government Insurance Department. In his well known book, "The Three Systems of Life Insurance," he says: "A company that gives large dividends on the ordinary kind of policies, can give much larger on the same kinds when Tontined, and a company that pays but meagre dividends on the usual forms, adopting perhaps the Tontine system to "cover up" its small surpluses, cannot be relied on for large returns of surplus under the Tontine forms of insurance."

The CANADA LIFE does not "cover up" its Quinquennial profits as some Companies do, but publishes them throughout the country.

It can and does surpass other Companies on Quinquennial profits. It should and will surpass them on Tontine profits.

WHY TO BE "IN IT."

BISHOP HAWEIS'S REASON:—"I claim that Life Insurance is not only a a humane, but I might say a Christian Institution."

LORD LYNDHURST'S REASON:—"A Policy of Life Insurance is always an evidence of prudent forethought. No man with a dependant family is free from reproach if not insured."

WHEN TO BE "IN IT."

The younger, the cheaper. Therefore insure when young. Besides by insuring in the CANADA LIFE now, you will share in three years' profits.

WHERE TO BE "IN IT."

The best place to be "in it" is in the Company that gives the best returns for the least money, consistent with absolute security. Therefore, in order to be "in it," choose the

Going to Omemee.

Mr. Wm. Cardwell, of the Little Windsor hotel, Peterborough, was in town on Tuesday, preparatory to entering upon the proprietorship of the new hotel at Omemee. Mr. Cardwell has been in business in Peterborough for some years and has established a good connection. With him at the helm we feel confident the Omemee people will have no further reason to complain of the want of a first-class hotel.—[Lindsay Watchman.

Telfordian Temperature Topics.

Yesterday one of the prettiest phenomena ever seen was observed by a large number of people. Early in the morning beautiful halos formed around the sun with two parhelias commonly called mock suns, or in Scotland "weather gaws," a little later another ring formed on the west side, one end of it going into the mock sun on each side of the first ring and extending a long way into the north west. This is a sight seldom seen and no doubt a large number enjoyed it. Some times two rings are seen around the sun ormoon, but the one yesterday is an unusual phenomenon. I believe its foreboding of a heavy storm in some part of the country.—THOS. TELFORD.

Death of a Veteran Shoemaker.

"Just as we go to press we learn of the death of Mr. Wm White, shoe dealer, Kent street, who expired late on Wednesday night, after a somewhat protracted illness. The deceased was born in Ireland and had reached his 50th year. For about twenty years he conducted a boot and shoe business in Lindsay, and was always regarded as one of our most energetic and upright business men. He leaves a widow, three sons and two daughters, all grown up."—Lindsay Watchman. Deceased was a brother of Mr. John White, town, and also a brother of the late Samuel White. His many friends will hear with regret of his death.

He is Getting Anxious.

"Well."

"Please connect me with Morris & Howden."

"Yes. What can we do for you?"

"I want you to book us at once for a 10 lb. roast three times a week, on Mondays, Wednesdays and Saturdays, to be paid for C. O. D. at your reduced prices."

"All right. That's the beauty of the cash system, eh?"

"Yes. We have no more use for long credit bills at our house. We have just called quits with our last butcher after blowing each other up about a big butchers bill."

"All right, thanks, we'll attend to your order."—1d.

Welcomed by Athelets.

The Galt Reporter of yesterday contains the following: "Mr. T. W. Murray, for years the crack half-back of the Galt Football club, and one of the best in the country, leaves Galt to-day (Friday) for Peterborough where he has secured a good situation. Mr. Murray will be much missed in football and canoeing circles in Galt, as he was an enthusiastic devotee of both sports. A number of his friends waited on him yesterday evening and presented him, on the eve of his departure from amongst them, with a small souvenir as a slight token of their esteem towards him, as well as a memento of the many pleasant times they had spent together. All present wished him every success in his new home. Mr. Murray though greatly surprised and affected, made a suitable reply, thanking his friends for their kind wishes and handsome gift." Mr. Murray will doubtless become a source of strength in Peterborough's football aggregations, while his canoeing propensities will have full scope in this, the home of the canoes.

Of her the Toronto World says: "Miss Sarah Lord Bailey, of Boston, is a finished elocutionist, and her rendering of 'Life For a Life,' perhaps has never been equalled in Toronto. This lady possesses a voice of wonderful flexibility, and has become a favourite with Toronto audiences." At the opera house on Tuesday night.

A Rather Eventful Drive.

The roads between Peterborough and Lindsay, says the Watchman, were bad on Sunday. Half a dozen young men left there on the night train on Saturday for Peterborough. They decided to drive back on Sunday, and reached here in a livery rig after some seven hours journey. They found the roads in a terrible state, and the livery man was about to turn back several times, but he finally decided to push through. Near Omemee the horses broke through the ice, over a creek, and were only got out with difficulty. One of the young men also had a close call at the same place. One of the horses was badly calked. The team left for home on Monday morning.

Remembered by His Associates.

A pleasant event was enacted at the C. P. R. station yesterday afternoon, when Mr. Jas. Fegg, baggage master, was, on the occasion of his recent marriage to Miss Emma Dunlop, at Lakefield on Thursday last, presented with a handsome mantel clock of very pretty design. Mr. W. B. Bamford, station agent, made the presentation, while Mr. Jas. R. Baker, day operator, made a short address congratulating Mr. Fegg on his assuming a "double state" and asking him to accept the slight gift as a token of their esteem and hearty good wishes for Mrs. Fegg and himself. The surprised recipient, though deeply affected, made a suitable and grateful reply, thanking his associates for their kindness and evidences of friendship.

MARKET MEMORANDA.

The Market This Morning was Small and Prices Rather Low.

The market this morning was not up to the average tremendous Saturday market for which Peterborough has attained such a noted reputation. The grain market is fairly active and a moderate number of loads were on the market to-day, peas especially moving freely. Spring wheat 62c. (standard) fall 67c. (standard) Oats 32 to 33c., peas (small) 58 to 60c., peas (large) 62c., barley 35 to 40c., buckwheat 43c., rye 44c. Hay is selling well at $8 and $9 per ton—a good deal offered. Of potatoes there were a great many loads on sale, going at 75 and 80c. per bag. Apples were selling 60, 65 and 70 cts per bag. Dressed hogs have fallen in price to $7.75 per cwt. THE TOWN'S DEBTS.

Our evening contemporary returns to the question of the financial operations of the town for the past year, and with the exception of two small items, does not attempt to disprove the correctness of the EXAMINER'S contention that the town has a liability of about $13,220.61 to face this coming year and about $6,666 upon the transactions of 1892. In excuse for this overdraft, exceptional expenditures are put forward in its defense, such as the Edison drain, but if that is to be considered as an extraordinary expenditure, there are also extraordinary receipts that the council of 1892 had over the council of the previous year. For instance, last year's council had an increased revenue of about $900 from licenses, from increased assessment, about $1600, from market tolls about $930, and from dog tags, $660. In all about $3,930 of extra revenue that should have come very near to closing the accounts for the year 1892, without any deficit. We do not overlook the fact that there were increased expenditures in the operations of the year 1892 in connection with the fire hall of $800, market clerk's office $700, band stand $75, for lot $380, and for raising clock tower $300; but the extra revenue should have covered this, and if not, a sufficient rate should have been struck to cover the amount and each year's business closed without handing over to the incoming council deficits that must be provided for, and in all likelihood by debentures. When a deficit exists it should be provided for, and if the presentation to the ratepayers of the large deficit which the present council has to provide, will be the means of preventing a continuance of the practice of carrying over deficits, the ratepayers will be better satisfied. We have conclusively proved that the statement made at the Nomination that there was no deficit was not in accordance with the facts, and that our contention that there did exist a deficit, and that that amount was over $6,000 was correct. It has reached over $8,000, and with the deficit of 1891, and the Nicholls' Hospital deficit, leaves the town to commence the year 1893 with a current liability unprovided for of over $13,000.

CORALS AND CORAL REEFS.

Instructive Lecture by Mr. Science Master Fife, B. A., before the Collegiate Institute Literary Society.

There was a fair attendance at the regular fortnightly meeting held in the Assembly Hall of the Collegiate Institute last evening under the auspices of the Literary Society. The meeting was very interesting, the musical portion of the programme being pleasingly and tunefully rendered, while the lecture though on an uncommon topic was made clear and interesting by Mr. Fife. The proceedings opened with a splendidly played pianoforte duet by Misses Edith and Abbie Robinson. Their performance was loudly applauded. Miss Ethel Brown recited "Dollars and Dimes," with preciseness and effectiveness. The glee club then rendered one of its popular selections in fine style, after which Mr. Fife delivered his lecture on "Corals and Coral Reefs." The lecturer illustrated his subject by diagrams and specimens of corals, and dealt with his subject under the following heads:—

(a) The description of the sea anemones and a comparison between its structure and that of the coral animal.

(b) The origin and growth of coral colies.

(c) The difference in appearance and size of coral animals, and of the rocks formed by them.

(d) The area over which reef building corals are distributed, and the causes of their confinement to that area.

(e) Classification of coral reefs into three classes—atolls, barrier reefs and fringing reefs.

(f) Darwin's theory regarding the formation of atolls and barrier reefs from fringing reefs.

(g) The contributions of coral animals towards the formation of continents, as illustrated by the structure of the peninsula of Florida, and the part of Switzerland called the Jura.

(h) A description of the red coral of commerce, and of the industry created by the demand for it.

At the close the glee club favoured the audience with a pretty little song entitled "Fair, Fair, with Golden Hair," which was sung with much taste. The next number was a very amusing dialogue, "The Rival Orators," by Masters W. Davidson and Percy Earle, while the last number was a very touching reading entitled "The Light on Dead Man's Bar," given with much expression and pathos by Miss Thomas. The evening's entertainment was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

The next and last lecture in the series will be given by Mr. W. J. Drope, B.A., commercial master, on Friday night next, March 24th. His subject will be "An Evening with Mars." The Peterborough Octette Club will render some of their artistic selections during the evening.

"March to search" is the old adage. It searches out any weakness of the system, resulting from impure blood. Those who use Ayer's Sarsaparilla find March no more searching or even disagreeable than any other month. This medicine is a wonderful invigorator.

MR. STEVENSON'S SPEECH.

He says he is not a "Wobbler"—Peterborough's Enterprise and Prosperity.

Mr. James Stevenson, M.P., is reported in the Empire of yesterday as making the following observations in the House of Commons on Thursday night last:

Mr. Stevenson was loudly cheered by the Government supporters on rising. He desired to give a few reasons why he was a supporter of the policy of the Government and an opponent of the amendment moved by Mr. McCarthy. In the first place he stood firmly on the platform of the National Policy, and he did not wobble. Hear, hear, and laughter.) He had been in business in Peterborough for 50 years, and he had seen good times and bad times, but the worst times he could recollect were during the reign of hon. gentlemen opposite. (Hear, hear.) He remembered well during that period that he could not get money for less than 12 per cent. He remembered that during that same period the labouring men of the town were glad to earn the large sum of 60 cents per day by working for the corporation. (Hear hear.) He had heard the National Policy abused in this House by Messrs. Charlton, Paterson and Cartwright, and he certainly thought that if the representations of those gentlemen were correct, they must be the representatives of very poor people indeed. (Hear hear.) Their constituencies must be going to the dogs. (Laughter.) He had also heard Mr. McMillan give a very doleful description of the state of the farmers. All he (Mr. Stevenson) had to say was that the farmers in his constituency, and he came into contact with them a great deal, were perfectly satisfied. (Hear, hear.) All this "unrest" that they had heard so much about recently existed only in the brains of the politicians, whose sole desire was to change sides in this House. (Hear, hear.) It did not emanate from the farmers, and he knew as much about the farmers as any man in the House. He had to say further that he had never heard of this so-called unrest until he had got into this House. (Hear, hear.) He then explained that the worst foes that could be found were in one's own household. (Hear, hear.) He thought the last man to offer amendments to the tariff should be a lawyer. Mr. McCarthy might know something about law, but he did not know a great deal about tariff. (Laughter.) Now, he would give some information to the House regarding the practical results of the National Policy in the constituency from whence he came. Ten years ago Peterborough had a population of 4,000. To-day, owing to the National Policy, that town had a population of 12,000. (Cheers.) Still the place was growing having gained 1,000 during the past 12 months. (Hear, hear.) Yet in the face of such facts hon. gentlemen opposite would try to make him believe that the country was in a state of ruin. (Hear, hear.) He wondered if they ever took into account the number of people who were coming to Canada from the United States. They had in his town over 60 families who had come from the United States within the past seven years. They had bought property, had taken the oath of allegiance to Her Majesty, and had become just as strong Conservatives as he was himself. (Cheers.) There was no wobbling about them either. (Great laughter.) When he said he came from a town rapidly growing under the agencies of the National policy, he was in a position to prove his words. (Hear hear.) He was not ashamed to tell the House that they had plenty of factories in Peterborough giving employment to a large number of people. These factories were doing well and holding their own. There was no combine in Peterborough except that controlled by the lawyers. (Laughter.) They had the Auburn woolen mills there, the stock of which sold in 1875 for five cents on the dollar. What happened later when the National Policy came in? With the aid of the N.P. and good management, which was also a most important factor, the stock of that concern was to-day worth 120 and to-day it employed 200 hands. (Cheers.)

The William Hamilton Manufacturing Company employed 130 mechanics. The Peter Hamilton Manufacturing Company, makers of agricultural implements, just as good and just as cheap as they could be got in the States, employed 125 hands all the year round. Then the Electric Light company, an American company that had come to Canada owing to the N P., employed no less than 500 hands. This was a pretty good factory for a town the size of Peterborough. (Hear, hear.) Then there was the Hilliard Woollen mills with 60 hands, the John White factory with 30 hands, the Steel Bridge Works with 80 hands all the year round. In 1878 there was not an industry of this character in Canada. The people of Peterborough, instead of sitting down and groaning about blue ruin, believed in going ahead. They took stock in these factories because they knew that they would get their money back again, if indirectly. (Cheers.) With perhaps one or two exceptions, the stock in the manufacturing concerns was owned by the people of the town. (Hear, hear.) Then Lock Works were established in Peterborough. In this instance the citizens of that town discovered that there was not a lock-manufacturing concern in Canada outside the Kingston penitentiary, and they went to Detroit, bought out a concern and its patents, and shipped the institution to Peterborough. (Hear, hear.) To-day that concern employed 175 hands, and the output of the factory was between $125,000 and $175,000. He then explained how an American concern had tried to freeze out this new industry in Canada by cutting the price to the Canadian trade 20 per cent., but the Peterborough people had fought it out. The competition had brought the prices in Canada to 40 per cent. lower than they were seven years ago. There could be no talk about a combination in this. (Hear, hear.) With the thriving industries in Peterborough the farmers in the surrounding district were benefitted. He pictured to the House the 250 teams on the market in Peterborough every Saturday, and the farmers getting good prices for their produce right in their home market. (Hear, hear.)

The speaker then showed how the Americans had cut the prices of carbons as soon as Canadians had started a factory in Peterborough. They had cut the prices 50 per cent., but the Peterborough people could not be scared out. (Cheers.) They had doubled their stock in a single day to carry on the business, knowing that they would gain in the long run, though perhaps indirectly. One fact which showed the condition of the farmers in the district from which he came was this: The sheriff of Peterborough had not had an execution against a farmer for 12 months. (Cheers.) The sheriff had told him (Mr. Stevenson) that he thought he would starve. (Loud laughter.) These were a few reasons why he was there advocating the National Policy and he thought the people in his district would be a mighty poor lot if they did not. (Hear, hear.) He then showed how the prices of coal had been kept up, notwithstanding the fact that the duty had been taken off. The railway companies on the other side of the line had gobbled the difference. (Hear, hear.) The mechanics and the farmers should stand together, as their interests went hand in hand. If the mechanics suffered so would the farmers suffer. (Hear, hear.) Then reverting to the profits made by the industries, the Opposition had talked a great deal about the bloated manufacturers. The factories in Peterborough paid about 6 per cent. He created a laugh in the House when he suggested that Sir Richard Cartwright ought to place his money in the industries of the country instead of hoarding it up. The wages paid in Peterborough had increased in 10 years from $100,000 to $000,000 per annum. Who, in the face of such facts, would not support the National Policy which had been attacked by the member for North Simcoe? (Cheers.)

From the Globe's report we notice that Mr. Stevenson told the House that it was his intention to retire from politics as soon as possible.

The Mail's report gives him as saying that the only combine in Peterborough was among the lawyers.

CRISP CURLING CHRONIQUES.

What is Going on at the Rink Where Curlers Most do Congregate.

The long delayed third competition for the Peterborough-Lindsay Challenge Cup came off yesterday and was won easily by by the Scugog City curlers who defeated the home quartettes quite handily. In the four rink struggle every quartette of the Peterboroughs was defeated excepting Skip Attrill who came out even in his battle with Skip Edwards. Two rinks of the Lindsay curlers came down at noon and played two home rinks on the ice here during the afternoon. The visitors had what would almost be termed a walk over. Skip Flavelle defeating Skip Budden by 16 shots. The struggle between Skip McGill and Skip McClennan was keener but the foreign stone throwers triumphed by two shots—thus winning by 16 shots. The ice was in capital condition. Following are the scores:—

Peterborough.	Lindsay.
RINK NO. 1.
A Blade,	J Moore,
T E Bradburn,	L McIntosh,
J H Connal,	W H Simpson,
W H Budden, sk....16	J D Flavelle, sk.....30
RINK NO. 2.
D Belleghem,	W Dundas,
S Ray,	J H Ferguson,
T Rutherford,	J Matthie,
C McGill, sk 16	W McLennan, sk 18

The two rinks which went to Lindsay to play a couple of quartettes there also met defeat, though not quite so badly as the two rinks which played here. Skip Pentland yielded to Skip Knowlson by 6 shots, while as forementioned, the other rinks came out even. Thus Peterborough lost in the affray by 22 shots in all. Following was the score at Lindsay:—

Peterborough.	Lindsay.

This is the fourth year that the Peterborough-Lindsay Challenge Cup has been fought for. Lindsay captured the trophy the first year, Peterborough the second and third, and Lindsay again takes the cup this year, and will hold the silver memento of victory for 1893. In the first battle this year Lindsay won, then Peterborough, then Lindsay — accordingly beating two times out of three. The visitors took the cup home with them yesterday, and were in great good glee.

Several members of the Granite division are taking advantage of the last few days of curling and will play the "points game" the rink this afternoon and evening.

An interesting make-up match and one which resulted in a close tussle, came off at the rink last night between Skips Belleghem and Edmison. The latter was victorious in a 12-end struggle by 1 shot. In the fourth end Skip Edmison achieved a remarkable freak, making a seven head. Following are the rinks:

T LePlante,	J C Smith,
T F Connal,	Geo Howson,
E Rutherford,	C N Brown,
D Belleghem, sk....13	Geo Edmison, sk.....14

The match at the rink last night between Skips Belleghem and Edmison was for the "Christie stiffs," the price of each "cady" not to exceed $2.50. The furniture king will consequently be out an X. A return match will be played next week for the hats again.

In the curling contest yesterday the reason that Skip Flavelle bested Skip Budden so badly was because his quartette was composed of three old Peterborough boys viz. Mr. Flavelle himself, and Messrs. McIntosh and Simpson. Hence it is no disgrace for one man to be downed by another of his kind, so to speak.

FRANCO-CANADIAN TREATY.

In Paris the Greatest Surprise is Felt at Canada's Action.

London, March 18.—Sir John Thompson, the Dominion Premier, arrived in Paris yesterday.

He will at once be notified by the British Government of the strange position in which the Franco-Canadian treaty has been placed by the declaration of Hon. George E. Foster in the Dominion Commons.

The prevalent English view of the matter is reciprocated in France. In Paris the greatest surprise is expressed at Canada's action. The matter is a theme of general comment in French political circles, and comparisons are being instituted between Canada and Newfoundland.

It is a fact to be regretted that owing to the contradictory statements and complications arising over the bait question and the troubles on the Newfoundland French shore, France regards her ancient colony's official assurances as worthless. Owing to the action of the Canadian Government in the matter of the French treaty there is an inclination to place the Dominion in the same category.

Another result to be feared, these Paris advices state, is that the whole thing will throw discredit on the Canadian representations in the Behring Sea arbitration.

In London there is no abatement of the harsh expressions that I cabled on Wednesday. The British officials are much incensed, and the more the matter is talked about the worse this feeling grows.

I may instance the extent of the indignation by saying that one official expressed the opinion that Canada's action was unparalleled.

It must seriously hamper the extension of treaty-making powers to any of the colonies since Canada occupies a first position.

Another official says that Great Britain can't afford to be made a laughing stock of to the world through a colonial minister.

A Boozing Vicar.

Alarm Clocks!

There are a great many small Alarm Clocks which have been running for a few years and are now out of order, which the owners are allowing to remain idle, because they think it will cost too much to repair them. If you bring them to us you will find that we will make them run as well as they ever did, at a very small charge. We have already changed hundreds of them from being merely rubbish into good timepieces. If you want to buy a new one, we will sell you an Alarm Clock at a lower price than any one else in the trade. We sell only the very best make and warrant every one.

A NOBLE REPRESENTATIVE OF A NOBLE BREED.

THE ROUGH-COATED SCOTCH COLLIE.

NY farmer who keeps a flock of sheep, or any considerable number of other live stock, can have no more useful helper than a well-bred collie. Such a dog attends strictly to business at all times, and, unlike some other kinds of farm help, never goes on a spree; never leaves work undone to attend a circus, nor strikes for higher wages just before harvest. It is quite probable that it was the study of collies and their doings which suggested to Madame de Stael her famous remark that the more she saw of dogs the less she thought of man. To witness the marvelous efficiency of collies on the Scottish highlands, or among the half-wild Herdwick flocks of Cumberland, or on the great sheep ranges of Colorado, one might suppose that they were peculiarly a mountain race of dogs. But they are equally at home in the crowded stockyards of the West. When the avenues of those yards are thronged with almost countless flocks and herds, the active and vigilant collies may be seen moving among and around them, keenly alert to every movement, guiding, leading and driving each flock just where it is to go, without confusion or intermixture. The collie is not only a useful and valuable helper, but is also most affectionate to its master, while meeting the advances of strangers with suspicious indifference. There is really a sort of instinctive nobility and dignity in the nature of a collie which leads it to expect kindness in return for its intelligent work and devoted attachment. A harsh angry word seems to hurt it, as a buffet would a less sensitive dog, and, if actually struck a cruel blow, one of them will go around for days with a grieved and dejected air. A collie which was owned on a Colorado ranch, always met its master with exuberant demonstrations of joyful welcome, on his return from occasional visits to the nearest settlement. But if he showed evidence of intoxication, the dog was quick to recognize the fact, and its whole aspect changed instantly. With a look of chagrin if not reproach, to its disguised master, it would slink off until the following morning.

In form, color, markings, and general appearance, the collie is a comely dog. The size may be called medium, a typical specimen standing a little less than two feet high at the shoulders. The entire form is firm, muscular and well-knit with no superfluous flesh. The head is long, wide between the ears, and tapering downward to the pointed muzzle. The dark, rather close-set eyes are bright, keen and watchful, the ears small, thin and drooping backward, save when pricked up in moments of excitement. The general expression of the countenance is kindly, intelligent and alert. The hair upon most of the body, is long, straight and somewhat harsh on the outside, while beneath is a close, fine under-coat. A striking feature is the thick mane which extends from the top of the shoulders around the neck to the breast, where it meets the frill, which, especially if it is white, has a sort of doggish resemblance to the ruffled shirt-fronts which our grandfathers wore when in full dress. The fore-legs are straight and firm, covered with close, short hair in front, and feathered behind from the elbows to the feet. The hind legs are very muscular in the thighs, with well bent stifles, and feathered behind as low as the hocks, which are well let down. The tail is in its general appearance a marked characteristic of the breed. Long, and fully feathered, it is carried low to within a few inches of the end, which curls gracefully upward. It would be difficult to make in six lines a more life-like picture of a dog, than Burns gives of his own collie, Luath:

"His honest, sonsie, bawsn't face
Aye gat him friends in ilka place.
His breast was white, his towzie back
Weel clad wi' coat of glossy black,
His gawcie tail wi' upward curl
Hung o'er his hurdies wi' a swirl."

In the matter of color there is a great variety. A very popular combination is black with white markings and very pale tan points. There has at times been quite a fancy for black-and-tan collies—pure black, with points of dark reddish tan. Such dogs are not pure-bred, the dark tan indicating a cross of the Gordon setter. They are very handsome as pets, but lack the essential characteristics of the collie for practical usefulness. Various shades of sable, orange and gray are common colors of pure-bred collies. The young collie learns very quickly if treated with invariable kindness, patience and tact. It is essential, however, that one person, only, shall be the trainer, and that no other attempt to give orders or pay much attention to the pup, while it is in training. The natural sagacity of the animal is so great that it quickly comprehends what is wanted and learns the best way to accomplish it. Our double column picture and initial vignette present very faithful likenesses of the young collie Fordhook Eclipse (A. K. C. S. B. 25889) of the celebrated Fordhook kennels of Mr. W. Atlee Burpee, Philadelphia. The dog was born in February, 1892, the sire being the Champion Christopher 21676, dam Fordhook Smiles 14049. Fordhook Eclipse is a typical collie, the counterpart of his famous sire. In color he is a very dark sable, with white markings, and in head, body, limbs, coat and action, is a remarkably fine specimen of the renowned breed.—American Agriculturist for March.

Artificial Diamonds.

M. Moissan, member of the Academie des Sciences, has produced a number of microscopic specimens of true diamonds from ordinary carbon, which he had crystalized by means of an electrical furnace, invented by himself. Results were obtained by dissolving pure carbon, obtained by the combustion of sugar in an ingot of iron heated of 3,000 degrees centigrade, and then crystalizing it by the application of cold water. The crystals thus produced are very minute, not above the thousandth part of a carat, but they exhibit all the qualities of the real diamond.

TO FIGHT FOR ULSTER.

A LEAGUE FORMED BY PROMINENT BRITISHERS.

A Central Assembly of Six Hundred Members to Be Formed at Belfast—A Government Council of Sixty to be elected—Its Patient, Enroll, Combine.

LONDON, March 17.—A Unionist manifesto has been issued over the signature of the Duke of Abercorn, the Marquis of Londonderry, the Earl of Erne, Lord Arthur Hill, Colonel Saunderson, the Mayors of Belfast and Londonderry and others.

The manifesto announces the formation of an Ulster Defence League, not merely to continue the struggle for the Union, but to prepare to meet any contingency.

The signers call upon Unionists to qualify at once as members of the league. The two necessary qualifications of every successful applicant for admission are that he be a full grown man and pledge himself to be faithful to the cause of Union.

Those enrolled as members will send delegates to Belfast to form a central assembly of 600 members, who will elect a governing council of 60.

The last words of the manifesto are: "Be patient, enroll, combine."

AN ELECTION TROUBLE.

Lord Mountstephen Charged With Infringing the Law.

LONDON, March 17.—Lord Mountstephen has been taking a hand in the political fight in Banffshire and has got into hot water over it. The constituency was thrown open by the appointment of the former representative, Hon. R. W. Duff, a Home Ruler, to the Governorship of one of the Australian colonies, replacing the Earl of Jersey, who recently resigned.

Sir William Wedderburn was the Gladstonian candidate and Mr. Grant the Unionist. Dufftown, Lord Mountstephen's native place, is in Banffshire and the peer wrote letters to his friends there and advised them to vote for Mr. Grant in the election. By so doing his lordship infringed a resolution of Parliament against peers interfering in elections. Accordingly the matter has been brought to the attention of the House of Commons.

Mr. Gladstone, in referring to the charge, said that, seeing that this peer was opposed to the Government in politics, the Government would leave any action to be taken in the matter to the House. However, no action has yet been taken.

Lord Mountstephen's efforts in behalf of Mr. Grant were futile, for Sir William Wedderburn was returned by a majority of 771.

A LIBERAL GAIN.

Banffshire Sends a Supporter of Gladstone to Parliament.

LONDON, March 17.—The election in Banffshire, Scotland, yesterday, of a member of Parliament to fill the place of Robert William Duff, Liberal, recently appointed Governor of New South Wales, resulted in the choice of Sir William Wedderburn, Liberal, by 3166 votes to 2395 for J. A. Grant, the Conservative and Liberal-Unionist candidate.

The election was sharply contested, notwithstanding the severity of the weather and the fact that many of the roads were blocked with snow. At the general election in 1889, Duff, Liberal, had 2293 votes to 1424 for Barry, Independent.

NOT YET SATISFIED.

The Embargo on Live Canadian Cattle Gets a New Lease.

LONDON, March 17.—In answer to questions in the House of Commons Herbert Gardner, President of the Board of Agriculture, said that the embargo upon Canadian cattle must be maintained until conclusive proofs of the absence of disease from the Canadian herds were obtained.

Home Rule Condemned.

Gives Strength and Appetite.

DEAR SIRS,—Last year I was very thin and reducing very fast, owing to the bad state of my blood and appetite. A friend of mine induced me to get a bottle of B.B. B., which I did. I obtained immediate perceptible relief from it, having gained strength and appetite, and now weigh 193 pounds, M. T. MURPHY,

When the kidneys are clogged, good health is an impossibility; but when working properly the reverse is the case. That dull back-ache is the kidney's cry for relief. If Dodd's Kidney Pills are used the result will be marvellous. We emphatically state that we have never known a case of kidney disease that a persistent use of Dodd's Kidney Pills will not cure.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE IN THE EAXMINER

THE LATEST COIFFURES.

The Cable, the Figure 8 and the Psyche Knot.

As our illustrations show, all hair at present is completely waved all over the head. Fortunate is the woman whose hair waves naturally. Others must betake themselves to the curling iron.

Frances does not use a regular wave iron. It makes too stiff and set a curve, suggestive of a fishing machine.

To attain the "waviness" of any of the coiffures illustrated, first divide the hair all around about an inch deep from the face and neck. Gather up the rest in a knot on top of the head to keep it from tangling with the part to be waved. Heat an ordinary curling tong. Roll tightly around the finger a reasonable amount of the divided hair, then wrap the soft around the iron, pressing the top of the tongs down on the mass for several seconds. This gives the soft, natural, flowing, irregular wave so much to be desired.

Soft effects are always to be aimed at in arranging the hair. A hard line is an abhorrent to an artistic dresser as to a portrait painter.

The heavy bang is now equally as vulgar as bloodined hair.

A soft, thin frizz encircling the face is good form. The long point in the middle of the forehead is very trying to most faces, consequently little worn.

To hold back gracefully the thick bang now perplexes the average woman. By curling the ends and the use of side combs or invisible hairpins, practice gradually enables one to subject the unruly mass to the new order of things, until it grows sufficiently long to be lost in the back hair.

The high Psyche knot is dressy and becoming for evening wear. It must always be soft, a puffy effect, with the ends wrapped softly around.

Begin by combing up all the hair, letting the comb pass gently through the waved hair, wind both waved and plain into a French twist, letting the puff-like effect extend high, giving a long effect in the back; fasten the puff firm with hairpins. Then divide the end of the hair into two parts and wrap them softly round, to make two puffs, on either side of the knot. A twist of ribbon fastened round the whole, ending in a stiff bow knot on top, makes a very fetching coiffure.

Both the "cable" and the "figure eight" call for a soft, full roll of hair twisted first underneath and carried round the top of the point where the hair is gathered together first. With the "figure eight" the hair is parted in the middle and also through the soft puffy bang. Figure eight is worn high at about three-fourths of the head; it is also worn at the nape of the neck. The latter style is becoming to long, slender faces.

Favorite New York Styles—The Cable; the Psyche Knot; the Figure Eight, Low Back View, and High, Side and Top Views.

A picturesque and popular dressing for some young and the majority of middle-age faces is a fine part in the middle, then a part on either side about half way back. The parted hair is then slightly waved and lightly twisted backward so as to conceal the side part, the front falling softly over the ears, the ends lost in a soft roll or knot, or figure eight, at the nape of the neck. In this manner "Romola," in the $500 prize water color painting by Mrs. Montgomery Sears at the spring water-color exhibit at the Academy of Design, wears her Italian tresses.

A. P. Noakes, Mattawa, Ont., writes:—"I have been troubled for years with rheumatism and nervous debility, and after using six boxes of your Dr. Williams' Pink Pills am entirely restored to health, and can do a good day's work." Sold by all dealers, or sent by mail at 50c. a box or six boxes for $2.50. Dr. Williams' Med. Co., Brockville, Ont.

Encouragement for old People.

It may sound queer to talk about curing old people of Kidney and Urinary troubles after they have passed the alloted period of three score years and ten, but the following extraordinary recovery of an old veteran by Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure, ought to be of great encouragement to old people:—

BELLEVILLE, March 4, 1893.
Peterborough Medicine Company (Limited.)
GENTLEMEN,—I owe a great debt of gratitude to Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure for the prompt and speedy relief which I have received from the use of only one bottle of your great medicine. I have suffered from Kidney and Urinary troubles, inflammation of the neck of the bladder, &c. for many a long day. No one knows better than old people how great a blessing it is to be cured. I doctored a lot, but nothing did me so much good as your cure. I have lived about half a century in Belleville, and will be only to glad to speak a good word in favour of Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure. I can also recommend it for constipation and stomach troubles.
JAMES HAROLD.

Beware of Cholera.

THE SUPPLEMENTARY ESTIMATES UNDER DISCUSSION.

Four Judges Appointed—Exports and Imports—Lieutenant-Governor Chapleau Wants Better Health and is Going to Europe for Three Months.

OTTAWA, March 18.—Yesterday was to a large extent a wasted day. The House was in supply nearly all the afternoon and evening on the supplementary estimates for the current year, but very little progress has been made, the time being mostly taken up discussing the quarantine items, without anything very new or useful being adduced.

Previous to going into supply Hon. Mr. Mills called attention to the practice of American consuls in collecting fees for certificates on goods exported from Canada to the United States. He thought this was an extra charge put on Canadian goods, as he did not think this charge was made on goods entering the United States from other countries.

Hon. Mr. Foster said that he could not tell whether those fees were established by law or not, but it had been the practice for years for American consuls to collect fees. The consuls were paid by fees, and he believed they collected them in other countries.

The Steamboat Inspection Act passed through committee and was reported.

The act to amend the act relating to holidays passed through committee, was read a third time and passed.

The House then went into Committee of Supply, passed a few minor items and the balance of the time up to 6 o'clock was taken up discussing the quarantine items in supplementary estimates.

After recess the Act to amend the Act incorporating the Eastern Canada Savings and Loan Co. was read a second time.

A number of private bills were read a third time and passed, amongst them the following:

To further amend the act to enable the city of Winnipeg to utilize the Assiniboine River water-power.

Act respecting the Canadian Power Co., amended by Select Standing Committee on miscellaneous private bills.—Mr. Tisdale.

Act relating to the harbor of Thornbury on Georgian Bay.—Mr. Sproule.

Act for the relief of Martha Ballantyne.—Mr. Sutherland.

Act for the relief of James Balfour.—Mr. Sutherland.

Act for the relief of Edmund Holyoake Heward.

Act to incorporate the Automatic Telephone and Electric Company of Canada.—Mr. Girouard (Jacques Cartier).

Act to incorporate the Atlantic and Pacific Railway Company.—Mr. Bergin.

Act respecting the Canadian Pacific Railway Company.—Mr. Baker.

Act to incorporate the Grand Council of the Catholic Mutual Benefit Association of Canada.—Mr. Devlin.

Act respecting the British America Assurance Company.—Mr. Cockburn.

House again went into supply.

To-day's Canada Gazette will contain the appointment of W. W. Fitzgerald of London as county judge of Welland; Junior Judge Barrett of Bruce to be county judge of Bruce, and A. B. Klein of Walkerton as junior judge; also of Neil McLeod of Charlottetown as County Court judge of Prince County, P.E.I.

The exports for the month of February were $3,770,822, a decrease of $347,069 on same month last year.

The total value of goods entered for consumption last month was $7,989,834, an increase of $36,589 over February last year. Duty collected, $1,582,239, a decrease of $99,336 from same month last year.

Notice is given of application for incorporation by letters patent of the Georgian Bay Lumber Company, headquarters at Waubaushene, Ont., capital $200,000.

Deposits in Government savings banks last month were $222,512, and withdrawals $210,379.

Lieut.-Governor Chapleau has been granted three months' leave of absence to visit Europe for the benefit of his health. His Honor Chief Justice Lacoste will be administrator of the province during Lieut.-Governor Chapleau's absence.

Bradstreet's Report.

NEW YORK, March 18.—Wholesale trade throughout the Province of Ontario is fairly satisfactory and prices generally are firm, except for grain, which is dull.

Spring trade in Nova Scotia will be later this year than last year, as the interior is still covered with large accumulations of ice and snow.

Bank clearings at Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton and Halifax aggregate $19,983,000 this week, which is 5 per cent. more than last week and 15 per cent. more than in the week one year ago.

There were 38 business failures reported in the Dominion this week against 43 last week, 37 in the like week a year ago and 26 in 1891.

The "squeeze" at Montreal yesterday was the customary period of tight money prior to the opening of navigation, aggravated by bankers and others there having sent within a few days about $500,000 to New York to loan.

Aiding Canada's Trade.

LONDON, March 17.—Mr. John Dyke, the Government agent at Liverpool, was yesterday summoned as a recognized expert to give evidence before the House of Lords on the Manchester ship canal, which will probably be completed for next year's Canadian trade.

He showed that the canal would be of the greatest service to Canada's trade, as it would give a more direct access than via Liverpool to the vast masses of the consumers living in the manufacturing districts.

THE CATTLE SCHEDULE.

A Systematic Inspection of a Few Cargoes to Be Made.

LONDON, March 18.—The decision of the Hon. Herbert Gardner, the President of the Board of Agriculture, regarding Canadian cattle is regarded as the best obtainable by those in Dominion circles in London.

The opposition of the farming interests of the United Kingdom, excepting part of Scotland, precluded the immediate rescinding of the schedule.

It was, therefore, decided by Mr. Gardner that arrangements should be made for a systematic inspection of the lungs of all Canadian cattle landed during the first few weeks of the season. It is the belief that a very short period of this treatment will remove every reasonable doubt of Canada's freedom from the disease. However, Mr. Gardner refuses to name a specific date for the removal of the restrictions, but he says the more healthy the cattle that arrive the sooner the embargo will be removed.

Canada's policy, therefore, is to hurry along all the healthy cattle that she can, insisting, meanwhile, upon a most rigorous inspection at Montreal.

A CONSUL ASTONISHED.

A Bomb Exploded in His Palace at Rome.

ROME, March 18. — Yesterday a bomb exploded on the Ancisi Mattei Palace, the residence of U.S. Minister Potter. The explosion did but slight damage.

The United States Minister called at the Foreign Office this afternoon and told Signor Brin, Minister of Foreign Affairs, he was convinced that the explosion was not intended to injure him or affront the United States Government. He expressed his regret that such an embarrassing incident had occurred and assured Signor Brin of the sympathy of the United States Government and its willingness to let the affair pass unnoticed.

Signor Brin thanked him for his visit and two hours later returned the call to inform him that the Italian Government felt the deepest regret on account of the inconvenience caused to him and his family by the explosion.

AN AFRICAN PLAGUE.

He Blew Himself and Nine Others to Atoms.

BERLIN, March 18.—A miner named Boehme purposely exploded 10 pounds of dynamite in the iron mine Volkmarskeller in the Hers district. He and six other miners were torn to atoms.

Upon leaving home this morning he gave his wife a letter which he said was not to be opened till noon. The letter said merely that Boehme would never return.

Boehme's motive is supposed to have been revenge, as he had had trouble recently with the superintendent of the mine and was constantly quarrelling with his fellow-workmen.

A PLAGUE IN AFRICA.

Caused by Lengthy Drought and Famine Sickness.

CAIRO, March 18.—Prolonged drought is causing much damage in the north of Africa. There has been no rain in the Vilayet of Barca for five months and Tripoli has suffered almost as badly. Famine sickness is rife and the plague prevails everywhere, due to the poisonous emanations from putrifying carcasses.

One-half of the population of Bengazi, the chief town of Barca, is dead, among the victims being the Governor and the Cadi of the district and many Europeans. The Italian Consul and all of the rich Europeans have fled to Egypt or Malta.

SMART SPRING MANTLES

In our north window we display some of the very newest patterns of Imported Mantles for Spring wear.

They are style all over. The craft of the skilled German model garment makers is manifest in these Mantles, and the attention of ladies is especially drawn to the new material and exquisite taste which has been displayed in these two directions.

We make the point that our Mantles are new—wholly new—new in design, new in shape, and new in price.

Ladies who have looked elsewhere for something to suit them in a Spring Mantle, will have no difficulty in making their final selections from our stock. We are perhaps a little early in exposing these Mantles, but the temptation was too strong, and besides, some one must lead, so we take the consequences of our unusual advanced preparations for this spring season of 1893.

THE GERMAN ARMY BILL

A VIOLENT POLITICAL CONTEST SEEMS IMMINENT.

Stirring Events Will Follow the Rejection of the Army Bill—Dissolution of the Reichstag and an Appeal to the Country.

BERLIN, March 20.—Before the final vote on the Army bill in committee left the Government face to face with a definitely hostile majority Chancellor von Caprivi had conferences with Herren Huene, Rickert, Bennigsen and Lieber, the chiefs of the parties represented by the committee. The negotiations left the Government and the committee more hostile than ever towards each other. Only the Conservative and Free Conservative members of the committee supported the bill. The Chancellor gave as resolute a rejection to Herr Bennigsen's compromise proposals, though they largely conceded the Government's demands, as he did to the proposal of Herr Lieber, which conceded nothing. Herr Lieber's proposal, about which much mystery has been maintained, showed that the Center party had no desire to further treat with the Government. His proposal was practically the submission of a new bill providing for the maintenance of the present peace effective with a reduced term of service, the Government having the option in the event of emergencies to retain in active service the men who had served their term.

The report of the committee will be submitted to the Reichstag after Easter. Every indication now points to the Reichstag supporting the committee. The determined attitude of the Chancellor proves that Emperor William has resolved to take an extra step. It is now expected that the Reichstag will be dissolved at the end of April. The closing speeches in the committee had a pronounced election character, being less directed to criticism of the bill than to attacks upon the Government.

Herr Richter declared the rejection of Herr Bennigsen's compromise was an event in the light of which the whole political situation was thrown into clear relief. It was proof that there was no possibility to deal with a Government behind which was an imperious will. All the parties, he said, might now combine in defence of constitutionalism against absolutism.

Herr von Bennigsen denounced the stand made by Chancellor von Caprivi as precluding all hope of an arrangement and assuring the certainty of shipwreck to the bill. He declared that the obstinacy of the Government would precipitate a general election. Were the ministers aware, he asked, of what dissolution implied? It would bring about the wildest scenes of political confusion and would cause disorders hitherto unknown to the German electors. Herr Bennigsen warned the Government that they had no chance to rally the country to their side. They could rely upon no party except the Conservatives, and not even the Conservatives unless they made terms with the agrarian faction.

Then Freiherr von Buol-Berenberg, a Centrist, posed as an advocate of financial retrenchment, repeating all the old arguments on that question.

Chancellor von Caprivi rightly characterized the Centrist proposals as the negation of the object of the bill. Herr Bennigsen's proposal he rejected on the ground that the Federal Governments must adhere to the complete scheme of reorganization submitted to the Reichstag. The Chancellor held that the reiterated appeal to the Government to consider the burdens upon the Empire was insulting, and he declined to reply to Herr Bennigsen's predictions about the results of the committee's refusal to pass the bill. Finally the Chancellor tried to defend the action of the Government as entirely constitutional. He resented Herr Richter's remarks about absolutism and suggested that he might yet obtain the support of the National Liberals. Nothing, however, seems to justify this suggestion unless the Government's policy is modified. The National Liberals would be in opposition at a general election, and Herr Bennigsen, who is now Provisional President of Hanover, would have to resign his post. But the question is, is dissolution inevitable? The Emperor must first obtain the assent of the Bundesrath or Federal Council, the Bavarian and Saxon members of which are known to be absolutely hostile to an appeal to the country, preferring the withdrawal of the Army bill. If the Bundesrath refuses the Emperor's demand for the dissolution of the Reichstag, Chancellor von Caprivi must resign. If dissolution occurs the outlook for all parties is perplexing.

Herr von Kleist-Retzow at yesterday's meeting of the committee promised the Government the united support of the Conservatives. He spoke with too much assurance. Herren Mirbach, Manteuffel and other prominent Conservatives are already threatening to desert the Government unless the Chancellor's commercial treaty policy is abandoned.

Amid the complications of an electoral contest some of the Nationals would oppose while others would support the Government. Some of the Conservatives in the event of an appeal to the country will ask for the support of the electors mainly on the anti-Jewish platform. Others will stand as purely Government candidates. The Freisinnige, Centre and Socialist parties with their clearly defined platforms would probably reappear in the Reichstag so reinforced as to compel the Emperor to yield or raise a momentous contest between the monarch and Parliament. The last words of Herr Bennigsen pointed to these issues. If the Government, he said, persisted, Germany had reason to dread that she would be thrown into conflicts of such immeasurable consequences that it would be doubtful if the present generation would ever again see a settled condition of public life.

The Reichstag Commission to which the measure was referred has passed the bill relating to spies and to high treason. It applies to spies upon fort works, arsenals, war ships, etc., and fixes the penalty upon conviction at from two to five years' imprisonment, to which may be added a fine of from 1500 to 5000 marks.

Owing to the political crisis Chancellor von Caprivi will not accompany Emperor William on his visit to Rome, where His Majesty will take part in the celebration of King Humbert's silver wedding.

The National Zeitung reproduces a singular article from The Diritto, a newspaper of Rome, urging Germany to rupture her alliance with Austria and to join Italy, thus leaving her free to discuss the questions that are now hampered by the Austrian alliance. The National Zeitung and other papers declare that the proposal to form an Italo-German alliance obviously directed against the Holy See is merely a chimera.

Signs multiply that a crisis in national politics is at hand. The fiat national of Chancellor von Caprivi to abate the demands of the Army Bill one jot or tittle has been a disagreeable surprise to conservative men of all parties. The defeat of the Army Bill in committee is an unmistakable portent of its defeat in the Reichstag, for in the present temper of the parties hardly 150 of the necessary 199 votes can be rallied to its support. An early dissolution is apparently inevitable.

The prospect of a general election is regarded by all except Socialists and anti-Semitics with gloomy forebodings. Of the leaders of the great parties only Bebel Liebknecht and Singer will go light-hearted to the polls in the confidence of victory. The National Liberals, through Herr von Bennigsen, have done their utmost to avoid a crisis and are especially dejected, not only on account of Chancellor Caprivi's utter disregard of their offers of assistance and advice, but also on account of the desertion of Dr. Johannes Miquel, their representative in the Prussian Cabinet.

In official circles there is considerable talk about the advisability of the Emperor formally calling upon the masses to rally round him and return deputies who will accept his guidance without question. Such an unusual course undoubtedly would result in the disillusioning of the Emperor as to the regard which people feel towards him.

From William First a personal appeal to the people, especially in view of Prince Bismarck's endorsement of it, would have had enormous influence, and its object would have been approved by the vast majority of the voters. Coming from the present Emperor, with his short and varied record, it would probably be treated with comparative indifference.

The large gains generally allowed to the social Democrats in discussions of the general election have caused much apprehension among the old parties. The keenest observers agree that the present growth of Socialism, despite the weakness of the social Democratic leadership, is due directly to the disappointing results of the Emperor's labor policy.

During the last week Gen. Von Kaltenborn-Stachau was again upon the point of retiring from the Ministry of War, but his resignation was deferred in view of the general uncertainty in Cabinet and Parliament, and he probably will remain in office until the general reorganization of the Cabinet, which will follow the final decision of the Chancellor's fate.

The admirers of Prince Bismarck are preparing to celebrate his birthday in grand style. It is a question, however, whether he will be able to respond in person to the greetings of the pilgrims to Friedrichsruhe. He is still weak and condemned by Dr. Schweininger's orders to idleness. He is subject to fits of despondency, which cause the family much anxiety.

The United Press correspondent had an interview to-day with Dr. Johannes Miquel, Prussian Minister of Finance, concerning the critical situation created by the attitude of the parties towards the Army bill. Dr. Miquel's opinions on the subject are regarded as exceptionally important, as he is being accused daily of intriguing to precipitate a Cabinet crisis in connection with the bill to oust Count von Caprivi and to secure his own elevation to the Chancellorship.

In the event of a dissolution of the Reichstag, said Dr. Miquel, the majority of German electors, I believe, will support the Army bill. The South Germans and the Rhinelanders, who would suffer most from an invasion by the French army, would be especially anxious to return deputies who would favor strengthening the army to the full extent demanded by the Government.

In my opinion, however, the wisest course would be to effect a compromise with the present Reichstag and thus avoid the disadvantages suffered by the country from a general election. A majority for the present measure in modified form could be secured by some diplomatic negotiation with the Clericals and the Radicals (Freisinnige).

Dr. Miquel made no more direct reference to Count Von Caprivi's policy than that contained in his recommendation of a compromise.

The Chancellor's refusal to compromise, however, is the cause of the present critical condition of affairs.

The War Office has decided to adopt the cloth cuirass invented by a Mannheim tailor to resist the force of the small bore bullet.

SUNDAY OPENING OF THE FAIR.

The Board of Control Practically Declare in Favor of It.

CHICAGO, March 20—The Board of Control of the National World's Fair Commission met Saturday. Sunday opening of the Fair, which was discussed, was brought to a focus by the adoption of a resolution asking the local directors to take immediate action to provide $570,000 for the expenses of the jury if awards. The executive committee took no action on the question and referred the question to the finance committee.

The significance of the resolution lies in the fact that if the local directory takes no action Secretary Carlisle will be compelled to withhold a portion of the $2,500,000 appropriated by Congress for the use of the local directory. This, it is claimed, will absolve the local directory from its obligation to comply with the Sunday closing proviso which accompanied the appropriation.

To Rival the Carnegies.

PITTSBURG, March 20.—A powerful syndicate, composed of Pittsburg and Eastern capitalists, is being formed here to engage in an enterprise which will rival in magnitude the combined Carnegie interests. An emissary has been sent to Europe to interest capitalists there in the project.

The plans have progressed so far that the promoters are now engaged in negotiations for a site. One of the sites looked at is at a point above Monongahela City. The plant will be devoted to the manufacture of iron and steel of light and heavy grades, and it is said the syndicate even proposes to compete with the Carnegies in the making of armor plate.

Arrived in Irons.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 20.—Five sailors, who had a hand in murdering Mate Fitzgerald of the American bark Harper in the South Seas, arrived Sunday in irons on the barkentine Tropic Bird from Tahiti, in charge of two French gendarmes. They were transferred to the county jail, and will be tried here.

THE SARNIA [illegible]

THE STEAMER WAS JUST [illegible] DAYS OV[illegible]

The Government Steamer Stanley Starts Her and Accompanies Her to Sydney. All the 700 Odd Passengers Are Well.

HALIFAX, N.S., March 20.—When it was last night it was announced from the signal station that the steamer Sarnia and steamer Newfield were off the port, and considerable excitement was caused thereby. The Sarnia, of course, had to anchor at quarantine for inspection by the health officers. The Newfield came on up, and crowds assembled at Marine and Fisheries wharf to get any news she had.

The Newfield had sighted the disabled ship about noon and run down to her. Carrier pigeons were released at intervals from them till 5 o'clock, but they failed to reach their lofts. The Newfield encountered a hurricane yesterday from 3 to 6 o'clock and sustained considerable damage.

The Sarnia will not come up to the city till 9 o'clock to-morrow morning, and the only communication held with her last night was by the port officer. Steamer press representatives are not allowed on this boat, which is a Dominion Government steamer, but from those on her it was learned that the Sarnia's engineers had, after working night and day, repaired the broken shaft so that the steamer took in her own anchor at 5 o'clock Friday afternoon and went ahead under steam at about eight knots an hour.

All the 700 and odd passengers are well and were well cared for, the ship's larder being ample for all their wants.

The Sarnia's officers say that the latitude and longitude given by the steamer American in her report at New York were totally wrong, the disabled vessel being two or three hundred miles from the position given by the American.

The Sarnia is able to go ahead, but cannot go astern, and therefore must anchor to stop, and tugs will be employed to bring her to the city to-morrow morning.

The ship's arrival has lifted a great load of anxiety from the minds of the community, and therefore those present who were interested forgot to censure the captain for not taking a tow when he had the opportunity, so glad are they to hear now that the human freight so long on the ocean are all alive and well.

None of the steamers arriving at Halifax yesterday, although they came different courses, saw or heard any tidings of the missing Narcona.

Captain Alexander Read, the ship's husbandman to look after the needed repairs, went down to quarantine on the Argus. He had a short interview with Captain Couch, who said that the Sarnia had only broken her machinery about half an hour before the American spoke her. The damage was the breaking of the after crank shaft in the bearings, just aback the engine. The delay was caused by the great difficulty in getting the couplings connected in order to change the forward crank to the place of the after crank shaft. When the repairs were completed the ship was about 60 miles from St. Pierre.

Upon the engines being started she steamed about eight miles an hour and during the heavy northeast gale Saturday made as high as ten knots.

The wife and two children of Mr. Fauvel, M.P. for Bonaventure, are on board. One of the children, a miss of 10 years, has crossed the Atlantic seven times.

Following are saloon passengers by steamer Sarnia: J. M. Murray, A. H. Davidson, M. Dodd, G. Gaudin, J. E. Rogers, R. W. Godolphin, T. Vale Mad, Miss W. and Master Tanvel and maid, Mr. and Mrs. Payne, C. W. Bengough, E. Lescoq, S. D. Ross, G. Harcombe, J. Tickle, E. Whitten, J. Cook, Miss M. Warren, Col. Warren, T. Kenyon, W. Wilson, M. A. Wright, H. Palmer, R. L. and Mrs. Carr, Capt. Bame, S. French, Mr. and Mrs. Walker and child, Lieut. Knatchbull, J. Michell.

A SWINDLE ALLEGED.

Creditors of J. H. Turner Want to See the Color of Their Money.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 20.—The creditors of J. H. Turner, a real estate dealer who came here from Woodstock, Ont., eight years ago, claim to have been swindled by him out of over $400,000 and are seeking to regain their money. Turner conducted all his real estate operations through his typewriter, Miss Lizzie O'Donnell, and his practice was to sell the same piece of land to several different parties. Two Fresno ranches were each sold twice and the property in Santa Cruz County was disposed of four times in the same manner.

Turner also secured the confidence of a number of money brokers here and others, whom he induced to invest $100,000 in the Owens Valley Water Company, a scheme to irrigate the lands in Inyo County. They gave their notes in amounts ranging from $10,000 to $25,000, with the verbal understanding that they were not to be used until they could be paid from the profits of the scheme.

The banks will bring suit to collect the notes and the makers of them have nothing to show for their money. These facts were brought out by a suit filed by Turner to dissolve an attachment on some Fresno lands. Turner's office was closed and it was stated that he was at home in a dying condition.

A SOLDIER'S SUICIDE.

He Did Not Wait For An Enemy's Bullet.

WINNIPEG, March 20.—Details of the suicide of Inspector Piercy of the Northwest Mounted Police at Edmonton are just to hand. It seems he was confined to his room at an hotel, and during the temporary absence of his medical attendant he reached for a loaded gun, placed the muzzle in his mouth and blew the top of his head off. Piercy was a great favorite and stood high in society. He leaves a wife and family.

Swung to a Gate Post.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., March 20.—Jesse Jones, who shot and killed Sheriff John Burnett of Campbell County on a Knoxville and Ohio train yesterday morning, was taken from the jail at Jacksboro last night and swung to a gate post. There were not over a dozen men in the mob, and the lynching was done so quietly that the citizens knew nothing of it until this morning.

A Big Prize.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., March 20.—J. E. Strong of Shelby County is the winner of The Courier-Journal's prize of $10,000 for the person guessing nearest to the number of votes cast for President Cleveland. His guess is 12,136,610. The number of votes actually cast were 12,136,592.

TEMPERANCE, UNDER THE LAW OF EXPEDIENCY.

Clear Treatment of the Subject in St. Paul's Church Last Evening by Rev. Mr. Goldsmith—A Summarization of the Discourse.

Before an immense congregation which filled the edifice the Rev. Thos. Goldsmith in St. Paul's church last evening preached an original and stirring sermon on "Temperance from the standpoint of a Christian." The remarks of the rev. gentleman, delivered with perfervid eloquence and convincing power, were able and comprehensive and much of the effect and force of his thoughts and statements are lost in abridgement. The speaker selected as his text, St. Paul's Epistle to the Romans, 14th chapter and 21st verse. "It is good neither to eat flesh nor to drink wine, nor anything whereby thy brother stumbleth, or is offended, or is made weak."

In his introduction the rev. gentleman stated the subject was a rather extensive one and treating the enormous evil of intemperance. His object to-night was merely to place the latter in the Gospel light and to bring the whole question under the light of the holy scriptures. The pursuit of happiness was essential and legitimate in all needs. All had this very rational design—life and happiness. We must sacrifice to gain, and suffer if we would enjoy. This was a universal law of nature. We were social beings and our personal interests often conflicted with society around us, but as we gained much more from society than we lost, we could afford to lose, for the public good and then attain more than we deprived ourselves of What standard could we find apart from the Word of God? All else was experiment. In God's word we had the law of precept with no option but simple and direct obedience, or else a great and deliberate transgression. We had both personal and relative knowledge, and this branches out that precepts abound in the Word of God that guide us in all our matters. There was nothing which we must accept and obey, or else reject and rebel. Several things came under the head of expediency, and that which was expedient for us to do was wrong for us to neglect. If indifferent we were to examine ourselves and ascertain what will accrue to ourselves and those around us.

When there is a positive precept there must be an acceptance or rejection. When the law of expediency comes up we have to judge results and experiences and leave the matter with God. It was not incumbent upon us by direct precept, but it was a general command and so for our brother's good. The apostle mentions in the text meats and wines, which were offered to idols, and after the Corinthians were converted they could scarcely seperate the the two and had their minds defiled. The Jew looked upon this in a different way and could easily divide the two, and the apostle comes in and gives us advice, to avoid danger in the interest of a fellowman and Christian. Here comes in the law of expediency which was just as binding on us as a positive precept in proportion as it is distinct and clear. This was where the speaker said he intended to treat the subject. Under this head there was a number of Christian precepts which come up for arbitration in our minds. Expediency as a law call into exercise the higher principles of the human mind, and in it there may be as great a force as a precept which summons us to work. The work of erecting hospitals to alleviate suffering, the erection of asylums for the insane, and the precautions of strict sanitary measures are open, overwhelming and were positive duties for us to do, and so come under the laws of expediency He proposed to treat the subject of temperance under the law of Christ and expediency, and from two heads, the first personal. There was no medium course for many who drank. How did we know whether we could drink much or little, whether we could take a little and then stop. The safest way was to let it alone, for all drunkenness came from drink. The drinking customs of society led on and on, none intended to become drunkards, others let it alone and why could not they. The example of others should be a guide to us and as a

DICTATOR OF COMMON PRUDENCE

it would be safe for us to leave it alone and escape the danger. This question rested wholly upon the ground of expediency—on the whole ground of reason. Would we not rather make the sacrifice of indulgence than suffer the degradation and infamy of a drunkard's grave? But suppose, said the preacher, we could take a glass each day and reach old age and an honoured grave, still the law of expediency came in. We all knew the potency of a noble character, a pure life and a man who could curb his appetite. We, ourselves, might not be in danger, but are we willing to take the step? What about our influence? As a Christian men or women are we willing to make this adventure upon our brother, supposing that it would do us no harm, just to gratify our momentary indulgence. Would we be unwilling as a Christian to make a sacrifice to save a brother? Need we discuss the question whether the wines of the Old Testament were intoxicating or not? That did not matter. The question was potency of example, and the influence of our lives. We speak of intemperance as habitual, and that influence upon society is crushing and blasting men upon every street and alley in our great cities. Looking upon it as a law of expediency and every member of the church of God rebuking that habit so accursed, and the church of God taking its stand, and with its influence thrown in the scale of moral rectitude, would destroy this giant evil in no time for what evil could withstand the strides of the church. The apostle said if the wine and the meat did us harm and make our brothers suffer, throw it away. The world affords us many examples, so that no man could go to his cups, endanger his brother and gradually lead them on. We had the power of arresting our steps—our brothers had not. Some of the brightest and noblest men in the different professions of the world—men of have gone down to drunkards' grave. It was expedient that we did not start on this way. We were social beings and the speaker did not question our rights, but he questioned our rights in demanding that right at the expense and ruin of our neighbours around us. Does not the drinking habit cause many of our brethren to stumble and fall? Shall we not take up the spirit which Jesus breathed and give up a paltry indulgence in the interest of society and others? As Christian men let us look at the consequences. The speaker appealed to all for the love of Christ and for the love we bore to the Church of God, and for the interest we felt in society and by the love we bore it to be promoters of all good work, and adjured his hearers to beware. Let us beware that in all our fancied security lest we ourselves go down. Let all the Churches of God unite in this principle of abstaining for the sake of the brothers outside, and for the brothers inside and for our own personal selves, and what would be the consequences in four or five years? The speaker thought we would need no law to put the liquor traffic down. The moral sentiment of society had progressed and those committed to the habit may still indulge under the power created within them, but yet there was a great danger. By all that we held sacred to ourselves and cherished in our families, let us take our stand with the apostle and if it made one brother to offend let us give the matter up. There might be other grounds but this was a sure foundation and on which we could range side by side and we could so by our example and light and influence uproot this evil and banish it from our land. The preacher closed with an earnest prayer that God would hasten that day.

It isn't in the ordinary way that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription comes to the weak and suffering woman who needs it. It's guaranteed. Not with words merely; any medicine can make claims and promises. What is done with the "Favorite Prescripton" is this: if it fails to benefit or cure, in any case, your money is returned. Can you ask any better proof that a medicine will do what it promises?

It's an invigorating, restorative tonic, a soothing and strengthening nervine, and a certain remedy for the ills and ailments that beset a woman. In "female complaints" of every kind, periodical pains, internal inflammation or ulceration, bearing-down sensations, and all chronic weakness and irregularities, it is a positive and complete cure.

To every tired, overworked woman, and to every weak, nervous, and ailing one, it is guaranteed to bring health and strength.

WOMAN'S WORLD.

Has Serenity Fled From Blessing Modern Life?

THE SWEET INNER CALM

How to Obtain It Amid the "Fret and Aimless Stir" That Seem Now-a-days to "Make Up the Sum of Life"—The Varied Interests of Woman Elucidated.

From the rush that characterizes modern life, serenity seems to have withdrawn itself. Occasionally we see its fairest embodiment in some lovely old lady, like the old ladies we all knew years ago, who wore caps, and sat in their elbow-chairs placidly knitting, with a Bible and Bogatsky's Golden Treasury close by on the little light stand that accompanied the easy-chair wherever it was moved. But except for these rare examples of sweet tranquility, one might almost fancy that serenity had been crowded off our stage to make room for the more bustling graces.

All of us, or nearly all of us, deplore the change. We bemoan ourselves that > "Fever and fret and aimless stir

> And disappointed strife,
> All chafing, unsuccessful things,
> Make up the sum of life."

But who of us is willing to resign her place in the midst of the turmoil, and to content herself with such things as she has, even with the hope of finding the rest and peace she professes to desire?

Probably it is almost impossible for any one, set in a family, to withdraw herself from all friction. The solitary may seek a retreat, but it is to be questioned if in so doing she does not render herself a comparatively useless member of the community, and thus fail to contribute her share in benefiting "the social," "the universal," of which we hear so much from the good Marcus.

When we come to consider it closely, there is, after all, little merit in a calmness that can be maintained only by isolation. The only self-poise of any real value is that gained in the midst of others—that self-control, won amidst trials and temptations, that makes it possible, in the stir and pressure of common life, to live well.

That there are some souls who possess this inner calm, no one will deny. That there are many who crave such peace, is no less true. The unsettled condition of religious faith in many has undoubtedly much to do with the prevailing restlessness of the spirit of the day.

Truly it has been said that to few of us is there not granted sufficient light each day to live by. We cannot alter the conditions of our lives. The storm-and-stress period is upon us, and we can hardly hope to escape it. Indeed, many of us have been, by this very stir, practically unfitted for a less active life, even did circumstances permit us to fall out of the ranks. And yet, in spite of it, the day has not gone by when many may look to grow to the placidity we remember in our aged household saints, albeit we may attain much peace by a different path from that they trod.

To enable us to gain and keep that inner calm which is essential to the development of what is noblest and best in us, we must rely on high and helpful ideals. In such faith, however modified by creeds, lies our salvation. Upon our belief in the "calm soul of all things" depends our ability to gain "the will to neither strive nor cry, the power to feel with others," that weigh for so much in aiding us to live that noble life which, if we would but believe it, is possible to each of us. Nor must we fail to copy day by day the one perfect life that was lived for three-and-thirty years in this toiling world.—Harper's Bazar.

Pleasure in Growing Old.

It is often said that women dislike to grow old, but the New York Times has discovered one, at least, who does not. They were a company of congenial women before an open fire over 5 o'clock tea, and one of them was saying how she hated to grow old and lose her zest in life and its belongings. Then a fresh-faced matron, with a pair of steady, true eyes, spoke out with her native vehemence: "Nonsense, what do the years bring but greater treasures and greater capacity to enjoy them? Do you suppose I guessed anything about real happiness in what we called 'youth's happy days?' Why, every year that I have been a wife and mother I have known constantly increasing joy; better and better appreciate what life offers to me. Every day I value and delight in my friends more and more; every day I take on a wisdom of experience that gives me a sense of power against what may come, and as to the future and old age, why I never think of it to dread it. I shall not be old to-morrow. I say to myself, and what is the future but always only to-morrow? By and by, when I do sit in the chimney corner and knit and watch the children play around me, I can sure I shall think: How happy and safe am I, and what a beautiful thing life is, particularly the close of it!" There spoke the true mother spirit. And what a beautiful picture her words bring before us! It is that of the home wherein the mother is the centre, the animating influence, the controlling power of the family—the ideal family, for it is only in such a relationship that woman reaches her highest and best estate or domestic life attains perfection. It may be a home palatial or humble—it matters not. In any case the mother makes it what it is—the dearest spot on earth to those who have shared its joys and participated in its sweet influences.

Woman's Changing Fashions.

When hoops were worn by women fair,
A nuisance they were found;
One ran against them everywhere,
And hoops were always round.

And they retarded, it was clear,
The rise of womankind,
For by the fashion of her sphere
Each woman was confined.

When hoops went out, by some crooked brain
The bustle was designed,
And women's fashions, it was plain,
Were getting quite behind.

The bustle also saw its day,
Though to it they adhered
For years, and when it passed away
The clinging dress appeared.

And as it suited old and young,
'Twas worn without demur;
To fashion woman long had clung,
Now fashion clung to her.

In time the train became the style,
And every woman wore it.
In fact, the fashion for a while Swept everything before it.

And thus the years new fashions bring
Which flourish and decay;
The corset is the only thing
That ever came to stay.

"What's in a name?" Well, that depends. For instance, the name of "Ayer" is sufficient guarantee that Ayer's Sarsaparilla is a genuine, scientific blood-purifier, and not a sham, like so much that goes by the name of "sarsaparilla." Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the standard.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

TO BE OR NOT TO BE "IN IT."

A Life Agent called at a [illegible] one day,
HE WASN'T IN IT;
He had come "the boss" entering and then from his way
HE WASN'T IN IT;
He had heard so much said, he was dead [illegible]
Of insurance and agents—'twas all a blank brain,
When one's call must be shuffled to win it,
HE WASN'T IN IT.

A bit of a draft blew o'er his bald head,
HE WAS IN IT;
Pneumonia sent him straightway to his bed,
HE STAYED IN IT;
His doctor made of it a "quite special" case,
To save him for running still more of life's race,
But the grave took some chances to win it,
AND HE'S IN IT.

When approached by a goat for insuring your life,
GET RIGHT IN IT;
It's the right thing to do for your children and wife,
THEN STAY IN IT.
Remember that fires take your goods "out of sight,"
And that accidents happen each day and each night,
While insurance protects every minute,
IF YOU'RE IN IT.

A Bank Manager's Opinion.

HE IS "IN IT."

The General Manager of one of the leading banks in Canada, writing to a personal friend, says:—"I have no hesitation in saying that I place the CANADA LIFE upon the highest platform. It is in my opinion carefully, economically and honestly managed; its Reserve Funds are well invested; its rates of Premiums are low, and its future is, I think better assured than a great majority of Companies. I have my own life insured in the Company for a round amount, and would not hesitate to increase the amount of my policies should I decide upon taking out further insurance."

A Government Insurance Actuary's Opinion

On the Relation between Ordinary and Tontine Service.

It is frequently asserted by Companies whose business is nearly all continued, that although the CANADA LIFE may and does pay large ordinary profits, yet it cannot compare so favourably on a long term distribution or tontine period, and that in the end better results can be obtained on a tontine policy in a large American Co. than on an ordinary or tontine policy in the CANADA LIFE. To prove the absurdity of this statement, the following piece of common sense is quoted from Mervin Tabor, late Actuary of the Illinois Government Insurance Department. In his well known book, "The Three Systems of Life Insurance," he says: "A company that gives large dividends on the ordinary kind of policies, can give much larger on the same kinds when Tontined, and a company that pays but meagre dividends on the usual forms, adopting perhaps the Tontine system to "cover up" its small surpluses, cannot be relied on for large returns of surplus under the Tontine forms of insurance."

The CANADA LIFE does not "cover up" its Quinquennial profits as some Companies do, but publishes them throughout the country.

It can and does surpass other Companies on Quinquennial profits. It should and will surpass them on Tontine profits.

WHY TO BE "IN IT."

BISHOP HAWEIS'S REASON:—"I claim that Life Insurance is not only a humane, but I might say a Christian Institution."

LORD LYNDHURST'S REASON:—"A Policy of Life Insurance is always an evidence of prudent forethought. No man with a dependent family is free from reproach if not insured."

WHEN TO BE "IN IT."

The younger, the cheaper. Therefore insure when young. Besides by insuring in the CANADA LIFE now, you will share in three years' profits.

WHERE TO BE "IN IT."

The best place to be "in it" is in the Company that gives the best returns for the least money, consistent with absolute security. Therefore, in order to be "in it," choose the Grist Ground at the Justice Mill.

The magistrate held a session of the police court on Saturday night. A young man was summoned for being drunk. He was let off with a fine of $2 and costs, or 10 days in gaol.

The enlarged dog case against William Morris, charged with harboring a vicious canine, was also disposed off. Six witnesses were examined and it was proved by two of them that the young son of Mrs. Mathieson who laid the complaint, was bitten because he kicked the dog. The animal inquestion was proven to be neither ferocious nor cross, and the court accordingly dismissed the case.

Horseshoes for the World's Fair.

Mr. W. D. Nugent, of Millbrook, is a blacksmith of successful experience and skilled practice. He will exhibit some of his handiwork in the form of several collections of horseshoes at the World's Columbian Exposition at Chibago. Mr. D. Belleghem has just manufactured for him a large oaken horseshoe shaped framed case in which Mr. Nugent will show his assortment of shoes. The frame is 6 inches wide and the case is four feet in diameter. It contains a handsome glass and possesses a strikingly attractive back ground of dark velvet. In this will be placed 28 shoes in all, comprising three setts, heavy draft, road shoes and hunting shoes. In the collection will also be bar shoes, heel and toe welded shoes. All these shoes will be nickle plated except the heavy draft which will be handsomely hand finished.

At the Opera House To-morrow Night.

Don't forget to go to the opera house to-morrow night if you wish to hear a rare elocutionary treat. Miss Sara Lord Bailey, the talented and versatile reciter, was in Peterborough just a year ago and scored a brilliant success by her faultless and highly artistic renditions. To-morrow night she will be ably assisted by local talent. Of her the Whitby Gazette says:

"A good sized audience, including several Oshawaites, greeted Miss Sara Lord Bailey, Friday, on her first appearance in Whitby. Miss Bailey proved to be a very cultured elocutionist. She is a pretty woman, too, and in places her great personal charm of face and figure, aided by a tasteful evening gown, made her a fascinating interpreter of human passion, as, for instance, in the opening selection and in 'Life for Life.'"

One of them kept off her hat until the end of the play, but the other put on her hat after the first act. The medical staff of the institution have under contemplation a series of lectures for the benefit of the nurses to enable them to more thoroughly understand the practical working out of the duties devolving upon them in their profession. Dr. Fife, being the senior member of the staff, delivered the first address, which was highly appreciated by the ladies of the class. The doctor treated his subject in a very interesting and profitable manner, dividing it into three parts, respiration, circulation and animal heat. The annual roll call of the Murray street Baptist church was held on Wednesday night last. There was a large attendance of the members of the church, nearly all responding to their names when called out by the clerk. The ladies of the Y.P.S.C.E. provided excellent refreshments in abundance. Many communications were read from former members of the church now removed. During the evening suitable music was rendered and hymns sang.

On Sunday, the 26th March, special anniversary services will be held in the Charlotte street Methodist church, when the Rev. E. R. Roberts, President of the Conference, will preach anniversary sermons, morning and evening, and on the Monday evening following he will give an address at the Social meeting, when reports will be given of all the various societies in connection with the church work. There will also be a fine programme, and tea, to which all the church people and friends of the church are cordially invited.

At St. Andrew's church last evening the Rev. A. MacWilliams preached a strong practical sermon from the text "Thou fool this night thy soul shall be required of thee," St. Luke, 12:20. In analysing the rich man's character, the speaker noted first, the rich man's wisdom. He was deligent, frugal and considerate. He next considered the rich man's folly. In his calculations regarding the future, he ignored all the rest of mankind; he ignored God also. His folly was also manifest in the nature of the life he choose for himself, in hording up wealth and in thinking that the food of his soul could be stored up in his barns. The sermon was listened to with great interest by a large congregation. At the close of the sermon the Y.P.S.C.E. held their meeting which was memorial in nature in memory of the late Miss Mann. Mr. Johnston presided, with Miss Edmison at the organ. Many appropriate hymns were sung, Messrs. Hamilton, Johnston and Gray leading in prayer. Part of the 15th chapter of first Corinthians was read responsively, after which Miss Anderson read an excellent paper relating Miss Mann's connection with the Sunday school, the Y.P.S.C.E. and the choir and the great loss sustained in her death. After a number had read appropriate passages, the pastor then rose and made a touching reference to the death of Miss Mann, reviewing her noble work, long illness and happy death. He then explained the nature of death at some length, and and led the audience to look at the brighter side of death. This very solemn and impressive meeting was closed by the pastor pronouncing the benediction.

YOUNG'S POINT.

(From Our Own Correspondent)

The roads are not so very bad around this locality, considering the amount of snow that we had during the winter.

Mr. Frank Young was accidentally thrown from a sleigh of wood, the sleigh passing over him. It was a surprise to all that he was not seriously injured.

Mr. Richard Heard has sufficiently recovered from his recent illness as to be able to return to his home at the Point.

THE LITTLE HOME SOVEREIGN!

Only Well and Faithfully Cared for When Fed on Lactated Food.

In almost every home we find a little sovereign who calls for prompt service and attention. This little ruler is loved and idolised by every member of the family; his commands are instantly obeyed, and his health is an object of great interest and concern to all around him. This little sovereign is known as the baby—a being fondled and adored.

In many a home, the little one is unconsciously allowed to fade and die. Parents often wonder why this should be; and they grieve sadly when the little one is taken away, and never imagine that their want of thought caused baby's death.

Improper and imperfect dieting is the direct cause of three-fourths of the infant mortality in Canada. If the babies of Canada were regularly fed with pure and life-giving Lactated Food, the percentage of deaths would be surprisingly small amongst infants.

Lactated Food saves babies lives; this assertion is strongly proved every week by letters sent in by grateful mothers from every part of Canada. Many loving mothers, in order to get the best, have made trial of several brands of prepared foods; and after severe testing have selected the Lactated Food as a regular diet. Mothers, no other food can give such proofs in bestowing health, strength and vigor on the baby!

ADDRESS AND PRESENTATION.

Mr. David Copeland Presented with a Fur Coat.

On Saturday evening a number of the members of L.O.L. No. 178, Smith, on the eve of the departure of Mr. David Copeland for the Northwest, waited upon that gentleman at his residence, fourth line Smith, and presented him with a beautiful and valuable fur coat. The W.M., Mr. Mahood, read the following address, and Mr. John Darling, D. M., made the presentation:

Mr. David Copeland:

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—The brethren of L.O.L., No. 178, having learned of your intended departure from amongst us, have embraced the present opportunity of expressing their regret at losing one who has from the first institution of the Lodge been amongst the most active of its members, and who has at all times worked earnestly and faithfully for the advancement of our Lodge, and the principles of our Order. Filling, as you have done, several of the most important offices, in such a manner as to win the confidence and good will of the entire membership, we feel that we would be amiss were we to allow you to leave us without taking with you a tangible expression of our good will, and we ask you to accept this fur coat, and the heartiest feelings of good will and brotherly love, and hope you may be spared long to wear it, and that in your new home you may meet with the greatest measure of success and prosperity, and long continue to emulate the watchword of our Order, "Fear God, Honour the Queen, Love the Brotherhood."

Signed on behalf of the members,
EDWARD MAHOOD, W. Master,
JOHN DARLING, D.M.
G. A. REID, Sec.,

Mr. Copeland who was taken by surprise, thanked the members present and the members of the lodge for their handsome and useful present. He duly appreciated the good feeling that prompted their kind act. He referred to the great pleasure and benefit that it had been to him to be associated with such a good lot of men as they had in the members of this lodge. He was sorry to leave them. He had resided in the locality for about seventeen years and during all that time he had been on the most cordial relations with all of his neighbours. In removing from the 4th Line to the Northwest, he hoped to better his condition, but he would always look back with the fondest recollections of his residence in Smith. He tendered his friends and neighbours that he left behind his best wishes for their continued prosperity, and hoped that should they not meet again on earth, that they would all meet in that better land beyond.

A number of the ladies of the Lakevale Presbyterian church, Smith, also assembled at the residence of Mrs. Copeland and presented her with an address expressing the good will and friendship that they all have for Mrs. Copeland and regretting her departure. With the address was a beautiful fur trimmed coat as kind remembrance from the ladies of the church of their good wishes and deep friendship. Mrs. Copeland thanked the ladies very kindly for their sympathy and present and trusted that the work that they had all been engaged in for the Master would be of deep and lasting benefit. She hoped to have a visit from her neighbours and friends in Smith in her new home in the Northwest.

MR. STEVENSON'S ADDRESS.

On Saturday we published the Empire's report of Mr. Stevenson's address in the House of Commons in support of the National Policy, and we are certain that our readers were as much surprised at the extraordinary exaggerated statements as we were. There is probably no town in the whole of Canada that a better case can be made from in support of the N. P. than in Peterborough. The enterprise of our people, the peculiar and advantageous conditions of the town give a certain amount of strength to the arguments that the N. P. has fostered our local industries, when in reality it is the go-ahead-at-iveness of Peterborough people, that is deserving of all the praise. Mr. Stevenson says some very queer things at times, and being as far from home as Ottawa, we suppose he felt justified in going to any length to make a case in support of the so-called National Policy. It would have been better for the town and himself had he adhered more closely to the facts. The labouring men will have considerable difficulty in recalling the time in Peterborough when they worked for 60 cents per day, and the farmers have a very different story to tell about their present prosperity. We venture to say that fully nine-tenths of the farming population are dissatisfied with their condition, on account of the heavy, burdensome and enormous duties that they are compelled to pay upon almost everything that they have to buy, while the very market that they have always looked to to dispose of their barley, eggs and horses has been cut off from them, owing to the failure of the government to make better trade relations with the people to the south of us. Why even the Conservative president of the Board of Trade does not agree with the conservative member, for Mr. Robert Fair, in his annual address to the members, deplores that "our agricultural interests have not shared in that measure of the prosperity which all had hoped for," one of the causes being attributed to the prevailing low prices. Mr. Stevenson is reported as saying that Peterborough ten years ago had a population of four thousand and that to-day we have thirteen thousand. The assessment rolls of ten years ago gives Peterborough a population of 7,010, and last year a population of 10,703. But then when an argument is required to sustain the N.P., a slight difference of three thousand in the population of ten years ago is a small matter, not accounting for over two thousand of an error in the latest returns that we have as to our present population. His resuscitation of the old Auburn chestnut has been so frequently exploded that we are surprised at even his coolness in again presenting it as argument to sustain his contention. Every person is fully aware of the fact that a bounty is being paid to the Auburn Company and every similar concern in Canada upon each yard of domestic cloth used in the country. The next erroneous statement made by Mr. Stevenson is to the effect that the Canadian General Electric Company employs 500 hands and is in existence owing to the N. P. He knows full well that 300 hands would be the limit at present employed, and that what is Sherbrooke's loss is Peterborough's gain. According to our patent laws these goods must be manufactured in Canada, and thanks to the enterprise of Peterborough citizens in granting assistance to the extent of about $35,000, we got the start of some other towns. Instead of 30 mechanics working in Mr. John White's shop, ten would be closer to the facts, and instead of 175 employees being connected with the Lock Works, from from 75 to 100 would represent the outside number, and these with the Bridge Works employees do not by any means work full time. Sheriff Hall should issue a writ for defamation of character. Mr. Stevenson says that Sheriff Hall has not issued a writ against a farmer for twelve months, and that he was starving. At first thought we assumed that probably the business men came to the conclusion that as those farmers who were so far in arrears as to warrant such proceedings being taken, were generally chattel mortgaged to the fullest extent; that possibly no attempts had been made to enforce payment, but upon enquiry at the sheriff's office we find that thirty-one executions against farmers had been placed in the sheriff's hands during 1892, and that only two of these had been sold out, the others having their lands mortgaged and their goods chattel-mortgaged to such an extent that there was nothing left for the sheriff. If he goes to the Hilliard Woollen Mills he may find twenty employees, but he will fall far short of sixty as stated. If any one needed any confirmation of Mr. Stevenson's assertion that he is about to retire from politics it would be furnished by the extraordinary speech delivered by him and published in the EXAMINER. No sane man, unless he had fully determined to retire from politics, would venture to work off such a remarkable combination of fiction, flapdoodle, bombast and buncombe, and crippled facts as are contained in that speech. He would never want to continue in public life when the alleged facts of such a speech could confront him. But Mr. Stevenson is accustomed to making extraordinary statements and it is a very difficult matter to take him seriously. We all remember his gigantic concoction that he had the authority of a member of the Government that within the following summer one thousand men would be at work between Peterborough and Lakefield on the line of the Trent Valley Canal. No person who knew Mr. Stevenson, the politician, believed for one moment that he for one moment believed what he himself was saying. We all remember how he paraded the telegram from Sir John Macdonald on the eve of the last election, well knowing its hocus pocus character. Of the same character was his statement that he would resign his seat if the canal was not gone on with, yet he has not resigned his seat; just what everybody expected. But of all his "wild breaks" his last House of Commons utterance is the wildest. We do not wish to dissect his laudation of Peterborough too closely. We are too patriotic for that, but everyone knows that the picture is absurdly overdrawn and everybody knows that our prosperity is just as much due to the pluck and enterprise of her citizens and on account of our situation. We should like to be present and see the expression on Mr. Stevenson's face when an old supporter accosts him and asks him if he is really going to resign, and he replies: Do you think for a second I would dare to stay in public life and try to justify a speech like that?

POISONED!

MANY OF THE VICTIMS IN A CRITICAL CONDITION.

Some are Calling Loudly for Help.

A multitude of men and women in the county are now suffering from the effects of poison. Thousands are now in a critical condition, and must go over to the silent majority, unless effective measures are adopted at once to rescue and save them.

Badly ventilated houses, workshops, factories and offices are responsible for almost every case of poisoning. Close confinement in such places during the winter months has produced a harvest of sickness for spring time. Poisoned nerves and poisoned blood are doing a deadly work amongst our people; all ages and classes are suffering. The human system poisoned in this way, is in a terrible condition, and demands instant attention.

At this particular season such poisoned systems require a renewer, renovator and poison expeller. Such an agent is found in Paine's Celery Compound, the great lifegiver. This wonderful medicine purifies the blood, tones and strengthens the nerves, and cleanses the whole system. No other remedy known to mankind has accomplished such grand results in the spring season.

Paine's Celery Compound as a spring medicine is far elevated above all others now before the public, and is freely prescribed by some of our best physicians.

GAME INSPECTORS, ATTENTION!

To the Editor of the Examiner:

SIR,—In one of the lumber camps near the shores of Stony Lake during the past winter the men in that camp killed no less than thirteen porcupines in a radius of less than five acres.

Now, sir, if this awful destruction of this valuable fur-bearing animal is to be permitted, the species will soon be extinct.

It is reported that we have a deputy warden of game in this county. If so, why is the game not more strictly looked after? But still I believe that if even the warden himself came across one of these valuable animals he would shoot it. So much for game protection.

Yours truly,
GAME.

Dummer, March 18th, 1893.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

The meetings on Saturday evening and yesterday afternoon and evening were attended and interesting. Yesterday afternoon the music was led by six members of the band, and this will be a regular feature of the meetings hereafter. Last night Mr. J. W. Garvin gave an interesting address on Matt. v, 13, "The salt of the earth." The hall was crowded, and the address listened to with close attention.

1892, The Creamof the Havana Crop.

"La Cadena" and "La Flora" brands of cigars are undoubtedly superior in quality and considerably lower in price than any brand imported. Prejudiced smokers will not admit this to be the case. The connoisseur knows it. S. DAVIS & SONS, Montreal.

Do not despair of curing your sick headache when you can so easily obtain Carter's Little Liver Pills. They will effect a prompt and permanent cure. Their action is mild and natural.

Come and See Us!

I have bought out the grocery, bakery and provision business formerly carried on by Mr. Pollard, 456 George street, and will continue the business in the same premises. THE GETTING IT DOWN is bad enough, with the ordinary pill. But the having it down is worse. And, after all the disturbance, there's only a little temporary good.

From beginning to end, Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are better. They're the smallest and easiest to take—tiny, sugar-coated granules that any child is ready for. Then they do their work so easily and so naturally that it lasts. They absolutely and permanently cure Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, Sick and Bilious Headaches, and all derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels.

They don't shock and weaken the system, like the huge, old-fashioned pills. And they're more effective. One little Pellet for a corrective or laxative—three for a cathartic.

They're guaranteed to give satisfaction, or your money is returned.

The MAKERS of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy say: "If we can't cure your Catarrh, no matter what your case is, we'll pay you $500 in cash." Now you can see what is said of other remedies, and decide which is most likely to cure you. Costs only 50 cents.

Blake Will Not Lead.

LONDON, March 18.—Mr. Edward Blake rejects the suggestion that he may lead the Irish party. Mr. Blake further states that he has no intention of remaining in England after the Irish Home Rule battle is won. He states he has formed too many ties after 30 years' residence in Canada to lightly overcome the desire to return to his familiar fireside.

Political Progress in Norway.

CHRISTIANIA, March 18.—The Storthing has passed by a vote of 64 to 50 a resolution asserting the right of Norway to a separate consular service abroad and complete autonomy at home in all matters not described in the Act of Union of 1814 as pertaining to the union of Norway and Sweden.

Rosebery to Travel.

LONDON, March 18.—The Standard's Rome correspondent says it was reported that the Earl of Rosebery will accompany Queen Victoria on her Italian trip and will meet in Florence the Italian and German Ministers of Foreign Affairs.

Gladstone Welcomed.

LONDON, March 18.—Mr. Gladstone was received with cheers Friday when he entered the House of Commons after his recent illness. All the Irish members of Parliament and many of the British Liberal members wore shamrocks in their buttonholes in honor of St. Patrick's day.

JULES FERRY DEAD.

The Effect of Heart Disease Caused By Being Shot in the Ribs.

PARIS, March 18.—Jules Francois Camile Ferry, the celebrated French statesman, is dead.

M. Ferry's death was caused by heart disease, due to the effects of a bullet striking a rib near the base of the heart at the time he was attacked by Aubert in 1887.

He was seized with spasms early in the morning, and despite every effort made by the physicians who were hastily summoned the convulsions continued to grow in violence until at 6 o'clock in the evening he expired in a terribly severe spasm.

The news of M. Ferry's death astounded the city. No other event since Gambetta's death has made such a deep impression. Only three evenings ago he was at the opera, and yesterday he presided over the Senate. The extra editions got out immediately after the announcement of the death are still selling everywhere in enormous numbers.

Last week M. Ferry resigned the presidency of The Estafette newspaper and the presidency of the National Republican Association that he might devote himself entirely to his duties in the Senate.

The general feeling is that although his election to the presidency of the Senate was contrary to the wishes of M. Carnot and M. Ribot, his death is a serious loss to the Government. In the case of another cabinet crisis he, in his official capacity, would be the first man to whom M. Carnot would have been found to turn for advice. It was with such an event in view that M. Ferry's supporters in the Senate compelled his election in the room of M. Leroyer, who was believed to lack the qualities necessary for such a part in the next crisis.

With M. Carnot as President, M. Ribot as Premier, M. Casimir-Perier as President of the Chamber of Deputies and M. Ferry as President of the Senate, the Opportunists felt that they had four of their strongest men in positions to meet the perilous consequences of the Panama exposure.

As yet the names of possible successors to the presidency of the Senate have barely been mentioned.

The trouble with most cough medicines is that they spoil the appetite, weaken digestion, and create bile. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, on the contrary, while it gives immediate relief, assists rather than impairs the assimilative process.

A Cure for Croup.

Croup kills thousands where cholera kills tens. For this dread disease no remedy can compare in curative power with Hagyard's Yellow Oil. It loosens the phelgm, gives prompt relief, and soon completely cures the most violent attack.

A Pleasant Herb Drink.

The best cure we know of for constipation and headache is the pleasant herb drink called Lane's Family Medicine. It is said to be Oregon grape root, combined with simple herbs, and is made for use by pouring boiling water onto the dried roots and herbs. It is remarkably efficacious in all blood disorders, and is now the sovereign remedy with ladies for clearing up the complexion. Druggists sell the packages at 50c. and $1.

Once Used, Always Used.

A DRESS WAIST.

A Dainty One of Crimson Surah.

This dainty waist is made of crimson surah. The silk is quite loose, in blouse fashion, but is mounted over a tight-fitting lining. As will be seen from the illustration the waist has a yoke of finely pleated surah that continues up to the neck and forms the collar, in fact the collar and yoke are cut in one. The fronts cross each other, the left side overlapping the right, and a bias fold is sewed to each side and laid in pleats at the shoulder, forming a finish for the yoke, as well as revers. The sleeves have a large puff at the top and the remaining part is plain down to the wrist. A narrow band of finely tucked surah finishes the wrist and is also put below the puff. Around the waist is a belt of surah, fastened with a rosette at one side.

I saw a cute little figaro jacket worn over a gown cut princess and fastened in the back. The jacket had great soft puff sleeves. It fitted the figure snugly, but was cut off short-waisted, and crossed over to fasten by a single big button, just under the bust line. The rest of it was turned back in great revers that were narrow at the buttonhole on the doubled over side, and widened out over the shoulders where they were slit to allow for the necessary "spring" like a man's coat collar. The yoke-like bit of the under dress that was thus left to show was full and went into a high round collar. Such a figaro made of heavy black gros-grain silk, with satin sleeves and satin revers and the one big button satin covered, could be worn with all sorts of gowns besides its own particular black cloth.

Best Cure For

All disorders of the Throat and Lungs is Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It has no equal as a cough-cure.

Bronchitis

"When I was a boy, I had a bronchial trouble of such a persistent and stubborn character, that the doctor pronounced it incurable with ordinary remedies, but recommended me to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I did so, and one bottle cured me. For the last fifteen years, I have used this preparation with good effect whenever I take a bad cold, and I know of numbers of people who keep it in the house all the time, not considering it safe to be without it."—J. C. Woodson, P.M., Forest Hill, W. Va.

Cough

"For more than twenty-five years, I was a sufferer from lung trouble, attended with coughing so severe at times as to cause hemorrhage, the paroxysms frequently lasting three or four hours. I was induced to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and after taking four bottles, was thoroughly cured."—Franz Hoffman, Clay Centre, Kans.

La Grippe

"Last spring I was taken down with la grippe. At times I was completely prostrated, and so difficult was my breathing that my breast seemed as if confined in an iron cage. I procured a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and no sooner had I began taking it than relief followed. I could not believe that the effect would be so rapid and the cure so complete."—W. H. Williams, Cook City, S. Dak.

Various Notions About Missing.

The word "kiss" is Anglo-Saxon and may, indeed, be taken as an instance of how pleasant Anglo-Saxon can be. The philologist assures us that it is allied to the Gothic "kustus," a proof or test, and to the Latin "gustus," a taste, which suggests the old saying that "the proof of the pudding is in the preein' o't." That same Gothic kustus comes from the verb kiusan, to choose, from which the Boston Globe would imagine that among the Goths kissing went by favor. According to Professor Skeat, writing with all the austerity and scholarship of an expert, a kiss is "a gust, a taste, a something choice." Rowena, the beautiful daughter of Saxon Hengist, is credited with having introduced kissing into England; but it seems as if that, had the natives been so utterly unenlightened, the Romans could scarcely have failed to anticipate her. The Romans had really a delightful word for a kiss—osculum, which came from os, the mouth, and meant a little mouth, a sweet mouth. "Give me a sweet little mouth" would be the phrase used when a good little Roman boy asked his mother for a kiss. Our English word occurs pretty nearly in its present form in Anglo-Saxon, Dutch, Icelandic, Danish, Swedish and German. And this is worthy of note, because natural as kissing may seem to be, it is a practice unknown to the Australians, to the Maoris of New Zealand, the Papuans of New Guinea, the people of Tabbati, the negroes of Central and Southern Africa, the Botocoudos of Brazil, the savages of Terra del Fuego, Laplanders and the Esquimaux. Most of these benighted mortals have got beyond the low stage of rubbing noses together. Kissing points to an ancient discredited belief in a veritable union of spirits—a belief common to all the Aryan people that the breath of a man was his soul, his spirit. "Spirit" is "breath" and "ghost" is a "gust"—which possibly accounts for the cold air that is said to accompany apparitions.

Mme. Carnot's Tastes and Habits.

Mme. Carnot is a brunette, with dark blue eyes, a pale complexion, delicately molded features, and hair as black and glossy as black satin, writes Lucy Hamilton Hooper in the Ladies' Home Journal. Her expression is at once intellectual and charming. Outside her official duties, which are many, Mme. Carnot leads a very quiet and domestic life. She rises at 8 o'clock, and her first breakfast, consisting of a cup of coffee and a roll, is served to her in her dressing room. Until 10 o'clock she occupies herself with her private correspondence, which always includes a letter to one or the other of her children, only her youngest son, Francois, who is at school in Paris, being at home. At 10 o'clock she joins the President in his library and aids him in examining the voluminous mass of letters which arrives daily at the Elysee. Her thorough knowledge of modern languages and her intelligence and unfailing good sense makes her a valuable assistant. The second breakfast, or lunch, is served at 1 o'clock in the breakfast-room of the palace, and is usually a very simple repast. Guests are seldom invited to luncheon at the Elysee, as both the President and his wife prefer entertaining their friends at dinner. Lunch once concluded, Mme. Carnot, on the days of state dinner parties or balls, gives audience to her chief cook. Then she drives out, either to accompany her husband to the opening of an exhibition or the inauguration of some charitable institution, or to some other official function. The ordering and superintending of her toilets absorbs a good deal of her time, and is really one of her official duties, the dress of the wife of the ruler of State exercising a widespread influence over the commercial interests of France. Then she is interested in a number of charities, and drops in from time to time to see how her proteges are progressing.

Work Basket of an Incas Princess.

Fashionable women of to-day who delight in embroidery and light bits of knitting will be interested to know of a curious relic taken from the grave of an Incas Princess, says Kate Field's Washington. This is a work basket perfectly preserved and differing in no marked degree from many in use to-day, except that its original color is more a matter of conjecture than certainty. The basket is a flat wicker one, covered with linen material, carefully embroidered. In it are several bits of wood used in embroidery, a reel of yellowed cotton, and a complete set of slightly-rusted knitting-needles. This interesting relic of long dead Incas royalty was presented some years ago to Dr. John S. Billings, who preserves it with great care.

A Royal Gift.

The brides who are honored by gifts from Queen Victoria always receive an India shawl. Sometimes she supplements this royal favor, as in in the case of Princess Marie of Edinburgh, to whom she gave a magnificent diadem of diamonds.

EASTER STRAWS.

Hats That Will Come In After Lent.

We cannot wear straw hats yet, but they are coming and big bonnets ones two, of rough straw in brilliant colors. Take bright green, for instance, trimmed with black velvet bows and two or three very big and bright purple pansies; or, a delicate yellow straw with turquoise blue ribbon bows and bright red button roses running all over it. Shut your eyes and try to see them, and to get used to it against the critical time when you decide whether to be in fashion or not with your Easter headgear. Hats made of twisted grasses in great meshes, the grasses of decided brown, green, yellow and grays, are all the rage. The meshes are so big that the little rampant wild flowers which are let loose all over such hats, can riot through the spaces and peep in and out in a way to make one fancy that the wearer has inverted a basket of posies on her pretty head and that all the blossoms are trying to struggle out under the brim and through it. Either gauze ribbon or very heavy velvets trim these hats as far as the one reckless bow makes trimming. Let it be noted, however, that some of these hats are garnished—really one may speak of these creations almost as if they were salads, with great flat bows of velvet, that seem by their weight to bend down the brim of the hat into its becoming corners. The artist in matters of millinery never forgets "motive" in what she does. She would never mount a heavy bow on an uprising pinnacle of hat brim. Her heavy bows lie where the brim droops. It is the dainty upright gauze, or the nodding crisp flowers that seem to be the final piquant point of a general uprising tendency in the whole hat. But to get all that philosophy in the shape of a hat, you have to pay for it, and, after all, if you don't realize the philosophy, you can't see what you are paying for.

The little lady of my sketch wears a hat the brim of which is composed of white crepe. It has a ruching inside and is edged with frayed silk or marabout feathers. The crown is almost covered with bows and ends of white satin ribbon, in addition to two white or cream-colored pompons.

Woman's World.

Mrs. Henry Clews' bathroom is fitted up with onyx, instead of the customary white ware or marble tub, the floors, ceiling, set bowl and tub all being of the Mexican stone.

A prominent woman doctor of Birmingham, England, makes her rounds on a tricycle in a neat and easy dress equally suited for the sick room or the saddle. In the Boston suburbs women are calling and shopping on safeties.

Mrs. J. R. Green, the wife of the English historian, aided him in his researches and wrote at his dictation sometimes as many as eleven hours a day. This brought on writer's cramp, but instead of laying down her pen Mrs. Green merely taught herself to write with her left hand.

A Human Ostrich.

A hackman of Bath, Me., has an appetite for glass, china, and crockeryware which promises, unless he takes the gold cure, to land him in a dime museum. He started in mildly, eating eggs without removing the shells, just bolting them with the shells on. He has eaten a dozen eggs and egg shells thus at one time on a wager. It is nothing unusual for him to chew up and eat a lamp chimney, and he frequently munches the broken dishes lying around the hotel for which he drives.

Probably in March more than any other month in the year are the ravages of cold in the head and catarrh most severely felt. Do not neglect either for an instant, but apply Nasal Balm, a time-tried, never-failing cure. Easy to use, pleasant and agreeable. Try it. Sold by dealers or sent by mail, post paid, on receipt of price—50c. and $1 a bottle. Fulford & Co., Brockville, Ont.

Encouragement for old People.

It may sound queer to talk about curing old people of Kidney and Urinary troubles after they have passed the alloted period of three score years and ten, but the following extraordinary recovery of an old veteran by Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure, ought to be of great encouragement to old people:—
BELLEVILLE, March 4, 1893.
Peterborough Medicine Company (Limited.)
GENTLEMEN,—I owe a great debt of gratitude to Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure for the prompt and speedy relief which I have received from the use of only one bottle of your great medicine. I have suffered from Kidney and Urinary troubles, inflammation of the neck of the bladder, &c. for many a long day. No one knows better than old people how great a blessing it is to be cured. I doctored a lot, but nothing did me so much good as your cure. I have lived about half a century in Belleville, and will be only to glad to speak a good word in favour of Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure. I can also recommend it for constipation and stomach troubles.
JAMES HAROLD.

Interested People.

Advertising a patent medicine in the peculiar way in which the proprietor of Kemp's Balsam for coughs and colds does it, is indeed wonderful. He authorises all druggists to give those who call for it a sample bottle FREE, that they may try it before purchasing. The large bottles are 50c. and $1. We certainly would advise a trial. It may save you from consumption.

THE KEMPTVILLE CASE

AN ANALYSIS OF THE STOMACHS DISCLOSES POISON.

The Inquest Will Probably Be Further Adjourned, As the Government Has No Doctors To Send—New Evidence In the Collingwood Murder.

TORONTO, March 20. — Government Analyst Ellis, Saturday, sent in his report of the analyses of the stomachs of Alexander Kennedy and Mrs. John Kennedy to Coroner Buckley of Prescott, who has the Kemptville poisoning case in hand. It is understood that poison was found in the stomachs of both the victims. The adjourned inquest will be held to-morrow evening, but will probably be adjourned, as Deputy Attorney-General Cartwright has been unable thus far to send an officer to Kemptville. Detectives Murray and Rogers arrived at Halifax last night on the steamer Sarnia with the extradited forgers Davidson and Godolphin. Detective Greer was to have left for the scene Saturday, but received a telegram from Collingwood stating that he was wanted there at once on the Jennie Wonch murder case, as new evidence had developed, and he will not likely return until the end of the week.

Meantime there are few new developments in the Kemptville case. As to whom the guilty party is continues to be a mystery and may or may not be brought to light in the near future. John Kennedy, the husband of the deceased Mrs. Kennedy and brother of the late Alexander Kennedy, is reported by the local press to have said on several occasions that it would never be found out—and it may even be so. The principal theme appears to be the will—who has it or what has become of it? It is said that the late Alexander's will was drawn by B.E. Sparham in 1884, leaving all his estate to Mrs. John Kennedy, but two years later desired to change it. Accordingly he then made a new one, which was drawn by George Kidd, in which he bequeathed all his estate to John Kennedy. On Dec. 5 last he had another will executed, in which he left all his chattel property to his sister-in-law, Mrs. John Kennedy, and his real estate to be equally divided between his brothers and niece, Miss Jessie McPherson.

The disappearance of this will is as mysterious as the murders, as it was seen a few days before the poisoning in its customary place and position. The deceased gentleman owned a considerable amount of real estate and a substantial cash balance.

The affair still occupies the time and the talk of the place, and as the excitement and speculation continue suspicion is said to be deepening round the unfortunate young girl, Lizzie Poole, who has been removed to Brockville, and the longer the discussion exists it is evident there are many residents who will be prone to add additional, probably imaginary, circumstances to what has appeared and wrongly or rightly accuse this adopted orphan of the crime.

THE BOY AND THE BOMB.

Another Dynamite Outrage at Rome—Attempt to Blow Up a Military Barracks.

ROME, March 20.—Another dynamite outrage was attempted yesterday at the Palazzo Altieri, the headquarters of the Guardia Nobili, one of the military organizations whose duty it is to attend the Pope and to be present at great religious functions at the Vatician.

Early this morning a boy who was passing the Palazzo Altieri saw a mass of what he at first thought was mortar lying upon the steps of the palace. He ran up the steps and was surprised to see a burning fuse extending from the mass. The boy stamped out the fuse with his feet and then notified the police.

Gendarmes were sent to the palace and were not long in ascertaining that what the boy had at first mistaken for a mass of morter was a powerful bomb containing dynamite or high explosives. The bomb was encased in a thick coating of plaster of Paris, which in the opinion of experts, would have added to the destruction that would have been wrought had an explosion occurred.

The news of the attempted outrage has caused considerable excitement.

A number of arrests of Anarchists have been made in the city recently and the fact has apparently caused the friends of the men arrested to attempt these outrages as a means of revenge. It has transpired since the explosion of yesterday at the Ancini Mattai palace that the police have been warned from some unknown source that attempts would be made to cause explosions in various parts of the city.

Notwithstanding the warning the miscreants who planned this morning's affair had no trouble in placing their bomb on the steps of the palazzo Altieri, which is one of the best known buildings in the city. Orders have now been issued, however, that a strict watch be kept on all suspicious characters, and the police hope to soon have the conspirators in custody. Another warning was received to-day that further attempts would shortly be made to cause explosions.

Want Lower Freights.

WINNIPEG, March 20.—Another deputation of Winnipeg capitalists waited on Premier Greenway and the Provincial Government Saturday, asking a grant of $440,000 for the proposed line of railway from here to Port Arthur, with Duluth connection. They say that the line is designed to reduce freight tariffs. The Government does not appear enthusiastic over the scheme, but promised to give its careful consideration.

SARCASM AND INSULT.

Joseph Choate's Extraordinary Speech At an Irish Banquet.

NEW YORK, March 20.—Joseph Choate, speaking at the dinner of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick in the Delmonico banquet room Saturday night, was the chief entertainer. A distinguished company of 200 Irishmen of note were in attendance. Mr. Choate was received with the heartiest welcome, being cheered again and again. Mr. Choate's speech was a response to the toast "Ireland," and was delivered with all the customary effect of his calm manner and his clear, cold voice. After a few graceful compliments, he went on to say that he would not speak on the subject nearest to Irish hearts, Home Rule. "I leave that," he said, "to Dr. Depew and Mr. Gladstone, who understand it so much better than I. Gentlemen, now that you have done so much for America, now that you have made it your own, what do you propose to do for Ireland? How long do you propose to let her be the political football of England? Poor, downtrodden, oppressed Ireland. Hereditary bondsmen, know you not who would be free themselves must strike the blow!"

At this there was laughter and several cries of "We can't," and "There isn't any way to do it." Mr. Choate went on: "You have learned how to govern by making all the soil of all other countries your own. Have you not learned how to govern at home; how to make Ireland a land of home rule!" There was a confused murmur in the room, some laughter, some excited gesticulations, a few angry looks, and several cries of "That's too strong, Choate is carrying his sarcasm too far."

Mr. Choate went on with a sarcastic smile of good humor on his face. "There is a cure for Ireland's woes and feebleness to-day. It is a strong measure that I advocate. But I am here to-night to plead for Ireland with the retaining fee in my possession and I propose to plead. I propose that you should all, with your wives, and your children, and your children's children, with the spoils you have taken from America in your hands, set your faces homeward, land there, and strike the blow."

At this there was some laughter, the representatives of the other societies doing the most of it. There were many looks, several cries of "No, no" and two or three hisses, half suppressed. Mr. Choate, still smiling and sarcastic, went on: "Gentlemen, the Gran[illegible]man is calling And the [illegible] so severely disciplined that it can get along without you. Think what it would mean for both countries if all the Irishmen of America from the Atlantic to the Pacific should shoulder muskets and march to the relief of their native land. Then, indeed, would Ireland be for Irishmen and America for the Americans."

There was some applause, but scarcely any laughter. The banqueters were receiving Mr. Choate's good-humored sarcasm silently, and were waiting anxiously to see just how far he would go. Mr. Choate went on: "As you landed the O. O. M. would come down to receive you with psans of assured victory. As you departed the Republicans would go down to see you off and bid you a joyful farewell. Think of the song you could raise. 'We are coming, Father Gladstone, 15,000,000 strong.' How the British lion would hide his diminished head. For such an array would not only rule Ireland, but all other sections of the British Empire. What could stand before you?

"It would be a terrible blow to us. It would take us a great while to recover. Feebly, imperfectly, we should look about us and learn for the first time in 75 years how to govern New York without you. But there would be a bond of brotherhood between the two nations. Up from the whole soil of Ireland, up from the whole soil of America would rise one psan—'Erin Go Bragh.'"

There was considerable applause as Mr. Choate bowed and sat down, but nothing like the cordiality which greeted his rising.

EXPLOSION AND FIRE.

A Reading Locomotive Blows Up With Frightful Results.

MAHONEY CITY, Pa., March 20.—While engine No. 394 of the Reading Railroad was standing on a siding at the station yesterday morning the boiler suddenly exploded, totally wrecking the engine. Engineer John Schuyler and Fireman William Wells, who were in the cab at the time, were so seriously scalded that they cannot survive.

The hot coals from the firebox were scattered in all directions and falling on buildings in the vicinity set fire to and destroyed a number of them. For a short time excitement ran high, as there were fully a dozen houses on fire. Many buildings were badly shattered by the force of the explosion.

SMART SPRING MANTLES

In our north window we display some of the very newest patterns of Imported Mantles for Spring wear.

They are style all over. The craft of the skilled German model garment makers is manifest in these Mantles, and the attention of ladies is especially drawn to the new material and exquisite taste which has been displayed in these two directions.

We make the point that our Mantles are new—wholly new—new in design, new in shape, and new in price.

Ladies who have looked elsewhere for something to suit them in a Spring Mantle, will have no difficulty in making their final selections from our stock. We are perhaps a little early in exposing these Mantles, but the temptation was too strong, and besides, some one must lead, so we take the consequences of our unusual advanced preparations for this spring season of 1893.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

URGING HASTE IN IMPROVING OUR CANAL SYSTEM.

Further Enquiry Into M. Clarke Wallace's Home Rule Speech—He Will Speak in His Defence—The Case Against Connolly and McGreevy.

OTTAWA, March 21.— Practically all of yesterday afternoon's session was taken up by Col. Tisdale, who spoke from 4 o'clock to 6 on his motion with reference to the Essex Canal.

The motion which Col. Tisdale spoke to is as follows, but as he had not concluded his remarks at 6 the motion was not sent up to the Speaker and keeps its place on the order paper, so that it will be the first order again next Monday:

"That in view of the early completion of the canal around the St. Mary rapids, upon the Canadian shore, and of the enlargement and increased depth of our canal system to the Atlantic seaboard, and also of the ever-increasing volume of traffic tending in that direction, it is desirable that Canada should have a complete and uninterrupted waterway from the head of Lake Superior to the Atlantic Ocean through her own territory; that in furtherance of such object the Minister of Railways and Canals should with all reasonable despatch proceed to have made explorations and surveys to ascertain the most direct and feasible manner of connecting Lake St. Clair or the River St. Clair by canal with Lake Erie through Canadian territory, and report the same with an approximate estimate of the cost thereof to this House."

He traced all the treaties and diplomatic relations between the United States and Great Britain from the time of the first treaty in 1783 to show that insofar as they related to Canada the interpretation put on them by the United States had always been unfair and disadvantageous to Canada.

He referred to the war of 1812, and quoted the works of American authors and the records of Congress to show that the better portion of the people in the United States regarded that war as a most uncalled for, unjustifiable attack on the rights of the British North American provinces, which were not implicated in any sort of way in regard to the causes of the war.

Coming down to 1837-38 he said that the same spirit animated the Government of the United States, and quoted from American authorities in support of his contention that their action throughout had been of the most unfriendly character.

He touched upon the Reciprocity Treaty of 1854 and its abrogation by the United States authorities, and entered fully into the whole subject of our trade negotiations with the United States from that time down to 1888.

In the same way he took up the abortive treaty of 1888 and showed the way that the United States treated Canada in that regard. He pointed to our fishery relations with the States, and said that under the modus vivendi they were using our fisheries as well as if the treaty of 1888 had been in existence. As to reciprocity, Canada had made every effort that she could with respect make to the United States to obtain the same. The wonder was, said he, that Canada had been so patient, owing to the treatment she had received at the hands of her neighbor. He cited the treaty under which the St. Clair Flats Canal, which is in Canadian territory, is used by both nations, although the United States claim it almost as their own. The canal which he proposed from Lake St. Clair to Lake Erie would be 50 miles shorter than the present route, and would be so completely in Canadian territory as to be beyond any dispute. He quoted from engineers' reports to show the practicability of the route, and showed that the expense would not be very great. He had not concluded at 6 o'clock.

In reply to Mr. Henderson Hon. Mr. Costigan said it was not the intention of the Government to introduce any legislation this session for the purpose of preventing speculation in space in cattle ships from Montreal next summer.

Mr. Casey is trying to rival Mr. Davin in his anxiety to know about the speech made by the Comptroller of Customs on the Home Rule question on Wednesday, and to-day asked whether Mr. Wallace had been correctly reported.

Hon. Mr. Foster replied that the Government had no information on the subject, which caused an audible smirk. But Mr. Casey was not abashed and to-night gave formal notice that he will bring the matter up on the next motion to go into supply, which will be to-morrow; and as Mr. Wallace promptly replied that he would be in his place to defend his action, it may be expected the Irish question will occupy the attention of the House for at least a portion of the time to-morrow.

After recess a number of private bills went through committee, were sent to third time and passed, amongst them the act to incorporate the Cleveland, Port Stanley and London Transportation and Railway Company and the act respecting the London and Port Stanley Railway Company.

The House then went into committee on Mr. Weldon's bill to disfranchise electors who have taken bribes.

The whole evening was spent in committee and the bill was practically passed with some amendments, but portions of it were reserved, and the committee finally rose and reported progress and asked leave to sit again, which really means that it will not be reached again this season.

House adjourned 11.30.

The celebrated suit of the Queen v. Nicholas K. Connolly and the Hon. Thomas McGreevy for conspiracy will commence in the Assize Court to-morrow morning before Judge Falconbridge and will probably last a week or 10 days, as there are a large number of witnesses to be examined and an enormous amount of evidence taken before the Committee on Privileges and Elections in 1891 to be produced.

This case, it will be remembered, arose out of the inquiry by the Privileges and Election Committee of the House of Commons in 1891 into certain charges made by Mr. Tarte, M.P., that Mr. McGreevy, then M.P. for Quebec West, had with Connolly and others conspired to defraud the Government out of large sums of money in connection with the construction of a crown wall in Quebec harbor, and also for fraud in dredging and excavating earth from that harbor. As a result of that investigation Mr. McGreevy was expelled from the House of Commons by resolution of the members, and a Minister of the Crown resigned his position in the Government. An information was subsequently laid against Messrs. McGreevy and Connolly and others for misdemeanor, and on the matter being heard by Judge Rose, acting for the Ottawa police magistrate, he discharged all the defendants except Messrs. McGreevy and Connolly.

The trial of the case has been postponed two or three time, owing to either the crown or the defendants not being ready with the evidence.

The Crown will be represented by Mr. J. K. Kerr, Q.C., Crown prosecutor; Mr. S. B. Osler, Q.C., and Messrs. O'Connor and Hogg. Mr. S. H. Blake, Q.C., and Mr. Lash, Q.C., will appear for Mr. Connolly and John A. Gemmill for Mr. McGreevy.

It is said that Mr. George Goodwin and Mr. John O'Leary of Ottawa are the successful tenderers for the last nine sections of the Soulanges Canal, which constitute the central portion and is all excavation.

The Committee on Agriculture, at its meeting this morning, adopted a resolution which was of very great importance, in view of the decision of the Imperial authorities to determine the question of the removal of the embargo against Canadian cattle by the result of an examination of the lungs of the first shipment of cattle this season.

Mr. Smith (Ontario) moved and Mr. McGregor seconded the following resolution, which was adopted: "That the Government appoint a competent veterinary surgeon who is to be sent to England and whose duty it shall be to attend at each and all places where and when the slaughter of Canadian herds and the autopsy in every case is being conducted, to protect Canadian interests against injury either by incompetent or inefficient examination and against the prejudices of interested opponents to the restoration of the privilege formerly enjoyed by Canadian shippers."

The Senate has been discussing all this afternoon and evening until 10.30 Hon. Mr. Angers' bill relating to the Speaker of the Senate, which provides for the appointment of some person to act for the Speaker during his absence from the chair. The second reading was carried, 30 for to 7 against.

A LIFEBOAT ADRIFT.

It Belonged to the Steamer Naronic, Now Believed Lost.

BREMEN, March 21.—After long-continued anxiety regarding the fate of the White Star Line freight steamer Naronic, which sailed from Liverpool on Feb. 11 for New York and which had not since been heard of, intelligence has been received showing beyond doubt that the vessel is lost.

The British steamer Coventry, Captain Wilson, from Fernandina, Feb. 10, arrived at this port to-day. She reports that at 2 o'clock on the morning of March 4, while in latitude 42N., longitude 46W., she passed a lifeboat painted white, bearing the name Naronic.

The boat was floating keel upwards. At 2 o'clock in the afternoon of the same day another lifeboat of the Naronic was passed. This boat gave evidence of having encountered heavy weather. The mast and oars of the lifeboat had been lashed together and attached to the painter and then thrown overboard as a sea-anchor to keep the boat's head up to the wind and sea. Judging from appearances neither of the boats had been long adrift.

The position of the drifting boats was about south by southwest of Sable Island, on the banks of Newfoundland. There is a chance that the occupants of the boat were picked up by a passing vessel.

AT THE BOTTOM OF THE SEA.

Such Is the Opinion of the Owners of the Steamer Naronic.

LIVERPOOL, March 21.—Officials of the White Star Company here have received the full report of the steamer Coventry, which arrived at Bremen yesterday. They state their advices show that the last lifeboat of the Naronic passed by the Coventry was recently occupied by a portion of the Naronic's crew, and they express the hope that the occupants have been picked up by a passing vessel.

They also express the hope that the occupants of the other boats have been rescued. All doubt as to the fate of the Naronic has been dispelled by the sighting of her lifeboats. That she is now at the bottom of the ocean cannot be disputed, but the cause of the disaster is of course still a matter of conjecture.

It may be, judging from the latitude and longitude in which the boats were seen, that the steamer struck either a derelict or an iceberg, though it is still rather early in the season for ice to be adrift so far south as the banks. It is to be hoped that the mystery of the loss of the steamer will soon be cleared up by the landing at some port of the members of the crew.

A vessel which passed Deal to-day signalled that she had on board 11 shipwrecked people and the White Star officials say there is a strong probability they are part of the crew of the Naronic. The arrival of this vessel is eagerly awaited, as should the shipwrecked persons on board be from the Naronic all conjectures as to the cause that led to the foundering of the steamer will be removed.

Threaten a Strike.

BRUSSELS, March 21.—The General Council of the labor party of Belgium, composed of delegates from workingmen's societies throughout the country, have resolved unanimously to proclaim a general strike in case Parliament does not vote universal suffrage.

STRUCK A RIVER.

The Rushing Stream Found At the Bottom of a Well.

AUGUSTA, Ill., March 21.—An underground river has been discovered four and one-half miles northwest of this place, between Augusta and Carthage. A few days ago William Allen dug a well on his farm in that locality, going to a depth of 33 feet. Not finding as much water as he desired he dug 44 feet further, and suddenly the auger dropped through the bottom of the well.

What water had accumulated also went through the hole. The hole was plugged up with clay and debris and the well again filled with water, but suddenly the entire bottom fell out, carrying all but five feet of the wall with it.

Nothing was then left but a deep hole in the ground, at the bottom of which could be seen a swift-rushing stream. All efforts to fill up this hole have proved futile. Rubbish, stones, logs and other debris have been cast into it, but the rushing current carries it away almost instantly. Efforts have been made to sound the depth of the subterranean stream, but they, too have been futile.

DIXON-SIDDONS FIGHT.

SPORTS VERY MUCH DISGUSTED WITH IT.

[illegible] Chicago, March 21.—[illegible] Champion Featherweights George Dixon and George Siddons for $5000.

The referee announced that if Dixon and Siddons were able to continue at the end of 12 rounds the decision should be a draw. This was the only condition on which the bout could be arranged so far as the decision went, but the man who had the advantage up to the end of the fight should receive $1500 of the $2000 purse offered.

Johnny Eckhardt, as usual, was the referee.

FIRST ROUND—Dixon walked around his man, feinting several times, but making no attempt to lead. He suddenly landed his left on Siddons' ribs. He jabbed his left again in the same place and received in return Siddons' left in the face rather lightly. The round was rather tame.

SECOND ROUND—They sparred a few moments for an opening, when Dixon rushed in and swung his left on Siddons, and got away without a return. Dixon rushed him again and landed left and right. The crowd hissed Siddons for remaining away.

THIRD ROUND—Dixon landed another left on Siddons' ribs and retired without any return. Another minute's walking around and Dixon landed the left again in the same place. These were the only blows in this round and the fighters were hissed.

FOURTH ROUND—Dixon went right at his man the moment they met and landed his left on Siddons' stomach. They clinched, and after the break Dixon ran in again and landed both left and right. During the clinch which followed some one in the crowd called out: "Give it up and apologize!"

In the fifth, sixth and seventh rounds but little fighting was done, and the crowd amused themselves by guying the fighters.

In the eighth and ninth rounds a little more fighting was done, but not enough to satisfy the crowd.

TENTH ROUND—The crowd began to leave their seats and move towards the door as the boys got up for this round. Dixon forced the fighting and landed a few more good left-handed blows on the chest and stomach of Siddons. The crowd amused itself by guying the pair.

ELEVENTH ROUND—After a minute's walking Dixon landed a good blow over Siddons' heart. Dixon exhibited some temper and landed another blow on the face, following it with a light tap on the ribs with his left. This round was another exhibition of walking and feinting.

TWELFTH ROUND—About half the people in the house left before the pair came up for this round. Dixon made matters lively, however, by forcing the fighting. He drove Siddons all over the ring and landed many times with both hands, but none of the blows were of a knock-out nature.

The general verdict was that it was the poorest exhibition ever seen around these parts and will not contribute much to the popularity of the sport at this place. The sports from the large cities within 500 miles of New York were particularly indignant and disappointed.

ISLANDERS BOWLED OUT.

A Hurricane That Destroyed Many Villages and Killed Many People.

SYDNEY, March 21.—A destructive hurricane swept on March 6 over the New Hebrides Islands and New Caledonia, destroying many villages and causing great loss of life. Large numbers of the natives are said to have perished, and extensive districts were devastated.

New Caledonia forms with neighboring islands the most important penal colony of France and particulars are anxiously awaited as to the destruction of life and property at Noumea and other points. The New Hebrides have but few white inhabitants, but among these are missionaries from America and Europe.

The hurricane raged incessantly for three days and the rainfall was enormous. Half of New Caledonia is flooded. In Tchio alone 10 persons were drowned. The property damaged amounts to at least £120,000.

Off His Chunk.

CHICAGO, March 21.—Rev. J. G. White, a Cumberland Presbyterian minister of Stanford, Ill., in addressing the Milwaukee Ministers' Association, declared he had proofs of a conspiracy of the Church of Rome against the United States to overthrow the Government, that the Pope, Cardinal Gibbons, 60 clergymen and bishops and 10 archbishops were backing a man who was endeavoring to raise a revolution in this country, that this man was T. V. Powderly, who, under the pretext of aiding and assisting the laboring man, was plotting, with the aid of the Catholic church, to overthrow this country.

This was denied by a friend of Mr. Powderly's. Mrs. Stephens, who edits a paper there. Mr. Powderly writes, thanking her and contradicting the charge emphatically.

Eight Miners Killed.

LONDON, March 21.—A horrible accident occurred yesterday in a coal pit near Chesterfield, Derbyshire. While the cage was descending, loaded with miners going to their day's work, owing to some accident to the apparatus, it suddenly fell to the bottom of the shaft and eight of the miners were killed.

The affair caused great excitement, and hundreds of men, women and children hurried to the mouth of the shafts to see if their relatives were among the dead.

Fed the Sweets of Office.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—The Senate has confirmed the following nominations: Josiah Quincy, Massachusetts, Assistant Secretary of State; Isaac P. Gray, Indiana, Minister to Mexico; James B. Eustis, Louisiana, Minister to France.

Patrick A. Collins, Massachusetts, Consul-General at London; Robert A. Maxwell, New York, fourth assistant Postmaster-General; Wade Hampton, South Carolina, Commissioner of Railroads; William McAdoo, New Jersey, assistant secretary of the navy.

Religious Riots.

SHANGHAI, March 21.—Religious riots have broken out in Amoy. Many native Christians have been tortured, and a few have been killed. The English missionary was attacked by a mob of fanatics, and barely saved his life by flight.

TUESDAY, MARCH 21, 1893.

WHILE Dr. Montague and other champions of trade restriction and monopoly insist that Canadian farmers would be ruined if deprived of tariff protection or subjected to unrestrained competition with the farmers of the United States, the federal ministers make annual pilgrimages to Washington offering to "sell out" to Americans the tariff protection now afforded our farmers. Sir John Thompson and Messrs. Bowell and Foster went to Washington last year and offered to abolish all the duties imposed upon agricultural products in return for certain concessions from the United States. They refused to discuss Mr. Blaine's proposal that Canadian manufacturers as well as Canadian farmers should submit to free competion. Our Tory leaders were willing, even anxious, to sacrifice the protection which the Foster tariff gives to farmers, and which the restrictionist orators say is so necessary; provided the duties which enable the combinesters to make enormous profits were kept up. In the face of the repeated offers of the Tory leaders to sacrifice the duties imposed upon agricultural products and subject our farmers to unlimited competition with American rivals in their home markets, what wretched hypocrisy it is for their followers to talk about the danger of having the Canadian market swamped by imports of grain and meats from the United States. The Tory leaders should have thought about this matter before they went to Washington and offered to sacrifice the duties imposed upon farm products imported into the Dominion.—Ottawa Free Press.

THERE is every indication that the present session of the Dominion Parliament will not last much longer. No one will shed many tears when it is all over and the members return to their homes to empty the ashes and see that the hired man doesn't eat too much pork for breakfast. The difference between the present session and the preceeding two has been very marked, and we may all be glad that the stories of corruption in high places, of crooked officials and conniving heads of departments appear to have come to an end. The present session will be more remarkable for what has not rather than what has been done, especially in the way of lopping off the mouldering branches. It would be interesting to know just what kind of a fiscal policy Sir John Thompson will go to the people with at the next election. There are those who think that the N. P. will be punched so full of holes that it will look like a kitchen colliander, while others take the view that it will be fatal to tamper with the tariff. From the present outlook it is going to be something of a Herculean job to tickle the farmers under the chin with one hand and the manufacturers with the other.—Hamilton Herald.

It isn't in the ordinary way that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription comes to the weak and suffering woman who needs it. It's guaranteed. Not with words merely; any medicine can make claims and promises. What is done with the "Favorite Prescripton" is this: if it fails to benedit or cure, in any case, your money is returned. Can you ask any better proof that a medicine will do what it promises?

It's an invigorating, restorative tonic, a soothing and strengthening nervine, and a certain remedy for the ills and ailments that beset a woman. In "female complaints" of every kind, periodical pains, internal inflammation or ulceration, bearing-down sensations, and all chronic weakness and irregularities, it is a positive and complete cure.

To every tired, overworked woman, and to every weak, nervous, and ailing one, it is guaranteed to bring health and strength.

An Inactive or Torpid Liver must be aroused and all bad bile removed. Burdock Pills are best for old or young.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

When the kidneys are clogged, good health is an impossibility; but when working properly the reverse is the case. That dull back-ache is the kidney's cry for relief. If Dodd's Kidney Pills are used the result will be marvellous. We emphatically state that we have never known a case of kidney disease that a persistent use of Dodd's Kidney Pills will not cure.

The Power of Nature.

For every ill nature has a cure. In the healing virtues of the Norway Pine lies the cure for coughs, colds, croup, asthma bronchitis, hoarseness, etc. Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup represents the virtues of Norway Pine and other pectoral remedies. Price 25c.

Experiments in Most Grafting.

It would therefore seem that for the milder portions of Quebec and Ontario, where root-killing is unknown, budded trees (especially as we have no reliable data bearing upon the relative length of life of budded and grafted stock) will give the most satisfactory results. But for the colder portions of our country, the piece root would seem to serve an almost indispensable purpose, where extreme hardiness is desired, and when a variety of known hardiness is used—placed upon the piece root, which acts as a temporary support till roots of its own are developed. We thus obtain a tree upon its own roots, the most desirable of all kinds, and without doubt the one that will best withstand the vicissitudes of our climate. It has been my experience that good apple trees, for all situations, can be grown by using only the first and second sections of the root, which should not be less than 3½ inches in length and the scion between 5 and 6 inches. These, when properly joined together, will, under ordinary conditions, make a growth which, if not equal to a budded tree the first year, will generally be quite satisfactory.

The pear is almost entirely propagated by budding. There are a few nursery firms in the Eastern States who, to demonstrate conclusively, if possible, which is the best method of propagating the apple for northern sections, began last year a series of experiments in root-grafting. In this experiment whole roots and sections of roots are used and kept apart for the purpose of comparison.—John Craig, Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

One-Sided Exhaustion.

Wheat, oats, etc., for instance, use up phosphoric acid faster than any other plant-food elements, and many fruit crops, etc., live especially on potash. Continued, one-sided cropping, therefore, may result in exhausting the soil of a single kind of plant-food; and when that is the case, the application of just that kind of plant-food will be likely to help make the soil again productive.

We are talking about a "shortening" which will not cause indigestion. Those who "know a thing or two" about Cooking (Mouton Harland among a host of others) are using

COTTOLENE

Those who use Cottolene will be healthier and wealthier than those who use lard—Healthier because they will get "shorter" bread; wealthier because they will get "shorter" grocery bills—for Cottolene costs no more than lard and goes twice as far—so is but half as expensive.

A Pretty Silk Bodice Suitable For Home Wear—White Flannel Negligé Dresses—A Cape For Use Indoors—A Smart Spring Coat—A Visiting Toilet.

(Copyright).

NEW YORK (SPECIAL).

SOMETIMES the bolero jacket comes together at the top in front, and is cut sharply away from the fastening. The merest apology for a garment beneath makes the effect of a pretty bodice. A chemise-like little slip, made very full, and cut square at the neck so that it shows chemisette-like above the fastening of the bolero, will do very well. At the waist it can be wrapped tight in a bodice belt that comes up to where the bolero ends, and, of course, there are great sleeves. No one could want a prettier dress. The suggestion of black and white need not be followed, brown and cream will do, or a bright green one is a safe investment, if you have a white and black dress or so, and, perhaps, an organdie with a green figure. A dull rose color lined with pale gold and embroidered with gold would be a beauty. Some of them have a heavy frill of lace sewed in over the top of each armhole, and when the bolero is in place this lace, of course, augments the puff of the sleeve beneath. The lapel collar may be a full ruffle instead, indeed a thousand variations may be rung on the pretty fashion, and the dainty thing made for all that of some odd end of silk or velvet that you have had on hand, goodness knows how long, because there was not enough of it to make use of.

My initial illustration shows a very pretty bodice of black silk suitable for home wear. It is arranged with yoke and cuffs of pink silk, closely covered with black guipure lace. The bodice is quite full and can be worn with a wide or narrow black silk band. I have next sketched a lovely negligé of white flannel trimmed with lace. The back is very full and at the waist is laid in pleats, one bunch in the middle, and one on each side, with a belt of folded silk, running through. Above the waistline and the belt there are box-pleats, which are sewed to a square yoke. In the skirt the flannel falls in graceful folds and in front is gathered around the neck, the side fronts being of the whole width of the goods. It has broad revers edged with lace and is hooked down the middle. The broad sailor collar is trimmed with a bias fold of white silk and the gown is left open at the neck to display the throat.

Another negligé dress is shown, accompanied, as a safeguard against chilly rooms, by a pleated cape, about three-quarters length. The cape is edged with a ruffle of Valenciennes lace. A few gathers are run through the top to form a yoke and the collar is sewed on with ornate hemstitching. The skirt is of the same material with three flounces of lace and embroidery. At the waist and neck there are bows of green brocke ribbon.

Don't accept the pretty Japanese fashions for house gowns. The great soft wrap-like things that are held together by the belt, are cool and soft, and warm and light. You can buy them here at almost any Japanese store they will bring them out if you insist, and if you can only find a store where a little Japanese woman serves, you may be able to coax her to make you one. Have it of the soft grey blue crepe that only the Japs know how to produce, and wear a great figured belt of black all full of gold threads, and under it all have another gown of red crepe that shows at the sleeves and throat and about the feet. This scarlet garment beneath is often a wicked and heathen fake, and is only a sort of puffing of the scarlet crepe stuffed with down or cotton. Of course, you must have black hair and know how to pose yourself over a screen.

Fatal Result of Delay.

Sickness generally follows in the path of neglect. Don't be reckless! but prudently take a few doses of Scott's Emulsion immediately following exposure to cold. It will save you many painful days and sleepless nights.

Some symptoms of worms are:—fever colic, variable appetite, restlessness, weakness and convulsions. The unfailing remedy is Dr. Lowe's Worm Syrup.

Do not despair of curing your sick headache when you can so easily obtain Carter's Little Liver Pills. They will effect a prompt and permanent cure. Their action is mild and natural.

IF YOU WANT TO TRAVEL through life by the rough stages of coughs, colds and consumption, be careless of yourself during the damp, cold weather and DON'T use for that nasty cough of yours. But if you'd like to live to a green old age in health, and consequently in happiness, use as a preventive and cure of all Throat and Lung diseases.

Allen's Lung Balsam

Allen's Lung Balsam

TO BE OR NOT TO BE "IN IT."

A Life Agent called at a friend's place one day,
HE WASN'T IN IT;
He had seen "the boys" coming and fled from his way
HE WASN'T IN IT;
He had heard so much said, he was tired and sick
Of insurance and agents—'twas all a blank trick,
When one's coil must be shuffled to win it,
HE WASN'T IN IT.

A bit of a draft blew o'er his bald head,
HE WAS IN IT;
Pneumonia sent him straightway to his bed,
HE STAYED IN IT;
His doctor made of it a "quite special" case,
To save him for running still more of life's race,
But the grave took some chances to win it,
AND HE'S IN IT.

When approached by a gent for insuring your life,
GET RIGHT IN IT;
It's the right thing to do for your children and wife,
THEN STAY IN IT.
Remember that fires take your goods "out of sight,"
And that accidents happen each day and each night,
While insurance protects every minute,
IF YOU'RE IN IT.

A Bank Manager's Opinion.

HE IS "IN IT."

The General Manager of one of the leading banks in Canada, writing to a personal friend, says:—"I have no hesitation in saying that I place the CANADA LIFE upon the highest platform. It is in my opinion carefully, economically and honestly managed; its Reserve Funds are well invested; its rates of Premiums are low, and its future is, I think better assured than a great majority of Companies. I have my own life insured in the Company for a round amount, and would not hesitate to increase the amount of my policies should I decide upon taking out further insurance."

A Government Insurance Actuary's Opinion

On the Relation between Ordinary and Tontine Service.

It is frequently asserted by Companies whose business is nearly all tontine, that although the CANADA LIFE may and does pay large ordinary profits, yet it cannot compare so favourably on a long term distribution or tontine period, and that in the end better results can be obtained on a tontine policy in a large American Co. than on an ordinary or tontine policy in the CANADA LIFE. To prove the absurdity of this statement, the following piece of common sense is quoted from Mervin Tabor, late Actuary of the Illinois Government Insurance Department. In his well known book, "The Three Systems of Life Insurance," he says: "A company that gives large dividends on the ordinary kind of policies, can give much larger on the same kinds when Tontined, and a company that pays but meagre dividends on the usual forms, adopting perhaps the Tontine system to "cover up" its small surpluses, cannot be relied on for large returns of surplus under the Tontine Forms of Insurance."

The CANADA LIFE does not "cover up" its Quinquennial profits as some Companies do, but publishes them throughout the country.

It can and does surpass other Companies on Quinquennial profits. It should and will surpass them on Tontine profits.

WHY TO BE "IN IT."

BISHOP HAWKE'S REASON:—"I claim that Life Insurance is not only a humane, but I might say a Christian Institution."

LORD LYNDHURST'S REASON:—"A Policy of Life Insurance is always an evidence of prudent forethought. No man with a dependent family is free from reproach if not insured."

WHEN TO BE "IN IT."

The younger, the cheaper. Therefore insure when young. Besides by insuring in the CANADA LIFE now, you will share in three years' profits.

WHERE TO BE "IN IT."

The best place to be "in it" is in the Company that gives the best returns for the least money, consistent with absolute security. Therefore, in order to be "in it," choose the

The Local Capital Up.

An informal meeting of several citizens took place in the office of Mr. Jas. Stevenson, M.P., last night, in reference to the establishment of an industry in Peterborough by an American firm. The amount of stock to be taken in the concern by local capital is $25,000,—half of the paid up capital—and it is understood that this amount has been easily raised. The representatives of the firm have been communicated with and further final arrangement will be arrived at in a few days. The industry will be exempted from taxation and will, it is understood, employ about 60 hands.

Back from North Galveston.

Mr. T. Hurley, who availed himself of the recent excursion to North Galveston, Texas, returned home yesterday, delighted with his sojourn. He says the city which has now a population of some 2000 and is rapidly growing, is surrounded on three sides by the waters of North Galveston bay—an arm of the Gulf of Mexico—and possesses undoubtedly one of the most eligible locations that nature could bestow. The climate is grand, the atmosphere being very clear and fresh, and capitalists from all over the United States are visiting this coveted spot. Mr. Hurley's son, Joseph, will not return, having secured a fine position in the real estate office of the company there. The roads and walks are literally paved with fine shells and small gravel. Oysters on the beach can be gathered in large quantities. The city is on an elevated site about 20 feet above the water. Messrs. Saddler and McDonald, of Lindsay, have not returned yet. They being interested in lumbering operations are taking a trip back to the immense timber district a few miles back of North Galveston.

THE MAGNIFICENT TRAIN

Sent by the C.P.R. to the World's Columbian Exposition, Arrives in Chicago—The Finest Coaches Ever Turned Out—A Complete Rolling Palace.

The Chicago Daily Tribune of Thursday, March 16th, contains the following extended and excellently descriptive account of the special train manufactured by the Canadian Pacific Railway for exhibition at the Columbian Exposition, and which passed through Peterborough a week ago last Sunday. The magnificent railway turn out was viewed by many of our citizens. The Herald says:

Five of the finest cars manufactured by the Canadian Pacific railroad were hauled into Jackson Park yesterday and installed in the Transportation Building as the exhibit of that railway. It is the first complete train to arrive and was built on such lines of beauty as to please Chief Willard A. Smith, of the department, who thinks he has a first class showing in the train. Every car is of mahogany. The wood for the exterior comes from the forests of Honduras and is polished to the smoothness of plate glass. The interior is of light mahogany known as prima vara. The big engine which ran at the head of the train did not have steam up, as the exhibit was hauled by another engine. The train is 400 feet long. The entire display was manufactured at the Montreal shops. Workmen have been engaged finishing them night and day in order to comply with the regulations of the World's Fair and have the cars here by March 15th. When the Exposition is over the train will be put into actual service.

General Passenger Agent McNicholl came to witness the installation of the cars and he said last evening:

"The train is not purely for Exposition purposes. It is a perfect representation of the standard cars in service on the Canadian Pacific. All of our latest passenger coaches are of mahogany, and the engine is a type of half a dozen which are now employed on the line. This particular train will be run between Chicago and Montreal when the Exposition closes."

As it is the first complete railroad train to arrive, considerable interest attaches to it. It is besides a representative one of a big railroad, and is entered in comparison with the trains of other lines. Mr. McNicholls' display has a good location and the coaches will be landed on the track alongside the passenger train of the London and North-western of England. It was the intention of the Canadian Pacific to institute a comparison between the railroad accommodations on this side of the water and those furnished in Great Britain.

The baggage car is of the standard type, and its length is sixty-three feet and eight inches. It weighs 59,000 pounds, and has plate glass wherever glass is used. Its exterior finish is mahogany, the same as the coaches.

Next to it is a second-class car. It looks, however, as fine as the others. It is intended for sleeping purposes as well as being a day coach. The furnishings are of leather and the second-class passengers who ride in it, the capacity is sixty-four, will be furnished with a smoking compartment as well as lavatory and other modern accessories.

Next to the second-class is a first-class coach. When it was run over the scale at Montreal it weighed thirty-two and a half tons and has a capacity for fifty-six passengers. Here begins the work of E. Colona, the architect of the company. He has designed the interior of the coach after the early Italian rennaissance and the furnishings are of copper-red plush with white mahogony and old oak, upholstered with olive corduroy. To break the tunnel-like appearance of the interior of the average coach this one has two arches, giving an air of coziness and comparative seclusion. There is a smoking compartment at one end capable of accommodating six passengers, and at the other another compartment of like size for a sitting room.

In the dining car, Savoy, which is seventy feet ten inches long, and weighs forty-two and a half tons, there is a capacity for thirty passengers. The Italian rennaissance prevails in the architure, and the leather work is of yellow brown with carpets of old India rug pattern.

The last car in the train is a sleeper and bears the title Satsuma. This is the heaviest coach of the lot and weighs forty-seven tons. Forty-four people may sleep in it. The plush trimmings are of sage green colour. The ceiling is paneled and the interior architecture is of the Spanish rennaissance. The staterooms are en suite. Old bronze is the finishing of the metal work.

When the engine which heads the train is fired up, it will be capable of hauling ten coaches at the rate of sixty miles an hour. The drivers are 5 feet 9 inches in diameter and when the machine is loaded up with water and fuel it will weigh 106 tons. It has six drivers.

From one end of the train to the other there are mahogny, bronze and brass finishings. It is vestibuled throughout, electrically lighted, steam heated, and has all the latest signal, brake and coupler devices. The cost of the exhibit is estimated at $70,000.

In addition to the train the Canadian Pacific will exhibit fifteen oil paintings of scenery along the route. These will be hung in the gallery of the Transportation Building. Some of the pictures which were accepted by the national jury were scenes from provinces along the road, and will be displayed in the art gallery. There will also be a model of one of the company's Pacific steamboats. It will be eleven and a half feet long and an expensive reproduction of the Empress of Japan.

NINETEEN BOXES.

BRANTFORD, March 20th. The EXPOSITOR last week published an article on the case of Archie Rymal of this city, which has caused considerable excitement in Brantford and district. It appears Mr. Rymal has had more than his share of suffering during the past few years, so far was he run down from kidney disease that he had lost the power of his limbs and back. He could only get around with the aid of two crutches, or when assisted by kind hands. His death was daily expected. On the advice of his wife he tried Dodd's Kidney Pills, and took in all nineteen boxes. His improvement was marked from the second box. He is now completely cured, and a living testimony of the curative powers of that wonderful remedy.

CANOES FOR CANADA.

The Wm. English Canoe Building Co. Will Make a Splendid Display of Their Handiwork at the Columbian Exposition.

The old-established and thoroughly reliable Wm. English Canoe Company will make a creditable exhibition of their handiwork at the forthcoming Columbian Exposition at Chicago. The company have been apportioned some 400 square feet for their display in the Industrial and Arts building by the World's Fair authorities, and will utilize every inch of it. The construction of seven canoes, at which the best skilled workmen have been engaged all winter, is now completed, and they are models of construction and build as well as marvels of finish. The display will be under the supervision of Mr. W. H. Cottingham, Montreal agent for the firm. The exhibit will be shipped in a very few days to the western metropolis, on receipt of the usual shipping labels and suggestions from the fair directorate. In the meantime the canoes are open for inspection, and would well repay any visitor his trouble in calling to see them. The first canoe is a capital cedar-ribbed one, prettily finished in walnut, 15½ feet long and half decked, weighing in all about 75 lbs. Its value is represented at $55. The next in the special assortment is a 16-foot cedar ribbed canoe, ordinary make and standard build, such as the surface of Little Lake is dotted constantly with in the summer season. Its value is $32. Another is a 15½ feet open longitudinal cedar canoe, value $38. An open varnished basswood canoe with butternut top is a model one. It is fitted with walnut gunwales and thwarts and is a very desirable piece of property for all canoeists. The eye of the visitor is irresistibly attracted to a unique sailing canoe, full decked, manufactured of butternut with cedar deck. This craft carries a mizzen and gigger sail and will easily carry 125 feet of canvass. The steering apparatus and the rudder are made of spring brass and brilliantly polished. The boat is provided with a slide seat known as the hyking seat—a regular patent in itself. All the attachments are complete and ingenious being the work of the Wm. English Company alone. This sailing canoe, which is valued at $175, is the first of its kind ever manufactured by the company. It is a dry storage craft and capable of carrying one person in any sea or upon any water. Another canoe is a tandem canoe, cedar ribbed and exceptionally well made. The seventh canoe is an artistic basswood, standard make and finished with oak.

THE ELECTRIC ROAD.

Work will Begin at Once and Two Miles Completed by June 1st.

Mr. Frederick Nicholls, General Manager of the Canadian General Electric Company, to whom the franchise for the erection of an electric street railroad in Peterboroug was awarded, was in town yesterday. In company with Mr. E. H. D. Hall, solicitor for the Canadian Company, they met the Mayor, town clerk and town solicitor yesterday afternoon and the contract for the construction of the road was duly signed.

It is understood that instead of beginning operations by May 1st, as the agreement calls for, work will begin at once, and the company expect to have two miles of the road completed and in running order by the 1st of June next instead of 1st of August as called for in the contract. The Canadian Company will also have four miles in operation at the expiration of the first year—doubling the number required for in their agreement in the specified time.

THE "COMET" FOR 1893

is as far ahead in the field of Pneumatic Bicycles as a buggy is compared with a farm waggon. The COMET easily wins every time, and if you want to ride the best 'cycle, you must have the COMET and no other.

The COMET PNEUMATIC BICYCLE gets there every time for durability, comfort, style and easy-going—that's beyond dispute. Its Canadian record is away up, for, among the members of the Century Road Club who rode their century during the past season, more were mounted on COMETS than on all other makes of wheels put together.

The COMET for 1893 is built in three styles, viz: Light Roadster, Road Scorcher and Track Racer, the heaviest of which does not weigh over 35 pounds. Further information on application to

THE COTTON COMBINE.

MR. EDGAR'S SPEECH ON THE M'CARTHY RESOLUTION.

The Enormous Profits—How the Combine Has Watered its Stock—Interested to the Extent of Millions in Concealing the Output—Upheld by the Tariff.

OTTAWA, March 18.—Following is a full report of Mr. Edgar's speech in the debate on Mr. McCarthy's tariff resolution. Mr. Edgar said:—I have not had the advantage of hearing the whole of the speech of the honourable gentleman (Mr. Montague) and I will not undertake to follow him in his long address. However, I did hear a portion of his remarks upon a subject which I take a little interest in, and on which I have already addressed this House during the session. I would like very much to follow him in that matter, and to set him right as far as I can in regard to it. I heard the hon. gentleman using very eloquent language indeed in eulogizing the great cotton industry of this country. I am sure that nobody desires to injure the great cotton industries of Canada, but I think we ought to ascertain whether these cotton industries are not making a good deal more than legitimate profits out of the people of Canada. When a resolution such as has been moved by the hon. member for North Simcoe (Mr. McCarthy) is under consideration, it is especially our duty to see that this cotton combine is not taking infinitely more than honest and fair profit out of the people of Canada, and is doing so absolutely under the protection of the tariff which this resolution attacks, I attempted to show, and it has not been contradicted, that the duties collected by the Government on the cotton which we imported in 1892 was 28 per cent ad valorem. I showed by undisputed figures what the duties were which we paid to the manufacturers. I did not show it in the same way as the hon. member for Simcoe (Mr. McCarthy) showed it by comparing English and Canadian prices, but by taking particular articles and showing specific duties and the ad valorem duties combined upon goods which were made in the country by the Canadian cotton mills. I showed, and it cannot be disputed, that the duties levied upon the Canadian people by the manufacturers of cotton range from 35 to 65 per cent. I have also showed that these same cotton manufacturers are able, without one cent of protection, to ship their products to China to the value of about a quarter of a million dollars, and compete there with the manufacturers of England and the United States. Surely, sir, if they can compete with the other manufacturers of the world for the Chinese trade, it is not unreasonable for us to suggest that they are also able to compete with the other manufacturers of the world for the Canadian trade. I do not think the hon. member for Haldimand met any of these points. He did not attempt to answer them. It has also been pointed out to-day by the hon. member for North Simcoe, as it was pointed out once before this session, that the fall in the cost of raw material between 1890 and 1892 saved over $1,000,000 in hard, clear cash to the manufacturers of cotton goods, and yet there was no consequent increase in wages or decrease in prices, but, on the contrary, an increase in price to the Canadian consumer of from 10 to 25 per cent. It has also been shown and not denied, that one of the first effects of the National Policy on the cotton trade was to hold forth the promise of such exorbitant prices to those engaged in the business that there was a rush into it, people almost losing their heads in their anxiety to invest their capital in the business. The honest, solid money of the investors of Canada was put into the cotton trade to twice the extent required for legitimate business, so that our limited market induced competition, which for a time inured to the benefit of the consumer, but ultimately inured to the ruin of the investor. In various parts of this Dominion there are people who lost 25, 50, 75, even 100 per cent. of their investments for some years in the cotton business, under the system which the hon. member for Haldimand is defending here to-night. That was one of the first evils which the high protective tariff inflicted upon this industry. And, sir, what happened then? Naturally what always happens in similar cases. The stronger financial corporations held on, and they froze out or wrecked the smaller and weaker concerns, and a short time ago those remaining and that combine stands to-day in full force and operation under the protecting ægis of that high tariff on cotton goods which the hon. member for Haldimand has so brilliantly pictured as a blessing and a benison upon this country. Why, sir, how can men in their senses possibly believe that legitimate profits alone could have enabled the Dominion Cotton Company to increase its stock last September from $1,500,000 to $3,000,000 at one swoop? Of that increase of $1,500,000, all except $150,000 was pure, unmitigated, limpid water—and sugar, I suppose—and the remainining $1,350,000 the original stockholders have put into their pockets out of the enormous profits that they have already made, and out of their anticipated profits under this tariff. I wonder if the hon. member for Haldimand can answer that? He cannot answer it. Nobody can answer it. It is a patent fact, which is there as clear and undisputed as the fact that the sun shines at noonday, and if there were nothing else at all to be said on the subject, that is a conclusive reason why we should call upon the Government to redeem the pledge which the first minister made in this House last session, when he promised that if it were shown that there was a combine in the cotton business the tariff would very soon be lowered. Instead of that, we have it defended here to-day by the champion who is put forward by the treasury benches to crush out the independence of the hon. member for North Simcoe. That is their redemption of the promise that was made by the first minister last year. What did the hon. member for Haldimand say in defence of this cotton combine, apart from the eloquent and inflated sentiments with which he surrounded the question? I do not intend to attempt to bring any eloquence into the discussion, even if I were able to do so, but I have

which, I think, will be a little more to the point. The hon. member for Haldimand said that cotton was sold by the Canadian manufacturers to-day at just a shade over the English and American prices. We know sir, that to the "heathen Chinee" it is sold at a price equal to or under the American and English prices, but to the Canadian consumer it is sold over the English and American prices. I will give you two or three examples in detail. American grey cotton that can be bought without a duty at 5 cents per yard, exactly the same quality and class, is sold at 6½ cents by the Canadian manufacturer, which is 30 per cent. more than the American price. This, according to the hon. member for Haldimand (Mr. Montague), is only a shade over. Well, bleached cotton, which is sold at 6½ cents by the American mills, is sold here at 8 cents, which is 23 per cent of an increase. Now, those are the American goods. English check shirtings, which are imported, can be laid down here, freight and charges paid, and 4½ pence, and this quality is sold by the Canadian manufacturer at 10½ cents, which is an increase of 29 per cent. So, in answer to the general assertion that there is not more than a shade of difference, I shall show that, on these particular articles, which I happen to have in my hands since I came into the house five minutes ago, there is a difference ranging from 23 to 30 per cent. Another important point which I caught from the remarks of the hon. member for Haldimand is this: He showed us, and I suppose he did not minimize the figures at all, the total cost of manufacturing the output of cotton by the Canadian mills. After putting in everything he could think of, or that those who supplied him with the figures could think of, he brought a result of $8,135,000 as the entire cost of production. Well, sir, I am very much obliged to him for furnishing those figures, because it helps us a good deal. I have been able from other sources to get the cost of the raw material and the cost of the wages, but all these other things that he gave us, freights, and so on, I had not got, so we will take his estimate of $8,135,000. Well, let us try and get at a fair estimate of

WHAT THEY SELL THEIR OUTPUT FOR.

The hon. member for North Simcoe made a calculation of it on one point of view. On a former occasion I estimated it from two points of view. I take this way of doing it. I take from the trade and navigation returns the gross imports of raw cotton in 1883. I compared it with the gross imports of raw cotton in 1892, and I found that there was a difference of 26,000,000 pounds in the imports. That is to say, that in 1892 our imports had increased 26,000,000 pounds. I found also that the importation of the manufactured material from 1882 to 1892 had decreased 7,000,000 pounds, and therefore the 26,000,000 pounds of raw material would represent 7,000,000 pounds of manufactured material. That being so, the 46,000,000 pounds of imported raw material in 1892 would represent nearly $13,000,000 of manufactured material in 1892, unless our population has decreased, and unless the people of Canada were using less cotton goods than they did ten years ago. We cannot admit that our population has decreased, as the census returns show that it has increased between 11 and 12 per cent., and I know from inquires I made personally in the trade that the demand for cotton goods has considerably increased during that time, so that there is no doubt from those figures that there is an output of some $13,000,000 worth. Take another way of looking at it. The Montreal cottou mills a month ago gave to the world the figures of their output for the past year. They gave their figures at $1,468,000. Now they have got 54,000 spindles in the mill. The whole of the mills of Canada have 54,520,000 spindles, and the simple rule of three will show that if 54,000 spindles can make, as they did last year, $1,468,000 worth, therefore the whole of the mills, working as the census returns say they are, full time—and I think the hon. member from Cornwall (Mr. Bergin) not very long ago said they were working full time—would turn out $14,000,000 worth. Now, I cannot be mistaken in those figures of the Montreal company, because that was the output reported on the same day in the Montreal Star, and the next day in the Montreal Herald, and the following day in the Montreal correspondence of the Toronto Mail, and they have not been denied. We have a good many other ways of making that calculation. In answer to some questions put upon the paper by the hon. member for Simcoe (Mr. McCarthy), the finance minister said that, according to the census of 1891, the output was $8,451,734. Now, that was no doubt upon the raw material imported in 1890, because the census was taken in 1891. Well, the raw material imported in 1890 was 36,000,000 pounds. Therefore, if 36,000,000 pounds produced, as the finance minister said they did, $8,451,000 worth, then the imports for 1892, which his own trade and navigation returns show to have been 46,000,000 pounds of raw material, must have produced over $10,000,000 worth, and, as the prices have risen, the prices of Canadian goods in that time have been raised from 12 to 20 per cent., which would make the output of 1892, with even the 15 per cent. of increase, $11,500,000 worth of manufactured cotton.

Mr. Kenny—Will my hon. friend permit me for one moment. Does he contend that in Canada during the past year 46,000,000 pounds of cotton were manufactured into cotton goods. We imported only 42,000,000 pounds of cotton; there were 4,000,000 pounds of waste.

Mr. Edgar—There is a proportion of waste every year. I include the waste in my comparison of the year before. I treated all as raw material. The waste is used in the manufactures of cotton. I am entirely misinformed if it is not so used. I know that waste is exported from the cotton mills. I know also that waste is used in the manufacture of cotton goods, as well as raw cotton. We know what it is used for; it is used to deteriorate the article. But it is raw material, and imported for the purpose of being so used. So that I am right in my contention; I have included waste in both cases. This is one way of calculating. Now, another way to get at it is this: I take the exports from England to Canada of cottons in 1891, taking the figures in the English public documents. Sometimes they are given in pounds and sometimes in yards. I find that 25,000,000 yards were valued at £430,000 sterling, or, in round figures, $2,000,000. Counting the raw material at 3½ yards to the pound—and I have no doubt that is a fair estimate; I do not know whether my hon. friend from Halifax (Mr. Kenny) who has asked me a question, will dispute the estimate that one pound of raw material will produce 3½ yards of cotton—that would bring this English export to Canada in 1891 down to 7,000,000 pounds. Now, the imports of raw material into Canada are 46,000,000 pounds; therefore, at the English price of export, without freight or charges, this quantity of cotton would produce $13,000,000 worth. Now, I will tell the house on what authority I assume that one pound of raw material will make 3½ yards of manufactured cotton. If any hon. member will turn to the Hansard of 1882, he will see a debate upon this subject of the excessive specific and ad valorem duties which were imposed upon cotton. The debate arose on a motion by Mr. Anglin, which was supported by a speech from him, and by a very much more elaborate speech by Mr. Blake; and he will find that Mr. A. F. Gault, who is the president of all these combines to-day, gave as his estimate that the average yield of a pound of cotton would be 3½ yards of the manufactured article. It is a great deal more in many cases, but Mr. Gault gave that as the estimate of the average. There is another way of reaching a conclusion. The import of raw material, as I have said already, is 46,000,000 pounds this year, and at 3½ yards to the pound that will give 161,000,000 yards. Now, I have taken a great deal of pains to inquire from a large number of large houses in Canada what would be a fair average figure at which to place the price of the cotton sold by these manufacturers to the trade. There is the grey cotton (the cheapest), then there are the white cottons, the bleached cottons, and the great variety of expensive cottons of a number of different classes, which my hon. friend from Halifax (Mr. Kenny) knows a great deal more than I do. But I am sure it is a fair thing to put the average of all these goods at 9 cents. They run all the way from 20c. down to 5c. The larger quantity is the lower, I admit, and that brings the average down. But the dealers tell me that about 9c. is a very fair average. The 161,000,00 yards made out of this 46,000,000 pounds of raw material would produce at 9c. per yard, $14,490 000 worth of output. So, sir, I have a number of calculations, on a number of different bases, making this output $11,500,000, $13,000,000, $14,000,000 and $14,449,000. Sir, we have the official statement from the member for Haldimand (Dr. Montague) that the cost of making all this is only $8,000,000, and I would like him or his friends, or the supporters of these combines, to figure out

WHAT THE PROFITS ARE.

They are anywhere from $4,000,000 to $6,000,000. Is it any wonder, that under these circumstances, that the combines can water their stock? Is it any wonder that the Dominion Cotton Company stockholders, by their last operation, have made a bonus on their stock equal to 154 per cent.—for that is what it means, having reference to the current price paid of that watered stock, and what they paid in cash for it? And are we to be told that the country is to submit to this condition of things; that the government sitting there is unable to ascertain these facts when any private member can ascertain them if he will take the trouble, as the hon. member for Simcoe and myself have done? Are the Government going to listen to the stories poured into their ears by some promoters of these factories, that they are only making such and such a quantity of goods? These men are not bound to give any return. These men are not under obligation to give any statement under oath. And they are interested to the amount of millions of dollars in concealing the amount of their output. I do not want to ask them about their output. We know what it is—what it must be; and I am only too glad that they have had a spokesman in the House to tell us what their expenses are. I give them the benefit of all these expenses that they have piled up, and yet I insist, and the people of the country know and believe, that they are making by reason of this outrageous tariff, a profit of anywhere from $4,000,000 to $6,000,000 a year, even on their watered stock.

A POLITICAL JOKE.

Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—In your issue of yesterday you made a number of scattering remarks on Mr. Stevenson, and you did him a great injustice. Did you not know that Mr. Stevenson's speech at Ottawa was only one of Mr. Stevenson's jokes? If you were a conservative you would accept all his political statements as jokes. You also find fault with him for not having the Trent Valley canal built, between Lakefield and Peterborough. It is true that Mr. Stevenson has not done as he promised in the matter, but has he not given us the promise of two old Russian cannons to place in the park to protect the commerce of the Trent Valley Canal—when it comes. What more do you want? Do you want the earth? You got the promise of the canal and you got two cannons. That result is far more than the majority of his promises realized. If you were not a resident of Peterborough you might be excused for not appreciating Mr. Stevenson's jokes. It is said to be necessary to perform a surgical operation on some people to get a joke into their heads. You must be one of them. Mr. Stevenson says emphatically that he is not a "wobbler." Is he a

A new steamboat has just been built for the Dickson Company at Lake Ketchecum. She is sound, strong and a model in every particular. The new steamer is 60 feet in length with 10 feet width of beam and draws about 18 inches of water. The new steamer has powerful side paddle wheels and possesses a seven horse power engine, manufactured by Polson & Co., of To[illegible]po. She is decked about twenty feet over the engine and was built under the direct supervision of Mr. J. W. Hickey, shipbuilder, of Port Hope, and a staff of men. The vessel will be used by the Dickson Company as soon as navigation opens for towing logs from Gold Lake to Lake Ketchecum. The steamer has been painted and is furnished in a thoroughly first class and workmanlike manner, being launched on the ice March 17th. Mr. Hickey also built a large scow at River side Park during the past winter for the Dickson Company, and which will be used in carrying lumber.

What is Going on at the Rink Where Curlers Most do Congregate.

An interesting make-up match occurred at the rink last night between rinks skipped by Geo. Boucher and T. F. Connal. At one time time the opposing hosts were playing for the spring suits, at another time for the bivalves and still another for the Christi stiffs. It finally ended up that that they were simply playing for fun. Following is the score, 14 ends were played:—

W G Morrow,	G Sawers,
A E Thompson,	W Hall,
Geo Boucher, sk ... 18	T F Connal, sk 6

About sixteen members of the curling club played the points game at the rink last night. Considerable interest was taken in the event. The remaining competitors for the silver cup, which was won last year by Mr. Geo. Fitzgerald, and is now on exhibition at Mr. Sam Ray's, will play this evening. The complete scores made by the members will then be published. Last night R. Rutherford came out ahead making in all 29 shots. The ice is still in prime condition.

PRINCESS KAIULANI.

Fears For the Safety of Her Hawaiian Garden Spot Allayed.

NEW YORK, March 20.—Princess Kaiulani, accompanied by Theodore Davies, Mrs. Davies and Miss Davies, arrived last night at the Brevoort House from Washington. The Princess and her party will remain in this city until next Wednesday, when they will return to England on the steamer Majestic.

Princess Kaiulani is well satisfied with the result of her somewhat hurried visit to President Cleveland, although according to her own statement there is no official significance to be attached thereto. It was purely and simply a social call, the object for which the Princess came to this country having been accomplished before she met President Cleveland.

Mr. Davies, who has throughout acted and spoken for Princess Kaiulani, said: "The appointment of a commissioner by the President to go to Hawaii and thoroughly investigate the matter of proposed annexation is the very thing we want. If the majority of the voters in Hawaii want to be annexed then we are willing to be annexed, but not until it is demonstrated at the polls."

Capt. Hooper of the revenue cutter Rush at San Francisco has received definite orders to hold himself in readiness to convey President Cleveland's special envoy, ex-Congressman Blount, to Honolulu.

BAIT ACT REPEALED.

Newfoundland Government Repeals the Famous Measure.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., March 20.—The Government has decided to repeal the famous Bait Act enacted five years ago to prevent the French from getting bait, thus enabling Newfoundland to compete with the French system of bounty on all fish exported from French possessions. The Bait Act which also affected American fishermen has never been rigidly enforced. The proposed new law provides that French and American fishermen may buy all the bait they require on payment of a license fee of $15 a ton register every season.

To Test the Geary Act.

NEW YORK, March 20.—Chinamen in New York and its vicinity have raised a large fund to test the constitutionality of the Geary law. It was reported Saturday that the New York and Brooklyn Chinamen have already subscribed $30,000. The inhabitants of Mott, Doyer and Pell-streets were jubilant to-day when they learned that their brethren in the west, and especially in and about San Francisco, had raised $60,000 for the same purpose.

FIRE AT MON O ROAD.

A Considerable Amount of Damage Was Done.

MONO ROAD, Ont., March 20.—About 10.30 a.m. fire was discovered in the Wellington Hotel, occupied by T. P. Sparrow. It was caused by a defective chimney. Hotel and contents, stable and shed were totally destroyed; contents not insured.

The tin shop occupied by R. J. Adams was totally destroyed, part of the contents saved; $500 insurance on contents.

A large hall occupied by the I.O.F. was totally destroyed; contents all saved; no insurance.

C. S. Judge's general store and postoffice had a narrow escape; building and contents badly damaged; no insurance.

C.P.R. station and grain warehouse, occupied by L. Coffee & Co. of Toronto, for a while were in extreme danger, but by the efforts of the officials of the company they were saved.

Killed by a Dynamite Explosion.

WHITE PLAINS, March 20.—Saturday two Italian blacksmiths, John Nichols and Joseph Bartilono, were killed by an explosion which occurred in a blacksmith shop upon the property formerly owned by Col. Hayes and where a new park is being laid out by Contractor J. A. Neville of New York. The bodies of the victims were hurled 200 feet and the shop was blown into splinters. The explosion was caused by a premature explosion of dynamite, it is thought.

Foreign Finances.

LONDON, March 20.—Discount rates were firm during the last week at 1⅞ for both three months and short bills. The balance of trade promises to remain against the United States, which, in the opinion of London financiers, will probably continue to lose gold. Silver continues weak and remarkably quiet.

"What's in a name?" Well, that depends. For instance, the name of "Ayer" is sufficient guarantee that Ayer's Sarsaparilla is a genuine, scientific blood-purifier, and not a sham, like so much that goes by the name of "sarsaparilla." Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the standard.

MARRIED HIS GRANDFATHER'S WIDOW

A Californian Whose Complicated Family Relations Beat the Record.

The strangest combinations resulting from the marriage of relatives the Pomona (Cal.) Progress has ever heard is that in the family of Lewis Osborne, who recently removed to Pomona from Selma, Fresno county. Mr. Osborne says he has been ten years in trying to unravel the perplexities of relationship that his second marriage has caused. In 1886 he married a young widow, who was his own grandfather's third wife. The couple have a little son. Given this simple statement and a number of peculiar family relationships may be deduced. For example, Mr. Osborne is a grandchild of his wife. His son, being also a son of his (Osborne's) grandmother, is uncle to his own father. Osborne becomes a brother to his uncles and aunts, and also a stepfather to them. The boy, being the child of Osborne as a grandson, is thereby a great-grandson of his own mother, while his father may rejoice in the title of great-grandfather to his own child. Thus the boy becomes a grand-uncle to himself and his parents' great-grandchild. Osborne is the boy's father and great-grandfather at the same time, and being the husband of his own grandmother, enjoys the distinction of being his own grandfather as well. Osborne's mother married a man named Blake, and his sister married a brother-in-law of her mother, Henry Blake. Osborne's sister becomes a sister to her own mother. Mrs. Blake, being Osborne's mother, is grandmother to Osborne's son.

The latter, however, being a son of the wife of Mr. Blake's father-in-law, is therefore a brother to his grandmother and granduncle to his grandmother's sister, the daughter who married Mrs. Blake's brother-in-law. He also is her nephew, as the son of her brother. Osborne is the younger Mrs. Blake's grandfather as well as her brother. Thus her nephew, Osborne's son, becomes uncle to his aunt, being a son of her grandmother. The series of relationships may be likewise traced almost indefinitely. The family are happy and contented, and live as pleasantly as though the peculiar family ties were not present.

Best Cure For

All disorders of the Throat and Lungs is [illegible]. It has no equal as a cough cure.

Bronchitis

"When I was a boy, I had a bronchial trouble of such a persistent and stubborn character, that the doctor pronounced it incurable with ordinary remedies, but recommended me to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I did so, and one bottle cured me. For the last fifteen years, I have used this preparation with good effect whenever I take a bad cold, and I know of numbers of people who keep it in the house all the time, not considering it safe to be without it."—J. C. Woodson, P.M., Forest Hill, W. Va.

Cough

"For more than twenty-five years, I was a sufferer from lung trouble, attended with coughing so severe at times as to cause hemorrhage, the paroxysms frequently lasting three or four hours. I was induced to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and after taking four bottles, was thoroughly cured."—Franz Hoffman, Clay Centre, Kans.

La Grippe

"Last spring I was taken down with la grippe. At times I was completely prostrated, and so difficult was my breathing that my breast seemed as if confined in an iron cage. I procured a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and no sooner had I began taking it than relief followed. I could not believe that the effect would be so rapid and the cure so complete."—W. H. Williams, Cook City, S. Dak.

SUNSHINE.

Gold Lace Resembling Sol's Rays Shirred.

The material used for the dress in the illustration is dark blue Oudine. The waist has a large collar of blue velvet edged with narrow mink trimming. The fronts cross and meet at the back in a graceful bow. A garniture of mink and velvet finishes the bottom of the skirt.

The shoulder frill is often seen applied to the Eton and Zouave jacket. It is made from an exaggeration of the collar of the jacket. It is either very full where it widens to reach over the shoulders, or it is cut there once or twice in man-collar fashion to allow for the spring. This berthe or shoulder frill is usually of velvet or lace, and should be of both color and material in contrast to the rest of the jacket. The choice old thread laces seem hardly as dainty as the wealth of crisp, fresh designs that are already on hand for next season. Lace is profusely shown having the pattern worked on in gold net. It is not in any way like the coarse stuff one thinks of as gold lace, but a web so fine that one might as well trim the gown with shirred sunshine. Of course, there is no telling whether or not the gold lace will tarnish. If it is made of genuine bullion thread it won't, and if it is not, it will—and there you are. The only way to determine this point is to buy it, and that seems rather risky because it costs a lot.

The bodice of this dress has huge revers that cross in front and a vest made of antique crepe de chine. The jabot is fashioned of sheer ecru lace. The principal material is faille in a delicate shade of pearl. The skirt touches the ground and at the back and the bottom is finished with a double box-pleated ruching of the faille, divided in the centre by a roll of twisted ribbon. The sleeves end in deep cuffs as shown. Above they are very full and with the big revers they lend an appearance of width at the shoulders which is now considered correct.

What dear, queer things men are! They are all shouting against hoops and crinolines, just as they shouted against bustles, just as they shouted against corsets and tailor-made tightness, just as they shouted against the decolette gown and, well, everything we have ever had in the way of wear. But just let a woman dress in defiance of the prevailing mode, whatever that mode may dictate, and the men of her own family will be the first to protest. If the little ladies who remember the hoops would only tell the truth, they would say that if, in the time when the hoops were worn, a woman appeared without them and in consequent scant and slimpsy skirts, her husband, brother, admirer, or whoever the man might be, who felt privileged to criticise her, would shout, "Do go and dress yourself! You look ridiculous." So the only thing to do is to calmly regard the decrees of fashion and not the cries of our dear men. For they will do now as they always have done; bully us, first not to follow the fashion, whatever it may be, and then abuse us if we don't.

A NORTHUMBRIAN MONARCH.
The Yorkshire Coach Stallion, Stamford Bridge Swell.

Our illustration for this week, says the London Farmer's Advocate, represents the thoroughbred stallion, Stamford Bridge Swell, which was greatly honored in his class and sweepstakes for the best Hackney stallion of any age or breed at the Winnipeg Industrial Exhibition last summer. Stamford Bridge Swell is a Yorkshire Coach of excellent quality; he has plenty of size and substance, great depth of rib, full chest, with good shoulders, neck and head, and possesses that clean, flat bone and wearing feet for which this sort is distinguished. He has beautiful action, and is a particularly handsome horse. His proprietors, Messrs. Alfred & Jos. B. Chambers, Wawanesa, deserve the patronage of the stock breeders of their locality, and a horse of such combined breeding and individual merit should prove of immense benefit to the district where he may stand.

Breeding for a Special Purpose.

I am well aware that this subject may not be very interesting to a great many farmers who are overstocked with horses, and, perhaps, trying to get out of the business and go into something that is booming. Now, that is a wrong course to pursue, for you will have to sell at a sacrifice and buy at a very high price, and by the time you have stock to sell again that class of stock may be as cheap as horses are now, so that, by that course, you are just chasing the market and are not likely to overtake it.

If ever we expect our horses to reach a high standard in their classes, we must breed intelligently, using our very best judgment, and not as a great many have been doing—breeding merely to raise a colt.

There was a time when breeding of general purpose horses in Canada was carried on at a fair profit, but that time has passed. The introduction of the cable and trolley cars has greatly reduced the demand for this class of horses.

Anyone who takes the trouble to study the principal horse markets cannot fail to see that if there is anything to be made by breeding horses, it must be by breeding for a special purpose, and people who persist in breeding too cheap, moagrel-bred stallions must pay the penalty of their folly by being stocked with a class of horses that there is no demand for. There are plenty of pure-bred stallions of the different classes within the reach of all, at reasonable rates, so that there is no excuse for using poor sires; but do not suppose that all depends on the sire, for it is of the utmost importance to select our best mares for dams. Everyone ought to consider what class he is going to raise, and strive to have the very best in that class.

In the principal markets of the United States, good road, carriage, express and heavy draft horses are selling well, and, I think, there is a fair prospect of having the privilege of selling in these markets in the near future; but, if we do not breed the right kind, we will not have them to sell when the opportunity comes.—A. B. Scott, Vanneck, in Farmer's Advocate.

Dominiques.

The old-time Dominique fowl is still seen on some farms, and a few of our breeders stick to them. It is possible that the requirements of the standard may lead to their extinction by inducing breeders to cross them with the Plymouth Rock in order to secure the distinct barring. The Dominique is a different breed from the Plymouth Rock and has more white in its plumage, which cannot be left out, especially in the tail feathers, and to cross them with Plymouth Rocks will result simply in the production of rose-comb Plymouth Rocks. The Dominique is active and hardy, being an excellent forager, and deserves greater recognition.—Mirror and Farmer.

Encouragement for old People.

It may sound queer to talk about curing old people of Kidney and Urinary troubles after they have passed the alloted period of three score years and ten, but the following extraordinary recovery of an old veteran by Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure, ought to be of great encouragement to old people:—

BELLEVILLE, March 4, 1893.

Peterborough Medicine Company (Limited.)

GENTLEMEN,—I owe a great debt of gratitude to Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure for the prompt and speedy relief which I have received from the use of only one bottle of your great medicine. I have suffered from Kidney and Urinary troubles, inflammation of the neck of the bladder, &c. for many a long day. No one knows better than old people how great a blessing it is to be cured. I doctored a lot, bnt nothing did me so much good as your cure. I have lived about half a century in Belleville, and will be only to glad to speak a good word in favour of Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure. I can also recommend it for constipation and stomach troubles.
JAMES HAROLD.

Beware of Cholera.

The healthy body throws off the germs of cholera therefore wisdom counsels the use of Burdock Blood Bitters this spring to purify the blood, regulate the system, and fortify the body against cholera or other epidemics.

Interested People.

Advertising a patent medicine in the peculiar way in which the proprietor of Kemp's Balsam for coughs and colds does it, is indeed wonderful. He authorizes all druggists to give those who call for it a sample bottle FREE, that they may try it before purchasing. The large bottles are 50c. and $1. We certainly would advise a trial. It may save you from consumption.

THAT FRENCH TREATY.

OUR GRAPE GROWERS AND WINE DEALERS AGITATED.

They Object to the Stipulation in the Commercial Treaty With France Providing For the Removal of the 30 Per Cent. Ad Valorem Duty.

TORONTO, March 21.—The proposed ratification of a commercial treaty with France by the Dominion Government lowering the existing tariff on wines has caused considerable consternation among the wine manufacturers and grape growers of Ontario, and a petition will be forwarded to the Minister of Finance asking that the 30 per cent. ad valorem duty on French wines be not removed.

The firms directly interested in the manufacture of wine in Ontario are Pelee Island Wine & Vineyard Co., Brantford; Ernest Girardot & Co., Concordia Vineyards, Sandwich; T. G. Bright & Co., Niagara Falls Wine Co., Toronto; J. S. Hamilton & Co., Brantford and Tilsonburg; George Barnes, St. Catharines Wine Co., Haskins Wine Co., Hamilton; Lue Montreal, Walkerville; M. Guindon, Windsor; A. C. Tournier, Sandwich; Alex. McNeill, J. S. Unger and Alex. Askin, Walkerville, and Thaddeus Smith, E. Wardroper and H. H. Roberg, Pelee Island.

The Canadian wine manufacturers claim that there are at least 5000 acres of land planted in vines, capable of producing one million and a half gallons of wine; that Ontario alone has an area suitable for grape culture at least equal to the present area of vineyards in France; and that there are about 4000 people directly or indirectly interested in grape-growing and wine-making.

They further contend that if the proposed treaty is ratified without certain restrictions, and also without equivalent advantages being granted to Canadian wine-growers from the Government, our grape-growing and wine industries will be practically ruined.

Said a well-known representative of the trade yesterday: "The wine market of the United States is closed to us on account of a specific duty of 50 cents per gallon, and if the French wines are admitted at a lower rate than at present without regulations which would enable us to compete on equal terms with them the Canadian market would also be practically closed to us, as the wine manufacturers in France possess numerous advantages and privileges that we do not enjoy. For instance, French manufacturers are making from dried raisins a wine which they fortify with alcohol and blend with Spanish, Italian or Sicilian wines, of which they import enormous quantities for that purpose; so that admitting French wines in Canada is practically admitting Spanish, Portuguese and Italian wines also. It is well known that Canadian people favor sweet wines rather than dry wines, and that the bulk of the wine consumed in this country is sweet wine, which may be classed as light port or light sherry. Now the admission of wines of 26 degrees of strength for importation, free of the ad valorem duty, includes light ports and sherries. We are thus forced to compete against sweet wines which are produced at a nominal cost and fortified with spirits which wine manufacturers in France can distill without costly restrictions or use without any excise duties. Whereas, owing to the expensive costs of spirits, Canadian wine manufacturers have to use granulated sugar for the purpose of fortifying their wines.

"By the process of fermentation sugar converts itself into a certain percentage of alcohol when added to grape or other fruit juice, but this method, although giving satisfactory results, is far more costly than the French method of using spirits, and besides, the use of sugar prevents the early maturing of wines.

"The price French manufacturers of wine pay for spirits is so low that with their marvelous ability in blending wines, and also their methods of making wine with raisins, currants, prunes and flavorings, they can produce artificial wines at a nominal cost even for less than it costs us for cellarage and labor.

"The privilege of distilling spoilt wines or grape must is practically denied to us, and we are annually losing thousands of dollars, which might be saved had we the advantage of the French or California wine makers.

"It is well-known that the freight rates on wines shipped directly to Canada from France or other European ports are very much less than the rates we have to pay to our railways in Canada. For example, the freight charges on a consignment from Bordeaux to Windsor, Ont., is less than one-half the cost of the freight on a similar consignment from Windsor to Montreal, although the distance between Bordeaux and Windsor is over five times that between Windsor and Montreal. Here again, French wine makers have the advantage over us."

The Canadian wine manufacturers ask as compensation for the removal of the duty

That manufacturers should be allowed to distill their grape must, pomace or wines without any license or excise duty, subject to proper restrictions;

That for the protection of Canadian wine manufacturers and also for public protection a commission or examining board be appointed at each Canadian port to analyze and test the imported wines, and that no wines but those made from grape juice be admitted; that spurious or doctored wines, called in France Vin Frelates, be positively excluded from being imported, and that the same tests used at the Paris Octroi by the Paris commission to discover different wine falsifications be used in Canada.

Mr. J. Ross-Wetherman, editor of The Wine Merchant and Brewer, was interviewed yesterday. He said: There is much misconception as to the effect on the Canadian wine industry of its proposed repeal of the 30 per cent. ad valorem duty on French wines. It is easily understood that the Canadian wine growers should send a deputation of protest to Ottawa; how the reduction of duty will injure them is not so easy to understand.

Under the new conditions claret, with which I include Red Burgundies, is the only wine likely to make a larger showing on the import list, and as to wines of this character, I think that I shall have the support of the trade in stating that the attempts to produce a drinkable Canadian claret have hitherto proved a failure.

An extra consumption of French claret will not tell against red Canadian wines, such as Concord, etc. The one is a dinner wine, the others are not.

"Again, there is not much to fear from the competition of French white wines (Sauternes, Barsac, Chablis), with the Catawbas, etc., for the only French wines that will compete in price are too thin to please the palate of those who consume the native product.

The new tariff should be received with favor by the advocates of light table wines.

It would enable the wine merchant to sell a sound table claret at 20c a bottle.

It would be natural for the Canadian wine growers to make an outcry if a treaty were made with Spain, allowing Spanish reds to compete on all fours with the heavier reds of Canada. But that is a far cry, and somewhat foreign to the subject.

A LONDON SCANDAL.

The Boyish Foolishness of Sir William Pearce Exposed.

LONDON, March 21.—It is now a unique week when some swell divorce suit does not force its way above the level of mere pruriency into political or sociological importance. This week The Westminster Gazette staff, which was trained on the old Pall Mall Gazette in the traditions of Steadism, unearthed the fact that there has been an undefended divorce case passed through the court late one afternoon in a quarter of an hour, the co-respondent in which is nothing less than a baronet and member of Parliament. When reported in attendance, though, he was only plain mister.

This cried to Heaven for redress and The Westminster promptly bawled at the top of its lungs: Sir William Pearce, Bart., Tory M.P. for Plymouth, is trying to sneak through the Divorce Court without notice. Of course, the other journals joined the hue and cry, and the Junior Association of Plymouth Tories in a panic passed a resolution calling on him to resign.

Then the facts came out. Pearce's offence dated back to 1884, when he was a young undergraduate of Cambridge and had no knowledge the woman was married, and it was with the entire consent of the petitioning husband that his name and title were kept from the papers in the recent trial.

Pearce is a man of 31, who succeeded his father as president of the Fairfield Company on the Clyde, which built the latest and most magnificent additions to the Canard fleet. He is said to be a nice fellow, well liked in the House and business circles, and there is a good deal of disgust manifested in the Liberal party at this attempt to make political capital by dragging up his boyish delinquency.

SMART SPRING MANTLES

In our north window we display some of the very newest patterns of Imported Mantles for Spring wear.

They are style all over. The craft of the skilled German model garment makers is manifest in these Mantles, and the attention of ladies is especially drawn to the new material and exquisite taste which has been displayed in these two directions.

We make the point that our Mantles are new—wholly new—new in design, new in shape, and new in price.

Ladies who have looked elsewhere for something to suit them in a Spring Mantle, will have no difficulty in making their final selections from our stock. We are perhaps a little early in exposing these Mantles, but the temptation was too strong, and besides, some one must lead, so we take the consequences of our unusual advanced preparations for this spring season of 1892.

ROBERT FAIR,

N. CLARKE WALLACE

Raises a Breeze in the House

OVER HIS KINGSTON SPEECH

Division and Government Majority of 31.

Mr. Casey Introduced a Motion Censuring the Controller of Customs for His Speech at Kingston on Home Rule for Ireland—The House Had a Lively Debate—Pretty Severe Language Used—The Division Created More or Less Surprise—The List.

OTTAWA, March 22.—On the motion to go into supply yesterday afternoon, Mr. Casey rose and read the following extract from Mr. Clarke Wallace's Kingston speech:

Our friends (meaning Orangemen in Ireland) over there will never submit. Britain may cast them out, but if she does she has no right to look for their further allegiance. They are preparing for action. Their unalterable determination is never to submit to Home Rule, and they will have the sympathy of the Orangemen in Canada. Aye, more than sympathy, they shall have our active aid if that active aid be necessary. We shall be unworthy of our ancestors if we fail in our duty in such a crisis.

Mr. Casey demanded an explanation of the actions of the Comptroller of Customs, claiming that they deserved the serious consideration of the House, and closing a somewhat incoherent speech with the remark, that if a Minister of the Crown could indulge, without rebuke, in such treasonable language, then for what crime was the late lamented Mr. Riel hanged?

Clarke Wallace informed those honorable gentlemen who were anxious for information that he was correctly reported in The News of the 15th, as quoted by the member for Elgin, and that he entertained the same views now. He repudiated the charge of disloyalty made against himself and the Orangemen of Canada, and said he was following in the line laid down by Lord Salisbury when Premier of the British Empire, who held that Parliament had no right to sell the people of Ulster into slavery.

He denied all responsibility to Parliament for his views on British politics, and said he had only done as had his colleague, Hon. Mr. Costigan, in expressing his views on the question. He was an upholder of the unity of Great Britain, Ireland and Canada and was opposed to disintegration of the empire.

Mr. (Dawson Addington,) an Orangeman himself, held that was the highest loyalty which accepted the result of the voice of the country as expressed by its Parliament, and if Parliament granted Home Rule it would be the duty of all loyal subjects to bow to the inevitable.

Mr. Wallace, who had sworn to uphold the Sovereign, was found openly aiding and abetting treason, and his conduct should not pass unnoticed by this House. He moved, seconded by Mr. McMullen, the following resolution:

Whereas N. Clarke Wallace, a member of this House and Comptroller of Her Majesty's Customs, is reported by The Kingston News to have spoken as follows at a public meeting in Kingston on March 10; (here follows the extract quoted above by Mr. Casey;).

And whereas the said N. Clarke Wallace has on the floor of the House admitted the accuracy of said report, now, therefore this House declares it to be the duty of all Her Majesty's subjects loyally to submit to the law; that the constitution contains within itself the means whereby all grievances may be redressed by constitutional methods; that no changes in the law should be sought to be brought about by resort to armed resistance, civil war or other physical force, and that any attempt to depose Her Majesty in respect to any portion of the empire is unwarrantable and treasonable and should receive the uncompromising resistance of all loyal citizens; that the action of N. Clarke Wallace in expressing sympathy with and holding out the hope of active aid to those who threaten to levy war in Ireland against Her Majesty is deserving of the severest censure at the hands of this House, and if allowed to pass unnoticed would expose Canada to the slanderous imputation of being disloyal to Her Majesty, the very reverse of which is the case;

And farther, it is the duty of this House promptly to repudiate said utterances of said N. Clarke Wallace, lest his political connection with Parliament and the Government might lead the public to the erroneous conclusion that his views as expressed were shared in by this body, a conclusion which would give additional influence to such utterances and the more endanger peace and good government throughout Her Majesty's Dominions.

Mr. Devlin had expected to hear the opinion of Solicitor-General Curran and Hon. Mr. Costigan on the utterances of their colleague, the Controller of Customs, which only carried weight by reason of his official position. The most shameful language ever used in Parliament was that by Mr. Wallace, who said he and his fellow-Orangemen were prepared to take up arms and cross the Atlantic to fight the Queen in her old age. On behalf of a great section of Canadians he protested against this language, and argued that no Catholic could go on public business to the man who had so openly insulted them and expect to receive justice at his hands.

Mr. Kenny of Halifax felt it was not wise to introduce race or religious questions in this House. He held that members of Parliament should be careful in all their utterances and that the higher the position a man held the more he should weigh his words. He had no sympathy with men who said that after a bill had received the Royal assent they would fight it with arms, yet he could not vote for the amendment, which was intended to embarrass the Government. He had been sent to this House by the votes of many of the Irish electors of Halifax to support the Government, and did not see how he could vote against the Government simply because of the platform utterances of one of its members on a question outside of Canadian politics. The amendment was a motion of want of confidence.

Mr. Mills, the Bothwell Reformer, took the constitutional ground that this was not a want of confidence motion unless the Government chose to regard it as such. The point the House was dealing with was the avowal of a Minister of the Crown that Home Rule were granted to Ireland he would take up arms against Her Majesty.

Mr. Foster said he could scarcely conceive a more unfair rendering of the sentiments of a political opponent than that just given by Mr. Mills. He regarded this resolution as intended to embarrass the Government rather than for the good it would do the empire, but it was one that should be discussed with calmness and in a spirit of justice. He took issue with Mr. Mills' interpretation of Mr. Wallace's language, and contended that it was not fairly open to that construction. While it was the wise course for Parliament to confine itself to questions germane to this country, men should not steel their hearts against theories of world-wide interest, nor should they be narrow-minded or intolerant with regard to individual expressions of sympathy on such matters.

The House should most carefully distinguish between what a member said in his Parliamentary capacity and as a private citizen or member of some society. Illustrative of this point of his speech, Mr. Foster referred to the case of Hon. Mr. Huntington, who at a federal election in Quebec in 1882 made a violent attack on certain parts of the Roman Catholic hierarchy. Hon. Mr. Cauchon called on Premier Mackenzie to repudiate the utterances of his colleague in the Government, which utterance he had put forth in his official capacity; but Mr. Mackenzie said that, while he did not agree with Mr. Huntington's sentiments, the Government had no responsibility in the matter. Mr. Holton brought the case up in the House, whereupon Mr. Mackenzie replied that Mr. Huntington had a perfect right to say what he did, and that the Government was not responsible. Mr. Huntington was a Cabinet Minister and used the language attributed to him in a political campaign—a much stronger case than that charged against Mr. Wallace. Mr. Mackenzie treated the matter in a spirit of broad tolerance, and the House endorsed the Premier's position by letting the matter drop.

In the present case, continued the Minister of Finance, Mr. Wallace, an old member of the Orange order, went to an Orange meeting and discussed the question of Home Rule as he had a perfect right to do. Where in the speaker's opinion Mr. Wallace went too far was when he touched on the question of allegiance. That, however, was his (Mr. Foster's) individual opinion only. Mr. Wallace had spoken in his capacity as an Orangeman to Orangemen and the Government were not responsible for his utterances.

Mr. Foster warmly defended his colleague against the charge of disloyalty, and reminded the House that when an hon. member stated he was prepared to shoulder his musket to fight against the Canadian volunteers, no one on the Conservative side of the House was so foolish as to propose a vote of censure.

Mr. Foster then subjected the resolution to a keen analysis, showing among other things there was not a word of truth in the allegation that Mr. Wallace had counselled armed resistance to British authority, and that the aid and assistance he had promised were in the way of sympathy and funds for political purposes. It was untrue, as the resolution set out, that Mr. Wallace's utterances bound this House or the country. The Finance Minister said people outside of Parliament would feel this was a small matter to make such a tane about, and he had confidence they would cheerfully accord to all M.P.'s the utmost liberty of utterance in their private individual capacity outside of Parliament.

Sir Richard Cartwright held that Clarke Wallace's utterances to-day called for the instant censure of the House, and held that the resolution was a want of confidence motion unless the Government justified the Controller's threat of armed resistance to the Throne. He charged the Orangemen of Ireland with seditious acts and actions, and Mr. Wallace with openly endorsing their course. Mr. Wallace and his fellows were possessed of that kind of loyalty which advocated armed resistance to any act of Canada or the Mother Country which did not meet their views. He was not seriously alarmed at Mr. Wallace's threats, which were on a par with those of Orangemen who, when the Irish church was disestablished, threatened to kick the Queen's crown into the Boyne.

The Government could not escape responsibility for these utterances and "the older members of the Cabinet should see to it that these young hounds shall not run riot." As Mr. Wallace's remarks were calculated to create trouble between the two classes of Irish-Canadians, he felt the resolution was timely and correct.

Mr. Hughes followed in strong defence of the Comptroller of Customs, and the debate was continued by Mr. McInerne, who, while condemning Mr. Wallace's speech, declared he would still support the Government when a vote of want of confidence was moved against it.

Mr. Maclean (York): The debate which has intervened since I rose to a question of order some time ago has proved the very point I raised then, namely: that we have enough to do in this country to mind our own affairs without interfering in Irish politics. I wish now to tell the House that the view which I have expressed as to that is the view of the great majority of Canadians. Our people believe in Canadian politics and in their representatives attending to the affairs interesting to our own country as well as we can, and they believe also that we had better leave Irish politics and other politics of a kindred nature alone.

I, as a young Canadian and as a young member of this House, protest here and now against the introduction of Irish politics into the legislative affairs of this country.

I may say further that there has been too much Irish politics in the United States and we as a country have suffered therefrom. Irish politics in the United States has interfered as much as other issues in obtaining that reciprocity treaty which our friends opposite are so anxious for. Irish politics has prevented the negotiation of any extradition treaties between England and the United States, which treaties would be to our advantage.

Mr. Costworth: I have regretted to see so much ceremony introduced into the discussion this afternoon. I think it is a very unfortunate thing that we cannot discuss a question of law here—because practically this is a question of law—without debating it so warmly. I do not consider that it is part of the duty of the Controller of Customs at this stage, or at any stage of the debate, to state what he intends by that newspaper article or any words in that article. We have the article here before us, and it is for us to decide what is the meaning of the words.

It is for us to decide as to whether we are right in supporting the acting leader of the House in his declaration that the Government are not responsible for anything uttered by a gentleman outside of this House.

I therefore support the Minister of Finance against the amendment.

Mr. Bergin followed, speaking up to 6 o'clock.

After recess Mr. Bergin concluded his speech. He asked the leader of the Government whether it was to be a party vote or not.

Mr. Foster said that he would only say that he would not consider anyone who voted for the amendment a friend of the Government.

Mr. Bergin then announced that he would support the amendment.

Mr. Wood (Brockville) strongly opposed the amendment and supported his fellow-comptroller.

Mr. Davin made a rather peculiar speech, in which he charged Mr. Wallace with having at the time of the Jesuit Estate bill advised his fellow-Protestant members to vote for the bill, while he himself voted against it as one of the noble 12.

Mr. Wallace indignantly denied this statement and challenged Mr. Davin to name a single member he had so advised.

Messrs. McKay, Spencer, Boyle, Cochrane and Guillett also denied Mr. Davin's statement.

Col. Denison said: With respect to the after-dinner speech of the Controller of Customs, which seems to have excited some debate, I may say that I do not approve of his language, because it may be misunderstood; but while I say that I must add that the hon. member is as loyal a member as there is in this House and in the country.

The language can have two interpretations. It has been held on Opposition benches that it is preaching sedition and so forth, while on this side of the House it has been held that it may mean that the hon. member will subscribe towards furthering his opinions. I am, therefore, going to support the Government.

The debate was continued by Messrs. Tisdale, Freshette, Casey, Cleveland, Langevin, Caron, Mulock, McNeill, Paterson, Hearne, Bolley and Kenny. The members were called in at 11.45 and the House divided on the amendment, which was lost, 74 for to 105 against.

The House then went into supply, passed one item and adjourned at 12.40 a.m.

Contrary to general expectation, the Connolly-McGreevy conspiracy case was not proceeded with in the Assize Court this morning, but was postponed until 9.30 to-morrow morning. The cause of this was the absence of a material witness who, as Mr. Osler explained, left Quebec last night and should have been here this morning, but for some unexplained reason had left the train at Three Rivers. Two officers were after him and it was expected that he would surely be here in the morning. The name of the witness did not transpire in the discussion which took place in the court, but it is understood that the witness is Robert McGreevy.

The Railway Committee of the Privy Council to-day adjourned without reaching any decision in the Davenport-road crossing case, Toronto.

A fight took place between two well known lawyers at this morning's sitting of the Railway Committee of the Privy Council.

The question of the electric railway in Davenport-road, Toronto, was under discussion, the ministers present being Bowell, Caron, Foster, Haggart, Ouimet and Daly.

Ex-Judge Clark represented the Canadian Pacific and Donald McMaster of Montreal, the street railway.

In addressing the committe Mr. Clarke quoted some words which he said Mr. McMaster had used.

Clarke called McMaster a blackguard and struck him in the face.

The two clinched and rolled all over the floor. Their fists flew in every direction, for they both were too angry to hurt one another much.

Members of the committee and others took a hand in and finally separated the learned counsel, but not until their clothing was badly damaged.

The committee-room was cleared, when Hon. John Haggart expressed his amazement that the committee should have been insulted by such an outrageous display.

Mr. Haggart pointed out that it was within the power of the committee to forbid the appearance of either of the lawyers again.

Finally it was agreed to readmit them if they would make sufficient apology.

Upon this the learned gentlemen apologized profusely to the committee and to one another and shook hands across the bloody chasm.

It isn't in the ordinary way that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription comes to the weak and suffering woman who needs it. It's guaranteed. Not with words merely; any medicine can make claims and promises. What is done with the "Favorite Prescripton" is this: if it fails to benefit or cure, in any case, your money is returned. Can you ask any better proof that a medicine will do what it promises?

It's an invigorating, restorative tonic, a soothing and strengthening nervine, and a certain remedy for the ills and ailments that beset a woman. In "female complaints" of every kind, periodical pains, internal inflammation or ulceration, bearing-down sensations, and all chronic weakness and irregularities, it is a positive and complete cure.

To every tired, overworked woman, and to every weak, nervous, and ailing one, it is guaranteed to bring health and strength.

HALL'S BRIDGE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The Harvey mission has received a fine collection of books from the George street Methodist Sunday School, Peterborough.

Last Thursday a very exciting incident occurred at this village. A deer was noticed by Mr. R. Stretcher among the cabins of the Dickson Company, which are anchored just below the locks. He started in pursuit and found that the deer had evidently been chased by wolves, for it did not make any great effort to get away. After seeing the deer safely on its way he returned to the village and related his story to "Lasso Bill" and "Dick Deadeye." The fiery ardour of these hunters was at once aroused and they determined to capture the deer alive. "Lasso Bill" took a coil of rope and two or three sports immediately started off. When they returned they had a marvellous story to relate. They had followed the deer through the Hall estate, past the school house, and came upon it near the shore of Buckhorn Lake. By clever management the deer had been surrounded and "Lasso Bill" had dexterously coiled the rope around the deer's neck and anubbed it to a tree, but the coil relaxing its hold, the deer had escaped. This is not the only deer that has been discovered around here. One was seen crossing Mr. Allen's fields on Sunday.

On Saturday a party of Buckorn anglers were out and captured a fine maskinonge through the ice.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOUR COLUMN

"FOR CHRIST AND THE CHURCH."

[All communications intended for this column must be marked "Christian Endeavour" and sent to Box 113, Peterborough, not later than Friday previous to date of issue.]

Topic for week beginning April 2nd—Easter Service—"I am the resurrection and the life." John xi, 23-27; xiv, 19.

Suggestions for the Easter meeting—Special music should be prepared by the music committee. The theme of the evening should be life—how it manifests itself whence it comes, how it is lost, how it may be restored, invigorated and communicated. Set the members to talking about live things—a live society and how a living Christ works in it; a live church and its dependence on the risen Christ; live men and women, and how Christ lives through them; live books and papers; live prayers and sermons; live conversation, live faces, live homes.—Golden Rule.

Arise, for He is risen to-day,
And shine, for He is glorified;
Put on thy beautiful array,
And keep perpetual Easter-tide.

FRANCES HAVERGAL.

DAILY READINGS.

First day—"My Redeemer Liveth," Job 19, 25-27.

Second day—"God will redeem my soul," Ps. 49, 14-15.

Fifth day—"The resurrection of Life," John 5, 25-29.

Sixth day—"Because I live ye shall live," John John 14, 18-20.

Seventh day—Easter service—"I am the resurrection and the Life," John 11, 25-27; 14-19.

ST. PAUL'S Y. P. S. C. E.

St. Paul's Society of Christian Endeavour, enjoyed a very profitable service on Monday evening. The subject being "Temperance." Mr. W. R. Johnston, Convenor of the Temperance Committee, occupied the chair. After the usual opening services, Mr. Chapman of the Y. M. C. A. gave a very interesting address on, "Seven reasons for being a total abstainer." Miss M. Patterson and Mrs. A. J. Johnston each contributed solos in a pleasing manner.

Mr. Millar of British Columbia, gave a short address at the close of the service.

SUNRISE PRAYER MEETING.

The Peterborough local Union of C. E. will hold a sunrise prayer meeting on Easter Sunday morning, opening at 7 o'clock. A large attendance is earnestly requested. We hope that Lakefield Warsaw, Norwood and Keene have each arranged for a similar gathering at the same hour. "The first day of the week cometh, Mary Magdalene early, when it was yet dark, unto the sepulchere."

COUNTY CONVENTION.

The first annual convention of the Peterborough county Union of Christian Endeavour will be held in St. Andrew's church, Peterborough, on Easter Monday, April 3rd.

An exceedingly interesting programme has been arraigned. Some of the best speakers in connection with Christian Endeavour within the province have been secured for the occasion. Rev. A. M. Phillips, B.D., Toronto, vice-president Ontario Christian Endeavour Union, Mr. C. J. Atchinson, Prov. Supt. Junior work, Mr. E. A. Hardy, Prov. Secy., Rev. S. T. Bartlett and others.

An intensely interesting feature of the programme is the junior meeting in the afternoon session. We hope to see a large number of juniors present. During the evening session will be a pastor's conference in which a number of pastors of different denominations will tell what the C.E.S. has done in their various churches. Rev. A. M. Phillips will deliver an address on "Personal service for Christ."

This convention cannot fail to prove a treat to all earnest Endeavourers, and friends of Endeavour. Be sure your society is represented. Be sure you are there if possible. All Endeavourers are requested to make the convention a subject of special prayer. Morning session opens at 10 o'clock, afternoon session at 2.15, and evening session at 7.30.

REV. A. M. PHILLIPS, B.D.

Alfred Moore Phillips is one of the leaders of young people's work in Canada; and it is due to him, perhaps more than to any other one, that the "Epworth Leagues of Christian Endeavour" have been so successfully launched, and that so far as our Dominion is concerned, the problem of interdenominational fellowship of the young people of the Methodist church has been solved. That Mr. Phillips stands high in the estimation of the Methodist young people is evidenced by the fact that he occupies the position of president of the Ontario Methodist Young People's Union.

Mr. Phillips completed a full theological course of five years at Victoria College, graduating in 1878. Since his ordination he has filled some of the more important charges, and is now on his second term in Toronto. He is examiner in New Testament Exegesis for Toronto Conference. Mr. Phillips from the first was marked as a very bright and promising young man; and he is looked upon as one of the most scholarly men in the church, as well as being a very earnest and successful pastor. He is also one of the foremost temperance advocates in the Dominion.

However, the thanks of our readers are chiefly due him for his efforts in behalf of interdemoninational fellowship of young people, since he strongly believes that we need in no wise interfere with denominational control. He hopes, as all earnest Methodist Endeavourers hope, to see, ere long, all Epworth Leagues affiliated with the Christian Endeavour Union, and become Epworth Leagues of Christian Endeavour.

Mr. Phillips worthily represented the Methodists of Canada at the great New York convention. May he be long spared to use his great earnestness and untiring zeal in the cause of the Master.—Herald.

Agents that Destroy Body and Soul

Too Often Used by Physicians!

Paine's Celery Compound Has Saved Thousands of Sufferers from the Evil Effects of Narcotics!

The use of narcotics has made terrible headway in our midst; the victims of these body-and-soul-destroying drugs are to-day found in all classes of society. Morphine heads the list of the narcotics now in use; then we have opium, chloral, bromide of sodium, hydrate of amyl, urethan, sulfonal, hypnon and a long list of other new-born destructive agents.

These narcotics in the majority of cases are first used by nervous, sleepless, neuralgic and rheumatic people to procure rest and freedom from pain. Oh, the folly and madness of such a course that leads to destruction and death! An eminent medical professor acknowledges that physicians generally give too much encouragement to the use of narcotics. This savant says: "Many physicians lend their hand too willingly, and are ready with the injecting needle to check a pain that could easily be borne, not reflecting that it is immoral to encourage a dangerous practice that of planting the morphine habit, a terrible poison that leads to physical and spiritual debility and to death."

Within the past few years Paine's Celery Compound has saved the lives of thousands of men and women. This grand disease destroyer has saved from the morphine and chloral habit a host of valuable lives. The nervous, debilitated, neuralgic and rheumatic find all their pains and woes removed by a pure and life-giving agent. No agent known to science has conferred such great benefits on the human race as Paine's Celery Compound. From day to day the work of this wonderful preparation commands admiration and respect; it is elevating and far reaching in its mighty work, and cures as surely as day follows night.

DREW AWAY HIS CRUTCHES

AFTER YEARS OF TERRIBLE SUFFERING.

AN INTERESTING HISTORY.

STATEMENT OF MR. WM. McNEE.

For eight years I was troubled with a sore on my leg which resulted from having it broken. The doctors kept me in bed five months trying to heal it up, but all to no purpose. I tried all sorts of salves, liniments, ointments, pills and blood medicines but with no benefit. In 1888 it became so bad that I had to sit on one chair and keep my foot on another for four months. I could not put my foot on the ground or the blood would rush out in a stream and my leg swelled to twice its natural size.

ELEVEN RUNNING SORES

developed on it which reduced me to a living skeleton (I lost 70 lbs. in four months). Friends advised me to go to the Hospital; but I would not, for I knew they would take my leg off. The doctor then wanted to split it open and scrape the bone, but I was too weak to stand the operation. One old lady said it had turned to black erysipelas and could never be cured. I had never heard of Burdock Blood Bitters then, but I read of a minister, Rev. Mr. Stout, who had been cured of a severe abscess on the neck by B.B.B., after medical aid had failed, and I thought I would try it. I washed the leg with the Bitters and took them according to directions. After using one bottle I could walk on crutches, after taking three, I threw away the crutches, took a scythe and went to work in the field. At the end of the sixth bottle my leg was entirely healed up; pieces of loose bone had worked out of it and the cords came back to their natural places again. That was nine years ago and it has never broken out since. I can walk five miles to-day as fast as anyone, and all this I owe to B. B. B., which certainly saved my leg, if not my life. I cheerfully recommend it to all sufferers. Give B. B. B. a trial, it will cure you as it did me.

Yours truly,
WM. McNEE, St. Ives P.O., Ont.

Mr. F. C. Sanderson, the druggist of St. Marys, Ont., certifies to the entire truthfulness of the remarkable statement made by Mr. McNee and says that several other wonderful cures have been made in his district.

TO BE OR NOT TO BE "IN IT."

A Life Agent called at a friend's house and HE WASN'T IN.
He had seen "the boys" collected and
HE WASN'T IN IT.
He had heard so much said, he was
Of insurance and agents—'twas all
When one's coil must be shuffled to win it,
HE WASN'T IN IT.

A bit of a draft blew o'er his bald head,
HE WAS
Pneumonia sent him straightway to his bed,
HE STAYED IN IT;
His doctor made of it a "quite special" case,
To save him for running still more of life's race,
But the grave took some chances to win it,
AND HE'S IN IT.

When approached by a agent for insuring your life,
GET RIGHT IN IT;
It's the right thing to do for your children and wife,
THEN STAY IN IT.
Remember that fires take your goods "out of sight,"
And that accidents happen each day and each night.
While insurance protects every minute,
IF YOU'RE IN IT.

A Bank Manager's Opinion.

HE IS "IN IT."

The General Manager of one of the leading banks in Canada, writing to a personal friend, says:—"I have no hesitation in saying that I place the CANADA LIFE upon the highest platform. It is in my opinion carefully, economically and honestly managed; its Reserve Funds are well invested; its rates of Premiums are low, and its future is, I think better assured than a great majority of Companies. I have my own life insured in the Company for a round amount, and would not hesitate to increase the amount of my policies should I decide upon taking out further insurance."

A Government Insurance Actuary's Opinion

On the Relation between Ordinary and Tontine Service.

It is frequently asserted by Companies whose business is nearly all confined, that although the CANADA LIFE may and does pay large ordinary profits, yet it cannot compare so favourably on a long term distribution or tontine period, and that in the end better results can be obtained on a tontine policy in a large American Co. than on an ordinary or tontine policy in the CANADA LIFE. To prove the absurdity of this statement, the following piece of common sense is quoted from Mervin Tabor, late Actuary of the Illinois Government Insurance Department. In his well known book, "The Three Systems of Life Insurance," he says: "A company that gives large dividends on the ordinary kind of policies, can give much larger on the same kinds when Tontined, and a company that pays but meagre dividends on the usual forms, adopting perhaps the Tontine system to "cover up" its small surpluses, cannot be relied on for large returns of surplus under the Tontine Forms of Insurance."

The CANADA LIFE does not "cover up" its Quinquennial profits as some Companies do, but publishes them throughout the country.

It can and does surpass other Companies on Quinquennial profits. It should and will surpass them on Tontine profits.

WHY TO BE "IN IT."

BISHOP HAWKE'S REASON:—"I claim that Life Insurance is not only a a humane, but I might say a Christian Institution."

LORD LYNDHURST'S REASON:—"A Policy of Life Insurance is always an evidence of prudent forethought. No man with a dependent family is free from reproach if not insured."

WHEN TO BE "IN IT."

The younger, the cheaper. Therefore insure when young. Besides by insuring in the CANADA LIFE now, you will share in three years' profits.

WHERE TO BE "IN IT."

The best place to be "in it" is in the Company that gives the best returns for the least money, consistent with absolute security. Therefore, in order to be "in it," choose the

The Trent Narrows' Bridge.

As announced in yesterday's EXAMINER a committee of the county council of the united counties of Northumberland and Durham waited upon the Road and Bridge Committee of the Peterborough County Council on Tuesday afternoon. The committee discussed the necessity for the bridge and the united counties pressed for a grant of from $600 up, to assist in the erection of a bridge. The legislation of last session, which, apparently, relieved all the municipalities from any responsibility for the bridge did not have the desired effect, so far as Northumberland and Durham were concerned, the bridge being within that county, it held them still liable for its maintenance, and the conference yesterday was for the purpose of endeavouring to arrive at a settlement of the matter.

Yesterday's Race at Harwood.

The winter races at Harwood, yesterday, attracted a fairly large crowd of sportsmen. The track which was a half mile one was situated on Rice Lake, and was in a fairly good condition. The different events proved exciting, and good sport was enjoyed. The colts race was uninteresting only, two entries being made. In the free for all, Connor Bros. Fred S, won in three straight heats the first money, Elmhurst's horse of Norwood, took second place, and McMahon's mare of Baltimore came third. A Brighton horse was also entered, but in the first heat was set back to fourth place by the judges for running, and the animal's owner refused to enter in the second heat. A couple of heats of the green race were somewhat close. A bay horse from near Warkworth captured first place, and a horse driven by Mr. Elmhurst came second. There were five starters in in this event. On the whole the races were a success.

A Happy March Event.

A happy event was celebrated at the residence of Mr. Scott in Smith township, on Thursday afternoon last, when his daugther Miss Jemina Scott was married to Mr. Percy Edmison, a well-known and respectable young man of the same township. Rev. W. S. Barker, pastor of the Gilmour Memorial Baptist church, performed the ceremony in the presence of about fifty guests. The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. Robt. Edmison, while the bride was attended by Miss Emma Darling. Miss Scott who is a sister of Dr. Scott, Peterborough, is an estimable young lady, and a mark of the friendship and favour in which she is held, was provided by the large number of beautiful and useful presents she received. After the nuptials the happy company sat down to an abundant repast. Mr. and Mrs. Edmison will take up their residence in Smith where their numerous friends will wish them much joy and happiness.

NEWS NUGGETS.

—The market this morning was small.

—Mr. Alex Elliott has had a handsome and prettily colored awning, placed in front of his grocery.

—A free for all fight occurred near the Peterborough Canoe Company's factory last night, and one of the contestants was badly "used up."

—A special meeting of St. Peter's Court, No. 223, C.O.F., will be held on Thursday evening, March 23rd, at 7.30 p.m. A full attendance is expected.

—The different companies of the 57th Battalion will commence company drill in about ten days' time—as soon as the temperature moderates somewhat.

—At the police court this morning a young boy was at his own request committed to the reformatory at Penetanguishene by the magistrate, his sentence to be for an indefinite period.

—Messrs. J.J. Turner & Son this morning shipped twenty-four lumbermen's tents to Bannockburn. This was a large order. This well-known firm also received another order for six tents to-day.

—The sleighing on the main roads in the country has disappeared and it is with difficulty that progress can be made, there being many stretches of bare spots. There is considerable snow on the side roads.

—Two large carry-alls, containing about thirty young people, drove out to the residence of Councillor Fitzgerald in the 7th concession of Smith last evening, and spent a very pleasant and delightful time. They returned home at an early hour this morning.

—It is almost incredible, but the fact is vouched for by reliable parties, that Walter Hugh, a grandson of E. Hugh, Port Hope, sawed in one day this week, eight cords of hardwood once in two, for Mr. Wm. Trenouth, lot 5, con. 6, Hope. Who can beat this record?

—The Peterborough Canoe Company received a large order this morning from their agent in British Columbia for eight large canoes. One canoe in the order is to be an 18-feet cedar-ribbed canoe with walnut gunwales, thwarts and decks, and when completed it will be a model sailing craft in every particular. The Peterborough Canoe Company will make their first shipment of canoes to England next week.

—Before the magistrate at the police court this morning a mother complained at great length that her young son had been unjustly and unmercifully punished by a town school teacher. She showed black and blue marks on the boys body which she indignantly alleged had been inflicted by the teachers rod. The mother asked the court to issue a summons but the magistrate refused to do so, laying the matter over until to-morrow for further consideration.

—The Belleville Ministerial Association, at a recent meeting passed the following resolution against Sunday funerals:—"Resolved, that while we feel the tenderest sympathy for bereaved households and would not willingly wound the most sensitive heart, we are deeply convinced that in the interests of the friends of the deceased and in the interests of the undertakers who are debarred from the service of the sanctuary, Sunday funerals should be reduced to the smallest possible number."

—A very sad and fatal accident took place on Tuesday morning last, by which the 3 year old son of Andrew McGee, who lives a short distance east of Stirling lost his life. It appears that when the parents arose in the morning, they left him sleeping. Mr. McGee went to the barn to do the chores, and while there he called his wife to assist him. During their absence the child got up and came down to the stove, and in some way which is unknown its night dress caught fire, burning it all off. His screams were heard by the parents and upon hurrying to the house Mrs. McGee found him as above. Medical aid was at once sent for and everything possible was done to save his life, but the injuries proved fatal, though he lived several hours after the accident.

Drope, B.A., will be the speaker, and the subject on which he will give a talk will be "The Planet Mars." The Peterborough Octette Club will favour with some of their always welcome selections. Hear this last lecture of the series. Admission 15 cents. Remember Friday night next.

Grand Stock-Taking Sale for 1893 at China Hall.

From now until the 2nd of April we will hold our annual stock-taking sale. Heretofore we have reduced and straightened up our stock by holding a special sale in another store and selling such goods as we wished to clear out. This year, however, we will follow our last season's plan and place our whole stock of $40,000 at your disposal for 30 days at cost price, and in the case of damaged or mis-matched goods at far less than cost. All goods will be ticketed showing former and reduced prices, and it is our wish to make the sale a greater success this year than it was last year by reducing the prices for this purpose, and trust it will be taken advantage of promptly, as the time will be limited to 30 days. Terms strictly cash.

d3t-w1 MACFARLANE WILSON.

It Was Not His Son.

In the EXAMINER'S telegraphic dispatches on Monday a paragraph appeared stating that the five sailors who had a hand in murdering Mate Fitzgerald on the American bark, Hesper, in the South Seas had arrived at San Francisco in irons and were tranferred to the county gaol. It was feared in some quarters that the murdered man was a son of Mr. J. W. Fitzgerald, Peterborough, who has been cruising in the Pacific Ocean for the past few years. Mr. Fitzgerald's many friends will be pleased to learn that investigation destroys the identity of the murdered man being his son, who will be remembered by our readers as the author of a scholarly letter published in January last, recounting the incidents of a seal cruise in the bear testimony to the energetic and quick Behring sea. Mr. Fitzgerald wishes to stops taken by Chief Roazel in obtaining the correct information as to the identity of the murdered man from the supervisor of police at San Francisco. From a telegram received by the chief it is learned that the name of the unfortunate man was Mr. Morris Fitzgerald, that deceased was born in Ireland in 1859.

MR. STEVENSON'S SPEECH.

It appears that our evening cotemporary is ready to stand by and defend the extravagant statements in which Mr. James Stevenson, M.P., indulges, when he lets his imagination run riot on political matters. Mr. Stevenson is not generally credited with being a poet, but he has one qualification indispensible to a poet—a lively and fertile imagination. In the matter in question every mechanic's apprentice is laughing at the figures of employees quoted, and, in putting itself in the position of defending a political effort of imagination, and balancing literal "figures of speech," the Review places itself in about as dignified a position as when it tried to make a town surplus out of a deficit of between eight and ten thousand. Every citizen of the town is anxious to see it receive all the credit its progressiveness deserves, but when adulation becomes fulsome and praise degenerates into flattery that involves the ridiculous, the sensible citizen draws the line, and when praise is laid on with a trowel and truth is made ridiculous, as done by the absurdly overdrawn panegyric of Mr. Stevenson, which the Review defends, he is ready to exclaim "Save me from my friends." Peterborough is a sturdy and steadily progressive town, deserving, of one thing above all others of being no "boom" town, such as the boom speech of Mr. Stevenson is likely to create. Some persons may regard the speech in question a mere good joke, but there is a danger of its having serious consequences to one or two classes of our citizens. A speech solemnly delivered on the floor of Parliament, by a duly accredited representative, giving Peterborough the name of being in a condition of unexampled prosperity— which involves, of course, high wages and abundance of employment—published in every newspaper in Canada, will meet the eyes of thousands of unemployed workingmen, who will naturally turn to Peterborough and become competitors with our local mechanics and labourers, who might during the coming spring and summer, have plenty of work and fair wages, if wild misrepresentations of the prosperity of the town were not sown broadcast; with inconsiderate indifference to the consequences,, so long as a point can be scored in favour of a political fake. There is not a merchant on George street, who does not feel that the, to some extent, misleading reputation the town has achieved, makes it more difficult for him to carry on business, from the excessive competition that is thus created. The go-ahead-ativeness of the people of Peterborough is shown by the fact that the stock for the screw and wire works establishment was about subscribed in one evening, but at the same time the business men of the town find that they are able to handle the commercial business to be done in the town, even counting, the increase that might be caused by a few new establishments. We are willing to give Mr. Stevenson credit for being a good and enterprising citizen, but unfortunately he forgets his good citizenship, when he becomes a politician, and finds it necessary to make some statement to carry his point no matter what friends may be hit.

CRISP CURLING CHRONIQUES.

What is Going on at the Rinks Where Curlers Most do Congregate.

The members of the curling clubs are now playing the "points game" for the silver cup which was won last year by Mr. G. Fitzgerald. Sixteen curlers played on Monday night with the following results. The remaining stone throwers will play this afternoon and evening as well as to-morrow. The ice was too soft to play the points game last night.

The curlers do not expect that the ice will last any longer than Saturday of the present week.

A New Siding Being Laid.

The G. T. R. are putting in a new siding for the Peterborough Milling Co. This siding is an extension of the system already laid in the valley at the east of the hospital. It branches off the old line a short distance this side where the old Lakefield line joins the "black bridge" and runs Northward close to the river bank and to the rear of the range of the company's buildings. The latter portion of this siding will be double tracked resting on wooden trestle work, the space at command being too narrow to make earth filling practicable without extensive piling.

Shrewed Settlers—Big Profits.

A large number of our new settlers on the lands of The North Galveston Association are farmers from the Northern latitudes who have previously eked out a bare existence on poor lands, with the additional adverse condition of rigorous climate. What was considered a fair profit to them is as nothing compared to the profits derived from the cultivation of the various fruits and vegetables which are grown so profusely in Galveston County. It is not at all unusual for farmers in this county to make from $[illegible] to $1,000.00 a year per acre, in the raising of pears, plums, strawberries, etc., with about half the labor and inconvenience that attended their former efforts. The North Galveston Association, through their local agent T. Hurley Peterborough, Ont., are offering splendid inducements at present, and by taking advantage of them the investor or settler in Galveston County cannot fail to reap abundant reward. The address of the General office is Box 903, Minneapolis, Minn.

Is highly gratified with Hood's Sarsaparilla. He was badly run down, had no appetite, what he did eat caused distress and he felt tired all the time. A few bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla effected a marvellous change. The distress in the stomach is entirely gone, he feels like a new man, and can eat anything with old-time relish. For all of which he thanks and cordially recommends Hood's Sarsaparilla. It is very important that during the months of March April May the blood should be thoroughly purified and the system be given strength to withstand the debilitating effect of the changing season. For this purpose Hood's Sarsaparilla possesses peculiar merit and it is the Best Spring Medicine.

The following, just received, demonstrates its wonderful blood-purifying powers:

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:

"Gentlemen: I have had salt rheum for a number of years, and for the past year one of my legs, from the knee down, has been broken out very badly. I took blood medicine for a long time with no good results, and was at one time obliged to walk with crutches. I finally concluded to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before I had taken one bottle the improvement was so marked that I continued until I had taken three bottles, and am now better than I have been in years. The inflammation has all left my leg and it is entirely healed. I have had such benefit from that I concluded to write this voluntary statement." F. J. TEMPLE, Ridgeway, Mich.

THE "COMET" FOR 1893

is as far ahead in the field of Pneumatic Bicycles as a buggy is compared with a farm waggon. The COMET easily wins every time, and if you want to ride the boss 'cycle, you must have the COMET and no other.

The COMET PNEUMATIC BICYCLE gets there every time for durability, comfort, style and easy-going—that's beyond dispute. Its Canadian record is away up, for, among the members of the Century Road Club who rode their century during the past season, more were mounted on COMETS than on all other makes of wheels put together.

MUSIC AND ORATORY.

Regular Weekly Debate in Catholic Association Rooms Last Night.

The rooms of the Catholic Association were filled to overflowing last night to listen to the interesting programme presented. Mr. Wm. Brick, occupied the chair, and the programme opened with a well rendered duet by Misses May and Gertie Muncaster. Mr. R. J. Hiller next followed with a comic song which pleased the audience. Miss Nellie Muncaster's piano selection was rendered with great taste and finish, and was followed by a vocal solo, rendered with good voice by J. McDonald. Mr. "Dan" Donoghue in his comic song was "foine" and was greeted with an encore. Miss Nellie Muncaster in her recitation did exceedingly well and rendered it very distinctly. Mr. F. Dwyer was also favoured with an encore in his harmonica solo, which was excellently rendered, and "Joe" Begley closed the musical part of the programme with a catchy comic song.

The accompanists of the evening were Mr. T. Mahoney and Misses M. McCabe and K. Dunn.

The debate, resolved "That the mind learns more by reading than by observation," was next introduced. The champions of the affirmative were Messrs. T. Mahoney, J. A. Butler and E. O'Donnell; of the negative Messrs. J. Begley, J. McPherson and D. McCabe. The speeches made on both sides were good and the young debaters were loudly applauded by the audience at the conclusion of their efforts. The judges, Messrs. J. P. Hurley, J. Corkery and Dr. Brennan, decided the debate in favour of the negative. Rev. Father Collins then addressed a few words to those present, thanking them for turning out and encouraging the efforts, of not only the debaters but also of the Association.

The next debate will take place two weeks hence on the subject, resolved "That trial by jury should be abolished.

SONG AND ELOCUTION

At the Opera House Last Night—A Delightful Entertainment Provided—A Large and Select Company.

The entertainment given in the Opera House last evening under the auspices of the Charlotte street church Epworth League of Christian Endeavour, was attended by a large and cultured audience, the body of the building being well filled. The entertainment was a rare and delightful one, and every auditor seemed thoroughly satisfied with the renditions of the different selections judging by the hearty and appreciative applause after each number. Miss Annie Fawcett sang in her cultivated voice and with capital expression "White Wings," by Pinsuti. She was accorded an enthusiastic encore and responded with "The Fairies," which was sung in fine style. Mrs. Clyde Geary, of Toronto, who has often appeared before a Peterborough audience, did not disappoint the sanguine expectations of her friends last evening, and sang in a rich and very pleasing alto voice "White Shells" by Boscovitz. The Peterborough Octette Club contributed three numbers during the evening. The members did especially well and justly deserved the encore which was demanded of them by prolonged applause. Rosemaiden's "Bridal Chorus" and Martin's "Lullaby" were beautifully given, the ensemble effort being admirable. As an encore "Come Where my Love Lies Dreaming" was rendered. Miss Sara Lord Bailey who favoured with the major portion of the programme, fully sustained the high class and distinguished reputation she has won all over the continent as a talented and versatile, dramatic and miscellaneous reciter. Miss Bailey has previously appeared before a Peterborough audience, and if anything her powers have increased since then. Last evening her portrayal of of the thrilling selection "Life for a Life," was emotional and passionate and delivered in a very artistic manner, with faultless gesture, clear accentuation and remarkable emphasis. In her light and humorous selections such as "Widow Cummis ey" and "Royal Bummer Degree" and others, Miss Bailey was equally good. She was very happy in the choice of her selections and each number was rapturously received, Miss Bailey graciously responding to several encores. The entertainment both vocal and elocutionary, was a treat, and great credit is due its promoters for the success which attended it. Mr. Fred Clarke was the efficient accompanist during the evening.

OBITUARY.

The Late James Cameron, Sr., of Asphodel.

The late James Cameron, Sr., who enjoyed with his family the distinction of having been one of the very earliest settlers of Otonabee, died at the family residence, "Mapleside" on Tuesday, March 14th, 1893, at the age of 83 years. He was a native of Renfrewshire, Scotland, whence he came with his family and settled in Otonabee, near the lake, in 1820, where he passed 73 years of his life. In 1837 he was married to Miss Sarah Sinclair, who with four daughters and one son survives him. He was made a Justice of the Peace about twenty years ago. He was an earnest Liberal in politics, and a faithful member of the Presbyterian church. He was in good health till about a couple of weeks before his death. He bore the painful sufferings of his last illness with Christian fortitude and died in the full hope of a life of bliss in the world beyond the grave. The remains were intered in the Cameron cemetery, Asphodel.

APPRECIATED BY THE MOTHER!

Lactated Food is now a Household Name

There is a satisfaction and delight in knowing that honest efforts are appreciated. When those honest efforts are for the benefit of mothers and their babies, and when it is found that both are benefited and made happy, there is intense joy on all sides. The manufacturers of Lactated Food have catered for the baby's health and vigor and have done it successfully. They have also succeeded in making the mother's lot a happier one than it ever was before. In this way all are pleased and satisfied; and Lactated Food is now a household name in every section of Canada.

Lactated Food could not have attained its present prominent position without possessing great merit. That it possess grand and rare merits is long ago an established fact. Lactated Food, possessing all the constituents of pure breast milk, has no equal in the world as an article of diet for babies who cannot be breast-fed. For weak, frail and puny children it is a diet of priceless value. It is always retained on the weakest stomach, and is the most easily assimilated food ever prepared for weak digestion.

Lactated Food is strongly recommended by physicians who make dietetics a careful study. The honest family physician is daily prescribing Lactated Food, knowing it to be the best in every respect. To mothers who have not yet given this great food a trial, we say, do not delay its use for your baby. One week's trial will prove that it is the only healthful and sensible food now on the market.

NORTH SMITH.

(From Our Own Correspondents.)

A very happy event took place at the residence of Mr. D. W. Blewett on March 15th, when his daughter was married to Mr. Joseph Preston, son of Mr. Wm. Preston, of Smith. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. G. H. Raley. Miss Blewett has been a member of the Wesley Methodist church choir ever since it was organized. She was a regular attendant and filled her place ably, and in losing her the choir loses one whose place will be hard to fill. The presents were numerous and costly. We wish Mr. and Mrs. Preston a happy and prosperous married life.

Rev. Mr. Snowden, of Bobcaygeon, preached here on March 19th. He delivered an admirable address.

Mr. Quinn, of Douro, was in this neighborhood about two weeks ago and organized a lodge of the Patrons of Industry. Mr. Absalom Hartley was elected president and Mr. A. A. Graham secretary.

A TIRED WOMAN, just as much as a sick and ailing one, needs Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. That builds up, strengthens, and invigorates the entire female system. It regulates and promotes all the proper functions of womanhood, improves digestion, enriches the blood, dispels aches and pains, melancholy and nervousness, brings refreshing sleep, and restores health and strength.

It's a powerful restorative tonic and soothing nervine, made especially for woman's needs, and the only guaranteed remedy for woman's weaknesses and ailments. In all "female complaints" and irregularities, if it ever fails to benefit or cure, you have your money back.

IS IT A TRAGEDY?

An Abandoned Hut That May Tell a Strange Tale.

EDMONTON, Alberta, March 21.—Two sons of John Whitford of Beaver Lake were out hunting about 10 miles east of Mr. Whitford's place on the east side of Beaver Lake. They came upon a ruined shanty in the woods with a cart standing near it. The shanty roof had been crushed in by some trees falling on it. On looking inside the door the boys saw an eight-shooting rifle and a shotgun, some kettles and other utensils.

Where the ridge pole of the roof had fallen down they noticed what appeared to have been a bed, but did not examine it, fearing that it might contain the remains of a human being. The accident to the shanty had evidently occurred a number of years ago and no living person had been near the place afterwards.

They took the guns and reported the matter to their father. F. W. W. Fane, J.P., was informed of the affair and went out to investigate. The shanty is supposed to have been built by a white man who passed by Mr. Whitford's house in the fall of 1888 driving a horse and cart, and turned off from the lake at that point.

He had passed the previous winter near Beaver Lake wolfing, and it was supposed that he intended to pass the winter of 1888-9 in the same way. He had formerly worked on a survey party in the vicinity of Beaver Lake, and his name was known by some of the residents there.

In 1889 a large bay horse with a bell on his neck was found by Indians south of Battle River and was supposed to have belonged to the wolf hunter. But the man was never seen or heard of after he left the vicinity of Whitford's in the fall of 1888.

Whether he was killed by the falling in of the roof of the shanty and has lain there unburied all the years since, or died while away from his shanty, or left the country without taking his property with him will probably be decided by Mr. Fane's investigations.

A USEFUL BABY.

Narrow Escape of a Whole Family From Asphyxiation.

HAMILTON, March 21.—The crying of a baby probably saved the family of Thomas Lush from death last night. Mr. Lush is a baker and lives at 433 Ferguson-avenue north, his bakery being connected with his residence. Recently he had a new furnace put in his bakery and the first fire was built in it on Sunday evening. Whether it was that the chimney is too low or the dampers were not properly looked after is not quite certain, but last night the gas from the furnace escaped and filled the house, including the family's sleeping apartments.

All the members of the family retired early except one of the boys, who did not get home until rather late. At 11 o'clock Mr. Lush was aroused by the crying of the baby. He rose to see what was the matter with the child, but while stooping over its crib he reeled and fell to the floor insensible.

Then the boy who had come home late was roused by the noise, and, becoming alarmed at the heavy, stertorous breathing of the other members of the family, he ran out and summoned Dr. Balfe, who a few minutes later arrived at the house. Dr. Balfe found the whole family unconscious, and far gone towards asphyxiation. He threw open all the windows, and did what could be done to rouse the family out of their stupor. His efforts were eventually successful.

To-day all the family are sick from the effects of the deadly coal-gas, but no serious results are anticipated.

Couldn't Work the Government.

WINNIPEG, March 21.—The Provincial Government, through Premier Greenway, has officially notified the promoters of the proposed railway line between Winnipeg and Port Arthur that it cannot accede to their requests for a grant of $4000 per mile. The promoters announce that they will now negotiate for more moderate aid, but the Government appears disinclined to do anything for the scheme.

Two Prisoners in London, Ont., Caught in an Attempt to Break Jail.

LONDON, Ont., March 21.—The jail officials recently discovered a desperate attempt on the part of Burke and Wilson, awaiting trial on the charge of murdering Detective Phair, to effect their escape. One of the turnkeys heard suspicious noises proceeding from that quarter of the jail in which Burke and Wilson were located, and on entering the cell found the two men seated with an air of indifference.

He reported the matter to Governor Kelly. An examination of the window revealed that portions of the bars had been filed through, and it was evident that had the prisoners been allowed another 24 hours they would have succeeded in gaining their liberty.

A quantity of rags had been lying in the window for some time and these had afforded the prisoners an excellent means of hiding their operations. The men have been deprived of all opportunity of making another attempt.

Best Cure For

All disorders of the Throat and Lungs is Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It has no equal as a cough-cure.

Bronchitis

"When I was a boy, I had a bronchial trouble of such a persistent and stubborn character, that the doctor pronounced it incurable with ordinary remedies, but recommended me to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I did so, and one bottle cured me. For the last fifteen years, I have used this preparation with good effect whenever I take a bad cold, and I know of numbers of people who keep it in the house all the time, not considering it safe to be without it."—J. C. Woodson, P.M., Forest Hill, W. Va.

Cough

"For more than twenty-five years, I was a sufferer from lung trouble, attended with coughing so severe at times as to cause hemorrhage, the paroxysms frequently lasting three or four hours. I was induced to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and after taking four bottles, was thoroughly cured."—Franz Hoffman, Clay Centre, Kans.

La Grippe

"Last spring I was taken down with la grippe. At times I was completely prostrated, and so difficult was my breathing that my breast seemed as if confined in an iron cage. I procured a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and no sooner had I began taking it than relief followed. I could not believe that the effect would be so rapid and the cure so complete."—W. H. Williams, Cook City, S. Dak.

A GIRL'S BEDROOM.

An Index of Her Character, Lovely or Otherwise.

A girl's bedroom is an unfailing manifestation of her character. Within its sacred precincts, moreover, we can put aside all artificiality, and conversation will assume the honest and naturalness that is so hard to find in this world of hypocrisy. In the drawing-room we have the young lady as education, custom and superstition have made her; in the street also her soul is hidden—it is as well covered as are her gloved hands and veiled face. But in her own room we read the girl as she truly is—her furniture, books, pictures and odds and ends are the revelations of her character.

I do not feel that we are really friends until I have been invited to see the room which contains all the treasures, all the "inanimate friends" of which the young possessor is, with rare exceptions both proud and fond.

There are some girls whose bedrooms have a cheerless, almost unhabited aspect. The bed is all-important, and stands conspicuously before you—business-like and unambitious. There is no easy chair to suggest leisure; the walls are hung with pictures of the stern and uninteresting type, in which the subject is difficult to discern, and, when discerned, is disappointing; the few books visible are pressed tightly into shelves where they cannot easily be attained, and the lack of "knick-knacks" and photographs gives the impression that this is the apartment of a worker, or one to whom time is the first consideration in life, and that everything which demands attention and claims unnecessary interest is waste of time. This room is meant for use; its owner comes home at night to sleep and rest, and in the morning all her moments are employed in the demands of her toilet.

How different a girl is she to the one whose dainty little room suggests visions of happy contentment! In that long basket chair we can picture our young, fluffy-haired friend lying back among her pink cushions, the firelight flickering on her bare rounded arms and on her face, which is flushed by lingering recollections as she glances at the tumbled mass of drapery, representing her ball dress, which she has just thrown over the foot of her downy bed. It is a fascinating little corner and its owner is a fascinating little woman.

But there is a "sanctum" of which I am still fonder than of this little pink, cosy one. Certainly, I cannot say that it is an example of tidiness. I have seen the dust lying thick in remote corners, and if one looks inside a drawer there is usually visible a collection of miscellaneous objects tumbled about in mad confusion. But the bed is snowy white, a silk sachet covers the whole area of the pillow, the furniture is solid and of good design, on the walls are hung—not valuable pictures, but some skilfully executed water colors and a print or two, well worthy a lingering look. On two walls are bookcases filled with books that were meant to be loved and lived with, placed where the hand may easily reach them, and their bindings bear testimony to the fact that no single one remains in its place for long unsought. Indeed these shelves represent a diminutive and select circulating library. "The chief pleasure in possessing books," says my friend, "is the power of being able to lend them."

This is the "den" which I hold dearer than even my own four walls. Here there is always to be felt a sense of peace that is not idleness, of rest that is not wearisome. Why it is so I cannot tell. Perhaps because in this room there is nothing artificial; there is no straining for effect. If the light is best in one particular place this chair must stand in it, whether it agrees with the symmetry of the room or not.—New York World.

Will Have Hinges on Her Hoops.

Talking about crinolines, one of the bright girls, to whom the subject is at once so fascinating and so awe-inspiring, makes a suggestion which has at least the charm of novelty. She has heard wonderful tales from her mother of how the decorum of the church was frequently upset by the efforts of a hoopskirt six feet wide to go through a new door only two and a half feet wide. Under these circumstances the end-of-the-century young woman set her wits to work to devise some scheme whereby these things should be under her control. She told a Washington News reporter that after much thought she had evolved an arrangement which includes hinges in the hoops so constructed that by touching a spring, concealed in a convenient position, they become limp enough to permit their wearer to pass through narrow places, while another touch causes them to resume their rotund appearance. She adds, naively enough that this plan has one great advantage, in that the hoops are entirely under the control of the wearer, "and when she thinks just a little expose would be advantageous she can have it."

THE GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN

NERVINE TONIC

—AND—

Stomach & Liver Cure

The Most Astonishing Medical Discovery of the Last One Hundred Years.

It is Pleasant to the Taste as the Sweetest Nectar.
It is Safe and Harmless as the Purest Milk.

This wonderful Nervine Tonic has only recently been introduced into this country by the proprietors and manufacturers of the Great South American Nervine Tonic, and yet its great value as a curative agent has long been known by a few of the most learned physicians, who have not brought its merits and value to the knowledge of the general public.

This medicine has completely solved the problem of the cure of indigestion, dyspepsia, and diseases of the general nervous system. It is also of the greatest value in the cure of all forms of failing health from whatever cause. It performs this by the great nervine tonic qualities which it possesses, and by its great curative powers upon the digestive organs, the stomach, the liver and the bowels. No remedy compares with this wonderfully valuable Nervine Tonic as a builder and strengthener of the life forces of the human body, and as a great renewer of a broken-down constitution. It is also of more real permanent value in the treatment and cure of diseases of the lungs than any consumption remedy ever used on this continent. It is a marvelous cure for nervousness of females of all ages. Ladies who are approaching the critical period known as change in life, should not fail to use this great Nervine Tonic, almost constantly, for the space of two or three years. It will carry them safely over the danger. This great strengthener and curative is of inestimable value to the aged and infirm, because its great energizing properties will give them a new hold on life. It will add ten or fifteen years to the lives of many of those who will use a half dozen bottles of the remedy each year.

IT IS A GREAT REMEDY FOR THE CURE OF

Nervousness,	Broken Constitution,
Nervous Prostration,	Debility of Old Age,
Nervous Headache,	Indigestion and Dyspepsia,
Sick Headache,	Heartburn and Sour Stomach,
Female Weakness,	Weight and Tenderness in Stomach,
Nervous Chills,	Loss of Appetite,
Paralysis,	Frightful Dreams,
Nervous Paroxysms and Nervous Choking,	Dizziness and Ringing in the Ears,
Hot Flashes,	Weakness of Extremities and Fainting,
Palpitation of the Heart,	Impure and Impoverished Blood,
Mental Despondency,	Boils and Carbuncles,
Sleeplessness,	Scrofula,
St. Vitus' Dance,	Scrofulous Swellings and Ulcers,
Nervousness of Females,	Consumption of the Lungs,
Nervousness of Old Age,	Catarrh of the Lungs,
Neuralgia,	Bronchitis and Chronic Cough,
Pains in the Heart,	Liver Complaint,
Pains in the Back,	Chronic Diarrhœa,
Failing Health,	Delicate and Scrofulous Children,

Summer Complaint of Infants.

All these and many other complaints cured by this wonderful Nervine Tonic.

NERVOUS DISEASES.

As a cure for every class of Nervous Diseases, no remedy has been able to compare with the Nervine Tonic, which is very pleasant and harmless in all its effects upon the youngest child or the oldest and most delicate individual. Nine-tenths of all the ailments to which the human family is heir are dependent on nervous exhaustion and impaired digestion. When there is an insufficient supply of nerve food in the blood, a general state of debility of the brain, spinal marrow, and nerves is the result. Starved nerves, like starved muscles, become strong when the right kind of food is supplied; and a thousand weaknesses and ailments disappear as the nerves recover. As the nervous system must supply all the power by which the vital forces of the body are carried on, it is the first to suffer for want of perfect nutrition. Ordinary food does not contain a sufficient quantity of the kind of nutriment necessary to repair the wear our present mode of living and labor imposes upon the nerves. For this reason it becomes necessary that a nerve food be supplied. This South American Nervine has been found by analysis to contain the essential elements out of which nerve tissue is formed. This accounts for its universal adaptability to the cure of all forms of nervous derangement.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., Aug. 20, '86.
To the Great South American Medicine Co.:
DEAR GENTS:—I desire to say to you that I have suffered for many years with a very serious disease of the stomach and nerves. I tried every medicine I could hear of, but nothing done me any appreciable good until I was advised to try your Great South American Nervine Tonic and Stomach and Liver Cure, and since using several bottles of it I must say that I am surprised at its wonderful powers to cure the stomach and general nervous system. If every one knew the value of this remedy as I do you would not be able to supply the demand.
J. A. HARDEE, Ex-Treas. Montgomery Co.

REBECCA WILKINSON, of Brownsvalley, Ind., says: "I had been in a distressed condition for three years from Nervousness, Weakness of the Stomach, Dyspepsia, and Indigestion, until my health was gone. I had been doctoring constantly, with no relief. I bought one bottle of South American Nervine, which done me more good than any $50 worth of doctoring I ever did in my life. I would advise every weakly person to use this valuable and lovely remedy; a few bottles of it has cured me completely. I consider it the grandest medicine in the world."

A SWORN CURE FOR ST. VITAS' DANCE OR CHOREA.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., June 22, 1887.

My daughter, eleven years old, was severely afflicted with St. Vitus' Dance or Chorea. We gave her three and one-half bottles of South American Nervine and she is completely restored. I believe it will cure every case of St. Vitus' Dance. I have kept it in my family for two years, and am sure it is the greatest remedy in the world for Indigestion and Dyspepsia, and for all forms of Nervous Disorders and Failing Health, from whatever cause.

JOHN T. MISH.

State of Indiana, Montgomery County, } ss:

Subscribed and sworn to before me this June 22, 1887.

INDIGESTION AND DYSPEPSIA.

The Great South American Nervine Tonic

Which we now offer you, is the only absolutely unfailing remedy ever discovered for the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, and the vast train of symptoms and horrors which are the result of disease and debility of the human stomach. No person can afford to pass by this jewel of incalculable value who is affected by disease of the stomach, because the experience and testimony of many go to prove that this is the ONE and ONLY ONE great cure in the world for this universal destroyer. There is no case of unmalignant disease of the stomach which can resist the wonderful curative powers of the South American Nervine Tonic.

HARRIET E. HALL, of Waynetown, Ind., says: "I owe my life to the Great South American Nervine. I had been in bed for five months from the effects of an exhausted stomach, Indigestion, Nervous Prostration, and a general shattered condition of my whole system. Had given up all hopes of getting well. Had tried three doctors, with no relief. The first bottle of the Nervine Tonic improved me so much that I was able to walk about, and a few bottles cured me entirely. I believe it is the best medicine in the world. I can not recommend it too highly."

MRS. ELLA A. BRATTON, of New Ross, Indiana, says: "I cannot express how much I owe to the Nervine Tonic. My system was completely shattered, appetite gone, was coughing and spitting up blood; am sure I was in the first stages of consumption, an inheritance handed down through several generations. I began taking the Nervine Tonic, and continued its use for about six months, and am entirely cured. It is the grandest remedy for nerves, stomach and lungs I have ever seen."

No remedy compares with SOUTH AMERICAN NERVINE as a cure for the Nerves. No remedy compares with South American Nervine as a wondrous cure for the Stomach. No remedy will at all compare with South American Nervine as a cure for all forms of failing health. It never fails to cure Indigestion and Dyspepsia. It never fails to cure Chorea or St. Vitus' Dance. Its powers to build up the whole system are wonderful in the extreme. It cures the old, the young, and the middle aged. It is a great friend to the aged and infirm. Do not neglect to use this precious boon; if you do, you may neglect the only remedy which will restore you to health. South American Nervine is perfectly safe, and very pleasant to the taste. Delicate ladies, do not fail to use this great cure, because it will put the bloom of freshness and beauty upon your lips and in your cheeks, and quickly drive away your disabilities and weaknesses.

Large 16 ounce Bottle, $1.00.

SPRING HATS.

Materials in Small Bonnet for Elderly Lady.

With regard to millinery we are fortunate in not having to wait until we are touching immediately on the heels of a season to find out what is to be worn. Milliners and dyers are never idle, and surrounded by designers and manufacturers, there is continuous thought for the wherewithal in habiliments for the human race, nothing being lost sight of in mantle from the toe to the crown of the head. Recent investigation in all the main features confirms what was learned a month ago in reference to the spring millinery. French chip has come out as the leading material or plain braid for the early weeks of the season, with scarcely diminished favor, however, for Milan braid, while the [illegible] shown in the manilla and Bangkok straw braids indicate the disposition to variety indulged by the mode for many seasons. But the rough and the fancy braids will be very much worn. The new rough, narrow, purl-edged, braid, known as amour, appears in many hats as the crown, in conjunction with a brim of plain braid, and many of the most dainty of the little bonnets are of this braid. Some of the most stylish hats seen in the late displays are in the wide, rough, partly colored braids, and cashmere effects and mixture of braids constitute a characteristic feature of the spring millinery.

The accompanying illustration presents a small bonnet for an elderly lady. Its frame is covered with canary colored silk and then the whole is trimmed with fine black lace. A peasant bow of velvet is placed in front from which arises an aigrette of peacock feathers. A quaint brooch set with gems is fastened in the knot of the bow; the strings are velvet ribbon.

Another exquisite little bonnet was formed of a mat of gold tinsel-wrought lace, and trimmed with a garland of bows of moss-green, purl-edged gros-grain ribbon, a bow at the back holding a bunch of velvet pansies, with narrow black velvet ribbon strings.

FLORETTE.

He Was Simply Thoughtless.

Rector.—I hope that the dear girls will be at the Bible class, Wednesday evening.

Mrs. J. Browne Stone.—I am afraid not, my dear Doctor; for, you see, that to get back home and dress will make them so late for the Vaudeville Club.

Bits of Fashion.

The familiar storm serge, wide wale and finer twill, comes decorated with silk dots and small figures.

A notable feature of the new season will be the elegance of its all-black woods. The silk mixtures will be prominent.

A striking combination is Nile green and violet, or, more correctly, lavender. Silks, wools and cottons all exhibit this coloring.

There is much black challie. A favorite design has a colored line running lengthwise, with flowers of the same hue climbing upon it, as a trellis.

Damask effects are seen in the silk and wool novelties, and the white and colored speck introduced last autumn will be continued, but on wools of lighter weight and color.

Among the thinner wools the crepons, with large cord, are likely to be favorites because of their varied and delicate coloring, including new shades of green, some yellows and lilacs and tans that will be excellent in combination.

Probably in March more than any other month in the year are the ravages of cold in the head and catarrh most severely felt. Do not neglect either for an instant, but apply Nasal Balm, a time-tried, never-failing cure. Easy to use, pleasant and agreeable. Try it. Sold by dealers or sent by mail, post paid, on receipt of price—50c. and $1 a bottle. Fulford & Co., Brockville, Ont.

Encouragement for old People.

It may sound queer to talk about curing old people of Kidney and Urinary troubles after they have passed the alloted period of three score years and ten, but the following extraordinary recovery of an old veteran by Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure, ought to be of great encouragement to old people:—

BELLEVILLE, March 4, 1893.

Peterborough Medicine Company (Limited.)

GENTLEMEN,—I owe a great debt of gratitude to Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure for the prompt and speedy relief which I have received from the use of only one bottle of your great medicine. I have suffered from Kidney and Urinary troubles, inflammation of the neck of the bladder, &c. for many a long day. No one knows better than old people how great a blessing it is to be cured. I doctored a lot, but nothing did me so much good as your cure. I have lived about half a century in Belleville, and will be only to glad to speak a good word in favour of Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure. I can also recommend it for constipation and stomach troubles.

JAMES HAROLD.

Beware of Cholera.

The healthy body throws off the germs of cholera therefore wisdom counsels the use of Burdock Blood Bitters this spring to purify the blood, regulate the system, and fortify the body against cholera or other epidemics.

Interested People.

Advertising a patent medicine in the peculiar way in which the proprietor of Kemp's Balsam for coughs and colds does it, is indeed wonderful. He authorizes all druggists to give those who call for it a sample bottle FREE, that they may try it before purchasing. The large bottles are 50c. and $1. We certainly would advise a trial. It may save you from consumption.

A BOX FILLED WITH FIVE DEAD BODIES.

The Bodies Are Supposed to Be Those of Emigrants Who Mysteriously Disappeared Last Fall, About 40 Miles From St. Joseph.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., March 22.—Compton McCoy was duck hunting on a sandbar yesterday when he discovered a large drygoods box floating with the current.

An investigation disclosed that the box was filled with five dead bodies, four men and one woman, so badly decomposed that identification was impossible.

It is supposed the remains are those of a family of emigrants who disappeared in a mysterious manner from near Rule, 40 miles north of this city, last fall.

THE PANAMA SCANDAL.

DeLesseps, Baihaut and Blondin Sentenced in the Panama Canal Case.

PARIS, March 22.—Charles DeLesseps, accused of corrupting Ex-Minister of Public Works Baihaut to support the Panama lottery bonds bill, has been found guilty by the jury. Baihaut, who confessed his guilt, and Blondin, who acted as go-between in the bribery of Baihaut, have also been found guilty. All the other defendants are acquitted.

The court, after deliberation, sentenced M. Baihaut to imprisonment for five years, to pay a fine of 750,000 francs and to the loss of civil rights.

M. Blondin was sentenced to imprisonment for two years and Charles de Lesseps to imprisonment for one year, the one year to run concurrently with the five years' sentence already imposed on him.

All three of the convicted prisoners were condemned to pay the costs and damages demanded by the civil parties to the proceedings.

The sentences of Charles de Lesseps and Blondin were made comparatively light on the ground of extenuating circumstances in their cases.

The court also ordered M. de Lesseps, M. Blondin and M. Baihaut to pay to M. Monchicourt, liquidator of the Panama Canal Company, 375,000 francs, the amount taken from the treasury of the company and paid to M. Baihaut for his influence in favor of the Lottery Loan Bill.

Arton to be Extradited.

BERLIN, March 22.—In compliance with the request of the French Government, the public prosecutor in Strassburg has been directed to secure the issue of a warrant for the arrest of M. Arton, the fugitive Panama lobbyist.

A BABY IN A BASKET.

A Prospective Emigrant Got a Parcel to Take With Him.

LONDON, March 22.—John L. Bartlett is an Ekfrid farmer who has a wife and two children. He had recently returned from a visit to the Northwest, and intended leaving for there with his family yesterday afternoon.

He has been staying at his father's place in Mosa Township since his return, and the other day a little boy called and gave Bartlett's sister a closed basket, remarking at the time:

"Here's something for John to take with him." The girl took the basket inside, and after unfastening the cover she and the rest of the family were somewhat startled and surprised to find a crowing infant cradled therein. The basket was immediately covered and carried by Miss Bartlett three miles to the residence of William Coyle of Mosa Township, where it came from. The result is the arrest on a capias of the said John L. Bartlett to-day.

The charge is seduction, and it is brought against him by William Coyle, whose daughter is the mother of the child. Bartlett's goods are all at the C.P.R. station, Glencoe, ready for shipment. The girl formerly worked for him. Bail was accepted to-day, pending further investigation.

THE FRENCH TREATY.

There Is a Rumor That Sir Charles Tupper Will Resign.

LONDON, March 22.—Sir Charles Tupper has no intention of going to Canada at present. However, there is a possibility that the High Commissioner may resign his office.

In certain circles here it is generally understood that Sir Charles Tupper will step down and out, if, under the existing circumstances, the draft of the French treaty is rejected by the Canadian Parliament.

It is pointed out as showing the value of the French treaty to the Dominion of Canada, that the United States, under its new French treaty, gives absolutely free entry to 10,000,000 francs' worth of French products, while in return the minimum French tariff only applies to the products of certain States. By the draft treaty with Canada, the Dominion gets the privilege of the minimum tariff on the same products as the United States and many more besides.

It is, however, in the admission of the French products that Canada's advantage over the United States is most clearly shown. Instead of allowing, as do the Americans, absolutely free entry, the treaty stipulates for a reduced, though still high, rate of duty on one and a half million francs' worth of French products.

Though, from reports received here, Mr. Foster declared in the House that he objected to certain clauses of the treaty, yet no official news of this declaration has reached the British Plenipotentiaries or the British Government from Canada since, as Sir Charles Tupper declares, on the approval of Ottawa the treaty was signed.

Sick Headache BEECHAM'S PILLS.

GETTING INTERESTING.

Rumors of Fitzpatrick Schemes for the Behring Sea.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 22.—Advices just received from Behring Sea show that the steamer Alexander which left here early this year is already in the forbidden waters and that as soon as the season opens she will make a bold raid on the seal rookeries. The Alaska Commercial Company's supply schooner Dora arrived yesterday afternoon from a cruise extending as far north as Onalooska.

Natives on the shores of Yakuta Pass, the main entrance to the Behring Sea, reported that on Feb. 25 and 27 a three-masted steamer painted black had steamed into the sea. Their description made it clear that the vessel was the Alexander.

This steamer cleared from San Francisco for Hakodate, Japan, Jan. 23. She carried a full sealing outfit, including a large quantity of salt. In her hold was an unusually large supply of cheap liquors, and another suspicious circumstance was that she carried a crew of 80 men. At the last moment several cases of Winchesters and cartridges were secretly put aboard.

It is believed here that the Alexander will trade liquor for the skins along the shores of the Behring Sea, and that before the patrol fleet starts north she will make a dash for the rookeries, overpower the small guard on the islands and then slip south with a full cargo of skins.

The character of the crew and the nature of the outfit leaves no doubt that her mission is unlawful.

Russia Is Away Off

ST. PETERSBURG, March 22.—The commission appointed to investigate questions connected with the Behring Sea fisheries advises that the territorial waters around the Behring Sea Islands be regarded as extending 30 miles from land. Off the coast of Kamschatka the territorial waters should be regarded as extending 10 miles from land, since the female seals were wont to swim out 10 miles to obtain food for their young.

As regards the seizure of British ships in the Behring Sea the commission appointed by the Foreign Office says that the action of the Russian authorities was justified by the irregularity and evasiveness of the entries in the logs of these vessels.

TWO PRISONERS RETURN

AN INTERESTING JOURNEY BY TWO DETECTIVES.

Davidson Had a 20,000 Mile Trip—He Saw Many New Lands—Godolphin's Unique Message to His Wife—It Caused His Arrest.

TORONTO, March 23.—Time and the telegraph work wonders in this world.

Two groups of passengers stepped from the G. T. R. train from the east at the Union Station yesterday. There were four in each party. The first group had hardly alighted when they were surrounded by a number of happy women. It was easy to understand that the father had come back, that wife and daughters had hastened to meet him and that the little party were appreciating all the joyousness of such a reunion.

Who can describe the bitter anguish that the sight of such peaceful domestic happiness brought to the souls of two of the members of the other quartet, who gazed on the merry group with bursting heart and longing eyes, until blinding tears had dimmed their sight. For they knew that not for many years would they be permitted to enjoy those blessings in their full plenitude. Henceforth home joys would be shut out from them by prison bars, for they were two forgers who had just been extradited. The shadow of the prison had fallen upon both Charles H. Davidson and Richard W. Godolphin when they stepped from the train, in charge of Government Detectives Murray and Rogers.

The story of the forgeries, the flight, the pursuit, the capture and final return of these men is full of interest.

A LONG TRIP.

The Trouble in Extraditing a Forger from Mexico.

C. Hilton Davidson, the man whom Detective Murray had in charge, and whose extradition necessitated nearly 20,000 miles of travel, and the expenditure of $3000, was formerly a nurseryman in Burlington.

C. H. DAVIDSON

He is five feet ten inches in height, weighs perhaps 160 pounds, and has a brown beard. He was a member of the well-known firm of John Davidson & Son, who for many years carried on a large nursery business near Burlington. The sons were C. Hilton Davidson, the person arrested, and W. M. Davidson. They are nephews of the junior member of the firm of Oliver, Brown & Davidson, who were connected with the celebrated Neeb-ing Hotel. They carried on a very large and, supposedly, lucrative business. C. Hilton Davidson, who is about 42 years of age, was the business man of the firm. He did the financing and also traveled through the Province for the firm. He also played the organ in the Methodist Church and was considered above suspicion. On the evening of May 15, 1892, he played the organ as usual in the church, and then he folded up the music and silently stole away. When the morning of May 16 dawned he was on his way to Mexico.

The reason he left so suddenly was that the Bank of Hamilton, with which he did business, had been unable to get satisfactory information regarding the makers of certain notes which C. Hilton Davidson had discounted, and when they applied to him for information his guilty conscience made Mr. Davidson think he had been discovered, so he fled.

DETECTIVE MURRAY.

Davidson went about cunningly. From traveling extensively he came to know the farmers well, and he knew where a certain family name was peculiarly common in a district. Then he forged notes on a mythical individual, using the surname that happened to be known in that section, but with an unusual Christian name that he was certain was not liable to be duplicated in the bearers of the surname. For instance, if there were a large number of Smythes residing near Oakville, he would make a note in the name of Cholmondeley Smythe and trust to the bank being satisfied to suppose that Cholmondeley was one of the wealthy colony of Smythes known to reside in that district. Of course, when dealing with a supposedly wealthy firm like the Davidsons, above suspicion and all that, no special trouble was likely to be taken to hunt up the makers of the notes. It is not known how long Davidson continued this practice, but he may have carried it on for several years, being always careful to take up the notes before maturity and substituting other forged paper.

At the time of his flight the bank held a good many notes, some known to be good and others doubtful. With the assistance of persons doing with the business of the firm, the bank people were able to pick out the forgeries from the good with such accuracy that only one man got dunned for a forged note and that was speedily arranged. The forged notes total up $8000.

Meantime the firm failed with liabilities of $40,000. As a warning to other wrongdoers the bank decided to run C. H. Hilton Davidson down and the Attorney-General's office was communicated with.

The case was placed in the hands of Detective Murray, who learned that Davidson had gone to Mexico, acting under the advice of his counsel that he could not be extradited from that country, as there was scarcely any way to bring him except through the United States. The Bank of Hamilton was bound to make an example of Davidson, as a number of forgeries for large amounts had been perpetrated on the bank, and they decided to spare no expense in running Davidson down.

On Nov. 7, 1892, Detective Murray left for Mexico, and located Davidson at Ciudad Juarez, a city of 40,000 inhabitants on the Mexican Central Railway, the other side of the Rio Grande. Davidson was employed on the Mexican Central Railway as a car checker under the name of Graham. Detective Murray applied to the local authorities for the arrest of his man and a guard of soldiers consisting of about a dozen men, headed by the Chief of Police and Mayor, was sent to his assistance. Davidson [illegible] by the officer and the Mexicans surrounded him and marched him off to the "calabozo." Davidson contended that he couldn't be taken back to Canada, that he had legal advice that he couldn't be removed from the country. Extradition proceedings were at once instituted and the detective proceeded to Chihuahua and conferred with the governor of the state of that name and was assured that he would see Davidson secure and ordered a double guard to be placed on the forger, as it was a common thing for prisoners to be released from Mexican jails especially if they had a little money. The officer then interviewed Sir Spencer St. John, British Minister at the City of Mexico, and after a delay of four weeks in the courts and elsewhere Davidson was handed over to Detective Murray's custody.

As it was impossible to take Davidson through the United States, Detective Murray started on his long tour across the continent. He first visited the City of Mexico and there found that there were no steamers running from Vera Cruz to either England or Jamaica. Officer and prisoner proceeded to Vera Cruz, but could find no direct steamer, the only alternative being to take a freight steamer from Vera Cruz to Santiago de Cuba, Cuba. For fear that the prisoner might demand his freedom on arrival in Cuba Detective Murray fortified himself with a letter from the British Ambassador at Mexico to the Governor of Cuba, Senor Golcrsado, to give him assistance and protection while in his domain, which the Governor willingly did, as the latter was a brother-in-law of the British consul at Santiago de Cuba. Detective Murray sailed from Vera Cruz on the steamer Earnoliffe Jan. 3, arriving at Santiago on Jan. 10. He remained there eight days, endeavoring to secure a steamer to Jamaica, but there is no communication of any kind between the two countries. Although the nearest point between the two countries is only 100 miles a letter posted at either point has to go via New York to reach its destination. Detective Murray offered the owner of a tug $300 to land him on the Island of Jamaica, but he declined to go short of £100. The only thing left for the officer was to take a Spanish steamer which calls at Santiago once a month and proceed to Port au Prince, Hayti. Before starting he cabled British Consul-General Arthur Tweedie at Port au Prince to know what chance he would stand with his prisoner there. He replied that he could give no assurance, but would do everything in his power. Detective Murray accordingly set sail on the Spanish steamer Manuia, arriving at Port au Prince on Jan. 17. Having obtained passports for himself and prisoner before leaving Cuba, Detective Murray went ashore, leaving his prisoner guarded on board the ship in charge of the only English-speaking passenger on board, a professor in the college at Frankfort-on-the-Main, who was visiting the West Indies preparing a paper on political economy. After a conference with the British Consul-General and the Haytian authorities he succeeded in getting permission to land his prisoner, provided the officer supplied guards and paid liberally for all services rendered. Detective Murray had to remain at Port-au-Prince 14 days waiting a steamer for Jamaica. During that time Davidson was confined in jail under special guard, prisoners in "white man's grave" having a fashion of taking French leave at any time.

On Jan. 29 Detective Murray and his prisoner left Port-au-Prince for Jamaica on the Atlas liner Ardine. She called en route at Gonavis, where Detective Murray, assisted by the quartermaster, amused themselves harpooning sharks, the officer killing one of the largest specimens ever seen in the bay. After stoppages at Jaremie for a coffee cargo and at the Island of Nissea for mails for New York steamers, they arrived in Jamaica Feb. 20. Davidson was placed in jail there, and on Feb. 8 officer and prisoner boarded the Royal Mail steamer for Southampton, where they arrived on the evening of Feb. 23.

HUNTSVILLE'S DEFAULTER.

How a Scripture Quotation Resulted in Godolphin's Capture.

Richard W. Godolphin, Detective Rogers' prisoner, is a man of 5 ft. 3 or 4 ins. in height, slim build, dark complexion and wears a full beard. He is 34 years of age. For several years he had been treasurer of Huntsville village. He was a member of the English Church and was for a lengthened period organist of the church. In December last he disappeared. An examination of his accounts followed and he was found to be $3511.82 short. The auditors in their report stated:

We find from the collector's roll from 1889 that $2997.79 was collected, and only $2963.32 carried into the treasurer's account, showing a discrepancy of $44.47; and we find from the collector's roll for 1890 that $3792.12 was collected, and only $3092.25 carried into the treasurer's account, showing a discrepancy of $699.86; and we find from the collector's roll for 1891 that $3990.15 was collected and only $3231.95 carried into the treasurer's account, showing a discrepancy of $758.20; and up to the end of 1891 that $512.62 of arrears have been left off the roll, showing a deficiency against the treasurer at the end of 1891 of $2015.16, with a probability, amounting almost to a certainty, that this deficiency was even greater, to the extent of any amount of taxes that may have been paid and not given credit for on the collector's roll.

The Attorney-General's department was placed in possession of the facts and Detective Rogers was given charge of the case early in January. He learned that Godolphin had come to Toronto, but had left the city. Detective Newhall, who had been working on the case, informed Detective Rogers where Godolphin had exchanged Canadian currency for sovereigns, and it was concluded that the forger had gone to Europe. Rogers at once sent a photo and personal letter to Scotland Yard giving information as to where his quarry would likely be found.

Later he learned that this cable had been received by Godolphin's wife:

When thou passest through the waters, I will be with thee; and through the rivers, they shall not overflow thee; when thou walkest through the fire, thou shalt not be burned; neither shall the flame kindle upon thee.

The forger had induced a lady friend in England to send the 2nd verse of the xliii chapter of Isaiah to his wife, conjecturing that the sentence, "When thou passest through the waters I will be with thee," would be sufficiently explicit to indicate his whereabouts, and it was, but it fell into the hands of the authorities. An official telegram was thereupon sent to Scotland Yard, and Inspector Jarvis, who visited Canada recently in connection with the celebrated Cream-Neill poisoning cases, was detailed to arrest Godolphin. He found him in a cheap lodging-house in London almost penniless. He acknowledged his identity, was brought before Sir John Bridge at Bow-street, and remanded pend[illegible] Peterboro Regatta annual. When the latter arrived he was again [illegible], and succeeded in [illegible] honorably.

SET IN LIVERPOOL.

And Detectives and Prisoners Once on the Ocean.

On arriving at Plymouth with his prisoner Detective Murray telegraphed to Scotland Yard. Detective Rogers was notified and arrangements were made for both officers to bring their men to the locale. They occupied adjoining staterooms, and everything possible was done by the other passengers to make the prisoners feel at home. Davidson and Godolphin are [illegible] gentlemen, both having been engaged in the church to widen their knowledge, and they acted as companions at the concerts held daily. The detectives speak highly of the treatment they received at the hands of the Servia's officers, who did everything possible to make the trip enjoyable. Their descriptions of the accident to the Servia show that the telegraphed reports were exaggerated. The damage was the breaking on the night of March 11 of the after crank shaft in the bearings, just abaft the engine. The delay was caused by the great difficulty in getting the couplings connected in order to change the forward crank to the place of the after crank shaft. When the repairs were completed the ship was about 60 miles from St. Pierre. Upon the engines being started she steamed about 8 miles an hour, and during the heavy northeast gale of Saturday made as high as 10. The passengers took the situation philosophically and were contented and satisfied, although on the night of the 16th a terrific hurricane set in, the wind blowing at a velocity of [illegible] miles an hour, and the sea ran very high.

The Sarnia was spoken by both the Guion liner America and the Monarch of Pictou, bound for Halifax, but declined assistance, although the vessels were indigoed to stand by for several hours pending the result of repairs in progress. The hurricane of the 16th was pronounced by old mariners to be one of the most severe ever experienced on the ocean, and there is not the slightest doubt if the Sarnia had been laying in the trough of the sea, with her engines disabled when the storm broke, the vessel and her 700 passengers would have gone to Davy Jones' locker.

During the six days that the ship drifted pending the repairs the passengers amused themselves with music, in which the prisoners took an active interest.

Upon arrival at Toronto Detective Murray took his prisoner to Milton and lodged him in jail.

Detective Rogers placed Godolphin in No. 1 Station until 5 p.m., when he left with him for Bracebridge. He will be tried before the County Judge on Saturday, and will probably plead guilty and receive his sentence.

While in London Detective Rogers attended the annual banquet of Scotland Yard officials.

Kerr Gets Two Years.

KANSAS CITY, March 23.—Augustus T. Kerr, the bookkeeper of the Jarvis Conkling Mortgage Trust Company, who embezzled $14,000 and was caught in Liverpool by detectives, was found guilty yesterday and sentenced to two years in the penitentiary.

Kerr was a Toronto broker formerly and left here to avoid criminal prosecution for fraud about five years ago.

TWO CENTS A MILE.

The New York Assembly Decides Upon Lower Fares.

ALBANY, March 23.—The members of the Legislature, the present session, have had called to their attention in loud tones the high rates of railroad fares in the interior of the state.

Nearly all the railroads charge three cents a mile, and a good many bills have been introduced lowering the rates to two cents a mile.

Yesterday there came up in the Assembly a bill of Mr. Quackenbush of Schenectady County lowering the rates of fare upon the Delaware and Hudson to two cents a mile.

Mr. Wolff of New York moved that the bill should be re-committed since there had been no hearing upon it.

Mr. Quackenbush resisted this motion, and was assisted by Sullivan of New York and Haley of Oneida.

A struggle followed the motion to re-commit and it was defeated.

When the bill came before the Assembly Mr. Quackenbush told the Assemblymen that the farmers of his county all wanted the bill passed. They thought three cents a mile too much.

Assemblyman Ainsworth of Oswego County said that from certain figures submitted to him he did not think the Delaware and Hudson was able financially to carry people for as low a sum as two cents a mile.

Timothy D. Sullivan, in reply, said that this talk was all nonsense, the Delaware and Hudson sold 1000 mile tickets for $20, which was two cents a mile. Poor men were unable to buy these tickets for 1000 miles, and had to pay three cents a mile. He thought the bill a just one, and it ought to be passed.

The bill was then passed by a vote of 71 to 34.

LAKEFIELD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The village council are obtaining all the information possible in regard to cost, etc. for plant, power house, and other expences in establishing a new electric light system under the control of the municipality and expect to be able to arrive at a definite understanding by next council meeting.

This week will see the shantys all broken up for the season and the men down until the drives are ready to start. As the winter has been favourable a large cut of logs has been taken out not only by the great lumber firms operating on the Otonabee and Trent waters, but also by the jobbers on the numerous back lakes and streams.

Members of both political parties were greatly tickled over the report of the speech of the member for West Peterborough, delivered in Ottawa last week. It was the biggest puff Peterborough has got for many a day. When the honourable member is raised to the peerage for his efforts on behalf of the Trent Valley Canal it should be under the title of Baron Munchausen.

The village people were pleased on Tuesday morning to again hear the familiar whistle of the woollen mills, which has been placed in charge of Mr. G. W. Wilson who is well known to all in this section, and who no doubt will make it a success in the future.

A couple of splendid specimen blocks of dark granite have been taken out of the quarry at "Lynch's rock" by Mr. Alex. Richardson and sent to Toronto, where they will be dressed to see how the stone will answer for use in the construction of the new Union station. It is to be hoped it may prove acceptable to the architect and the company, as the taking out of stone will give employment to a number of hands and its introduction may be the means of opening the quarry for a long time to come, as the supply is inexhaustible.

"In the spring the young man's fancies Lightly turns to thoughts of love."

And the young ladies also if we are to judge from the number of weddings which are announced to take place within the next month in and around the village. It helps to make things lively at an otherwise dull season of the year. The merchant, tailor, dressmaker, milliner and baker are all rejoicing at the rich harvest in prospect for them while the parson dreams of the fat fees which will be handed over by the happy grooms. The only ones not sharing in the general rejoicing are the fair ones who are left behind, but they can take heart as their time may come yet for.—

"There never was a goose so gray,
But some time soon or late:
A gander wandered along that way
And took her for his mate."

At the last meeting of the school board it was decided by a majority of the trustees to have the head master take up 3rd class certificate work for the benefit of those who had passed their entrance examination and who did not wish or could not afford to go to the High school. In order to do so a class had to be moved down from room to room, and it has given offence to quite a number of parents, some of whom are loud in their denunciation of the action of the trustees. A petition has been placed in circulator for signatures asking the trustees to reconsider the matter as it is claimed that when a child passes the entrance examinations it should go to the high school which is established for that purpose, and the teachers time in the village school should be devoted to the younger pupils and those preparing for their examinations. As it is the rooms are overcrowded, and still children are admitted who do not belong to the section, while the lady teachers consider they have more work than they can do justice to.

HARVEY.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The Harvey Council met at the school house in Union School Section No. 5, Harvey and Smith, on March 18th, pursuant to adjournment. Members all present. The minutes were read and corrected by rescinding motion No. 1 of the last session, then confirmed. On motion, all the lots in concessions Nos. 1, 2 and 3, and lots 14 and 15 in concessions 5 and 6 be formed into a new school section, to be known as School Section No. 7, Township of Harvey. On motion, Mr. William Clarkson was appointed as an arbitrator, on altering the metes and bounds of Union school section No. 5, Harvey and Smith, and that the corporation seal be affixed to give the resolution the force of a by-law. A motion passed that no action be taken with regard to the bills of Wm. and Jos. Finlay. On motion Mr. Charles McIlmoyle and James McL. Oliver were appointed as a committee to take legal steps to cause the removal of all obstructions on the road allowance between lots 19 and 20, concession 19, in township of Harvey. On motion council adjourned to meet on call of the reeve.

It isn't in the ordinary way that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription comes to the weak and suffering woman who needs it. It's guaranteed. Not with words merely; any medicine can make claims and promises. What is done with the "Favorite Prescripton" is this: if it fails to benefit or cure, in any case, your money is returned. Can you ask any better proof that a medicine will do what it promises?

It's an invigorating, restorative tonic, a soothing and strengthening nervine, and a certain remedy for the ills and ailments that beset a woman. In "female complaints" of every kind, periodical pains, internal inflammation or ulceration, bearing-down sensations, and all chronic weakness and irregularities, it is a positive and complete cure.

To every tired, overworked woman, and to every weak, nervous, and ailing one, it is guaranteed to bring health and strength.

A Cure for Croup.

Croup kills thousands where cholera kills tens. For this dread disease no remedy can compare in curative power with Hagyard's Yellow Oil. It loosens the phelgm, gives prompt relief, and soon completely cures the most violent attack.

KEENE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Several weddings are reported in the near future.

Quite a number of our sports attended the Harwood races on Tuesday.

Mr. William Wedlock has again leased the Keene mills and guarantees satisfactory work.

It is understood that our new councillors are going to give us more sidewalks. More power to the civic fathers, as the village needs the walks badly.

The snow on the roads has been replaced by mud, much to the annoyance of the citizens.

Some of young men contemplate a trip to the far west this spring.

We are sorry to note that Campbell McNeil & Co.'s store is closed for a time, but hope it will soon be reopened.

Mr. James Dickson is back to Keene again.

Mr. Wm. Kemp is moving on to his new farm lately purchased from Mrs. A. Robertson.

Mr. Andrew Shearar has the material on the ground for a new dwelling to be erected this summer.

Mr. Jas. Bryce also intends building this summer.

Mr. Peter Hewie has retired from farming and has moved into the village.

Mr. Duncan Macfarlane has also moved into the village.

Mr. Wm. Pollyblank is now in Keene practising with Dr. Johnson, V.S.

It is with feelings of regret that we chronicle the demise of Mr. Andrew Mather, sr., who expired Tuesday, 14th inst, at his residence after a few months illness at the age of 72 years. The deceased was highly respected by his neighbours and acquaintances and was a devoted husband and father. His remains were followed to the Pine Grove Cemetery, Keene, on Friday afternoon by a large concourse of friends and relatives, where his body was deposited in its final resting place. We tender our heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved family and relatives.

Two families have removed from our village, but three others have moved in, therefore our population has increased instead of decreased.

After an absence of five months, Mr. Alex. Comrie returned home on Saturday last, having spent the winter in the shanties. J. McFarlane also returned on Tuesday, having served a term of five years with the Mounted Police in the Northwest.

After the grip, when you are weak and "played out," Hood's Sarsaparilla will restore your health and strength.

Do not despair of curing your sick headache when you can so easily obtain Carter's Little Liver Pills. They will effect a prompt and permanent cure. Their action is mild and natural.

Some symptoms of worms are:—fever colic, variable appetite, restlessness, weakness and convulsions. The unfailing remedy is Dr. Lowe's Worm Syrup.

FASHIONS IN NEW YORK.

LATEST HINTS FROM THE METROPOLIS.

Turning from house wear to outdoor garments, I present a promenade coat of velvet. This elegant model has a vest of velvet trimmed with sable or mink fur. The latter continues around the collar and then down the inside of the coat, finishing in a point at the bottom. The coat is heavily embroidered with black silk and jet, which ornamentation continues down the front and ends in a point at about the centre of the back. The lower part is cut very full to give several pleats at the back. The coat is edged down the front with lace and the overlapping side of the vest is trimmed in the same way. The sleeves are trimmed with fur and the muff is a dainty concoction of velvet and lace. With it is worn a round hat of brown velvet.

A SPRING COAT.

The hat is dented in three places in the back and a little at each side. The edge of the brim is trimmed with a gathered ruffle of silk lace which is left pendant. In front there is a buckle of artificial stones placed on top of a black satin ribbon. Another bow of black satin ribbon and three ostrich tips are placed at one side.

A visiting toilet of rep or bedford cord having a cape of chinchilla fur is to be seen in the last picture. The skirt is perfectly plain and is composed of three breadths; one front and two back breadths. The centre seam of the latter is bias. The front is slightly gathered at the top, and the two sides are but a trifle bias where they join the front breadth, so little, in fact, as to be hardly noticeable. The skirt is a little over three yards wide at the bottom and but few pleats are laid at the top in the back. It is lined with satin or silk and is finished with a narrow cording. Nothing is interposed between this and the fabric as the latter is heavy enough and any additional lining would prevent the folds from hanging properly. The lining of the waist is tight-fitting, and the goods is draped over this, being caught only in the shoulders and under arm seams. The front is closed with hooks and eyes and is entirely without folds or pleats. The fichu arrangement of changeable gray and green velvet is crossed and sewed into the side front seams. A standing collar closes invisibly with hooks and eyes at one side, where the chinchilla cape is also fastened, as the toilet can be worn without it, if desired. The cape also has a high standing collar and the seam where it is joined to the cape proper is hidden with a trimming of green and gray velvet ribbons which form a rosette at the back. The belt around the waist, too, is made of these ribbons. The sleeves are of velvet, have but one seam and are tacked to the lining here and there to form tiny puffs.

Are we going to swallow the 1830 head dresses with the other modes of that period? Or rather are they going to swallow us. Are we willing to turn our back hair into the semblance of a cannon shooting off a sheaf of wheat, or a horn of plenty in a state of eruption? While things shoot out the back, shall we balance matters by an eruption in the other direction that points heavenward at our brow. To sustain the weight of these two sheaves of wheat we will put a band about our head above which the back explosion will take place, and which shall note the [illegible] steady. Below the band in front we will wave a couple of locks and part them at the brow and let them meander down over the ears and so under the band, without which our head would certainly fly to pieces. The back of our 1830 gown is cut straight across from shoulder to shoulder, showing the round of the two well over their slope to the arms. The epaulets are full and join the edge turned back from the neck. Epaulets and edge too are finished off with a castellated cutting, like the tops of old forts and castles. Another 1830 style will dictate that you gather all the hair together, except the front locks which are to be tortured in another way, at the crown of the head, just where the head rounds toward the back. You will wind its thickness around and around with a string and then hide the string by a metal band. The length of the hair you will then irritate into a lot of quivering curls which you will allow to riotously boil over the edge of the metal band. You will further exaggerate their exuberance by sticking some very big ornamental pins through their masses, and erecting about the top of the band a flaring fence of pearls. Now you comb down the front locks over the brow. You set another fence, very high, right on top of your head, like a crown. From under the edge of this fence the front locks come. They are parted at the middle of the forehead and then each is turned under in a sort of loop, the ends reaching over the ear, and waving off beautifully behind the ear and into a lovely little crinkled lock down the cheek.

THREW AWAY HIS CRUTCHES

AFTER YEARS OF TERRIBLE SUFFERING.

AN INTERESTING HISTORY.

STATEMENT OF MR. WM. McNEE.

For eight years I was troubled with a sore on my leg which resulted from having it broken. The doctors kept me in bed five months trying to heal it up, but all to no purpose. I tried all sorts of salves, liniments, ointments, pills and blood medicines but with no benefit. In 1883 it became so bad that I had to sit on one chair and keep my foot off another for four months. I could not put my foot on the ground or the blood would rush out in a stream and my leg swelled to twice its natural size.

ELEVEN RUNNING SORES

developed on it which reduced me to a living skeleton (I lost 70 lbs. in four months). Friends advised me to go to the Hospital; but I would not, for I knew they would take my leg off. The doctor then wanted to split it open and scrape the bone, but I was too weak to stand the operation. One old lady said it had turned to black erysipelas and could never be cured. I had never heard of Burdock Blood Bitters then, but I read of a minister, Rev. Mr. Stout, who had been cured of a severe abscess on the neck by B.B.B., after medical aid had failed, and I thought I would try it. I washed the leg with the Bitters and took them according to directions. After using one bottle I could walk on crutches, after taking three, I threw away the crutches, took a scythe and went to work in the field. At the end of the sixth bottle my leg was entirely healed up; pieces of loose bone had worked out of it and the cords came back to their natural places again. That was nine years ago and it has never broken out since. I can walk five miles to-day as fast as anyone, and all this I owe to B. B. B., which certainly saved my leg, if not my life. I cheerfully recommend it to all sufferers. Give B. B. B. a trial, it will cure you as it did me.

Yours truly,

WM. McNEE, St. Ives P.O., Ont.

TO BE OR NOT TO BE "IN IT."

A Life Agent [illegible] a friendly place one day,
HE WASN'T IN IT;
He had seen "Endowment" coming and fled from his way
HE WASN'T IN IT;
He had been [illegible] quick, he was tired and sick
Of insurance and agents—they all a blank trick,
When one's coil must be doubled to win it,
HE WASN'T IN IT.

A bit of a draft blew o'er his bald head,
HE WAS IN IT;
Pneumonia sent him straightway to his bed,
HE STAYED IN IT;
His doctor made of it a "quite special" case
To save him for running still more of life's race
But the grave took some chances to win it,
AND HE'S IN IT.

When approached by a gent for insuring your life,
GET RIGHT IN IT;
It's the right thing to do for your children and wife,
THEN STAY IN IT.
Remember that fires take your goods "out of sight,"
And that accidents happen each day and each night.
While insurance protects every minute,
IF YOU'RE IN IT.

A Bank Manager's Opinion.

HE IS "IN IT."

The General Manager of one of the leading banks in Canada, writing to a personal friend, says:—"I have no hesitation in saying that I place the CANADA LIFE upon the highest platform. It is in my opinion carefully, economically and honestly managed; its Reserve Funds are well invested; its rates of Premiums are low, and its future is, I think better assured than a great majority of Companies. I have my own life insured in the Company for a round amount, and would not hesitate to increase the amount of my policies should I decide upon taking out further insurance."

A Government Insurance Actuary's Opinion

On the Relation between Ordinary and Tontine Service.

It is frequently asserted by Companies whose business is nearly all tontine, that although the CANADA LIFE may and does pay large ordinary profits, yet it cannot compare so favourably on a long term distribution or tontine period, and that in the end better results can be obtained on a tontine policy in a large American Co. than on an ordinary or tontine policy in the CANADA LIFE. To prove the absurdity of this statement, the following piece of common sense is quoted from Mervin Tabor, late Actuary of the Illinois Goverment Insurance Department. In his well known book, "The Three Systems of Life Insurance," he says: "A company that gives large dividends on the ordinary kind of policies, can give much larger on the same kinds when Tontined, and a company that pays but meagre dividends on the usual forms, adopting perhaps the Tontine system to "cover up" its small surpluses, cannot be relied on for large returns of surplus under the Tontine Forms of Insurance."

The CANADA LIFE does not "cover up" its Quinquennial profits as some Companies do, but publishes them throughout the country.

It can and does surpass other Companies on Quinquennial profits. It should and will surpass them on Tontine profits.

WHY TO BE "IN IT."

BISHOP HAWKE'S REASON:—"I claim that Life Insurance is not only a humane, but I might say a Christian Institution."

LORD LYNDHURST'S REASON:—"A Policy of Life Insurance is always an evidence of prudent forethought. No man with a dependent family is free from reproach if not insured."

WHEN TO BE "IN IT."

The younger, the cheaper. Therefore insure when young. Besides by insuring in the CANADA LIFE now, you will share in three years' profits.

WHERE TO BE "IN IT."

The best place to be "in it" is in the Company that gives the best returns for the least money, consistent with absolute security. Therefore, in order to be "in it," choose the Grand Stock-Taking Sale for 1893 at China Hall.

From now until the 2nd of April we will hold our annual stock-taking sale. Heretofore we have reduced and straightened up our stock by holding a special sale in another store and selling such goods as we wished to clear out. This year, however, we will follow our last season's plan and place our whole stock of $40,000 at your disposal for 30 days at cost price, and in the case of damaged or mis-matched goods at far less than cost. All goods will be ticketed showing former and reduced prices, and it is our wish to make the sale a greater success this year than it was last year by reducing the prices for this purpose, and trust it will be taken advantage of promptly, as the time will be limited to 30 days. Terms strictly cash.

They Paid the License Fee.

Two summons were issued yesterday against two book agents by High Constable Geo. Cochrane. These men have been selling books in the county for some time and were charged with peddling without a license. They were to have appeared before the county police magistrate to-day but on receipt of the summons they immediately took out a license for the county amounting to $60 in all—$30 each. The magistrate is of the opinion that the book agents did not knowingly commit a breach of the law as they carried guarantees with them from their publishing houses which gave them authority to sell their works in any part of the Province. It was subsequently ascertained that the books for which the two men were agents, were not the product of an Ontario firm, but were manufactured outside the Province, hence the agents were compelled to take out licenses, in compliance with the statute in that behalf.

A Beautiful Millinery Display.

Miss Delaney's millinery opening day will be next Tuesday, the 28th. Miss Delaney has had the pleasure of announcing her openings for some years, but this one is the most important of any in the past. She has secured for this season some great values in her direct importations from the European markets, and is showing some beautiful designs which are fully one year in advance of those usually shown in Canada. By her personal inspection of the leading stocks in Montreal and Toronto she has purchased the choice of those centres and as usual at the lowest possible prices. Miss Delaney has a great advantage in one particular, over ordinary buyers in the fact of her sister living in New York City, who is continually selecting the principal novelties there and has already forwarded a number of handsome Pattern Hats and Bonnets, with other attractions. Miss Delaney intends importing goods constantly from New York during the season. Miss Delaney's position has always been a leading one in millinery but her stock has never been so large and attractive as it is this season. 3d

A Narrow Escape.

While on a hunting trip and when crossing the Trent river on Saturday, Mr. Macklin, of Asphodel, says the Norwood Register, broke through the ice and narrowly escaped drowning. Help arrived when Mr. Macklin was almost exhausted and rescued him from what would otherwise have been a watery grave.

A Good Sugar Crop.

Farmers say that the coming spring will be a great success for sugar making. It is well known to those who have engaged in the business that a good season always follows a winter that furnishes abundance of cold weather. The maple sap is always sweeter after a period of intense frost, and furnishes a larger percentage of sugar. Not only that, but the trees yield a larger quantity of sap after a cold winter than a winter that has frequent thaws and periods of warm weather.

THE PARABLES OF REJECTION.

The Address Given in St. John's Church by Rev. A. Lloyd of Trinity College School, Port Hope.

There was only a fair attendance at St. John's church last evening at the regular Wednesday evening Lenten service. Rev. Mr. Davidson conducted the services and announced that the last of the addresses in the Lenten series would be delivered on Wednesday night next by Rev. W. H. Barnes, incumbent of Tweed, on "The Lord outside the Camp." The rector also announced that the Hon. Winnifred Sugden, a missionary from India would address the ladies and children in the Sunday School room at 4.30 o'clock on Sunday afternoon and the members of the Women's Auxiliary on Monday evening at 8 o'clock. He hoped there would be a large attendance to hear the remarks of this well known lady.

The speaker last night was Rev. A. Lloyd, M. A., head master of Trinity College School, Port Hope, and he delivered a thoughtful and consistent address on "The Parables of Rejection."

The life of Christ falls in three great divisions. The time of his retirement for a life of preparation, second the life of early history, life of Christianity—preaching the gospel, and lastly from the transfiguration onward preparation for his passion. The reason the speaker took these great divisions was each one seemed to be cut off from the other by some divine interposition. The end of the second great period, the end of the life of His ministry was, when St. Peter, first among all his disciples, rightly divined the true nature of his Master. The speaker described the work of Christ among his people, and how they knew not who he was, and said the only thing that can reveal truth to us is the holy spirit of God, flesh and blood could not. From the moment that Peter told Christ that he was the Son of God, Christ began to talk of His death and from that there comes a new phase in His ministry. He takes His disciples to the mountain and comes down prepared for death. Let us suppose that the months of last sacrifice are finished, and the holy week began, followed by the triumphal going into Jerusalem, and picturing our Lord as teaching the people gathered in the temple, when he followed up the teaching by parables. There parable represent some three different stages of the rejection of Christ, because St. Matthew grouped all his parables with one or two exceptions. These parables represented the growth of the church in the ages from the sowing of the seed down to the hour of the judgment of the ten virgins. These parables of rejection we should not take them as representing the story of Christ in one way. It was in three different ways. The parable of the two sons, parable of the scribes and Pharisees were not the only rejections of Jesus Christ. There were typical of Christ's rejection, himself, when he came unto his own, and his own received him not. These parables were not prefaced like the parables of St. Matthew. Our Lord led us to a third and still more useful parable—the parable to Christ's rejection in the kingdom of heaven. This parable took place at the end of the Christian era, as generally spoken of. The parable refers to those nations which had received the invitations to come for the Gospel was preached all over the world. All things were ready and those who had heard the Gospel preached for centuries would not come. The speaker referred to the many, after so many years of Christianity, who were far from the kingdom of God, and the King roused up his servants and told them to go out and bring the heathen in. We were to go out beyond the limits of Christianity and bring all in. This parable was a long time reaching its fulfilment. To-day was the Gospel being being preached in our ears and we are rejecting the message. Christ was standing to-day knocking, and even for those who had accepted the glad tidings and were pressing into the kingdom of God there was danger—some of us might be willing to come, but not willing to change our lives. We had to change and should make it before we were cast into outer darkness and the kingdom was passed. The disciple could not be above his master and the disciple must also be rejected, as the Lord suffered death for his master, and it was only through the gates of individual death with our eyes to the world that we can expect to gain the victory. This was also true of the Church if she wished to gain the victory.

IN WEDLOCK JOINED.

The Nuptials of Mr. Thos. Barrie and Miss Annie Brundrette.

A happy and pleasing event took place at the residence of Mr. Wm. Brundrette, Bethune street, at 8 o'clock last evening, when his daughter, Miss Annie, was united in the holy bonds of wedlock to Mr. Thos. Barrie, head clerk in Fairweather & Co's. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Edwards, and in the presence of only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties. The bride wore a neat and beautiful suit of cream henrietta, trimmed with Irish point lace, and decked with cream and white roses, she also carried a large bouquet of cream and white flowers in her hands. The bride was assisted by her sister, Miss Bertha, who wore a beautiful cream delaine, trimmed with point lace, and bouqueted with cream and white flowers. The groom was ably supported by Mr. M. A. Morrison, L.D.S. After the usual wishing much joy and shaking of hands was gone through with, the happy guests repaired to the dining room to the wedding dejeuner, after which a pleasant hour was spent in social conversation, interspered with music, when Mr. and Mrs. Barrie retired to their home on Weller street. The presents were beautiful. Among them was a gold watch to the bride from the choir, Sunday school and congregation of the Charlotte street Methodist church, and a carving set in leather case to the groom from the employees of Fairweather & Co's. THE EXAMINER, with a host of warm friends, unites in hearty felicitation with the newly wedded couple, and wishes them a married life, long, useful and happy.

Catarrh and Neuralgia

Good authority has said that "neuralgia is the cry of the nerves for pure blood." The prompt action of Hood's Sarsaparilla on the blood, combined with its toning and strengthening effect upon the nerves, make this a grand medicine for neuralgia and also for catarrh, etc. We commend this letter to all having such troubles, and especially to

Suffering Women

"For a good many years I have been suffering from catarrh, neuralgia and

General Debility

I failed to obtain permanent relief from medical advice, and my friends feared I would never find anything to cure me. A short time ago I was induced to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. At that time I was unable to walk even a short distance without feeling a overtake me. And I had intense pains from neuralgia in my head, back and limbs, which were very exhausting. But I am glad to say that soon after I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla I saw that it was doing me good. When I took 3 bottles I was entirely

Death-like Weakness

Cured of Neuralgia

I gained in strength rapidly, and can take a two-mile walk without feeling tired. I do not suffer nearly so much from catarrh, and find that as my strength increases the catarrh decreases. I am indeed a changed woman, and am very grateful to for what it has done for me. It is my wish that this my testimonial shall be published in order that others suffering as I was may learn how to be benefited." MRS. M. E. MERRICK, 57 Elm Street, Toronto, Ont.

THE "COMET" FOR 1893

is as far ahead in the field of Pneumatic Bicycles as a buggy is compared with a farm waggon. The COMET easily wins every time, and if you want to ride the boss 'cycle, you must have the COMET and no other.

The COMET PNEUMATIC BICYCLE gets there every time for durability, comfort, style and easy-going—that's beyond dispute. Its Canadian record is away up, for, among the members of the Century Road Club who rode their century during the past season, more were mounted on COMETS than on all other makes of wheels put together.

The COMET for 1893 is built in three styles, viz: Light Roadster, Road Scorcher and Track Racer, the heaviest of which does not weigh over 35 pounds. Further information on application to

AN AMATEUR ENUMERATOR.

(From the Globe.)

Mr. James Stevenson, M.P. for West Peterborough, would have been an ideal census enumerator. Glittering as are the facts in our industrial records, Mr. Stevenson, had he had a chance, would have made them fairly coruscate, and if he would not quite have obliterated the exodus he would have come as near it as the circumstances of the case would have allowed.

Mr. Stevenson made a speech on Mr. McCarthy's motion, in which he took the character of a plain, blunt man, who just favors his hearers with a few indisputable facts of which he had himself a personal knowledge. He took Peterborough as his text, and argued that the industrial history of that town furnished such strong endorsation of the wisdom and beneficial influences of the National Policy that it was useless appealing to any other facts He had undoubtedly a good text. Peterborough is one of the brightest of our midland towns. Its people do not sit still to see the procession go by, but on the contrary keep up a lively pace in the very thick of it. The activity with which it has bestirred itself has ensured to the town a fairly satisfactory progress, but certainly not more than the enterprise of its citizens has duly earned. It is quite evident, however, that the cold, undiluted facts were not sufficiently flamboyant, in Mr. Stevenson's estimation, to furnish as striking evidence of the virtues of the protective policy as was to be desired. He, therefore, judiciously and artistically coloured up his facts in a style that will make the professional enumerator simply green with envy. The EXAMINER, the local paper, somewhat cruelly calls attention to Mr. Stevenson's romancing tendencies, and the expose should keep that gentlemen explaining himself for some time to come.

Mr. Stevenson in the course of his "effort" intimated that he would soon retire from politics. It would seem that just as he is about to step down and out he gives the house a brief glimpse of what his quiet and unassuming exterior had hidden during all these years. Mr. Stevenson should not go out of the house. He is not so massive as the high commissioner, but as a statistical inflationist, with a little more practice he would seriously threaten the continued verdancy of that gentleman's laurels.

The trouble with most cough medicines is that they spoil the appetite, weaken digestion, and create bile. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, on the contrary, while it gives immediate relief, assists rather than impairs the assimilative process.

THE TARIFF ISSUE.

APART from the ephemeral interest in Mr. McCarthy's tariff reform speech as a parliamentary sensation, his attitude on the fiscal question is certain to have a great and lasting effect on political parties and on the country. He is one of the ablest men in public life. For many years past his position in the Conservative party was such that he was looked upon as one of the few who might attain the leadership. It is quite certain that if he had chosen to bend his energies and his principles to the task he could have won the prize which has fallen to Sir John Thompson. And Mr. McCarthy's adherence to the fiscal policy of the Government was as earnest during all these years as his devotion to his leader's. The party defection of a man of this stamp is an event of great political significance. A leader whose sincerity is no more open to question than his ability does not leave his party without very strong reasons. From a personal or political standpoint he has nothing to gain, but everything to lose, by leaving the friends with whom he has always acted. It is quite safe to say that there are scores of men on the Government side in Parliament who secretly agree with Mr. Carthy, but who have not like him the courage of their convictions. Personal and party ties—and in too many cases a regard for the "loaves and fishes" of office—prevent them from deserting leaders who are in power, but whose policy they can no longer conscientously defend. Mr. McCarthy, therefore, seems to deserve the credit due to an honest and a brave man, who sacrifices everything that the ordinary politician holds dear in order to advocate what he believes for the good of the country.

There have been few clearer or stronger indictments of the protective system than Mr. McCarthy's great speech. He shows that, judged by its results from every aspect, protection has proved a failure. Those who advocated it sincerely, as many did in '78, have been disappointed. Those who advocated it from selfish motives, deceived the people from whom they have profited. It is quite true, as Mr. McCarthy says, that the so-called National Policy was supported by many as an expedient, not as a permanency. But others who urged this plea were dishonest. It was, they realized, the only way to saddle the protective system on the country. Once adopted they knew how hard it would be to change. A vicious system always creates vested interests, which will stand in the way of reform. It is not surprising that a conscientious man looking at the promises and expectations of '78 and at the results, should be anxious to atone for what has been done, and to restore prosperity to the country.

Mr. McCarthy now sees and admits that the policy from which he and others once expected great things, has been impoverishing the people and rendering progress impossible or slow. One of its worst results is the unequal distribution of wealth. It may have enriched a few, but it has done so at the expense of the many. And he is right in refusing to believe that the Government seriously intend to reform the tariff. He has done a public service by exposing the shallow attempt to stem the tide of reform by a promise to revise it after a year's investigation. It is not long since the Government solemnly promised that whenever they discovered a combine to exist they would modify the tariff so as to destroy it. The combines in cotton and other articles have been exposed; but the Government has not the slightest intention of reducing the duties in order to defeat the operations of monopoly. Everyone knows the reason—the combines have been the most liberal contributors to the party funds by which the government has been kept in power. It is folly to expect reform from the allies of those whose interests will be affected by such reform. For years past the Government have been declaring their desire to secure reciprocity; while supporters in parliament and throughout the country have been showing how much any reciprocity with the United States would injure all interests, even the farmers. With one breath they have have been defending protection as necessary to the farmers, labourers and manufacturers, and with the other declaring their willingness and and anxiety to make a treaty of reciprocity by which most of this protection shold be done away with. The talk of reciprocity has always been to stave off the demand for free trade relations with the United States, and to maintain the protective system intact. And so now the talk about cutting off the mouldering branches of the tariff tree is simply to keep out of power those who are willing, and under obligation, to undertake the work of pruning in earnest.

Not less significant than Mr. McCarthy's general views on the protective system and its results, are his references to preferential trade with Great Britain. He now sees little hopes of securing this. And he is right. The leaders of both political parties in Britain have recently made it clear that preferential trade relations between the mother country and this colony is an idle dream. It is, therefore, folly for Canada to delay reform which she is at once able to secure for herself and in her own interests.

On the whole, it is probable that Mr. McCarthy's views on the trade question more nearly represent those of a majority of the people of Canada than those of extreme men in either of the political parties. The extreme protectionists of late are having a sorry time of it. The results of Canada's experiments are against them; and the disinterested defenders of our fiscal policy are becoming fewer every day. On the other hand, among Liberals there is a much greater tendency than before the last general elections towards a moderate course on the trade question. Even if the Americans were willing to give us free trade in the fullest and the absolute sense, many of them question the possibility of this country being able to accept it. They feel as strongly as ever the necessity of freer trade relations, especially with our nearest neighbors, but they feel also that these relations must be restricted both by considerations of revenue and the industrial conditions that exist here. A vigorous revision of our tariff to a revenue basis, and an honest effort to secure a reciprocity treaty with the United States as large as the demands of the treasury and the legitimate vested interests of the country will permit, is a policy which is likely to commend itself to a large majority of Canadians at the present time. It is the fact that moderate men in both political parties believe in a policy of this sort which gives significance to the defection of Mr. McCarthy from the Government ranks, and to the enunciation of his views on tariff reform.

Having come so near to the traditional policy of the Liberal party on the trade question, there seems to be no reason why he and the Liberal leaders should not sink their minor differences on this issue, while maintaining independent action on other questions, and thus secure to the country the correction of evils which threaten its existence, by a policy which will give stability to legitimate industry, restore prosperity to agriculture and inspire with hope and confidence all classes of the Canadian people.—Woodstock Sentinel Review.

The curlers will play the points game to-night. They did not play last evening.

Another match occurred between those two inveterate rivals, Wm. Snowden and Wm. Croft at the rink last night. "The boys" firmly asservate that the struggle was for the "silk hats." Following was the score, 12 ends were played:

A Jew Charges Bismarck With Gigantic Frauds.

BERLIN, March 22.—Rector Ahlwardt, the Jew recently brought from prison to take his place in the Reichstag, in the course of a rabidly anti-Semitic speech declared that he had 11 documents which showed conclusively that while Prince Bismarck was Chancellor fraudulent contracts had been made repeatedly with Jewish financier. Vast amounts had been transferred dishonestly by means of these contracts from the coffers of the state to the pockets of Jewish speculators.

A Sawing Accident.

LEAMINGTON, Ont., March 22.—A terrible accident took place yesterday on the farm of Jacob Fox, a few miles from here, which will probably result in the death of Darius Orton, a prominent young farmer of the township of Mersea.

He, with others, was engaged cutting fire wood with a sawing machine. The fly wheel of the machine burst, a piece striking him in the back of the head, crushing the skull.

Suicide of a Tailor.

NEW YORK, March 22.—William Klein, a tailor, committed suicide yesterday in his bedroom at No. 112 Sheriff-street, by hanging himself on a gallows of his own make. Klein worked at his trade until 11 months ago, when he ran a needle into his hand. Blood poisoning set in and he could sew no more. He had six children, and the condition of his family became desperate and he grew despondent.

AGAINST THE COLONIES.

Resolution in Favor of Preferential Trade Rejected.

LONDON, March 22.—The thirty-third annual meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of the United Kingdom was held here yesterday.

One of the most important subjects before the Chamber is that relating to British trade relations with Canada. Upon this question the Birmingham Chamber of Commerce introduced the following resolution:

"That as, in the opinion of this meeting, the future prosperity of British commerce must increasingly depend on our commercial relations with our colonies, and recognizing the fact that Canada has, by the resolution of her Parliament, invited the Mother Country to enter into an arrangement for reciprocal preferential duties, we hereby urge upon the Government the necessity of taking that invitation into immediate and most serious consideration."

The Middlesborough Chamber of Commerce moved a resolution urging upon the Government the necessity of taking the Canadian invitation into their immediate serious consideration.

After considerable discussion the resolution in favor of preferential duties in favor of Canada was rejected.

"What's in a name?" Well, that depends. For instance, the name of "Ayer" is sufficient guarantee that Ayer's Sarsaparilla is a genuine, scientific blood-purifier, and not a sham, like so much that goes by the name of "sarsaparilla." Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the standard.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

A Fascinating Woman.

"Do you know that I think that I have discovered one of the secrets of fascination," said a certain young woman to me the other day. "I was in a city not a hundred miles away a short time ago and a woman whom I met everywhere I went was simply raved over by everyone who knew her. Why I could not imagine; but after hearing so much about her I made up my mind to study her. I had such opportunities several times before we were introduced and my observation gained me nothing except mystification as to the cause of her fascinating qualities. She was not pretty, on the contrary she was quite plain; she was not witty, but rather quiet in manner than otherwise; she was not stylish, but simple in her dress, and it was not in particularly good taste either; she did not seem to try to make herself attractive to people and I made up my mind that there must be something queer about it. It is needless to say that I had firmly made up my mind that she was not in the least fascinating to me. At last I met her and before I had talked with her five minutes I decided she was the most fascinating woman I had ever met. You wonder why? I will tell you; it was because she was so intensely interested in every one she met. She had all the Southerner's warmth of manner and even more than their transitory feeling; she knew you after she had talked with you for a little and she made you feel that you and you only were the one thing she wanted to hear about. You may laugh all you choose, but I know my theory is right."—Buffalo Commercial.

Best Cure For

All disorders of the Throat and Lungs is Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It has no equal as a cough-cure.

Bronchitis

"When I was a boy, I had a bronchial trouble of such a persistent and stubborn character, that the doctor pronounced it incurable with ordinary remedies, but recommended me to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I did so, and one bottle cured me. For the last fifteen years, I have used this preparation with good effect whenever I take a bad cold, and I know of numbers of people who keep it in the house all the time, not considering it safe to be without it."—J. C. Woodson, P.M., Forest Hill, W. Va.

Cough

"For more than twenty-five years, I was a sufferer from lung trouble, attended with coughing so severe at times as to cause hemorrhage, the paroxysms frequently lasting three or four hours. I was induced to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and after taking four bottles, was thoroughly cured."—Franz Hoffman, Clay Centre, Kans.

La Grippe

"Last spring I was taken down with la grippe. At times I was completely prostrated, and so difficult was my breathing that my breast seemed as if confined in an iron cage. I procured a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and no sooner had I began taking it than relief followed. I could not believe that the effect would be so rapid and the cure so complete."—W. H. Williams, Cook City, S. Dak.

SIMPLICITY.

Effective and Yet Without Much Head Bother.

In the midst of all the fuss about crinoline and Empire, it is a comfort to realize that the young girl can go right on dressing prettily and simply, and be all the prettier for not bothering her dear head about radical changes. She will be a sweet vision, for instance, in some of those quaint old-fashioned striped ginghams, or organdies. It can be either, so it be made sweetly and simply. She can go to parties serene and lovely, with, for instance, a skirt, neither crinoline nor sheath, but just a little skirt of soft white India silk, with a narrow satin stripe of pale green. Her bodice may by a half surplice, half blouse effect, the fullness being gathered in under a wide sash belt. The material for the bodice can be either snow white or a delicate green silk, the latter to match the stripe. The sleeves will be puffs, not too big ones but soft and pretty. If her arms are very pretty and the party is informal, she need not even wear gloves, if the affair is a little more formal, long gloves will come up to the sleeves. My example wears a band about the little bit of throat that shows at the surplice crossing of the front of the bodice, and her soft hair done simply, with the short locks parted to show the forehead. No matter who wears crinoline and who goes in for the Empire, she will be as sweet and as pretty as any of them, and, somehow, you won't remember her by her gown, as you will some of the girls in the extreme of the mode, but you will remember her gown by her. For a brunette, use rose color instead of pale green, and perhaps a childish string of pink coral about the throat. In any case there should be a knot of ribbon in the hair to match the stripe.

FLORETTE.

Red-Haired Beauty is Seductive.

Red-haired blondes are rather rare. The Indians worship red-haired people, regarding them in the light of children of the sun. There have been poets who have gone into raptures over red hair and called it "sunkissed." According to the legend of old the devil, who tempted the pious hermit in the desert, appeared unto him in the form of a woman "clothed in a veil of darkest red hair," which, as we are informed, "turned and twisted around her bosom like snakes of copper." The moral of this story—for all stories must have a moral, according to the New York Commercial Advertiser—is that red haired beauty is the most dangerously seductive of any, for his satanic majesty would not assume such a hirsute covering were it not that he considered it the most captivating web of all others in which to inveigle the soul of man. In this case however, he egregiously failed to accomplish his dark design, for the hermit refused to be smitten by the fascination of the tempting siren who had crossed his path. Curiously enough, though red hair is and has been symbolic of intense passion and cruelty, it is also emblematic of the most innocent purity. It is a color in which opposing extremes seem to meet and blend.

Consumptives!

Do not give up until you have tried Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, which makes flesh and blood, is a positive cure for coughs and colds, bronchitis, sore throats, and all lung troubles tending to consumption. Persons have been known to gain from five to ten pounds in weight by taking one bottle of Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, which contains hypophosphites of lime and soda. In big bottles, 50c. and $1, at all Drug Stores.

Gives Strength and Appetite.

DEAR SIRS,—Last year I was very thin and reducing very fast, owing to the bad state of my blood and appetite. A friend of mine induced me to get a bottle of B.B.B., which I did. I obtained immediate perceptible relief from it, having gained strength and appetite, and now weigh 193 pounds. M. T. MURPHY,

When the kidneys are clogged, good health is an impossibility; but when working properly the reverse is the case. That dull back-ache is the kidney's cry for relief. If Dodd's Kidney Pills are used the result will be marvellous. We emphatically state that we have never known a case of kidney disease that a persistent use of Dodd's Kidney Pills will not cure.

Once Used, Always Used.

This is a fact as regards Dyer's Jelly of Cucumber and Roses from its wonderful efficiency in curing chapped hands and making the skin smooth and soft. Druggists keep it. W. A. Dyer & Co., Montreal.

A Pleasant Herb Drink.

The best cure we know of for constipation and headache is the pleasant herb drink called Lane's Family Medicine. It is said to be Oregon grape root, combined with simple herbs, and is made for use by pouring boiling water onto the dried roots and herbs. It is remarkably efficacious in all blood disorders, and is now the sovereign remedy with ladies for clearing up the complexion. Druggists sell the packages at 50c. and $1.

The Power of Nature.

For every ill nature has a cure. In the healing virtues of the Norway Pine lies the cure for coughs, colds, croup, asthma bronchitis, hoarseness, etc. Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup represents the virtues of Norway Pine and other pectoral remedies. Price 25c.

The care shown by the SUN LIFE in the selection of its risks will be understood when it is known that the death rate in 1892 was less than that in 1891 by $18,000, notwithstanding the vast increase in business. The significance of this point will be clearly seen in the profits paid by the Company.

SPRING COATS.

Florette Tells All About a Very Stunning One.

A stunning cloak or jacket is made with a watteau pleat down the front. There is a yoke of blue velvet outlined by a heavy ruffle of green cloth that forms full epaulettes at the shoulders and that crosses to the front quite plainly. The cape falls from beneath this ruffle, not in undressed fullness but in a set of panels, one at each side, one for the front and one for the back. The front and back panels are formed by a box pleat which sets over the side panels. The sleeves are very big at the top, and bag all the way to the wrist, where they turn back in great cuffs. The ruffle is edged with a cord of gold and gold beads. In length the coat is hardly to the knees. The yoke has a collar that fits close to the ears and then flares out showing a lining of the green cloth, and an edge of the gold beads.

The coat sketched is in black cloth embroidered with black silk of almost cord-like thickness, and gold threads. At the back there is a watteau pleat which, as well as the two box pleats in front, is not embroidered. The watteau pleat is sewed into the side back seams and the coat is tight-fitting underneath it. It has a vest-like arrangement in front which hooks under the left front. There are two slits, one on each side in lieu of the one in the centre. The sleeves are very full at the top and gathered into tight cuffs that reach as far as the elbow and are embroidered in the same design as the coat. The latter is entirely lined with satin.

FLORETTE.

What Farm Education Does.

A thorough farm education will make farm work lighter, more pleasant and more profitable, but it can never abolish work on the farm any more than it can in the law office.

A Reason for Sheep.

One reason why sheep are so valuable for cleaning foul pastures and fields is that they not only eat most varieties of weeds but they also digest the seeds so thoroughly as to destroy their germinating power. This is a fact not generally known.

Good Advice.

Never permit a piece of land to lie idle because it is rough. Stock it with sheep and they will at least pay the interest.

Test of a Cow.

A cow for butter purposes is not profitable unless she is capable of producing enough fat in her milk to make at least three hundred pounds of butter a year. Any cow that will fill that requirement is a good butter cow. We would not keep a cow a minute unless she could show herself capable of making that much butter, and the way to quickly approximate the butter capacity of a cow is by the chemical test. We advise every farmer that has a half dozen cows to build a silo at once, and commence feeding silage as soon as it reaches the feeding state, which is about thirty days after being put in the silo.—Mirror and Farmer.

Probably in March more than any other month in the year are the ravages of cold in the head and catarrh most severely felt. Do not neglect either for an instant, but apply Nasal Balm, a time-tried, never-failing cure. Easy to use, pleasant and agreeable. Try it. Sold by dealers or sent by mail, post paid, on receipt of price—50c. and $1 a bottle. Fulford & Co., Brockville, Ont.

Encouragement for old People.

It may sound queer to talk about curing old people of Kidney and Urinary troubles after they have passed the alloted period of three score years and ten, but the following extraordinary recovery of an old veteran by Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure, ought to be of great encouragement to old people:—

BELLEVILLE, March 4, 1893.
Peterborough Medicine Company (Limited.)
GENTLEMEN,—I owe a great debt of gratitude to Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure for the prompt and speedy relief which I have received from the use of only one bottle of your great medicine. I have suffered from Kidney and Urinary troubles, inflammation of the neck of the bladder, &c. for many a long day. No one knows better than old people how great a blessing it is to be cured. I doctored a lot, but nothing did me so much good as your cure. I have lived about half a century in Belleville, and will be only to glad to speak a good word in favour of Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure. I can also recommend it for constipation and stomach troubles.
JAMES HAROLD.

Beware of Cholera.

The healthy body throws off the germs of cholera therefore wisdom counsels the use of Burlock Blood Bitters this spring to purify the blood, regulate the system, and fortify the body against cholera or other epidemics.

Interested People.

Advertising a patent medicine in the peculiar way in which the proprietor of Kemp's Balsam for coughs and colds does it, is indeed wonderful. He authorizes all druggists to give those who call for it a sample bottle FREE, that they may try it before purchasing. The large bottles are 35c. and $1. We certainly would advise a trial. It may save you from consumption.

Restored to Health.

DEAR SIRS,—For years I was troubled with indigestion, but being advised to try B. B. B. I did so and find myself quite restored to health. HOWARD SULLIVAN,
Mgr. Sullivan Farm, Dunbar, Ont.

The Civil Service Bill—Hon. Mr. Costigan Meets a Stiff Opposition From Mr. Laurier—The Caron Affair Up Again—The Cattle Disease Affair.

OTTAWA, March 23. — After Tuesday night's storm the House yesterday afternoon was exceedingly dead and quiet.

Hon. Mr. Foster, in reply to questions, gave information from the census as to description of the industries of Strathroy and Mount Forest, names of manufacturers and number of employes.

Hon. Mr. Patterson, in reply to Mr. Choquette, said that Lieutenant-Colonel Amyot had resigned command of the Ninth Battalion, after ten years' service, and Colonel Roy had been appointed. He further stated, in reply to another question, that it was not the intention of the Government to retire the commanding officer of volunteer battalions, having over five years' service as such, with a view to insure the promotion of subaltern officers, as the general officer commanding to whom the matter had been referred did not think it would conduce to the benefit of the service, a statement which drew forth expressions of approval from several of the military members of the House.

The act to amend the Criminal Code was read a second time and passed through committee.

Hon. Mr. Costigan moved the second reading of the Civil Service Bill, and in doing so said that he did not intend to ask the House to go into committee on the bill at present, as some changes had to be made in it to provide for the department of trade and commerce. He explained the bill at some length, pointing out its various provisions.

Hon. Mr. Laurier opposed the bill. He thought that the supervisor of the civil service, provided for by the bill, would be only a detective, and that the creation of a board would be unnecessary if the deputy ministers did their duty. He concluded by moving the six months' hoist.

Hon. Mr. Costigan said that his whole object was, with the assent of the House, to get the second reading, so that he should have these amendments printed in the bill before it came up for consideration.

Mr. Laurier: But I object to the whole principle of the bill.

Mr. Foster did not think that Mr. Laurier was treating the Secretary of State fairly. The leader of the Opposition was objecting to the bill before he knew what its details were to be.

Mr. Laurier did not want to know its details, as he objected to the entire principle of the bill.

Mr. Mills strongly opposed the bill.

Mr. O'Brien said the bill was objectionable in every feature and was calculated to drive every man out of the civil service. It was impossible for any man to enter the service after this bill was passed. Every member of the civil service objected to it. The Government should withdraw the bill.

Mr. Costigan then withdrew his motion for a second reading, and Mr. Laurier allowed his amendment to drop.

Mr. Costigan said he would move the second reading to-morrow.

It being 6 o'clock the Speaker left the chair.

After recess seven private bills were read a third time and passed.

On motion to go into Supply Mr. Edgar reviewed the Caron charges, going over pretty much what he said last year, touching on the evidence taken before the commission and concluding with the following amendment:

"That in the opinion of this House the evidence taken by the Royal Commission appointed last session to enquire into certain charges made against Sir Adolphe Caron, K.C.M.G., M.P., which was reported to the Government Nov. 24, 1892, and now laid before us, established facts which should have prevented the subsequent appointment of Sir Adolphe Caron to be an advisor of the Crown, and also renders it highly improper that he should now hold such office."

Mr. Curran made a lengthy defence of Sir Adolphe, quoting very freely from the evidence to show that the charges had not been proved.

Mr. Davis moved the adjournment of the debate, and the House adjourned at 11.50 p.m.

At the meeting of the Agricultural Committee this morning Prof. McEachran recommended that Parliament be asked to grant $500,000 to stamp out tuberculosis. This sum, he said, would be sufficient to buy all affected cattle, and which should at once be slaughtered. He also recommended that instead of a veterinary surgeon being sent from Canada, Sir Charles Tupper be empowered to employ three veterinary surgeons in Scotland to be present at the slaughter of cattle from Canada, and recommended for the purpose Professors Williams and Wallor of Edinburgh and McCaul of Glasgow.

Prof. McEachran announced that the Hudson Bay Company intends to slaughter a herd of cattle in the Peace River district as soon as a veterinary surgeon can get there—the herd suffering from tuberculosis. In the meantime the cattle are isolated. He claims that tuberculosis is communicable to man, this being the base for his recommendation of such a large grant for stamping it out.

The Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo Railway Bill was before the Railway Committee of the House this morning. Mr. McKay proposed an amendment that caused a good deal of discussion, as follows:

"All owners of lands fronting, or abutting, on any street or highway which the railway may be carried along shall be entitled to compensation for the damage and injury to such lands by reason of the railway line carried along such street or highway, and the provision of the railway act as to the lands and their valuations shall, as nearly as may be, apply to the damage and injury to such lands, and to the mode in which such compensation is to be ascertained, and for the payment therefor security shall be made or given before the commencement of works of construction on such street or highway."

The amendment was lost on a vote of 12 to 20.

Another amendment in these words was carried: "Nothing in this act contained shall be construed to affect the application now pending in the Court of Appeal for the Province of Ontario, in the matter of Foster v. the municipal corporation of the City of Hamilton, to quash the said bylaw No. 638, and this act shall only apply to such bylaw in case the courts should not quash the said bylaw on the said application.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

PROROGATION AT EASTER NOW GENERALLY BELIEVED.

Mr. Edgar's Amendment Re Charges Against Sir Adolphe Caron Lost By a Majority of 30—Sir Adolphe Remained Away.

OTTAWA, March 24.—"It is difficult to tie ourselves down to a week from Saturday for prorogation," said the courteous leader of the Opposition "but it is most probable that the business of the House will be completed before Easter, or immediately after."

This agrees with the general consensus of opinion, and is borne out by the fact that Mr. Foster intimated yesterday that the House would sit next Saturday, and informed Sir Richard Cartwright that the supplementary estimates for 1892-'93 would be brought down on or before that date. There really does not appear to be much reason to think that this program will not be carried out.

The Caron charges were disposed of this afternoon by Mr. Edgar's amendment to the motion to go into supply being defeated by a vote of 60 for to 119 against. And it is generally believed that that will be the last "fighting" motion of the session. The estimates are well advanced and the House has been quietly and promptly getting through with those relating to public works all last evening. The Opposition has not been in anything like an obstructive or over-inquisitive mood, and the various items have been run through with promptness, after all necessary information being given by Hon. Mr. Ouimet. Taking one consideration with another, therefore, it may be regarded as almost certain that Easter Sunday will not find the House in session.

The debate on the Caron charges was resumed by Hon. Mr. Davies, who made a long and elaborate speech.

Sir Richard Cartwright followed, more for the purpose apparently of reading the drafts of a facetious bill than with any idea of making a serious argument. His humorous bill was to the effect that in future any one accused of an offence should have the right to select his own judge and jury and fix his own manner of trial. Also that a person accused of one crime should be acquitted if found not guilty of some other offence with which he was not charged. For instance, a man accused of murder must be acquitted if it was shown that he was innocent of adultery and so on. It was provided that no member of a Liberal administration should have the benefit of the act.

After Sir Richard's burst of humor, Mr. McCarthy very seriously announced that he should vote for the amendment, although he did not believe that the Postmaster-General had any personal interest in the matter, or that it affected his conduct as a member of Parliament.

Hon. Mr. Ouimet strongly defended the Postmaster-General, and Mr. Ives closed the debate by giving notice of the following amendment to Sir Richard Cartwright's bill:

"That inasmuch as the Liberal party of Canada has always claimed extraordinary purity in the conduct of elections, that after the general election the judges shall not have power to unseat more than 50 per cent. of the Liberal candidates nor to disqualify more than one half of those unseated."

The House then divided and Mr. Edgar's amendment was lost by 50 majority. Messrs. McCarthy, O'Brien, Weldon and Calvin voted with the minority.

When Mr. Edgar moved his amendment yesterday afternoon, Sir Adolphe Caron left the chamber and did not occupy his seat last night or afternoon. He was about the corridor and in room 16, however, and as soon as the vote was announced he walked into the House and took his seat.

Professor Weldon has not yet given up his fight against the Nova Scotia coal deal, and this morning he will present to His Excellency a memorial signed by 30 members of Parliament setting forth the details of the deal and the injury which it may work to the other portions of the Dominion, and praying that His Excellency should urge the Legislature of Nova Scotia at its next session to amend its mining laws and charters so as to provide that whenever any company, now or hereafter to be incorporated, is declared by joint address of the Legislature of Nova Scotia to have violated its covenants or unduly enhanced the price of coal to Canadian consumers, such charge so declared shall be referred to the Supreme Court of Canada, with power to hear and determine, and in case the charges shall be sustained, to either void the lease or fine the lessees at the discretion of the court.

The Railway Committee spent a great part of yesterday in considering the bill incorporating the North American Canal Company. The object of the company is to build a 20-foot canal from some point on Lake Erie, at or near Port Colborne, to some point on Lake Ontario, at or near Port Dalhousie, or to some point on the Niagara River.

Another from some point at or near Dickinson's Landing to some point at or near Cornwall; also another canal from some point at the eastern end of Lake St. Francis to some point on the northern end of Lake Champlain, with a branch or arm therefrom to Lake St. Louis; also another canal from some point at or near Lachine to Montreal harbor.

It is proposed to use dydraulic lifts in the canal, so that seven locks only would be necessary to reach the sea from the upper lakes. It is a stupendous scheme as it appears on paper, and the capital stock is placed at $10,000,000.

Farmhouse Burned.

WARKWORTH, March 24.—The house of Samuel Ryall of Cramahe Township was destroyed by fire last night. The family had retired for the night, and about 11 o'clock Mr. Ryall was awakened by the smoke and found the partition had caught fire from the stovepipe and was all in a blaze. Everything was consumed. Loss about $800, insured for about $600.

Deacon Arrives.

NEW YORK, March 24.—Edward Parker Deacon and daughter are passengers on the Trave, which arrived in quarantine from Bremen, via Southampton, late last evening, but were invisible as a result of inquiries made by Mr. Deacon of the steamer's officers as to the probability of reporters boarding the vessel. The officers and passengers saw but little of him during the voyage.

WRITING OVER WIRES.

A CURIOUS MACHINE EXHIBITED IN NEW YORK.

It Is Called the Telautograph and May Supercede the Telephone—By It Pens Can Transmit Writing by Electricity.

NEW YORK, March 24.—The World reports as follows:

The very latest thing in telegraph instruments was shown at No. 80 Broadway yesterday. It is called the telautograph, or long-distance writing machine. All the afternoon business men, telegraph experts, newspaper folk and others filled the rooms of the National Telautograph Company and watched the remarkably accurate records made by the little machine.

It consists of a transmitter and a receiver connected for use at one station. The mechanism of the machine is extremely simple and direct. An ordinary lead pencil is used in transmitting. Near its point two silk cords are fastened at right angles to each other. These connect with the instrument, and, following the motions of the pencil, regulate the current impulses that control the receiving pen at the distant station.

The writing is done on ordinary paper five inches wide, conveniently arranged on a roll attached to the machine. A lever is so moved by the hand as to shift the paper forward mechanically at the transmitter and electrically at the receiver. The receiving pen is a capillary glass tube placed at the junction of two aluminum arms.

It is supplied with ink, which flows from a reservoir, through a small tube placed in one of the arms. The electrical impulses, coming over the wire, move the pen of the recorder simultaneously with the movements of the pencil in the hand of the sender. As the pen passes over the paper an ink tracing is left, which is always a fac-simile of the sender's motions, whether in the formation of letters, figures, signs or sketches.

"There is practically no limit to the work that this machine will do," said Manager John H. Bryant yesterday. "Wherever a record is required it is invaluable. From his office a business man can send instructions to the factory, close by or many miles distant, and have them delivered in his own handwriting. A broker dealing by wire can give quotations and execute orders to buy and sell securities without danger of dispute. A physician may wire his prescription to a druggist, using the arbitrary code of the profession, confident that no mistake will be made in the transmission. A reporter, writing up a fire or an accident of any kind, can send to his paper a sketch of his subject taken on the spot. Supt. Byrnes, wishing to notify all the police precincts at once of the escape of a burglar, could not only do so as quickly as by telegraph, but he could be sure that his orders were transmitted in his own writing, and an accurate description of the man could be sketched at the same time if necessary."

Speaking of the telephone Mr. Bryant said that the telautograph would become more popular than the former instrument, because there would be no buzzing on the wires and no questions to be asked and answered perhaps a dozen times before getting a definite reply. "This turtle of ours," he said, "will keep moving along and have your message all recorded before the telephone is through buzzing. There will be no more strikes of messenger boys, for while we are waiting for the boy to come, the message written on the machine will be at its destination. Then again a man can go away and leave his machine locked up in his desk. When he returns in one, two or half a dozen days he will find the messages sent to him by his friends all recorded on the roll paper in his desk."

In cities and towns the telautograph will be operated on the exchange or central station plan in much the same manner as the telephone is now worked. Prof. Elisha Gray, the inventor of the telautograph, has devoted his life to the perfection of communication by electricity. He invented the musical telephone, and history, his friends say, will give him credit for inventing the speaking telephone and the harmonic telegraph.

BREEDERS OF TROTTERS

THE EXECUTIVE [illegible] ASSOCIATION

[illegible] Initial Races, Speed [illegible] Or Windsor [illegible] Trotting—Entries Close Soon.

TORONTO, March 24.—Dr. McCully, president, was in the chair at the special meeting of the Executive Committee of the Ontario Association of Trotting Horse Breeders at the Rossin House yesterday afternoon. Mr. J. C. Boyd, the energetic secretary, presented a long list of entries in the various events announced. There were present besides, Messrs. Charlesworth, Toronto; Smith, Caledonia; Tovell, Guelph; and Maguire, Brockville.

Mr. Boyd will visit Guelph and Windsor this week and ascertain the feeling of the association there as to taking the Breeders' meeting.

The entries to the various stakes were considered, but as the breeding of several was not given in full, and Mr. Boyd was corresponding with the owners to get the pedigrees straight, it was considered advisable not to give out the official list until next week, when the lists would be complete. The number of entries are as follows:

Yearling trot, 11 entries. Two-year trot, 22 entries. Two-year-old pace, 7 entries. Three-year trot, 20 entries. Three-year pace, 9 entries.

It lies among Toronto, Hamilton, Windsor and Guelph as to having the meeting, the date of which will likely be fixed next week.

It was also decided to advertise a $1000 guaranteed futurity stake for mares to foal in 1893, to be trotted as 2-year-olds at the annual meeting of the association in 1895, entries payable as follows: $5 payable May 15, 1893, when the mare must be named, together with the name of the stallion bred; $10 on Nov. 1, 1893, when colts must be named and color and marks given; $5 on April 1, 1894, and $10 for starters the day before the race in 1895. Forms can be had on application to Mr. J. C. Boyd, secretary, Simcoe.

"Yes," said Secretary Boyd in the evening, "there will be more trotting meetings and better ones this season than ever before in the history of Ontario. The sport is now in the hands of reputable men all over the province who encourage trotting for breeding and racing and not for gambling purposes."

"In Simcoe, my own town, we formerly gave $1200 and $1500 in purses and this summer we will hang up $3000. Yes, this will be a great year in Ontario for the useful harness horse."

THE KEMPTVILLE CASE.

The Inquest Adjourned Until April 4—A Complicated Case.

TORONTO, March 24.—The adjourned inquest on the body of Alexander Kennedy, the victim of the Kemptville poisoning case, was continued Wednesday and further adjourned until April 4 pending the arrival of a Government detective. Coroner Buckley stated that he had received instructions from the Attorney-General that the analyst had found arsenic in the stomach of the said Alexander Kennedy, also in the porridge.

With regard to the missing will of which so much has been said it is conjectured after a vigorous search that it must be in the pocket of the coat in which Alexander Kennedy was buried. The will now in the possession of the family bequeaths the property to John Kennedy, brother of the deceased. John Kennedy in speaking of the poisoning says the whole affair is a mystery and he thinks it will never be solved.

While some of the villagers cling to the idea that the young girl Lizzie Poole knows all about how the poison got into the meal, others, and a large majority at that, contend that she had no hand whatever in it, for they say a child of her tender age (15) if she was guilty would have broken down when confronted with the evidence of her guilt, and instead of showing any break down whatever she gave her testimony in a clear, unhesitating manner.

YOUNG LAWYER MISSING.

A Warrant Out For His Apprehension, But There's Nothing In It.

TORONTO, March 24.—Ernest W. McIntyre, formerly of the firm of Armstrong, McIntyre & Elliott, barristers, King-street, and formerly vice-president of the Young Liberal-Conservative Association, but now of Chicago, is in trouble. A warrant has been issued at the instance of Henry Beckett charging McIntyre with fraud, and the detectives are now looking for him.

Beckett's story is as follows: Fearing that as a result of an alimony suit pending against him last July all his property would be confiscated by the court, he mortgaged his property in Palmerston-avenue and placed the money, $1100 advanced by J. G. Whitney & Son, in trust with McIntyre, who gave him notes for the amount.

Beckett says that he understood that the notes were backed by Whitney & Son as well as by McIntyre, but now he finds that the barrister only is responsible for their payment, and realizes that he has no further security.

McIntyre's friends say that he will be back next week and will settle all the notes as they come due. It is further stated that McIntyre was not acting as Beckett's solicitor at the time and that it was strictly honorable business transaction.

McIntyre left Toronto on Oct. 20 last for Chicago, and since that time has been doing a law business in the Windy City.

A PLOT IN HAYTI.

Against President Hippolyte and in Favor of Manigal.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, March 24.—News of the discovery of a new plot against President Hippolyte and in favor of the exiled Gen. Manigal has just been brought to this city from Hayti.

The plot was unearthed at Jacmel, where the governor, who is loyal to Hippolyte, found that his aide was in league with Manigal's supporters and that an uprising in favor of the exile was about to be started.

A search of the aide's house was ordered. There a number of arms to be used by the revolutionists were found. Papers implicating other officers were also discovered and the details of the plot thus became known to the Governor. Troops were sent to arrest the offenders, but only a portion of them were captured.

The others learned that their plans had become known and fled to the woods. Although the trouble was confined to Jacmel, the fact that such a plot existed is said to have caused great uneasiness in Hayti.

TELLING TALK ON TEMPERANCE

Able and Historic Paper on the Evil Effects of Liquor and the Liquor Traffic—Its Introduction to the World and the Commands Against its Use—Should not be Taken for Medicinal Purposes.

The EXAMINER has been handed with the request that it be published, the following interesting and instructive paper on temperance prepared by Mr. Thos. Harrie, and read before the Charlotte street church Epworth League of Christian Endeavour on Monday night last, at the regular meeting of that society:

The meaning of this word temperance is, according to Webster, "a habitual moderation in regard to the indulgence of the natural appetites and passions." If we were to take this up and look at it from this broad standpoint, it would be impossible to treat of it in one evening, because the command "be temperate in all things" lays down a rule of life that covers every action of life, and would lead us into an analysis of every nook and corner of our being; temperance as much in speech as in action, moderation as much in accumulating the wants of life, as in the dispensing of them, etc. But I take it that we are not here to discuss temperance in this broader sense, but rather in the more generally accepted and modernized sense of the term, viz., the total abstinence or moderate use of alcoholic beverages. I take my stand on the side of total abstinence and prohibition, and for these reasons: (1) Because the Bible demands it. (2) Because humanity is cursed by intemperance. (3) Because humanity and posterity need and demand prohibition from alcoholic poisons. The Bible demands it. In Proverbs 23-20, which is our topic text this evening, reads: "Be not among wine sibbers, among riotous eaters of flesh. Wine bibbers means a tippler—not an over indulger or drunkard. The Bible says decidedly to us all be not among tipplers, for fear their influence will make us one also, thus condemning the practice of touching the stuff at all. But some may say, does not the Bible teach in other places that wine is good under certain conditions, and also that a moderate use is not against Divine injunction? I can find no such doctrine in the Bible. The whole spirit of the Old and New Testament requires total abstinence on the part of all from that which is associated with so much misery, sin and suffering. We are commanded "to abstain from the very appearance of evil," to remember that "our bodies are the temples of the Holy Ghost," and to do "all things to the glory of God," and above all the law of love and Christian expediency or duty set forth in Romans xiv, 7, "for no man liveth to himself, and no man dieth to himself," and 21st, "It is good neither to eat flesh or to drink wine whereby thy brother stumbleth, or is offened, or is made weak." Paul here lays down a governing principle as the motive from which we are to judge of our every action, whether it be right or wrong and the action of our lives should be constant deductions from this inward principal. The reference in the last verse to eating flesh was explained thoroughly by Mr. Edwards a few Sundays ago and which Paul explains in I Corinthians, 8, 4th verse. Paul's teaching requires all to abstain from intoxicants for their own sake, for the sake of example to others and for Christ's sake. By moderate use we encourage others who cannot command themselves, to indulge; and thus violate the law of the kingdom. "Destroy not with thy meat or wine him for whom Christ died." The wine made by our Lord at Cana was without doubt of the same character as that used at the passover, and this wine, "good wine" as it was termed, is spoken of by Greek and Latin writers of that time, such as Pluery, who says the unfermented juice of the grape is "good wine" (exactly the same term as used in describing that made by Christ), and as better for health and more commendable than druggist wine' Guests might drink freely of this pure wine and it would not injure, it was sometimes or intoxicating wine as we learn from the statement of the governor of the feast at Cana, John II, 9-10. So our Lord did not approve of it but made only good wine To suppose that our Lord would make intoxicating wine is insulting to reason and and Christianity, especially as the term applied, "Good wine," was always applied by writers of that time to a pure unintoxicating beverage; and to suppose that the Holy Being, who declares that the drunkard shall never see heaven, would yet make that which leads to drunkeness seems to be little short of blasphemy. No doubt it was also the same pure wine which Paul recommended to Timothy. This is more evident as Pliny the distinguished naturalist tells us about that time that intoxicating wine caused headache, dropsy and stomach complaints, etc., whereas he says the pure wines were salubrious and medicinal, and were especially recommended for diseased stomachs; the very trouble with Timothy. We see also so sensative was Timothy to the evils which arose from intoxicating wine that it required apostolic authority to lead him to use even pure wine medicinally. Timothy must have been a total abstainer. In view of all this there is no evidence that our Lord or his apostles ever used intoxicating wine. The charge that he was a wine-bibber was made by the same enemies that claimed he was a glutton, and that he had a devil and was equally as untrue.

Peloubet, author of "Peloubet's Notes," says:—"The principles of Christ and of the Bible are wholly on the side of total abstinence." Every liquor which contains alcohol in sufficient quantities to make drunk or injure the human system is spoken of with disapproval in the Scriptures. When intoxication was produced in the East by wine, it was drugged, because the mere fermentation of the wine was scarcely able to produce intoxication. The fermented wines of Syria had, nor have to-day, scarcely more than 8 per cent. to 10 per cent. of alcohol in them. Brandy and rum have 53 per cent., whiskey 54 per cent., and pure port wine 22 per cent., all owing to our higher civilization. The wine of Syria, when desired for excitement or intoxication, was always drugged, and the Bible always forbade its use. Prov. xx, 1; xxiii, 29-35; Heb. ii, 15-16; 1 Cor. vi, 9-10; Gal. 5-20-21.

The Hebrews and most of the eastern nomadic tribes were a temperate people. Heathen idolaters were much given to intoxication and revelry in connection with religious worship, hence the frequent reference to the association of drunkenness with music, dancing and impurity, Isaiah v, 12. By their captivity the Jews were cured of idolatry and to a great extent of intemperance, so that when Christ was upon earth it was not a prevalent evil among them. In the case of the Gentile converts it was a besetting sin; thus Paul says, "Many walk of whom I told you, whose end is destruction, whose god is their belly, and who glory in their shame." Christians are enjoined to separate from them, and to abhor their practices, Rom. xiii, 13, I Cor. vi, 10 and 19, Gal. ii, 21, I Peter iv, 3 and 4, II Peter ii, 20-22, II Thes. iii, 6, 14 and 15. The best authorities on the subject state that there was not more than 1-10 to 1-20 of the drunkenness among the Jews that there is among us. There was not the strong liquor then that there is now, such as brandy, rum and gin, and they have greatly increased the drunkenness of modern times. The art of distillation was discovered by an Arabian chemist, and the first account of its

was in the third century by one Armoldian de Villa, a physician of the south of Europe. Had it existed among the Jews to the same extent which it does to-day in modern society, it would without doubt have been condemned by Christ in terms which would allow of no wrong interpretation, for damming and destroying thousands of souls every year. He would have enjoined on his followers entire abstinence as surely as that he gave the other commandment, "Love thy neighbour as thyself."

TELLING TALK ON TEMPERANCE

2nd. Because drunkenness is the greatest vice of the times and destroys more souls than aught else besides; therefore I as a member of society, looking to the welfare of the mass, and knowing that I owe it to humanity to do all in my power to make it better. Because all that I enjoy now of liberty, equality and civilization I owe to my progenitors who fought, were martyred and suffered socially for to bring about whatever is good in the present state in which I find myself. The extent of this vice is appalling. The Hon. W. E. Gladstone says "it destroys more lives than war, famine and pestilence." The Church of England magazine stated in the year 1880 that 60,000 drunkards die yearly in Great Britain, and Hon. W. E. Dodge, of New York, says that 100,000 perish annually in the United States. 150,000 dying yearly in the two most Christian countries in the world. If we add 100,000 more for all the rest of the world we have 250,000 destroyed yearly by this traffic, and this awful distruction goes on year by year uninterruptedly. It likewise causes about 4/5 of the crimes that are committed, 9/10 of the abject poverty which brings so much suffering on wives and children of drunkards, and others also. It is much worse than slavery, for the victims of slavery were not alienated from each other but were the more endeared to each other. And not only are these 250,000 destroyed for time but also for eternity, for the Bible declares that no drunkard shall inherit the kingdom of heaven. These statements are facts gathered from the report of commissioners appointed in London, E., to investigate the causes of crime and poverty in the great metropolis. It not only fills drunkard's homes with shame and sorrow but also loads the public with the burdens of pauperism, crowds prisons with felons, ruins fortunes, disappoints hopes and detracts from the productive industries of the country. It breeds desease and wretchedness, and hands them down to future generations, thus vastly increasing the sum of human misery, and in the case of its victims destroys both body and soul forever. And to think we have in Peterborough thirty-four of these dens of evil licensed to ensnare souls, and legalized to drag souls down to perdition is a standing shame to the Christian sentiment of Canada.

It is long since the founder of our church, John Wesley, warned those engaged in this traffic that the money made by it was the price of blood, the blood of souls, and unless they repent and give up the business it will sink them to perdition, and thank you that we can escape the same condemnation if we by our passiveness moderate use, and our aiding an abatement of its legalized sale, endorse the present licensing law. This traffic costs Canada about $10 per head, according to the statement made by Hon. G. W. Ross, of Toronto in 1877, that through direct and indirect charges, by loss of capital and labour, charges through pauperism and crime, etc., it totals $48,500,000, while the revenue was only $5,000,000, while Hon. G. W. Foster, then Professor Foster, and a lecturer on temperance, in his Canadian temperance magazine,

PLACES THE DIRECT CAUSE AT ABOUT

$80,000,000 and the revenue $5,000,000. In Great Britain the traffic costs, according to Hon. Wm. Hoyle, M.P., $1,000,000,000 yearly, and in the United States the figures are still higher. Great Britain gives only $6,000,000 yearly for the conversion of the world, and the United States still less, about $5,000,000, and Canada only $400,000, thus 250 times as much is spent in this indulgence than is given to carry out the command of Jesus: "Go into all the world and preach the Gospel." Surely, then, no right thinking man can have anything to do with the traffic, for we are all under obligation to avoid the very appearance of evil, and this traffic has proved itself to be evil and nothing but evil.

3rd. Because it is bad for use either as medicine or as a beverage. The English Life Insurance Companies find that more than 3 drunkards die for 1 abstainer, a ratio of 357 to 110. 2,000 of the most eminent physicians of Europe and America signed the following certificate: "That a very large proportion of human misery including poverty, disease and crime, is induced by the use of alcholic or fermented beverages, that the most perfect health is compatible with total abstinance from all such beverages whether in the form of ardent spirits or wine, ale, porter, beer, etc. That total or universal abstinence from alcholic beverages of all kinds would greatly contribute to the health, happiness, prosperity and morality of the human family." This was signed by such eminent men as Dr. Miller, of Edinborough, Dr. R. Lees, Dr. Carpenter, Dr. D. B. Richardson, Sir Benjamin Brodie, Sir James Clarke, Dr. Dio Lewis and others. The Boston Journal of Chemistry says "the banishment of alcholic liquor would not deprive us of a single one of the indispensible agents which modern civilization demands."

I could give you evidence from expert medical authorities, but I do not wish to trespass further but only to give one as a sample, Dr. N. S. Davis, ex-president of the American Medical Association, and president of the International Medical Association of Great Britain and the United States in 1887, says, "I have found no case of disease, and no emergency arising from accident, that I could not treat more successfully without any kind of alcoholic liquor than with." He also stated at a meeting in Brighton, Eng., in 1886, "There are in the United States from 800 to 1000 medical men who have proven by experience that disease can be treated better without alcoholic liquor than with." He also says, "Alcoholic beverages and poison are synonimous terms."

It is therefore better to abolish alcoholic liquor

AS A MEDICINE IN THE INTEREST of the successful treatment of disease, to save reclaimed men and women from again being drawn down under its degrading influence, to rid the public of the false impression that it has healing powers; also to prevent intemperance, for so long as its use is permitted so long will intemperance exist. Many are strong in the spirit but weak in the flesh, and from such we must remove the temptation by an absolute abstemiousness and a total prohibition of its manufacture for any purpose, medical or otherwise.

The various temperance organizations, by their permission of the use of liquor as a medicine, seem to encourage the erroneous idea that alcoholic liquor is indispensible in the successful treatment of disease. It seems about time these societies made another advance and revised the pledge so as to prohibit the use of alcoholic liquor for any purpose whatever; for there is no doubt that the reason why total abstinence does not make more rapid headway is due to the fact that many believe that what is good in sickness cannot be bad in health.

We have seen how liquor was first introduced to mankind by its being recommended for medicine by a physician, and the fatal consequences which attended its introduction to public use. How much care should we have in attributing to it medicinal qualities which it does not possess.

I trust the facts submitted may be productive of good, causing a more earnest work for temperance, the greatest need of modern society.

TO BE OR NOT TO BE "IN IT."

A Life Agent called at a friend's office one day,
HE WASN'T IN IT;
He had seen "the boys" coming and fled from his way
HE WASN'T IN IT;
He had heard so much said, he was tired and sick
Of insurance and agents—'twas all a blank trick,
When one's coil must be shuffled to win it,
HE WASN'T IN IT.

A bit of a draft blew o'er his bald head,
HE WAS IN IT;
Pneumonia sent him straightway to bed,
HE STAYED IN IT;
His doctor made of it a "quite special" case,
To save him for running still more of life's race,
But the grave took some chances to win it,
AND HE'S IN IT.

When approached by a gent for insuring your life,
GET RIGHT IN IT;
It's the right thing to do for your children and wife,
THEN STAY IN IT.
Remember that fires take your goods "out of sight,"
And that accidents happen each day and each night,
While insurance protects every minute,
IF YOU'RE IN IT.

A Bank Manager's Opinion.

HE IS "IN IT."

The General Manager of one of the leading banks in Canada, writing to a personal friend, says:—"I have no hesitation in saying that I place the CANADA LIFE upon the highest platform. It is in my opinion carefully, economically and honestly managed; its Reserve Funds are well invested; its rates of Premiums are low, and its future is, I think better assured than a great majority of Companies. I have my own life insured in the Company for a round amount, and would not hesitate to increase the amount of my policies should I decide upon taking out further insurance."

A Government Insurance Actuary's Opinion

On the Relation between Ordinary and Tontine Service.

It is frequently asserted by Companies whose business is nearly all tontines, that although the CANADA LIFE may and does pay large ordinary profits, yet it cannot compare so favourably on a long term distribution or tontine period, and that in the end better results can be obtained on a tontine policy in a large American Co. than on an ordinary or tontine policy in the CANADA LIFE. To prove the absurdity of this statement, the following piece of common sense is quoted from Mervin Tabor, late Actuary of the Illinois Goverment Insurance Department. In his well known book, "The Three Systems of Life Insurance," he says: "A company that gives large dividends on the ordinary kind of policies, can give much larger on the same kinds when Tontined, and a company that pays but meagre dividends on the usual forms, adopting perhaps the Tontine system to "cover up" its small surpluses, cannot be relied on for large returns of surplus under the Tontine Forms of Insurance."

The CANADA LIFE does not "cover up" its Quinquennial profits as some Companies do, but publishes them throughout the country.

It can and does surpass other Companies on Quinquennial profits. It should and will surpass them on Tontine profits.

WHY TO BE "IN IT."

BISHOP HAWEIS'S REASON:—"I claim that Life Insurance is not only a a humane, but I might say a Christian Institution."

LORD LYNDHURST'S REASON:—"A Policy of Life Insurance is always an evidence of prudent forethought. No man with a dependent family is free from reproach if not insured."

WHEN TO BE "IN IT."

The younger, the cheaper. Therefore insure when young. Besides by insuring in the CANADA LIFE now, you will share in three years' profits.

WHERE TO BE "IN IT."

The best place to be "in it" is in the Company that gives the best returns for the least money, consistent with absolute security. Therefore, in order to be "in it," choose the Parliamentary news from Ottawa gives the information that Thomas P. The chief place of business is to be in the village of Marmora. The capital stock of the company is said to be $175,000.—[Madoc Review.

The Noble St. Bernard Dog.

The wonderful sagacity of the St. Bernard dog was demonstrated in a remarkable manner last week in Belleville. W. Clark, butcher, was shipping hogs. While the men were away a monstrous boar got out of its pen and entered a yard where Mr. Clark's daughter was playing. As the boar saw the child he made for her. In an instant a magnificent St. Bernard dog, the gift of Philip Hart, bounded to the rescue. He rushed on to the animal and furiously attacked it, finally driving it to the other end of the yard. The child was rescued by Mrs. Clark. The dog remained watch over the hog until the men returned several hours afterwards. The child would have been killed but for the interference of the dog.

A Night With the Oddfellows.

The regular weekly meeting of Peterborough Lodge No. 111, I.O.O.F., was held last night with a large attendance. Bro. R. J. Stewart, D.D.G.M., Norwood, paid the lodge an official visit, while Messrs. Dodds, Williamson, Sharp and Hill, of Pontypool, were present. Two of these gentlemen were duly installed and had the first, second and third degrees of the order conferred upon them. The night was a busy one and will long be remembered. At a late hour the brethren adjourned to the refreshment room of Bro. H. Long, where the visitors were entertained to a tasty repast. Speeches were made, songs sung and a happy time spent generally. There are excellent prospects for a lodge of Oddfellows being instituted in Pontypool at an early date.

A Beautiful Millinery Display.

Miss Delaney's millinery opening day will be next Tuesday, the 28th. Miss Delaney has had the pleasure of announcing her openings for some years, but this one is the most important of any in the past. She has secured for this season some great values in her direct importations from the European markets, and is showing some beautiful designs which are fully one year in advance of those usually shown in Canada. By her personal inspection of the leading stocks in Montreal and Toronto she has purchased the choice of those centres and as usual at the lowest possible prices. Miss Delaney has a great advantage in one particular, over ordinary buyers in the fact of her sister living in New York City, who is continually selecting the principal novelties there and has already forwarded a number of handsome Pattern Hats and Bonnets, with other attractions. Miss Delaney intends importing goods constantly from New York during the season. Miss Delaney's position has always been a leading one in millinery but her stock has never been so large and attractive as it is this season. 3d

Hit in the Head by a Casting.

Shortly before noon to-day as Mr. Ed. Kempt, an employee of Mr. Adam Hall was working in the main floor in the establishment of W. J. Hall & Co., he met with a rather painful accident. Another employee was descending the steps on the third floor with an arm full of iron castings, when one of the castings slipped from his hand, falling through the elevator opening. The iron would weigh about twenty pounds, but happily in its descent struck the cross bar of the elevator, thus swerving its course and lessening the force of the fall. Mr. Kempt was hit on the side of the head by the missle, which inflicted an ugly gash. Dr. Clarke was called and dressed the wound.

Grand Stock-Taking Sale for 1893 at China Hall.

From now until the 2nd of April we will hold our annual stock-taking sale. Heretofore we have reduced and straightened up our stock by holding a special sale in another store and selling such goods as we wished to clear out. This year, however, we will follow our last season's plan and place our whole stock of $40,000 at your disposal for 30 days at cost price, and in the case of damaged or mis-matched goods at far less than cost. All goods will be ticksted showing former and reduced prices, and it is our wish to make the sale a greater success this year than it was last year by reducing the prices for this purpose, and trust it will be taken advantage of promptly, as the time will be limited to 30 days. Terms strictly cash.

The Fox Hunt at Chemong.

A fox hunt took place at Chemong Park yesterday afternoon and attracted a number of nimrods from Fenelon Falls, Lindsay, Lakefield, Peterborough and other places. The fox was given its freedom on the ice in front of the hotel shortly after four o'clock, but the sport was not very exciting. Reynard was not given enough distance start on the hounds to cause the fun to last any length of time. The canines in pursuit were three grey hounds, a fox terrier and a hound. The grey hounds were owned by Messrs. Wm. Brine, L. G. Fobert and Wm. Morrow, the terrier by Mr. A. Elliott, and the hound by Mr. T. Rutherford. After a short chase on the ice, which was very "glary" the fox was overtaken by the dogs all pouncing upon the animal at once. The sportsmen lined the shore and looked on at the fun. "Mr. Fox" was not killed, but is still in Mr. Fobert's possession, ready for another "run." A foot race occurred between two Peterborough sprinters and a fleet footed farmer. The race, which was a sweepstake one, was a hundred yards distance. The farmer was left away in the rear, while the two citizens finished in a dead heat, dividing the spoils—$1.50 each. The incident created not a little fun. A 200 yards race between the greyhounds also came off and was won easily by W. Brine's "Fleet." This ended the day's proceedings.

A Big Deal by a Local Firm.

The stove, tinware and hardware business which has been carried on for some time past by Mr. W. J. Hall in the Crystal block, George street, having been offered for sale by Messrs. Suckling & Co., of Toronto, has been bought by our enterprising townsman, Mr. Adam Hall, of the Giant T, at a very low figure. In order to clear out the stock during the next thirty days, Mr. Hall has decided to start a slaughter sale of the whole storeful of goods, and offers special bargains in the above lines for the next four weeks. This is a rare chance, at the spring of the year, just when people are requiring house-furnishing goods, cutlery, lamps, paints, stoves, tinware, etc., as Mr. Hall is bound to convert the stock into money as fast as possible. So that the public will have a chance to secure these goods at prices that will save them lots of money. The goods are all of the best material and should command the patronage of all classes of buyers. See advt. in another column, and don't forget the great closing-out sale at W. G. Bain's old stand, Crystal block, George street. 70dwtf

The lecture was under the auspices of the auspices of the St. Vincent de Paul Society and the proceeds added quite a tidy sum to the funds of that worthy charitable society.

—The columns of the Belleville Intelligencer snows a decided improvement of late, and are replete with all the latest local happenings and events. It is now one of the liveliest and most readable exchanges which reaches our sanctum. Mr. Fred Abrahams, formerly of the editorial staff of the Belleville Ontario has assumed the position of city editor of the Intelligencer and in the gleaning of items he exhibits a shrewdness and activity which is highly commendable.

—A peculiar incident in the annals of hunting occurred this week. It will be remembered that in a hunting party recently Mr. Herbert Kent, of Vancouver, B. C., shot the "brush" off a fox which escaped with the remainder of its anatomy. Strange to relate the same Reynard was killed on Wednesday by Mr. M. O'Brien. A pack of dogs were in pursuit of another fox when the tailless one was aroused from its hiding place and ran across a field in front of Mr. O'Brien, who raised his "fowling piece" and fired killing the animal, which he now has in his possession.

KENT—In Peterborough, on Thursday, March 23rd, 1893, the wife of Mr. H. I. Kent, (Market Clothing House) of a son.

Miss Mattie A. Cobb of Providence, R. I.

Undoubtedly many diseases may be prevented if the blood is kept pure and the general health-tone sustained by the use of Hood's Sarsaparilla. When this is done, the germs of

La Grippe, Diphtheria

Pneumonia, Scarlet and Typhoid Fevers, Malaria, etc., cannot lodge in the system. After all such prostrating diseases Hood's Sarsaparilla has been found of inestimable value in restoring desired health and vigor, and purifying the tainted blood.

For example, read the following from Miss Mattie A. Cobb of Providence, R. I., and her mother. Miss Cobb is a young lady of 18, a and is in the front rank in her studies in the High School. Her father is a well-known police officer:

"Messrs. C. I. Hood & Co.:

"I write to tell how much good Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for me. Sometime ago I had diphtheria and was sick for a year afterward, being

Weak, Blind and Helpless

I used one bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla and it made me real strong." MATTIE A. COBB, South Chester Avenue, Providence, R. I.

"As my daughter wanted to write how well she liked Hood's Sarsaparilla, I thought I would say a few words. I think it is the ever brought before the people. Some of my friends say 'go away with your medicine.' I said the same once, but since my daughter has taken

Hood's Sarsaparilla

My opinion has changed considerably." MRS. GEO. N. COBB, Providence, R. I.

HOOD'S PILLS do not weaken the system like other cathartics, but actually tone up and give strength to the patient.

THE "COMET" FOR 1893

is as far ahead in the field of Pneumatic Bicycles as a buggy is compared with a farm waggon. The COMET easily wins every time, and if you want to ride the best 'cycle you must have the COMET and no other.

The COMET PNEUMATIC BICYCLE gets there every time for durability, comfort, style and easy-going—that's beyond dispute. Its Canadian record is away up, for, among the members of the Century Road Club who rode their century during the past season, more were mounted on COMETS than on all other makes of wheels put together.

A DREAMER'S IDYL.

On a lofty bank whose sodden eave
Hangs icicled down the facade steep,
And far extends its banner trees,
Stooped Aura o'er the silent deep.
To muse a little whilst the sinking eve
Retiring from the wild wind's sweep,
Looks lingering on the finished chase,
And reynard bleeding from his awful race.
The greyhound- lank for many a dash,
Frisk tireless 'round the homeward train;
De-pite the jealous pointers guash,
Till soon the wild field looks its same,

Only dreaming gentle water,
Of the brighter sunny days,
When the lilies blithely totter,
On the merry glowing waves.
And the breeze a sail would follow,
Up and down thy laughing course,
Till the glancing kitting swallow
Seeks the sand banks in recourse.

Then subsiding laughing water,
When the breeze had quit the sail,
Did sweet vesper, gentle water
O'er the dying day prevail.
Then the dusky host advancing,
Smothered all that wavering train,
Till the new launched moon enhancing,
Made the gloomy owl complain,

Told the katydid her story,
Most the whispering birds were still,
When a night bird from his story
Loud pronounced his whip-poor-will,
On thy them oh! placid water
Slid the lovers boat away
Where the echo and the otter
Love for aye the lotus bay.

Only sleeping, only sleeping,
Whilst the north king holds his sway,
Whilst the hoary wood is weeping,
Whilst the feeble pass away.
Soft and low the spring, lamenting,
Laves the rocks with bitter tears,
'Neath the cedar trees relenting,
Drooping in their feebled years.

Sleep on! Sleep on! My sweet Chemong,
Not yet the robin carols;
I would not wake thee with my song,
Let spring with voice apparelled,
Kiss off the spell with balmy breath
Amongst the budding hazel,
Then on thy crimson blushing breast
My morning boat shall cradle.

The trouble with most cough medicines is that they spoil the appetite, weaken digestion, and create bile. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, on the contrary, while it gives immediate relief, assists rather than impairs the assimilative process.

ANOTHER PROOF FURNISHED.

Our contemporary, the Review, seems to be willing to accept no statement made by Mr. Stevenson in his latest political speech, without getting the confirmation of independent witness. The EXAMINER has no desire, as everyone knows, to minimize the importance of Peterborough, or make one statement that would injure its interests. It has no desire to cast ridicule upon a representative like Mr. Stevenson, who in his ordinary moods is a good citizen and a moderate talker, But he has been talking buncombe lately and when he gets started in this strain it's no small thing will prevent him making his point. For instance in one part of his last great political fiction, he is reported as saying:

"He wondered if they ever took into account the number of people who were coming to Canada from the United States. They had in his town over 60 families who had come from the United States within the past seven years. They had bought property, had taken the oath of allegiance to Her Majesty, and had become just as strong Conservatives as he was himself."

Now, the taking of the oath of allegiance is not as simple an operation as registering at an hotel. There are certain legal formalities to be complied with and official registration is made of all parties who become naturalized Canadians by taking the oath of allegiance. If the Review had been anxious to confirm Mr. Stevenson's figures it could easily have applied at the proper authorities; it would have discovered that during the past seven years only three American citizens have taken the oath of allegiance. Our readers will see that there is quite a difference between three and sixty. Thus Mr. Stevenson's statement as quoted above is sufficiently wide of the truth to attract the admiration of even an Ottawa politician.

MOTHERS, BE JUST TO YOUR BABIES!

Give Them the Best!

Physicians in Canada are daily called on to attend infants suffering from gastric and intestinal diseases. It is an established fact that such troubles are brought on by a poor system of feeding infants—cramming the weak and delicate stomach with foods which cannot be easily digested and assimilated.

These intestinal troubles and diseases never come on when the mother feeds her infant with the pure and strengthening Lactated Food. Mothers who neglect to use Lactated Food for their little ones are doing them an injustice—they are retarding the vigor and growth of their dear ones.

One of the most eminent New York physicians, Dr. Theo. D. C. Miller, says, "I have experienced very agreeable results from the use of Lactated Food in gastric and intestinal diseases, and consider it one of the best articles in use for easy digestion by the most weakened stomach of the most debilitated infants. Too much cannot be said in its praise."

CRISP CURLING CHRONIQUES.

What is Going on at the Rink Where Curlers Most do Congregate.

The last of the points games was finished at the rink last night. The ice was in splendid condition. The honour of winning the trophy—a valuable silver cup, valued at $40—falls to Mr. W. G. Ferguson this year, who gained the highest score, making 34 shots in all and coming out two ahead of Mr. A. E. Thompson, who fell in second position, scoring 32 shots. The cup has been competed for during the last eleven years. The first year it was won by Mr. Ferguson, who tied with Geo. Brown and won the tie. Mr. Ferguson has won the cup twice now, and thrice tied for the same. The trophy is tenable for one year only, but when a member wins it three times it becomes his permanent property. Mr. Geo. Fitzgerald won the cup last year. Last night's score was as follows:

A E Thompson	32
R M Dennistoun	18
G A Schofield	12
G Sawers	14
T Rutherford	19
Geo Brown	6
T P Attrill	24
G W Hatton	16
Geo Edmison	21
C J Leonard	10
D W Dumble	15
A Blade	18
L M Hayes	9
E B Edwards	20
E Rutherford	21
J C Smith	11
Chas Wynn	6
W D Parker	13
W G Ferguson	34

The list of thirteen point's game among the Thistle and Granite divisions of the curlers has narrowed down to the final result, for all the draws of the Granites were completed last night when in the final J. H. Counal in a closely fought contest defeated E. Rutherford by a score of 13 shots to 12. Both men were even until the last end when Mr. Counal captured one and came out victorious. In the competitions among the Thistles J. Stanger defeated C. McGill by a score of 13 shots to 11. Until the last end both were even when Mr. Stanger captured a two. A. E. Thompson was defeated by Geo. Brown by a score of 15 shots to 5. Geo. Brown will now play off with J. Stanger for the championship of the Thistle division. The winners of the two divisions will then be drawn against each other for the championship of the club. The trophy is a valuable silver medal presented by the vice-president.

Two rinks skipped by Messrs. W. H. Robertson and Wm. Snowden will play at the rink this evening for the hats. The "Christi stiffs" have already been purchased and will be presented at the close of the contest.

Alarm Clocks!

There are a great many small Alarm Clocks which have been running for a few years and are now out of order which the owners are allowing to remain idle, because they think it will cost too much to repair them. If you bring them to us you will find that we will make them run as well as they ever did, at a very small charge. We have already changed hundreds of them from being merely rubbish into good timepieces. If you want to buy a new one, we will sell you an Alarm Clock at a lower price than any one else in the trade. We sell only the very best make and warrant every one.

TO BRACE UP the system after "La Grippe," pneumonia, fevers, and other prostrating acute diseases; to build up needed flesh and strength, and to restore health and vigor when you feel "run-down" and used up, the best thing in the world is Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It promotes all the bodily functions, rouses every organ into healthful action, purifies and enriches the blood, and through it cleanses, repairs, and invigorates the entire system.

For the most stubborn Scrofulous, Skin or Scalp Diseases, Dyspepsia, Biliousness, and kindred ailments, the "Discovery" is the only remedy that's guaranteed. If it doesn't benefit or cure, you have your money back.

Isn't it safe to say that no other blood-purifier can be "just as good?"

If it were, wouldn't it be sold so?

Can you think of anything more convincing than the promise that is made by the proprietors of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy? It is this: "If we can't cure your Catarrh, we'll pay you $500."

U.S. TARIFF REDUCTION.

REPORT OF THE SPECIAL COMMITTEE UPON THE MATTER.

Crude Material for Manufacture to Be Free of Duty — Liquors, Tobaccos, Silks and All Such Luxuries to Be Taxed.

NEW YORK, March 23.—A special committee of the Reform Club of this city, consisting of E. Ellery, Charles S. Fairchild, Thomas G. Shearman, David A. Wells, John Dewitt Warner and Everett P. Wheeler, has completed a draft of a bill which when perfected will be urged upon Congress as a substitute for the present tariff laws and a fulfilment of the pledges under which the Democracy has obtained control of the National Government.

This special committee was appointed immediately after the election of Mr. Cleveland. Its report, which is the product of much labor, assisted by competent expert knowledge, has been submitted to the regular tariff reform committee of the club for suggestions and criticism.

After such further consideration and amendment as may be thought advisable the bill, drawn in accordance with the recommendations of the report, will be presented to Secretary Carlisle for his information.

The general principles of the proposed tariff are in the main as follows:

Crude material, to be used in the process of manufacture, is in general made free of duty.

In taxing other articles the general object has been to fix such rates as would produce the largest amount of revenue in a series of years consistent with large importations.

The purpose of obtaining the largest revenue has, however, been limited by consideration of the welfare and necessities of the people at large, and especially the poorer classes.

The purpose of obtaining revenue for the Government, having been made in good faith the sole reason for levying any of these duties, it has not been thought necessary and hardly proper to reduce rates for the purpose of avoiding some incidental protection to domestic producers.

All duties have been made strictly ad valorem except some of those which have been levied as compensatory for internal revenue taxes upon similar articles produced at home.

In the bill marble is considered a luxury and a higher duty is put upon that than upon ordinary stone.

As to liquors and tobacco, the duties should be made with a view to obtaining the greatest possible amount of revenue without concern as to whether we give or withhold protection to domestic producers.

Silks and silk yarns and threads are rated 20 per cent.; raw silk free.

The 25 per cent. schedule is the most important of any and is purposely made the most sweeping. The duty upon woolens and worsted manufactures of every description, leather gloves and all other gloves except silk, are placed in the 25 per cent. schedule.

All forms of crude metal not merely in ores but in pigs, ingots and bars, with the exception of iron and steel, are made free.

Most provisions are made free, but some which partake in a mild degree of the nature of luxuries are put on the 20 per cent. schedule, while breadstuffs are mostly free. Potatoes are left subject to a duty of 10 per cent.

All articles upon which the revenue collected is to small too pay for collection and upon which it is not probable that any mere reduction of rates would produce substantial revenue, have been placed on the free list.

The committee say they are satisfied that the proposed tariff would produce an immediate revenue of $120,000,000, if not more.

A $500 Blaze At Guelph.

GUELPH, Ont., March 23.—About midnight Policeman Fitzsimmons saw fire issuing from the Victoria stables. The building is a stone one and the firemen were able to confine it to the loft, where it started. Loss, about $500; covered by insurance.

"What's in a name?" Well, that depends. For instance, the name of "Ayer" is sufficient guarantee that Ayer's Sarsaparilla is a genuine, scientific blood-purifier, and not a sham, like so much that goes by the name of "sarsaparilla." Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the standard.

ULSTER WANTS WAR.

And Will Have It If the Home Rule Bill Passes.

LONDON, March 23.—A correspondent of The Daily Telegraph, who is travelling in Ulster, writes that preparations have now gone so far that nothing can prevent bloodshed in case the Home Rule bill be passed. Despite the denials of Mr. Morley, the correspondent says it is apparent that the military authorities are seeking barracks accommodation in Belfast for a considerable body of troops.

The names of the officers who have been engaging quarters and the property owners who have been approached, he adds, could be given if necessary to prove his assertion.

The guarantee fund intended for the war chest of the men of Ulster is swelled daily by large contributions, as the liberality of the persons not even appealed to so far has surpassed all expectations. Each of four eminent Irishmen, says the correspondent, gave £50,000, and the Mayor of Belfast has given £10,000. The total amount subscribed already is more than a million pounds.

All disorders of the Throat and Lungs is Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It has no equal as a cough-cure.

Bronchitis

"When I was a boy, I had a bronchial trouble of such a persistent and stubborn character, that the doctor pronounced it incurable with ordinary remedies, but recommended me to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I did so, and one bottle cured me. For the last fifteen years, I have used this preparation with good effect whenever I take a bad cold, and I know of numbers of people who keep it in the house all the time, not considering it safe to be without it."—J. C. Woodson, P.M., Forest Hill, W. Va.

Cough

"For more than twenty-five years, I was a sufferer from lung trouble, attended with coughing so severe at times as to cause hemorrhage, the paroxysms frequently lasting three or four hours. I was induced to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and after taking four bottles, was thoroughly cured."—Franz Hoffman, Clay Centre, Kans.

La Grippe

"Last spring I was taken down with la grippe. At times I was completely prostrated, and so difficult was my breathing that my breast seemed as if confined in an iron cage. I procured a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and no sooner had I began taking it than relief followed. I could not believe that the effect would be so rapid and the cure so complete."—W. H. THE CATTLE TICK.

A Valuable Contribution—Facts Concerning Ticks—Preventive Measures.

The Texas Agricultural Experiment Station has recently issued Bulletin 24 which contains a valuable contribution to our knowledge of the life history and habits of the Cattle Tick, and the remedies to be used in contending with it. The first part is devoted to the life history and habits of the species most common in the Southwest. (Boophilus bovis Riley) and is from Dr. Cooper Curtice. This portion contains a number of valuable points but it is impossible to give them in full. As summed up they are:

Ticks were probably brought with the cattle from Southern Europe or Northern Africa.—The life history is 1st, an egg; 2nd, a 6-legged seed tick; 3rd, an 8-legged asexual nymph (the neutral pupe); 4th, an 8-legged adult.—By dropping off where cattle spend the most time, more especially in their resting places, these places are most infested with the young.—Ticks are associated with a disease attacking cattle and their removal has prevented the disease being communicated.—By taking advantage of the climate and the use of remedies, cattle and certain pastures may be freed from the ticks.—All cattle intended for transportation to northern markets should be freed from ticks. The preventive and remedial measures are discussed by Prof. M. Francis of the Texas Experiment Station. The eradication of ticks is considered very important, especially because of the quantities of blood they draw from their victims, and without considering the relation which they seem to bear to Texas fever, he considers preventive and remedial measures necessary. For prevention, keeping cattle from thickly wooded pastures during Summer and Autumn and substituting pastures recently in cultivation, is recommended. Sulphur and salt fed to cattle is thought to be useful. To destroy the ticks "a combination of lard and sulphur or lard and kerosene gives good results." Of kerosene emulsion he says, "10 per cent. does fairly well. At one time I entertained a high opinion of it, but later experiences have failed to fully satisfy the demands." The material he recommends most highly with a novel plan for its application we repeat here in full, as it will doubtless interest many stockmen who have this pest or other parasites to contend with: "We have found nothing which gives so general satisfaction as several brands of sheep dip now on the market. Two per cent. solutions were applied. The qualities these possess, are, efficiency, cheapness, ease of application, miscible with water, non-poisonous, non-irritating or injurious to eyes, skin, or hair, stability, uniformity, non-corrosive to apparatus, and when applied require no heat.

"The treatment of a few dairy cows is an easy affair. Apply the dip with sponges, brushes, mops, or syringes. We use a brass hand syringe with spray nozzle intended for gardeners use. With range cattle it is quite different and involves time, labor and expense. This has led us to devise an apparatus for the purpose. This consists, as shown in the accompanying illustration, of a derrick 16 feet high on which is a barrel. From the barrel there comes a pipe that divides into five smaller ones 18 inches apart on each of which is a piece of hose 12 inches long and to the end of each hose a tin rose is fixed. There also comes from the main down pipe another hose 15 to 20 feet long for hand use, this is also provided with a rose and a stop-cock. The derrick is built directly on a platform 5 by 8 feet made of flooring and so slanted as to drain to one side so the substance used can be collected by a trough and poured into a lower barrel sunk in the ground. From the lower barrel there is a pipe running to the upper one which is provided with a pump. There is also a narrow chute leading to the derrick through which the cattle pass. Our method of operation is as follows: The dip is mixed in the lower barrel and then is pumped into the upper one. An animal is driven on the platform and the dip allowed to play on it for one minute, while so doing the hand hose is used between the thighs and on the brisket and lower parts of the body. The others are treated in a similar manner. That which runs off the animal is caught in the lower barrel and pumped up, thus preventing much waste. Trash must be kept out or it will clog the nozzle. This is accomplished by using a cloth strainer on the upper barrel. With the arrangements as here described and illustrated, we are able to treat about 20 animals per hour, at a cost, including material and labor, of 5 cents per head. The small ticks will soon be dead and the large ones also in a few hours."—Orange Judd Farmer.

A PRETTY GOWN.

One That Can be Made by the Home Dressmaker.

This pretty gown for a young miss of thirteen to fifteen, is made of rose crepe and has a broad belt of faille around the waist. The skirt is a trifle bias and is gathered into the waist band with most of the pleats behind. The bottom is finished with a ruffle of pink ribbons and delicate, airy lace. The skirt is about three yards wide and the ruffle is one-and-one-half times as wide as the skirt and is gathered to the requisite width. The inside of the skirt is trimmed with a lace ruffle. The waist closes at the back and cuts off directly at the waist line, the seam being hidden by the faille belt. A pretty bow is placed at the back where it looks. The side fronts and side backs are made in one piece, slightly draped to p[illegible] drawing. The only seams visible are those at the sides, below the armhole. The fichu cape is made of lace and ribbon and the sleeves are puffed and gathered into the cuffs which are also made of the lace and ribbon. Five to six yards of crepe are required.

If you have a sewing machine that "rips out," or one that makes a chain stitch on the wrong side, you can turn a simple piece of India print silk, or cretons into quite an elaborate piece of goods by outlining the pattern on the wrong side, with silk. This brings the chain stitch on the right side, and the silk gives depth and elegance to the pattern. If you are smart at tracery work you can make up or copy a pattern as you go, and turn plain stuff into a figured goods. This is good for vests, borders and pattern-pieces, and to put on the tops of hats and in the front of skirts, etc.

FLORETTE.

The Newspaper as a Polisher.

The following recipes prove that a newspaper is good for something after its mission as a fact dispenser has been fulfilled:

To give the finishing touches to newly cleaned silver and tinware rub them well and until perfectly dry with an old newspaper.

To polish a stove that has not been blackened for some time rub it with a newspaper, adding a little grease.

For polishing windows, mirrors and lamp chimneys nothing will produce the desired effect as well as a newspaper.

Melt the wax honey and rose water together in a dish over boiling water. When melted and hot, add the myrrh, stir until smooth. Apply to the skin before retiring.

Encouragement for old People.

It may sound queer to talk about curing old people of Kidney and Urinary troubles after they have passed the alloted period of three score years and ten, but the following extraordinary recovery of an old veteran by Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure, ought to be of great encouragement to old people:—

Belleville, March 4, 1893.

Peterborough Medicine Company (Limited.)

Gentlemen,—I owe a great debt of gratitude to Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure for the prompt and speedy relief which I have received from the use of only one bottle of your great medicine. I have suffered from Kidney and Urinary troubles, inflammation of the neck of the bladder, &c. for many a long day. No one knows better than old people how great a blessing it is to be cured. I doctored a lot, but nothing did me so much good as your cure. I have lived about half a century in Belleville, and will be only too glad to speak a good word in favour of Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure. I can also recommend it for constipation and stomach troubles.

James Harold.

Beware of Cholera.

The healthy body throws off the germs of cholera therefore wisdom counsels the use of Burdock Blood Bitters this spring to purify the blood, regulate the system, and fortify the body against cholera or other epidemics.

Interested People.

Advertising a patent medicine in the peculiar way in which the proprietor of Kemp's Balsam for coughs and colds does it, is indeed wonderful. He authorizes all druggists to give those who call for it a sample bottle FREE, that they may try it before purchasing. The large bottles are 50c and $1. We certainly would advise a trial. It may save you from consumption.

Restored to Health.

Dear Sirs,—For years I was troubled with indigestion, but being advised to try B. B. B. I did so and find myself quite restored to health. Howard Sullivan,

STORMS OUT WEST.

Telegraph and Telephone Services Tied Up In a Knot.

CHICAGO, March 24.—Advices from the Northwest state that one of the most furious storms known for years began yesterday, and is still raging. At Duluth a foot and a half of snow fell during the night. This morning it turned to sleet. A similar state of affairs exists in St. Paul and Minneapolis.

Throughout Wisconsin there was almost a cyclone, accompanied by rain, snow and sleet. Particulars from that state are difficult to obtain, owing to the almost universal prostration of the wires. Milwaukee is absolutely cut off from the outside world. Neither telegraph companies has a wire working to the city, and the telephone wires are also down. Telegraphic communication is also slow and uncertain throughout Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska and Missouri. In Minnesota few wires are working and the telephone system is wrecked.

At St. Louis the first thunderstorm of the season is raging. The lightning is terrific and has caused great delay to telegraphic business. In this city there was rain this morning, followed by a heavy fog, which enveloped the city.

THE PANAMA SCANDAL.

Further Enquiries Fail To Overthrow the French Ministry.

PARIS, March 24.—The Government was again successful in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday. A critical debate was expected in the chamber on the question offered by Deputy Lucien Millevoye, as to what further action the Government intended to take in regard to the bribery and frauds shown to have been perpetrated in connection with the Panama Canal enterprise.

The enemies of the Government hoped that the discussion might lead to the overthrow of the Ministry, but after some exciting speeches the Government succeeded in carrying the order of the day by a show of hands, which proved the attack on the ministry to be hopeless for the time at least.

UNCLE SAM'S TARIFF.

The Republic Is Deeply Interested in Helping a Reduction.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—Secretary Carlisle, it is stated on good authority, intends to give much of his time this summer to the consideration of the tariff, with a view to so thoroughly familiarizing himself with the subject as to indicate in a general way the outlines for the formation of a tariff bill by the next Democratic House. He in no sense intends to prepare a bill in detail to be submitted to the Ways and Means Committee of the next House, but rather to be in a position to give them all the assistance and information they may need in the preparation of a tariff bill that will carry out in its word and intent the spirit of the tariff plank in the Democratic platform.

Nearly every mail that reaches the Treasury Department contains suggestions from statisticians and others as to the compilation of a tariff bill. Some 30 or 40 of these communications have already been received, prominent among them being that from the New York Reform Club. The general outline of the New York Reform Club's tariff proposition corresponds closely to a proposition submitted in 1885 by Edward Atkinson of Boston, Mass., to President Cleveland and Secretary Manning.

Treasure Found.

DURANGO, Mexico, March 24.—While workmen were excavating here Tuesday for a new building on the property of Francisco Ottes, near the Palace Hotel, they came upon a large earthen box, buried five feet under the surface. The box was found to be filled with old Spanish gold coins. The amount of the treasure is not known to the public, but it will reach fully $100,000. A certain percentage of the money must be turned over to the general government. It is supposed the money was buried by a Spaniard more than a century ago, as there was at that time a large colony of them employed here in working the mines.

CAVALRY MOVEMENT.

A Rumor That the Quebec Military School Will Be Transferred.

TORONTO, March 24.—The Montreal Star publishes a despatch from Quebec to the effect that two guns from "B" Battery will be moved with their detachments, replacing "A" Battery, Kingston, which will become a field division, the foot division of the latter battery and all of "C" Battery from British Columbia going to the Citadel, Quebec. The two remaining guards there will be transferred to the quarters of the Cavalry School, which is to be transferred to Toronto.

Col. Otter was interviewed last night and said he knew nothing of the matter. The matter was in the charge of Gen. Herbert solely and the General never made known his plans until they were completed.

THE ARNOLDI AFFAIR.

He Will Be Brought Up On a Writ of Habeas Corpus.

TORONTO, March 24.—Chief Justice Galt yesterday granted, upon the application of A. B. Aylesworth, Q.C., a writ of habeas corpus to issue on behalf of Engineer John R. Arnoldi, mechanical engineer, sentenced to six months' imprisonment at Ottawa in addition to a fine of $1000 upon a charge of malfeasance of office.

Chief Justice Armour reserved the case for the Chancery Divisional Court, and on Jan. 9 judgment was rendered sustaining the view expressed by the learned judge at the trial that there was no evidence of intent to defraud, but there was misbehavior in office.

TEMPEST IN A TEAPOT.

A Mug of One-Dollar Bills Creates an Unpleasant Scene.

TORONTO, March 24.—Mr. James L. McKinley of 8 St. Vincent-street missed a bag last evening containing 42 one-dollar bills. No one but the domestic, Miss Ada Yates, had been in the room where the bag lay on the table, and Mr. McKinley was inclined to believe that the girl took the money. Mrs. McKinley, too, thought Miss Yates guilty, and the trio started off for No. 2 Police Station to settle the affair.

Sergt. Cross told Mr. McKinley that nothing could be done in the way of putting the girl into custody unless a formal charge was laid against her. This he was loath to do, as he could go no further than to say no one else could have taken it.

Mrs. McKinley was about to lay the charge, but when she learned that she would have to appear in court against the accused she changed her mind and became as anxious to research the house to see if the money could have been mislaid.

Miss Yates consented to go back to the McKinley residence, and, together with a couple of officers, they returned. Mrs. McKinley stepped into the hall first, and just as Miss Yates was going to follow her the officer exclaimed, "Why, here's the very bag!" and picked up the bag under Mrs. McKinley's feet

The money was all there. The two girls who had been in charge of the house during Mr. McKinley's absence, say the money was not there the whole evening. The accused girl went home.

A STRANGE ROBBERY.

Tied to a Fence Post—Relieved of $90 and Gold Watch.

COMBER, Ont., March 24.—William Boyes, a millhand of Staples, was held up by a gang of masked men last night near his home and robbed of $90 and a gold watch. He had been to Detroit during the day and drew $100, and while on his way home was delayed at Comber.

He walked home after nightfall, and was within the village limits when he was met by the gang, who tied his hands and fastened him to a fence post.

His cries brought neighbors to the rescue and he was released. He cannot identify any of the parties. It is thought to be parties who knew the object of his visit to Detroit.

A WESTERN CYCLONE.

Blows Three Towns Away and Kills Many People.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 24.—Well-authenticated reports say the town of Tupelo, Miss., the home of Congressman John Allen, was destroyed by a severe storm yesterday.

The little town of Kelly, 15 miles from Memphis, on the Memphis and Birmingham Railway, was wiped out during the same storm. No lives lost.

A cyclone swept over Northern Mississippi and Western Tennessee late this afternoon, leaving ruin in its wake. Tunica, Miss., was blown away and several people are reported killed and injured. The wires are down in every direction and it is difficult to get details.

DID NOT INTEND TO KILL.

TRAGEDY NEAR GANANOQUE OVER A QUARREL ABOUT SAND.

Two Old Men Attempt to Terrify One Another By Shooting in Order to Secure Possession of a House—One Shot Through the Door.

GANANOQUE, Ont., March 25.—A case of shooting occurred yesterday eight miles east of here, by which John Fitzsimmons lost his life. The ownership of a house and small piece of land in the locality mentioned and near the St. Lawrence River was in dispute. Fitzsimmons claimed it by right of purchase from all the heirs but one, and Mrs. Jelee claimed it as the heir whose interest had not been purchased.

Three weeks ago Mrs. Jelee' family moved into the house and took possession of the property, which was previous to that time unoccupied. They lived there undisturbed for two weeks, when one night John Fitzsimmons and three of his sons appeared at the house and forcibly ejected the Jelee' family, throwing their effects out on the road.

There was considerable resistance, and the affray was the cause of several charges for assault, etc., at the police court here.

The cases were tried here on Monday and Tuesday last, when the Police Magistrate reserved his decision till to-day. This morning he dismissed all but two of the charges and fined John Fitzsimmons and one of the sons $5 each and costs for assault.

Whether this decision was taken as upholding Mrs. Jelee' rights to the property or not, is not known; but this forenoon she and her husband took their effects back to the house with the intention of moving in again.

Charles Shipman is Mrs. Jelee' father, and his story is that he happened to be passing the place when his daughter and son-in-law reached there with their things. They called him to assist them in unloading, and he went over to the house. Just as they stopped at the door the door was pulled open from the inside and John Fitzsimmons appeared in the doorway and forbade them entering. Shipman attempted to parley with him and attempted to go in the house. Fitzsimmons then, according to Shipman's story, fired several times with his revolver and then beat Shipman unmercifully over the head with it. Shipman retreated and Fitzsimmons retired to an inner room and closed the inside door.

At this time Shipman's son, who had been hunting ducks, came along with his gun, loaded with duck shot. Shipman took the gun and, going to the door, called out that he was not afraid now, as he could shoot, too. He pointed the gun at the inside door, expecting Fitzsimmons would open suddenly and would be cowed by the sight of the gun. But the door did not open and in the excitement the gun held by Shipman went off, accidentally, as he says, the shot going through the door. Waiting a few minutes and calling to Fitzsimmons, without obtaining an answer they burst open the door and found him lying dead on the floor, the shot having penetrated his chest.

Shipman then came to Gananoque and surrendered to the Police Magistrate. Shipman was badly cut about the head. His wounds were dressed by Dr. Emery, who probed them but found no shot. Shipman is now in charge of the chief constable, and will be taken to Brockville jail to-morrow.

A coroner has gone from Lansdowne to hold an inquest. Fitzsimmons was a large man, 57 years old. One of his sons is a merchant and postmaster at Rockport.

THE BOUNDARY LINE.

A Lawsuit Gives Canada New Territory at the Falls.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., March 25.—Some remarkable facts were brought to light in the cases of the shantymen on the ice bridge, arrested for selling "international beverages," commonly known as whisky, on that structure this winter. The cases came up before the United States Commissioner, J. E. Pond, at Lockport, N.Y., yesterday, and C. E. Cromley of Niagara Falls, N.Y., who appeared for George Kingley and August Fox, the two men under arrest, established beyond a doubt that the men were located on the Canadian side.

It has been generally considered that the centre of the river was the boundary line. The Government officials have held to this opinion. Mr. Cromley made a careful research, and found that the treaty of Ghent, made in 1816, established the boundary line as the deep water channel of the river. By this treaty, Goat Island and Kindred Islands and Grand Island became United States property.

In the treaty of 1848 the Government made a coast survey, and to the surprise of all, the soundings in the river below the falls established the deep channel as along the American shore, about a third of the way out from the river bank.

These facts were submitted as testimony to-day, and the men having their shanties on the ice bridge in the centre of the river were shown to have been in the Dominion of Canada and Province of Ontario.

By this disclosure of the law Government and police officials on both sides of the river, both Canadian and American, have been fooled in the belief that criminals must pass the middle portion of the suspension bridges before they could be accounted as being in either one country or the other, when in fact, after they had passed a third of the distance over from the American side, they were in Canadian territory.

The excise laws on this side are very strict and the local authorities here wanted to arrest the ice bridge offenders, but were deterred, thinking they were on the boundary line or in American territory. The fact is clearly established now. Kingley and Fox were immediately discharged.

British Members to Be Paid.

LONDON, March 25.—The House of Commons by a vote of 276 to 220, passed a resolution that in future all members be paid for their services in Parliament. The resolution was introduced by William Allen, Radical member for Newcastle-Under-Lyme.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

MR. CHARLTON STILL ADVOCATING SUNDAY OBSERVANCE.

But He Could Not Prevent Justice From Rendering Verdicts on the Sabbath—A Kick Against Inducing Immigration From the United States.

OTTAWA, March 25.—Yesterday was a fairly good working day, and although Mr. Charlton has lost a good deal of time in efforts to force his Sunday observance ideas into the Criminal Code and into the appointment of World's Fair Commissioners, still a number of Government bills have been passed, and on the whole satisfactory progress has been made, so that the prospect of prorogation taking place next Saturday remains good.

The bills respecting the inspection of petroleum and amending the act respecting land in the Northwest Territories were introduced and read a first time, but Mr. Foster explained with respect to the latter that it was not intended to press it this year.

The House went into committee on the bill amending the Criminal Code.

Mr. Charlton moved to repeal clause 729, which permits a court to receive a verdict from a jury on Sunday.

Mr. Davies thought the repeal of the clause might induce jurors to give hasty judgments so as to get through before midnight on Saturday and avoid being locked up over Sunday.

Mr. Charlton objected to any judicial proceedings of any kind taking place on Sunday.

Mr. Davies thought it most unfair to lock the jurymen up on Sunday and prevent their going to church.

Mr. Tisdale thought that the judges could be depended on to see the law carried out in a Christian spirit. He did not think it would further Sabbath observance to lock a jury up over Sunday when the verdict may be ready a few minutes after midnight.

After some further discussion the amendment was lost by a vote in committee of 24 for to 55 against.

Mr. McMullen offered an amendment that the verdict might be rendered, but no other judicial act performed.

Mr. Davis thought that the judge ought surely to be allowed to discharge a prisoner if he was found innocent, and the clerk of the court should record the judgment.

The amendment was lost and the committee rose and reported, and the bill was read a third time and passed.

The House went into committee on the resolution to provide for the salaries of two commissioners to the World's Fair.

Hon. Mr. Foster explained that what was wanted was that a member of the House or member of the Senate may be appointed.

Considerable discussion took place as to salaries being paid to members of Parliament, and the resolution was finally amended by striking out the word "services" and substituting "expenses" and giving power to appoint one or both commissioners from the members of the House.

Mr. Charlton moved an amendment to the effect that such payment of expenses be made conditional on the Canadian section of the fair being closed on Sundays.

The motion was declared out of order and the resolution was reported. Six o'clock.

After recess a number of private bills were passed, including the divorce bills of James Frederic Doran, Annette Marion Goff and John Francis Schwaller.

The House then went into committee on the railway subsidy resolutions and discussed them the whole evening.

To-day's Canada Gazette will contain the appointment of Chief Justice Lacoste as administrator of the Province of Quebec, during the absence of Lieut.-Governor Chapleau, and of Chief Justice Taylor, as administrator of the Province of Manitoba, during the absence of Lieut.-Governor Schultz.

Mr. Hugh Mackenzie Wilson, Q.C., has been appointed Deputy-Judge of the County of Brant.

The postoffice at Alexandria in Glengarry County was entered on Tuesday night and stamps to the value of $60 taken.

In the Committee on Agriculture this morning Mr. A. M. Burgess, Deputy Minister of the Interior, gave evidence as to the steps taken to promote emigration from the United States. Mr. Carpenter thought that it was a waste of money to bring back to Canada persons who had left Canada because they were not successful, who had not succeeded in the United States and who were not likely to be successful anywhere. Dr. Roome and Mr. McGregor also spoke against spending money for this purpose, and Mr. Macdonald (Assiniboia) said that these immigrants who had been brought into Canada from the United States had proved failures.

A resolution was passed recognising the services of Professor Robertson in connection with the dairy interests of Canada and recommending his employment on the permanent staff of the Central Experimental Farm at a good salary.

Another resolution was passed recommending the appointment of a competent veterinary surgeon, whose duty it would be to look after the health of the live stock of the country, and to whom all communications could be addressed from persons who had reason to believe that their herds were in any way affected. This officer was to be invested with full authority, on the receipt of such communication, to take immediate and prompt measures to arrest and eradicate the disease.

Commander Gordon, R.N., nautical adviser to the Department of Marine and Fisheries, and commander of the fisheries protection fleet, died of consumption at his residence in Ottawa yesterday morning. He was only 42 years of age. He entered the service in 1863, and retired in 1873, was appointed deputy superintendent of the Meteorological Service under Professor Carpmael in 1880, and served until 1891, when the office was abolished and he was appointed nautical adviser to the Marine and Fisheries Department. He had charge of the expedition to Hudson's Bay, sent out by the Dominion Government in 1885-'6-'7, with a view to determining the length of the season of navigation in the Bay. His remains will be taken to Cooksville, near Toronto, on Monday, and the funeral will probably take place on Tuesday.

Sheriff Sweetland was yesterday at Ottawa served with the writ of habeas corpus, issued at Toronto Thursday, in the case of John R. Arnoldi. The writ was returnable immediately and was sent back last evening, so that the case may come up to-day. There is an impression amongst some of the legal fraternity at Ottawa that Arnoldi may secure his liberty on a technical point.

SWEPT BY A CYCLONE.

A SWATH TWENTY MILES WIDE DOWN SOUTH.

In Glorious Cut Towns, Kills Many People, Injures Others—Houses Lifted Up And Blown Away—Many Families Homeless.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 25.—The path of the cyclone which entered Tennessee yesterday in a southwesterly direction from Mississippi appears to have been about 20 miles in width, although serious damage was confined to a much smaller area. Wires are down in all directions. There is no telegraphic communication with Nashville and intervening points, and little news is obtainable from places visited by the cyclone.

This city barely escaped. A heavy rain fell and a high wind blew at the time the cyclone raged, and it became as dark as night for 30 minutes. Heavy damage was done to trees and small outbuildings. A train from Birmingham, Ala., arrived late last night, and reports much damage between here and Byhallia, 20 miles east. At 2.30 o'clock this morning the wire at Kelly, Miss., was tapped, and details telegraphed to show that the early reports were not exaggerated.

A despatch from Nashville, Tenn., says: Half of the state penitentiary, which covers 80 acres of ground, was torn to pieces by the cyclone, entailing an enormous loss.

The convicts, 500 in number, had just moved out of the mess hall when the building collapsed.

Darden, a suburban town, was obliterated by the storm and fire. The damage to Nashville property alone is over $100,000. The cyclone plowed its way down the Cumberland Valley and destroyed property and life, but wires are down and nothing definite can be learned.

Another dispatch from Memphis says: Not a house escaped the storm's fury. Only a few are left standing and they are badly damaged. The house of Roland Cox was lifted up and blown away. The house of Robert Stevens is a heap of ruins. The residence of D. N. Harris, a wealthy planter, was wrecked and the houses of four of his tenants were blown away. Three houses belonging to S. Hudel were blown down. The dwelling house of W. C. Rogge, which faced north, was turned and now faces south.

A despatch from Indianapolis, Ind., says: A storm, which assumed the proportions of a cyclone, visited Indiana about 9 o'clock last night and left devastation and suffering in its track. In Indianapolis 50 houses were wrecked in one neighborhood in the northwestern portion. Many families were rendered temporarily homeless. The magnitude of the storm was not known until day dawned.

At Tuxedo, a suburb, many houses were wrecked and several of the smaller ones were carried away. Many of the residents passed the night in their cellars.

The storm was accompanied by a heavy fall of rain and a fantastic play of lightning. The coreline mills on the northwestern edge of the city, a three-story brick building, suffered much damage. Its walls were wrenched and its roof taken off. One employe had a leg broken.

The Capital City Coffin Works lost its first story. Along Fall Creek dozens of giant forest trees were uprooted. Advices from all parts of the state indicate much property damaged and some persons killed. The loss, while not accurately known in this city, will amount to many thousands of dollars. No lives were lost in this city and only a few persons were injured, and those not seriously.

At Logootee a three-story flouring mill was wrecked and part of the debris was thrown against the Central Hotel. The Catholic church and the City hotel were also badly damaged. The loss on the flouring mill will reach several thousand dollars.

At McCordeville the farmhouse of James McCord was blown to pieces and Mrs. McCord was fatally injured.

At Evansville a number of small buildings were blown down. A part of the Southern Indiana Hospital for Insane was blown down and one patient was injured. The depot building at the hospital was also demolished.

At Brazil the storm raged furiously. Outbuildings and fences were levelled to the earth and trees were carried great distances. Several coal mines were flooded. The loss will be many thousands.

Additional particulars from Alexandria say the tornado struck that city about 9.30, damaging residences, business houses, and destroying the Tippin Scott glass factory. The wind struck it at the south and crushed it down on the machinery and employes. The damage will reach $5000 to the factory alone. John Andler, jr., was instantly killed. Three hundred and fifty men are thrown out of employment until the factory can be rebuilt. Some of the injured men remained in the debris from the time of the storm till 8 o'clock this morning.

Struck a Tree.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., March 25.—About 12 o'clock last night the eastbound passenger train on the Louisville, Evansville and St. Louis struck a tree which had blown across the track a mile east of Huntingburg. The engine and three coaches were turned over and completely wrecked. A brakeman was fatally injured and three passengers were seriously hurt.

Alex. Buntin Dead.

MONTREAL, March 25.—Alexander Buntin, the big paper manufacturer, died in Bath, England, yesterday. He was well known in Canada. He came out from Scotland about 50 years ago a poor boy, but soon made his mark in this country. He was 71 years of age at the time of his death. He was the senior partner in the firm of Buntin, Reid & Co. of this city. He leaves a family of three daughters and one son.

A Sad Death.

HAMILTON, March 25.—Derward Reid, a four-year-old son of J. S. Reid, of the firm of Robertson, Munro & Reid, was killed by a wagon loaded with hay Friday. He tried to pull a handful of hay from the passing load, fell under the wagon and his skull was crushed.

Inspector Hunt Dead.

WINNIPEG, March 25.—Inspector Hunt of the Northwest Mounted Police died suddenly at Duck Lake last night of paralysis of the heart. He was a native of Quebec.

Duke of Bedford Dead.

LONDON, March 25.—George William Francis Sackville Russell, tenth Duke of Bedford, died suddenly last evening of failure of the heart.

A WARKWORTH MIRACLE.

THE HAPPY TERMINATION OF YEARS OF SUFFERING.

Mr. E. Crouter Relates an Experience of Great Value to Others—Life Was Becoming a Burden When Relief Came—A Druggist Expresses His Opinion.

Warkworth Journal.

Not long ago a representative of the Journal while in conversation with Mr. N. Empey, druggist, drifted upon a topic which appears to be of general interest, not only to this locality but throughout the country. We refer to the wonderful cures through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Newspaper men are not possessed of more curiosity than other people, but they have a feeling that instinctively leads them to investigation, and in the course of our conversation we asked Mr. Empey whether he thought the sales of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are really as much as claimed for them. The answer was that judging from his own sales he was well assured that Pink Pills are the most valuable, as well as the most reliable and most successful proprietary medicine extant. In answer to the query as to whether there were any noteworthy cures in this vicinity, Mr. Empey promptly responded, 'Yes, many people have been greatly benefitted by the use of Pink Pills, and I know of one case in particular worthy of being recorded. The case to which I refer," continued Mr. Empey, "is that of Mr. Crouter, brother of Rev. Darius Crouter, who some years ago represented East Northumberland in the House of Commons. Mr. Crouter was suffering from nervous affections and the after effects of la grippe. He had not been able to do anything for two years, was unable to eat as he could not hold a knife or fork in his half paralyzed hands. He suffered greatly from cramps in his arms and legs, and had a continual feeling of coldness. One day Mr. Crouter made enquiry concerning Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I advised him to try them, and the result is that he has entirely recovered his health."

Having heard this much, the Journal determined to interview Mr. Crouter, and to get from his own lips the full particulars of his illness and remarkable recovery. We found Mr. Crouter at his home in the best of health, and enjoying an evening smoke after a day's toil in the woods. When informed of the object of our visit, Mr. Crouter said he was glad to bear testimony to the wonderful value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as a remedial agency. "The original cause of my trouble" said Mr. Crouter, "I date back a good many years. When I was 19 years old I drank a glass of cold water when overheated, which proved a most injudicious act on my part. I was sick for thirteen months and unable to work, and since that time until recently I have never had what you could call a well day. Two years ago I had an attack of la grippe which nearly cost me my life. My legs and feet were continually cold and cramped, and I could get little or no sleep at night. It was impossible for me to eat with a knife or fork and I was forced to eat with a spoon and you can understand what a burden life was to me. One day I read in the Journal of a remarkable cure by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I made up my mind to give them a trial. I sent to Mr. Empey's for a supply and before the first box was entirely gone I could notice that they were helping me, so you may be sure I continued their use. When I began using the Pink Pills there was such a numbness in my feet that I could not feel the floor when I stepped on it. As I continued the use of the pills this disappeared; the feeling returned to ms limbs, the cramps left me, I felt as though new blood were coursing through my veins, and I can now go to bed and sleep soundly all night. I have taken just twelve boxes of Pink Pills and I consider them the cheapest doctor's bill I ever paid. When I get up in the morning instead of feeling tired and depressed, I feel thoroughly refreshed, and all this wonderful change is due to Dr. William's Pink Pills. Although I am 71 years old I can go into the woods and do a hard day's chopping without feeling the least bad effects. I have now so much confidence in Dr. William's Pink Pills, that I intend shortly beginning their use again, this time as a spring medicine, for I believe they have no equal for building up the blood and I strongly recommend them to all sufferers, or to any who wish to fortify the system against disease.

Mr. Crouter has lived in this vicinity for fourty-five years, and is well-known as an upright, honourable gentleman, whose statements can be fully depended on in every particular.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are a never-failing blood builder and nerve restorer, curing partial paralysis, locomotor ataxia, St. Vitus dance, nervous headache, nervous prostration and the tired feeling therefrom, the after effects of la grippe, influenza and severe colds, diseases depending on humors in the blood, such as scrofula, chronic erysipelas, etc., Pink Pills give a healthy glow to pale and sallow complexions, and are a specific for the troubles peculiar to the female system, and in the case of men they effect a radical cure, in all cases arising from mental worry, over-work or excesses of any nature.

These Pills are manufactured by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont., and Schenectady, N. Y., and are sold only in boxes bearing the firm's trade mark and wrapper, at 50c. a box, or six boxes for $2.50. Bear in mind that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are never sold in bulk or by the dozen or hundred, and any dealer who offers substitutes in this form is trying to defraud you and should be avoided The public are also cautioned against all other so-called blood builders or nerve tonics, no matter what name may be given them. They are all imitations whose makers hope to reap a pecuniary advantage from the wonderful reputation achieved by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Ask your dealer for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and refuse all imitations and substitutes.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills may be had of all druggists or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company from either address. The price at which these pills are sold makes a course of treatment comparatively inexpensive as compared with other remedies or medical treatment.

MOBBED A MISSIONARY.

Coreans Tear Out His Beard and Nearly Kill Him.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 24.—According to Corean advices by the steamer Gaelic, Father M. Jossan, a Catholic missionary, was terribly maltreated by a mob recently. He was passing on foot through the market town of Kinchuen, accompanied by a teacher and a boy. As soon as the crowd recognised him there were shouts of "Kill the foreigner! Stone him!"

The natives threw themselves upon the priest, knocking him down and kicked him unmercifully. After the mob had torn out his beard, they beat him and then tried to bury him alive in the sand. At last, somewhat alarmed at the consequence of a possible murder—always a serious matter in Corea—the mob dispersed, leaving the missionary and his companions half dead upon the ground.

It isn't in the ordinary way that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription comes to the weak and suffering woman who needs it. It's guaranteed. Not with words merely; any medicine can make claims and promises. What is done with the "Favorite Prescripton" is this: if it fails to benefit or cure, in any case, your money is returned. Can you ask any better proof that a medicine will do what it promises?

It's an invigorating, restorative tonic, a soothing and strengthening nervine, and a certain remedy for the ills and ailments that beset a woman. In "female complaints" of every kind, periodical pains, internal inflammation or ulceration, bearing-down sensations, and all chronic weakness and irregularities, it is a positive and complete cure.

To every tired, overworked woman, and to every weak, nervous, and ailing one, it is guaranteed to bring health and strength.

On information laid by Detective Rogers Godolphin was brought before Justice of Peace James Boyer at 10 o'clock for trial. He made a statement admitting his guilt to the charges of forgery in uttering and embezzlement and was committed for trial. Godolphin is now in jail and has asked for an immediate trial before Judge Mahaffy.

A COURT OFFICIAL!

A Red-Letter Day in His Life!

Rescued From a Terrible Condition

How it Was Done!

WM. GARVEY.

Mr. Wm. Garvey, of Morrisburg, Ont., is Clerk of the Division Court, and one of the most respected and best-known men in Eastern Ontario. Some time ago Mr. Garvey's condition of health was alarming and critical. His case was one that demanded prompt and careful treatment. Experiments were out of the question; the gravity of his condition required the best and most effective measures that science could devise. With great decision and wisdom, Paine's Celery Compound was used, and here, reader, observe the grand results! Mr. Garvey's joyful confession fully explains the work accomplished; he says: "I am completely restored."

Mr. Garvey writes as follows for the benefit of all sufferers:—

"It is with great pleasure I add my testimony to the merits of your popular remedy for nervousness and general broken-down condition of the body. I could not sleep nights and had no appetite to eat. I commenced to obtain help from the first bottle used; and after using ten bottles of Paine's Celery Compound, which I bought from F. B. Carman, the well-known druggist here, I must say I am completely restored. I cheerfully recommend all to use it who are in a bad condition, assuring them they will certainly receive help from its use.

BEHRING SEA CASE.

The Board of Arbitration Has Organized and Has Adjourned.

PARIS, March 24.—The Court of Arbitration appointed to adjust the difficulties between Great Britain and the United States in relation to the seal fisheries in Behring Sea met in the office of the French Foreign Ministry. All the members of the Court of Arbitration were present. M. Deville, French Minister of Foreign Affairs, made a speech welcoming the members of the court, the agents and the counsel. The meeting was purely formal.

Credentials were presented and the court organized by the election of Baron de Courcelles as president. It was decided to meet at 11.30 a.m. each day and to sit for four hours and a half daily, the meetings to be open to members of the press, to whom cards should be issued.

The court then adjourned until April 4 in order to examine the printed arguments of the United States and Great Britain, which were presented.

ROBBERY AND CRUELTY.

Torture An Infant To Make Its Mother Confess.

PITTSBURG, Pa., March 24.—Four masked robbers yesterday went to the residence of J. C. McClelland, a wealthy farmer, residing one mile from Findleyville, during the absence of all members of the household except Mrs. William Kerr, McClelland's married daughter, and her 18-months'-old infant.

McClelland had gone to Washington to deposit $2800 in a bank. The robbers were after this money, and after terrorizing Mrs. Kerr and the child they began ransacking the house. The baby cried and one of the men grabbed it by the throat, choking it.

The mother flew at the fellow, who dealt her a blow with his fist, knocking her to the floor. She was then bound and gagged and thrown upon a bed, while one of the gang stood over her with drawn revolver.

After an hour's search the robbers returned to where the woman lay and demanded that she tell them where the money was secreted. Loosening her hair they cut it from her head. Then one of the men took the baby from the room.

Soon the mother heard the baby's screams and she was told that her child was being killed by inches, and the only way to save its life was to disclose the hiding-place of the money. The mother tugged at her bonds until the strands cut into the flesh and blood gushed from under her finger nails.

This continued for some time, when the men ran from the house. Mrs. Kerr's struggle loosened her bonds, and taking her child in her arms she ran to a neighbor's and fell in a faint at the door. When consciousness was restored she told her story and a posse of men was organized to hunt for the robbers. So far no trace of them has been discovered. The baby's flesh had been pinched and jagged to make it scream.

"What's in a name?" Well, that depends. For instance, the name of "Ayer" is sufficient guarantee that Ayer's Sarsaparilla is a genuine, scientific blood-purifier, and not a sham, like so much that goes by the name of "sarsaparilla." Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the standard.

THE WALLACE OF SWITZERLAND

This infallible and powerful agent successfully battles against coughs, colds, hoarseness, sore throat and all affections of the bronchial tubes. Harvard Bronchial Syrup is never defeated in its great work; all troubles fall before it, and every victim is delivered from danger.

Have you called this mighty agent to your relief? Are you willing to test its power and efficacy? If you are suffering from the effects of colds in any form you are in danger; remember the results may prove fatal if the troubles are neglected.

Your wise course will be to make use of the deliverer while you have opportunity. Harvard Bronchial Syrup is too well known to require a more extended notice than is here given. It is the only acknowledged remedy of value in America for all dangers resulting from colds.

HOW I WON MY CRUTCHES

AFTER YEARS OF TERRIBLE SUFFERING.

AN INTERESTING HISTORY.

STATEMENT OF MR. WM. McNEE.

For eight years I was troubled with a sore on my leg which resulted from having it broken. The doctors kept me in bed five months trying to heal it up, but all to no purpose. I tried all sorts of salves, liniments, ointments, pills and blood medicines but with no benefit. In 1883 it became so bad that I had to sit on one chair and keep my foot on another for four months. I could not put my foot on the ground or the blood would rush out in a stream and my leg swelled to twice its natural size.

ELEVEN RUNNING SORES

developed on it which reduced me to a living skeleton (I lost 70 lbs. in four months). Friends advised me to go to the Hospital; but I would not, for I knew they would take my leg off. The doctor then wanted to split it open and scrape the bone, but I was too weak to stand the operation. One old lady said it had turned to black erysipelas and could never be cured. I had never heard of Burdock Blood Bitters then, but I read of a minister, Rev. Mr. Stout, who had been cured of a severe abscess on the neck by B.B.B., after medical aid had failed, and I thought I would try it. I washed the leg with the Bitters and took them according to directions. After using one bottle I could walk on crutches, after taking three, I threw away the crutches, took a scythe and went to work in the field. At the end of the sixth bottle my leg was entirely healed up; pieces of loose bone had worked out of it and the cords came back to their natural places again. That was nine years ago and it has never broken out since. I can walk five miles to-day as fast as anyone, and all this I owe to B. B. B., which certainly saved my leg, if not my life. I cheerfully recommend it to all sufferers. Give B. B. B. a trial, it will cure you as it did me.

Yours truly,
WM. McNEE, St. Ives P.O., Ont.

Mr. F. C. Sanderson, the druggist of St. Marys, Ont., certifies to the entire truthfulness of the remarkable statement made by Mr. McNee and says that several other wonderful cures have been made in his district.

TO BE OR NOT TO BE "IN IT."

A Life Agent called at a friend's place one day,
HE WASN'T IN IT;
He had seen "the boys" coming and had flown his way
HE WASN'T IN IT;
He had heard so much talk, he was tired and sick
Of insurance and agents—was all a blank trick,
When one's call must be shuffled to win it,
HE WASN'T IN IT.

A bit of a draft blew o'er his bald head,
HE WAS IN IT;
Pneumonia sent him straightway to his bed,
HE HAVING IN IT;

To save him for—making still more of his—,
But the grave took some changes rung,
AND HE'S IN IT.

When approached by a gent for insuring your life,
GET RIGHT IN IT;
It's the right thing to do for your children and wife,
THEN STAY IN IT.
Remember that fires take your goods "out of sight,"
And that accidents happen each day and each night.
While insurance protects every minute,
IF YOU'RE IN IT.

A Bank Manager's Opinion.

HE IS "IN IT."

The General Manager of one of the leading banks in Canada, writing to a personal friend, says:—"I have no hesitation in saying that I place the CANADA LIFE upon the highest platform. It is in my opinion carefully, economically and honestly managed; its Reserve Funds are well invested; its rates of Premiums are low, and its future is, I think better assured than a great majority of Companies. I have my own life insured in the Company for a round amount, and would not hesitate to increase the amount of my policies should I decide upon taking out further insurance."

A Government Insurance Actuary's Opinion

On the Relation between Ordinary and Tontine Service.

It is frequently asserted by Companies whose business is nearly all tontine, that although the CANADA LIFE may and does pay large ordinary profits, yet it cannot compare so favourably on a long term distribution or tontine period, and that in the end better results can be obtained on a tontine policy in a large American Co. than on an ordinary or tontine policy in the CANADA LIFE. To prove the absurdity of this statement, the following piece of common sense is quoted from Mervin Tabor, late Actuary of the Illinois Goverment Insurance Department. In his well known book, "The Three Systems of Life Insurance," he says: "A company that gives large dividends on the ordinary kind of policies, can give much larger on the same kinds when Tontined, and a company that pays but meagre dividends on the usual forms, adopting perhaps the Tontine system to "cover up" its small surpluses, cannot be relied on for large returns of surplus under the Tontine Forms of Insurance."

The CANADA LIFE does not "cover up" its Quinquennial profits as some Companies do, but publishes them throughout the country.

It can and does surpass other Companies on Quinquennial profits. It should and will surpass them on Tontine profits.

WHY TO BE "IN IT."

BISHOP HAWKE'S REASON:—"I claim that Life Insurance is not only a humane, but I might say a Christian Institution."

LORD LYNDHURST'S REASON:—"A Policy of Life Insurance is always an evidence of prudent forethought. No man with a dependent family is free from reproach if not insured."

WHEN TO BE "IN IT."

The younger, the cheaper. Therefore insure when young. Besides by insuring in the CANADA LIFE now, you will share in three years' profits.

WHERE TO BE "IN IT."

The best place to be "in it" is in the Company that gives the best returns for the least money, consistent with absolute security. Therefore, in order, to be "in it," choose the

A Beautiful Millinery Display.

Miss Delaney's millinery opening day will be next Tuesday, the 28th. Miss Delaney has had the pleasure of announcing her openings for some years, but this one is the most important of any in the past, She has secured for this season some great values in her direct importations from the European markets, and is showing some beautiful designs which are fully one year in advance of those usually shown in Canada. By her personal inspection of the leading stocks in Montreal and Toronto she has purchased the choice of those centres and as usual at the lowest possible prices. Miss Delaney has a great advantage in one particular, over ordinary buyers in the fact of her sister living in New York City, who is continually selecting the principal novelties there and has already forwarded a number of handsome Pattern Hats and Bonnets, with other attractions. Miss Delaney intends importing goods constantly from New York during the season. Miss Delaney's position has always been a leading one in millinery but her stock has never been so large and attractive as it is this season. 3d

A TEMPERANCE NIGHT AT THE OPERA HOUSE.

Æsop's Fables Illustrated by Lime-Views—Stirring Words by Mr. W. W. Buchanan, of Hamilton—Progress of the Temperance Movement.

The attendance at the opera house last evening to hear Mr. W. W. Buchanan, editor of the Weekly Templar, Hamilton, and one of the cleverest writers and most brilliant advocates of temperance reform in Canada to-day, deliver his lecture on "The Prohibition Æsop" was very large. The body of the house was filled from proscenium to entrance. On the platform were Rev. T. Goldsmith, of St. Paul's church, who officiated in the capacity of chairman during the evening. Rev. A. McWilliams, of St. Andrew's church, Rev. J. H. Locke, of the George street church, Dr. J. A. Fife, S.C., Peterborough Council R.T. of T., Messrs. T. W. Robinson, Wm. Eyres, F. Mason and Mr. Buchanan, the lecturer of the evening.

Rev. Mr. Goldsmith opened the proceedings in a few timely remarks imploring divine blessing upon the proceedings. He was glad to see so large a number present. The chairman then called upon Rev. Mr. Locke to deliver the opening prayer, after which Mr. Goldsmith said he need spend no time in placing the objects of a meeting like this before the people. He spoke of the temperance movement in Hamilton and had met Mr. Buchanan, who by tongue, pen and otherwise had helped the temperance movement throughout the world. There was a growing sentiment in regard to the temperance cause and the speaker instanced this by some illustrations from his own personal observations. Temperance had come to be a respectable matter and so large an audience as was gathered here this evening spoke of the estimate in which the subject of temperance was held. Having expressed his views on the subject in a recent sermon, the speaker said it would be unnecessary for him to explain them again this evening. In a few complimentary remarks he then introduced Mr. Buchanan, who was well known, and he trusted that his words would give an impulse to the temperance cause in our good and beautiful town.

Mr. Buchanan, who was received with applause, said it was no slight honour to be introduced by an old Hamilton man. He was cosmopolitan in character, and felt quite at home before any audience. The effort to-night would be somewhat novel, but nevertheless honest and serious to promote the temperance cause. The stereopticon was used as an adjunct to impress the truths which would be presented. The habit of teaching by fables was an old one but a useful method. The speaker then referred to the noted fabulist, Æsop, who taught the people the lessons of his time by birds, beasts, and reptiles. In that time criticism was limited, and men who desired to improve the condition of their fellows had to proceed cautiously. To-day was an age of freedom of speech and criticism, and he hoped the fables presented to-night would appeal to the eye and ear, and all would profit by them and the cartoons presented. The modern Æsop was a gentleman who had written his name all over the English speaking world. He referred to Mr. J. W. Bengough, late chief cartoonist on the Grip newspaper. He was noted throughout the world for his fame and ability. Bengough had brought a peculiar art—that of caricature—up to the cause of righteousness and no man, perhaps, in his own sphere had done more to promote the temperance interest in Canada than Mr. Bengough. Mr. Bengough was engaged on the Weekly Templar, a new temperance organ published in Hamilton with a circlation of 30,000, of which the speaker was the editor. He would have no one apprehend that these fables were dealing with the whole of the temperance reform. These were only incidents in the reform and should be looked upon in the right way. Mr. Buchanan referred to the growth of the temperance sentiment since his time and said he coincided with the remarks of Rev. Mr. Goldsmith. In all the fields where these operations of moral suasion had come things were progressing and were completely changed. Some of the intelligent advocates of temperancere form sometimes rose up and said the movement was not going ahead and was growing worse and he asked if there was anything consistent in these views. The speaker said yes, there were two sides of looking at the question. In the field of moral suasion the results have been most encouraging because we had operated in that field wisely and well. He, as a Canadian, was proud that all the moral forces had come up to this great reform as in no other land in the world. The pulpit had come out and done splendid service in the cause. With regard to the press despite the opposition of some, it had almost been unanimous in advocating the principles of temperance and done good service all along the line. He was proud to be identified with such an agency as the press. The blue ruin side of the reform was another side of the question. The private appetite had been treated all right but what about the liquor traffic which sustained the private appetite and nourished it. In dealing with the public traffic they had done nothing and had results commensurate with their efforts. Some said don't go into politics. How were we going to get at it if we did not take it into politics? Temperance had become a great institution in politics and had become intrenched in it and the only way was to go in and take it out. There had not been made made great efforts to badish the traffic this way and if they wished to be successful they must treat it in a consecrated, concrete manner. There was no room for the caricaturist's pencils in the field of moral suason when we were dealing with men who for the sake of political success would bow down to the yoke of liquor power, it was right to bring Mr. Bengough's ironical pencil down on them. The same applied to men who for a little consideration and self-gratification voted for the liquor cause and this was the reason why Mr. Bengough's pencil was applied to the traffic. The Y. M. C. A. quartette, composed of Messrs. Squires, Stiers, Wesley and Preston then sang, "Song of the Soldier," very acceptably and to the appreciation of their auditors. The famous Æsops fables were then illustrated by Mr. R. M. Roy, with his powerful sterlopticon upon a large canvas for nearly an hour.

All the views, some of which were impressive and others humorous, were explained by Mr. Buchanan, who related the fable incident thereto, and from the stories and pictures deduced many forcible arguments and scored many potent points against liquor and the liquor traffic. The views were highly appreciated and could not, combined with the earnest and convincing words of the lecturer, fail but to impress and educate.

Another quartette was rendered by Misses Heubeck and Sherlock and Messrs. Wesley and Squires entitled "Moonlight on the Lake." It was melodiously sung. A vote of thanks was moved Mr. Buchanan for his novel and able temperance lecture, by Dr. Fife and seconded by Mr. Wm. Eyres. Mr. Buchanan acknowledged the vote of thanks in a few grateful remarks. The proceedings closed by the singing of "God Save the Queen."

The lecture and entertainment was under the auspices of Peterborough Council No. 97, Royal Templars of Temperance.

J. J. Howden Preparing for Easter.

In anticipation of a large increase of business at Easter, Mr. J. J. Howden has purchased a carload of prime cattle to be slaughtered for his Easter trade. These cattle were secured in one of the best markets for cash, and just in the nick of time, when prices were falling. It is worthy of note that Mr. Howden's close buying will materially assist him in reducing the price of his prime cuts to 10c per lb., in order to boom the cash system, which he is adopting on and after Easter Saturday, April 1st. dtf

Why is HOOD'S Sarsaparilla

Such a great success, and why is it impossible for other Sarsaparillas and blood purifiers to compete with this great medicine? Because

No Other Sarsaparilla has the merit to secure the confidence of entire communities and hold it year in and year out, as has Hood's Sarsaparilla.

No Other Sarsaparilla can produce from actual cures such wonderful statements of relief given to human suffering as Hood's Sarsaparilla.

No Other Sarsaparilla possesses the Combination, Proportion and Process Peculiar to Hood's Sarsaparilla, and which makes Hood's Sarsaparilla in curative effect Peculiar to Itself.

No Other Sarsaparilla combines economy and strength as does Hood's Sarsaparilla. It is the only preparation of which can truly be said, 100 Doses $1.

THE "COMET" FOR 1893

is as far ahead in the field of Pneumatic Bicycles as a buggy is compared with a farm waggon. The COMET easily wins every time, and if you want to ride the boss 'cycle, you must have the COMET and no other.

The COMET PNEUMATIC BICYCLE gets there every time for durability, comfort, style and easy-going—that's beyond dispute. Its Canadian record is away up, for, among the members of the Century Road Club who rode their century during the past season, more were mounted on COMETS than on all other makes of wheels put together.

The COMET for 1893 is built in three styles, viz: Light Roadster, Road Scorcher and Track Racer, the heaviest of which does not weigh over 35 pounds. Further information on application to SPEEDING THE PARTING GUEST.

A Farewell Supper Tendered a Peterborough Young Man on the eve of his Departure for the Wild and Wooly West.

About thirty five of the young men of Peterborough, engaged mostly in the mercantile interest, assembled in the inviting dining room of the Palace Restaurant last evening. The occasion was a farewell supper tendered Mr. Colin C. Brown, head clerk in Messrs. Fortye & Phelan's hardware establishment, on the eve of his departure for Nelson, B.C. The spread provided by mine host Jas. Graham, was a choice one, the tables being admirably arraigned and bedecked with many fragrant plants and flowers in bloom. After the bivalves, which were of generous quantity and excellent quality, as well as the other delicacies were appreciatingly partaken of, a thoroughly enjoyable toast list began. The chair was occupied in a capable and obliging manner by Mr. E. B. Loucks, while in the vice chair was seated the genial F. J. Might. All the toasts were loyally honoured and readily responded to, the speeches possessing both briefness and wit. Many excellent songs were sung, splendid concertina and harmonica selections rendered, and the proceedings otherwise enlivened by facetious stories and recitations. All the speakers referred regretfully to Mr. Brown's departure. They had learned to esteem him as a warm and true friend, but while expressing sincere sorrow at his departure they, one and all, joined heartily in wishing him all success and deserving prosperity in taking Horace Greely's advice, "Go west, young man, go west." The toast of "Our Guest," was enthusiastically received and Mr. Brown in responding thanked his friends cordially for their entertainment this evening. He was sorry to break away associations with his many good friends in Peterborough, but the best of friends must part, and in leaving he was glad to know that he carried away with him the best wishes and evidences of good feeling from all the Peterborough "boys." He would always remember their many deeds of kindness and trusted he would not forget them when thousands of miles away, but that at some future date they might meet again under as auspicious circumstances as the present.

Mr. Brown will leave for Nelson, B. C., on Wednesday morning next, where he has obtained a splendid situation with R. E. Lemon & Co., retail hardware merchant. Colin's many friends will unite in wishing him, "good luck, good health and a good time."

The trouble with most cough medicines is that they spoil the appetite, weaken digestion, and create bile. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, on the contrary, while it gives immediate relief, assists rather than impairs the assimilative process.

AN EVENING WITH MARS.

A Learned Lecture Given by Mr. W. J. Drope, B. A., on this Heavenly Body Before the Collegiate Institute Literary Society.

The last of the series of lectures given under the auspices of the Collegiate Institute Literary Society was held in the Assembly Hall last evening. There was a good attendance, Mr. Cragg, president, occupied the chair, and opened the evenings proceedings in a few remarks.

The Octette Club, who very kindly consented to be present, favored the audience with two capital selections which were much appreciated. They were "Opening the Portals," and "Come Where the Lilies Bloom." Both numbers were well given. Master Alex. Elliott contributed a recitation in fine style.

Mr. Drope then delivered an edifying and highly interesting address on "The Planet Mars." He spoke without notes and in a fluent style, handling his subject thoroughly and exhaustively. In his opening remarks he stated that the most superficial reader could not have but noticed in the columns of our daily newspapers some reference to the nearest planetary neighbor of our mother earth, viz., the planet Mars. No planet of our solar system is of so great interest to the world at large and especially to astronomers as this interesting orb. The reason of this is at once obvious—it is the nearest planet to our own and hence offers better opportunities for observation and study. Not only is this the case, but the fact that it presents phases and conditions of climate, atmosphere and surface similar to those found upon the earth also adds interest to its observation and study. The lecturer then proceeded to explain the difference between a planet and a star. Planets are not self-luminous. They do present markings on their surface and change their relative positions amongst the constellations. These were not characteristics of stars. Mr. Drope then called to his aid several interesting drawings to illustrate the relative positions and distances of the planets of our solar system from the sun. The terms conjunction and opposition were next explained. The planet Mars was said to be in conjunction when the sun lies between the earth and the planet and it was in opposition when the

the sun and the planet. In this latter position it was most favourably situated for observation, and Mars was in this position last August, being distant from the earth about 35,000,000 miles. It was now nearly two hundred and fifty years since this planet was first subjected to the close scrutiny of astronomers. The first to make observations on the planet was Fontana of Naples, and even with his weak telescope he was able to recognize definite markings upon its surface. The markings have been studied by various astronomers during the past two centuries, and we were now led to believe that they designate permanent features upon its surface, the dark spots being presumably water, and the lighter and more ruddy parts representing land. Several astronomers had given us carefully finished sketches of the appearance of our neighbouring planet. Among these the best are those obtained by Prof. N. E. Green, during the opposition of 1877. He enjoyed the privilege of viewing it in the beautiful climate of Madeira. Mr. Drope then went on to describe how latitude and longitude was measured on the planet. The equator was the zero point of latitude and the [illegible] was the zero point of longitude. The presence of an atmosphere surrounding the planet has also been demonstrated, but it was much less ample than our own, being less dense and not so extensive. Clouds were also found in the atmosphere, but they fall far masses of clouds which sometimes surround our earth. The most important event in connection with Mr. Green's observation was the discovery of snow-capped regions surrounding the Poles. Prof. Shiaperelli in 1887 also made a startling discovery. He showed that these light regions before referred to were intersected by dark streaks about sixty miles wide and sometimes extending for thousands of miles. These are what have been designated the canals of Mars. The late Mr. Proctor, who was the first to construct a useful map of Mars, regarded these canals as rivers, but there are insuperable barriers to this theory. They sometimes intersect one another, and the straightness of their courses is anything but suggestive of the windings of the rivers found on our earth. The most interesting telescopic discovery made during this century was that made by Prof. Asaph Hall, of the United States National Observatory. It was the discovery of the two moons of Mars.

SHORT OF THE DENSE

ASTRONOMERS HAD THOUGHT

it rather strange that Mars should be the only exterior planet that had no satellite but had laboured in vain five years to discover it. It was in the August of 1877 that Prof. Green made these important discoveries. One of these moons performs the extraordinary feat of travelling around the planet in 7½ hours, and on this account appears to rise in the west. The other moon revolves about the planet in 30 hours. The distance of the outer satellite from the planet is 15,000 miles, of the inner 10,000. The names of these moons are Deimos and Phobos, the former being the outer and more conspicious, the latter the inner annd more interesting. Of all the observations made upon the planet last August the most reliable are those obtained at Arequipa in Peru. This observatory is under the direction of Prof. W. H. Pickering, of Harvard University. He has made a great number of drawings of the planet and upon its surface and has substantiated the observations made in 1877 by Profs. Schiaperelli and Green. Besides the discoveries they have formerly made, he has located several minor features such as lakes, rivers, etc. The next opposition will occur in 1894, and the professor is of the opinion that the planet will be better seen than in August last when the Martian skies were not very clear. The lecturer closed his address which was listened to with close attention, by discussing the probability of interastral communication and the habitability of the planet. With regard to the former he thought it might be accomplished by means of signals in the near future. It is also probable that the planet is inhabited, and as it was older than our own, they were as likely to be as highly civilized as any people found upon our earth. The lecturer suggested that it would be a pleasure to study the social and political institutions of these people by comparing them with our own. This could never be unless some means be devised of bringing Mars in closer proximity to the earth. But this was impossible as it would destroy the delicate mechanism of our solar system and instead of law and regularity we would have confusion and chaos.

At the close of the lecture, a quartette consisting of Mrs. Sanderson and Miss Fawcett, Messrs. Crane and Nelson, rendered very beautifully and with excellent effect, "Come Where My Love Lies Dreaming." Miss Sharpe recited in admirable form and was applauded. A hearty vote of thanks, moved by Mr. Fife and seconded by Mr. Jeffries, was tendered the Octette Club, for their valued assistance during the evening. The national anthem brought the proceedings to a close.

ELEGANT NEW OFFICES.

The Business Quarters of the Rochester Star Nurseries Removed.

The Canadian offices of the Rochester Star Nurseries, Thos. W. Bowness, proprietor, were removed this week from 340 Water street, opposite the market square, to Cox's block, 417½ Water street, over the law offices of Messrs. Denniston & Stevenson. The new apartments of Mr. C. L. Trotter, Canadian manager for this well known nursery firm, are among the finest suite of office rooms to be found in the town. The entrance way has been beautifully papered, with a deep rich bordering. The Peterborough offices, which are easy of access, are unusually well lighted and bright in appearance, while everything appertaining thereto is neat, clean and tidy. The elaborate furnishings at once attract the visitors' attention, the partitions, desks and fittings being of an attractive oak. The public enter a hall way and from this the public and private offices open. To the right of the entrance is the office of Mr. E. Dodds, United States Consular Agent, in dimensions 12x12, and separated from the other offices by stained glass partitions. The public office of Mr. Trotter is in size 12x12 and is very roomy and commodious. To the rear of this is his private office, 12x18, and opening to the left is a large vault and lavatory. The firm's business in this district has increased so much of late years, owing to the excellent quality and thrifty class of the trees, shrubs and plants sent out by the Rochester Star Nurseries that the former quarters were found to be too limited and confined, hence their removal to the present site. Mr. Trotter reports that their annual spring delivery of trees will arrive soon and the number of orders to be filled is the largest ever known.

A Big Deal by a Local Firm.

The stove, tinware and hardware business which has been carried on for some time past by Mr. W. J. Hall in the Crystal block, George street, having been offered for sale by Messrs. Suckling & Co., of Toronto, has been bought by our enterprising townsman, Mr. Adam Hall, of the Giant T, at a very low figure. In order to clear out the stock during the next thirty days, Mr. Hall has decided to start a slaughter sale of the whole storeful of goods, and offers special bargains in the above lines for the next four weeks. This is a rare chance, at the spring of the year, just when people are requiring housefurnishing goods, cutlery, lamps, paints, stoves, tinware, etc., as Mr. Hall is bound to convert the stock into money as fast as possible. Best Cure For All disorders of the Throat and Lungs is Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It has no equal as a cough-cure.

Bronchitis

"When I was a boy, I had a bronchial trouble of such a persistent and stubborn character, that the doctor pronounced it incurable with ordinary remedies, but recommended me to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I did so, and one bottle cured me. For the last fifteen years, I have used this preparation with good effect whenever I take a bad cold, and I know of numbers of people who keep it in the house all the time, not considering it safe to be without it."—J. C. Woodson, P.M., Forest Hill, W. Va.

Cough

"For more than twenty-five years, I was a sufferer from lung trouble, attended with coughing so severe at times as to cause hemorrhage, the paroxysms frequently lasting three or four hours. I was induced to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and after taking four bottles, was thoroughly cured."—Franz Hoffman, Clay Centre, Kans.

La Grippe

"Last spring I was taken down with la grippe. At times I was completely prostrated, and so difficult was my breathing that my breast seemed as if confined in an iron cage. I procured a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and no sooner had I began taking it than relief followed. I could not believe that the effect would be so rapid and the cure so complete."—W. H. The Crinolines Have Come—A Pertinent Question to be Answered by Individual Women—A Fur-Trimmed House Dress—A Jacket Effect—A Home-Made Blouse—Some Moderate Examples.

(Copyright).

NEW YORK (SPECIAL).

WE may make as much of a face as we choose, but they are here. The crinolines have come, and the question is will they get worse and worse, or will they stay where they are now in the fashionable windows and modistes' parlors? Experience warns us that a fashion never stays where it starts, but it goes on and on till its exaggeration brings about its dismissal. But fashions are now more promptly set aside than they formerly were, and, therefore, are now likely to be given up before they become monstrous. This fact is developing a class that will make few radical changes in their wear, no matter how fashions rise and fall. This is going to bring about a state of things where there are no extremists, but that blessed time is not yet, and our cheeks blanch and our hearts begin to quake with fear when we see so many signs of approaching general use of these dreadful things.

All the examples shown in the spring gowns show skirts, with a distinct spread at the bottom. Some of them stand out from the waist smooth and stiff, like an inverted funnel. Others spread from the waist in a series of folds, the front breadth being flat and forming an inclined plane from the waist to the edge. Then there is a fold that sets out straight to the sides, with no tendency to draw towards the back. The side breadths then incline outward to the ground. About three folds, one to each side of the back and one straight out at the back, constitutes the fullness. A skirt of this kind is extreme and lacks all grace. Others set smoothly out without folds or fullness, all around to where the back slant comes. Then the material lies in a series of folds, or flutes, arranged with much regularity, and stiffened to keep their places. This skirt is rather pretty. At least it seems to have some motive, and the general tendency of the fullness to the back gives some grace. Occasional examples of these are already seen, out doors, and they do look "floppy," but they will improve in appearance as the number of them increases.

The white crepe de chine robe of the initial has a hand-painted front which is finished at the top with yellow velvet ribbons. The sleeves are of yellow velvet. It is made over an ordinary princess dress. The back of the over dress has no seam, and is sewn to the lining on one side and fastens invisibly with small hooks on the shoulder and underneath the band. The outside material, as is shown in the picture, is gathered into folds in the front, which extend to the back where they are laid in one large hollow pleat, hanging loose from the dress. The bottom of the skirt is edged with a double ruffle. In the front there is a jabot arrangement of pleated material and around the neck is a pleated ruche. The straight velvet sleeves are very wide and finished with cuffs of the pleated crepe, over which fall flounces of the same.

The second illustration shows a dainty princess costume of bengaline in a delicate grey tint and velvet, somewhat darker. In making it the under dress of bengaline must be fitted perfectly or the velvet will show creases. The front is cut from one piece, the bengaline being taken crosswise, and the side front seams are so curved as to do away with darts. The sides are joined to the front and are slightly gored while the back has one seam in the centre, which is very bias to form the bell skirt. The sleeves are tight as far as the elbow and then form a puff. The upper dress of velvet is perfectly tight-fitting, and, like the other dress closes in back. It is also lined with silk and forms a kind of peasant bodice at the top. It is desirable to cut the upper dress from one piece and then fit it over the hips and in the waist. The standing collar if of bengaline and a second, capelike, of pleated bengaline. The cuffs, collar and the hem of the silk dress, as well as the top and bottom of the velvet overdress, are trimmed with narrow bands of fur.

The surplice is pretty, and the kerchief our grandmothers used to wear looks pretty in the pictures, but, somehow, it won't stay in place when it is worn by to-day's granddaughter. Make it a permanent part of a dress and your difficulties disappear. Arrrange it in the folds you like and then sew in all down around the armhole, but nowhere else. The point is free in the back, or, if you like there is only the effect for the front. The ends you leave free to cross over the breast and around to the [illegible]tied. The effect is demure and pretty, and may be carried out on a wash dress with washable stuff, or over a plain velvet or silk bodice, in cashmere of a lighter shade. It is a good way to freshen up the looks of a bodice that has become somewhat worn.

Another novel and pretty shoulder ornamentation is used on the dress of my third picture. In this case it consists of epaulette like revers, which are a continuation of the material of the sleeve puffs. At the elbow, there is a cuff formed by turning back the edge of the same piece of material which makes the revers. The revers and cuffs are ornamented with two rows of braid about an inch and a half apart, the space between being filled with a lattice work of narrow white cord. In this dress the material of the dress was dark blue cloth, with braid of the same shade, but the costume would look equally well in almost any shade of blue or brown.

A pretty and becoming blouse can be made at home by almost any one, of any light colored silk or surah, and will be very nice to wear with a dark skirt. The material used in the example pictured is old rose surah, trimmed with fine white lace. It has a slightly pointed yoke of the silk with three insertions of lace. The front and back are cut rather full but the side forms and back are tight-fitting. The sleeve is a tight cuff as far as the elbow and from there forms a large wide puff. The waist is finished with a belt of surah and the yoke is trimmed with a ruffle of narrow lace, while a ruffle of very wide lace forms the epaulette on the shoulder. The standing collar is also covered with white lace, the back of the blouse is the same as the front. It closes in front with invisible hooks and eyes.

Even though you do not intend to adopt crinoline, you should have your skirts a little wider. They need not be stiffened or wired, nor, indeed be a great deal wider. Almost any last year's skirt will do if the fullness at the back be distributed all round for greater width. Two entirely moderate and correct examples are sketched. They are both of the silks with narrow stripes of color brightly contrasting with the ground, which are so much worn, as indeed they were last season. Such a dress, having had the skirt remodeled as suggested may be further modernized by cutting down the bodice and putting in a yoke to match one of the stripes. The stuff cut out can go to making a rever or soft drapery to outline the yoke, and add elaborateness to the front. A wide bodice belt could be added to match the yoke, and the bodice should be worn under the skirt to give the round effect of this season. If the puffs of the sleeves incline too much to perpendicular fullness, that is obviated by taking them out of the arm holes and distributing the fullness with most of it at the sides of the skirt. It looks all right, but dressmakers do things with an air that is convincing. It is safe to remember that the extreme of fashion need not be plunged into at all.

If you want to use yards and yards of astrachan fur for your spring dress, you may cover the front of the bodice with a series of horizontal ruffles each edged with fur, about four in all. Then the top of the collar is edged. The sleeves are a series of flounces, three that come to the elbow. A tight sleeve fitting under from the shoulder to the wrist. The skirt is made double, the top fitting over the hips and flaring slightly to half way to the knee. There it is edged with fur, and three ruffles are set on, one below the other to about the knee. Then the under part of the skirt appears, plain to half way to the hem, and then finished with three ruffles. All the ruffles are finished with fur, and since the whole dress flares from hips to hem, you can make use of a quantity of fur. Incidentally you will have a lot of fur on hand for making over next winter.

A Cure for Croup.

Croup kills thousands where cholera kills tens. For this dread disease no remedy can compare in curative power with Hagyard's Yellow Oil. It loosens the phelgm, gives prompt relief, and soon completely cures the most violent attack.

confinement as well as some others. They should not be hatched too early but mature very quickly, so that this is no drawback. Our Illustration, which we re-engrave from Poultry World, shows a pair of White Hamburgs.

TIMELY SUGGESTIONS.

Things to Do and Things Not to Do When the Snow Vanishes

On the breaking up of winter and the advent of the warmer weather of spring, and the gradual approach of summer in the distance, there are many limited operations which the owners of smaller orchards and fruit gardens may perform to advantage, and which may be useful even to those who possess a few scattered fruit trees on their limited grounds.

Among the first to remember is the peach tree, which from its peculiar growth needs some pruning every spring. Keep the tree in rounded or compact shape, and prevent the limbs from running out into long poles with merely a tuft of leaves at the ends. Cut back the one-year shoots one-half or nine tenths of their length. If the work has been neglected two or three years, limbs nearly an inch in diameter may be cut off at a fork, so as to bring the tree within smaller compass. Thus treated, the trees will live much longer and bear better fruit. Peach trees often overbear, injuring the trees and giving poor fruit. The easiest way to prevent it is to thin out every alternate shoot which has a surplus of blossom buds. The peach will bear a more heavy pruning than most other trees, as it naturally recovers soon from the operation.

Apple trees need much less pruning, but some may be done to advantage where there are crooked or cross limbs, or the tops are too thick or bushy. The heads should not be so dense as to exclude sunlight from the leaves within, and they should be sufficiently open to admit of free spraying. Dwarf pears require more pruning than standard pears, and enough should be given them to cause new shoots a foot long more or less, in connection with sufficient manuring.

Where the orchard caterpillar has obtained an entrance, orchards may be timely and easily protected from its ravages, by clipping off the rings of their eggs near the ends of the shoots and burning them. Every ring thus destroyed prevents a destructive nest of caterpillars, if done before the leaves open.

Ornamental trees, particularly evergreens, may sometimes be improved in appearance by occasional pruning, if only of a single limb, when it has assumed a distorted form. Others, on the other hand, are too stiff and formal, and a more natural and graceful shape may be given by a slight alteration. The best time is just as the buds are beginning to swell.

It sometimes happens as winter is about leaving us near the end of March, that a few inches of snow gives the mice a good chance to attack the bark of young fruit trees. It is well to keep a watch, and tread the snow about the trees to exclude these depredators. A neighbor lost a thousand fine young orchard trees by allowing some weeds and grass to grow among them, and by not treading a March snow when mice were abundant.—Country Gentleman.

When the kidneys are clogged, good health is an impossibility; but when working properly the reverse is the case. That dull backache is the kidney's cry for relief. If Dodd's Kidney Pills are used the result will be marvellous. We emphatically state that we have never known a case of kidney disease that a persistent use of Dodd's Kidney Pills will not cure.

A Pleasant Herb Drink.
The best cure we know of for constipation and headache is the pleasant herb drink called Lane's Family Medicine. It is said to be Oregon grape root, combined with simple herbs, and is made for use by pouring boiling water onto the dried roots and herbs. It is remarkably efficacious in all blood disorders, and is now the sovereign remedy with ladies for clearing up the complexion. Druggists sell the packages at 50c. and $1.

AN EXAMPLE.

An Empire Gown of Pale Pink Crepe-de Chine.

How would you like such an Empire gown as this, one, which is made of pale pink crepe de chine over a light-shade foundation, sun-proofed? The foundation of the upper dress is the under which of the crepe takes exception, but not a trifle at the hips to improve the shape of the dress, and are then joined with the seams of the foundation, above the waist line. It is absolutely necessary to have the under dress fit faultlessly and it will then be an easy matter to drape the crepe over it. The under dress has the usual number of whalebones in the waist and can be worn without a corset if desired. It fastens at the back with hooks and eyes and the crepe is fastened with invisible hooks catching in tiny silk loops. The sleeves are of bengaline, of the same shade as the crepe, and the belt under the arms is also made of that material. The yoke and the bretelles are formed of ecru guipure lace, the design outlined by faint gold threads. The rear view of this gown is exactly like the front, save that a large paste buckle is placed in front as shown. The foundation dress is lined, but the crepe is not.

A pretty finish for an Empire skirt is ruching. A gown of yellow silk for instance, has a little Empire bodice of terra cotta velvet, with immense sleeves. About the skirt is a little ruche of yellow silk, not hemmed but edged with terra cotta. Such a finish makes concession, even in the Empire style, to the demand for flare at the foot of the skirt, and also resists wear better than the plain edge would. Bits and pieces can be used in making the ruching. It is a foreshadowing of the return of the quilling with which the dames of long ago used to trim everything. So better buy up cheap ribbon that you find in the inch and half-inch widths.
FLORETTE.

For Tea Drinkers.
Tea should never be allowed to stand upon the "grounds." If it must unavoidably be made some time before it is used, the liquid should be poured from the leaves. It may then be kept ready for a delayed member of the family for a long time without serious deterioration, or at least without the addition of any harmful qualities. To aid in this desideratum a special teapot has recently been introduced. It is made of brown earthenware or of porcelain. There is no metal, not even silver, used in its make. The chief characteristic of this teapot is the porcelain "drip" of perforated ware, which fits inside the teapot below the cover. The tea is placed in this "drip" and the boiling water is poured over it. By this means the tea leaves are prevented from sinking to the bottom, and there is no danger of tannin being extracted. Teapots of this kind are very common in China and Russia, where they are sold at a low figure.—New York Recorder.

Probably in March more than any other month in the year are the ravages of cold in the head and catarrh most severely felt. Do not neglect either for an instant, but apply Nasal Balm, a time-tried, never-failing cure. Easy to use, pleasant and agreeable. Try it. Sold by dealers or sent by mail, post paid, on receipt of price—50c. and $1 a bottle. Fulford & Co., Brockville, Ont.

Gives Strength and Appetite.
DEAR SIRS,—Last year I was very thin and reducing very fast, owing to the bad state of my blood and appetite. A friend of mine induced me to get a bottle of B.B.B., which I did. I obtained immediate perceptible relief from it, having gained strength and appetite, and now weigh 193 pounds.

Encouragement for old People.
It may sound queer to talk about curing old people of Kidney and Urinary troubles after they have passed the alloted period of three score years and ten, but the following extraordinary recovery of an old veteran by Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure, ought to be of great encouragement to old people:—
BELLEVILLE, March 4, 1893.
Peterborough Medicine Company (Limited.)
GENTLEMEN,—I owe a great debt of gratitude to Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure for the prompt and speedy relief which I have received from the use of only one bottle of your great medicine. I have suffered from Kidney and Urinary troubles, inflammation of the neck of the bladder, &c. for many a long day. No one knows better than old people how great a blessing it is to be cured. I doctored a lot, but nothing did me so much good as your cure. I have lived about half a century in Belleville, and will be only to glad to speak a good word in favour of Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure. I can also recommend it for constipation and stomach troubles.
JAMES HAROLD.

Beware of Cholera.
The healthy body throws off the germs of cholera therefore wisdom counsels the use of Burdock Blood Bitters this spring to purify the blood, regulate the system, and fortify the body against cholera or other epidemics.

Interested People.
Advertising a patent medicine in the peculiar way in which the proprietor of Kemp's Balsam for coughs and colds does it, is indeed wonderful. He authorizes all druggists to give those who call for it a sample bottle FREE, that they may try it before purchasing. The large bottles are 50c and $1. We certainly would advise a trial. It may save you from consumption.

NATIONAL SENTIMENT.

The Canadian Club at Hamilton Have a Dinner.

HAMILTON, March 25.—The Canadian Club gave a dinner last night.

W. Sanford Evans, president of the club, was in the chair, and the vice-chair was filled by the vice-president, Ald. Ferres. To the chairman's right sat Mayor Blaicher and W. A. Sherwood of Toronto, the well-known artist, and to his left were John Crerar, Q.C., and A. T. Freed, editor of The Spectator.

Secretary C. R. McCullough read letters of regret from Hon. J. M. Gibson, A. McKay, M.P., and Senators MacInnes and Sanford. Mr. Gibson asked that his application be received as a member of the club.

There were only four toasts—the Queen, the Governor-General, Canada and the Canadian Club—but the list was supplemented by three or four extra toasts.

Speeches were made by James Weir, Mayor Blaicher, A. T. Freed, George Lynn-Staunton, W. A. Sherwood of Toronto, Dr. O'Hagan of Waterdown and others.

Vice-President Evans made the speech of the evening. He said: "This club is an embodiment of the spirit of Canadian nationality. We have within ourselves all the elements of a great nation. We have a national sentiment, and there are forces now at work which are differentiating us from other peoples. We even now differ from the people of the lands from which our fathers came, and the differences are growing; and as it is coming about that Canada is fast becoming the home of a nation of Canadians."

The Monetary Conference.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—It is definitely settled that the United States will send delegates to the International Monetary Conference, which will meet May 30, although all the old delegates have resigned.

Three Fire Laddies Killed.

DENVER, Col., March 25.—The building belonging to the Summit Fuel and Food Co., at the corner of 3rd and Larmer streets, was burned yesterday. Three firemen were killed.

FISHING LICENSES.

Their Withdrawal By the Government Only Temporary.

TORONTO, March 25.—The fishermen of this and other districts have been much exercised over a notice which has been served upon them by the various Fishery Inspectors stating that no licenses are to be granted them this season. As no explanation was given with the notice considerable consternation was caused among the fishermen, who saw themselves practically deprived of their sustenance for a season, to say nothing of the expense incurred in the way of preparing nets, fitting out boats and putting up ice for the annual catch. It was complained that the American fishermen, who observe no close season, could gather in not only all the fish that belong to their own side, but most of the Canadian fish too.

As a result of inquiries in the Provincial Fisheries Department, it was learned that the measure was merely a temporary one and that not long after the opening of the season, which usually begins on May 15, the fishermen would have their licenses restored to them.

For some time there has been an amicable dispute between the Dominion Parliament and the Ontario Legislature as to what was the real authority of each body over inland fisheries. To settle all perplexities on the subject the matter will in a week or so be referred to the Supreme Court to define the extent and limitations of the respective jurisdiction of federal and provincial fisheries departments over inland waters. It is not apprehended that there will be any tedious delay in the settlement, as both parties are actuated by a desire to see the question finally and amicably settled.

While the question is pending, however, it was considered wise to avoid any further cause of dispute by withholding licenses from all parties. These will be re-issued as soon as possible after the settlement and in time, it is hoped, to allow the fishermen to begin operations at the usual season.

WAITING THE GALLOWS.

THE SPRING ASSIZES PROLIFIC OF MURDER TRIALS.

Extraordinary Increase of Homicide in This Province—Atrocious Crimes That Have Made Leeds and Grenville Famous.

TORONTO, March 27.—Ever since that primeval time when Cain slew his brother Abel we have prayed—such of us at least as are Episcopalians—to be delivered from battle and murder and from sudden death. Yet we always read murder stories with avidity, and when the circumstances of the crime are such as to make it a celebrated case, every detail becomes of surpassing interest. Such tales never grow old, and the Long Point mystery, Rex Burchall's brutal slaughter of his trusting companion, Freddie Benwell, the crime of Eugene Aram and other historic murders, away back to the days of the Borgias, still possess a lively interest for us, while if all of Poe's prose had to go except one short story, after throwing everything else away, we should hesitate whether to sacrifice the "Mystery of Marie Roget" or the "Murders of the Rue Morgue." It is a natural tendency of the mind to show the keenest liking for the unnatural, and it is no more singular that we should become absorbed in a murderer's personality while losing all remembrance of his victim than that the name of "the youth who fired the Ephesian deme" should live on through history when that of the skilful architect who built it is forgotten.

In the half score of murder cases to be tried in Ontario during the next two or three weeks there promises to be enough entertaining information on the subject to satisfy the most morbid mind, and the crimes for which the prisoners are to be tried this spring seem to have been of a particularly atrocious character. For instance the alleged passionless murder of J. J. Luckey, his wife, and daughter Mary, by their son and brother, Charles Luckey, at Newbliss, in the hope of gaining a small estate, was the most preposterous caricature in modern times of the unfraternal deed of him who thousands of years ago asked, "Am I my brother's keeper?" For this crime Luckey will be tried for his life at Brockville in a few days. Charles Shipman, who shot and killed John Fitzsimmons near Gananoque in a dispute over the possession of some property on Friday, will also be arraigned at the Brockville Court.

At the same court there may be a third prisoner charged with a deed paralleled by Lucrezia Borgia, old Mother Totana and the rest of their infamous kind, who put enemies out of the way with a delicacy of procedure no man could ever hope to rival, for a Government detective has gone to Kemptville to try to ascertain who poisoned Sandy Kennedy and his sister-in-law, Mrs. John Kennedy. However, if Leeds and Grenville produce the two most appalling murders of the season, it is not at the same time an admission of inferior civilization. Moreover, if a certain human vanity were not so anxiously masked it might appear that, like every other country, the people down there have concealed about them a certain irrepressible and outrageous pride in the fact that when they do have a murder usually it is a murder worth talking about and which commands a place on the first page of every Canadian newspaper.

Western Ontario is able to produce no less than six murder cases this spring, the Jeanie Wonch case having been postponed until spring, and the indications are that at least half-a-dozen executions will be the outcome of the trials.

First on the list is Anderson Veney, the Amherstburg barber, whose trial for the murder of his wife will commence at Sandwich on April 10. Veney some time ago decided to starve himself to death, but has now changed his mind and eats regularly, although suffering from his prolonged fast.

Brown and Wilson, the men who shot and fatally wounded Detective Harry Phair of London, will also be tried shortly.

In the adjoining County of Elgin, which never yet has had a hanging, though its murders have probably outnumbered those of any other county of equal size in the Dominion, George E. Young will be tried for the murder of Fred Glover on the Oneida-road, Southwold, in a dispute over the chasing of some turkeys by Glover's dog.

At Port Arthur James Rowe will be tried for deliberately shooting down his brother-in-law, Archie Cameil, as he was entering the door of his own house.

At Chatham William, Alexander, George and Lemuel Freeman (negroes) will be tried for the murder of Police Constable Rankin.

THE GANANOQUE TRAGEDY.

Mrs. Joles Says That the Shooting Was Intentional.

GANANOQUE, Ont., March 27.—Dr. Shaw, coroner, and a jury held an inquest on the body of John Fitzsimmons, who was shot Friday. The verdict was that the said John Fitzsimmons came to his death by reason of a wound caused by the discharge of a gun in the hands of Charles Shipman.

Shipman will be sent to jail at Brockville this evening.

When here to-day Mrs. Joles talked freely of the shooting affair and some of her statements do not bear out the story told by her father yesterday. She said that her brother Thomas did not happen along accidentally with a gun, but went with the others and had no gun. When the row commenced her father sent Thomas to a house half a mile away for the gun and when he returned with it he was told by the father to shoot, but refused. Shipman then took the gun himself and fired twice, once through a window and again through a door.

Colonial Affairs.

LONDON, March 27.—At Westminster Abbey Saturday two Colonial Bishops were consecrated—Burns of Qu'Appelle and Perrin of British Columbia.

The Chronicle of Saturday says that the Ministry in Newfoundland must have strange ideas concerning constitutional government. Lord Ripon, Secretary of State for Colonial Affairs, must feel considerable difficulty in dealing with a colonial ministry which is at sixes and sevens, as Newfoundland seems to be at the present moment.

Michael Davitt names Blake as one on the Board of Arbitrators to settle the dispute over The Freeman's Journal.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

A TWO-CENT POSTAGE RATE AGAIN DISCUSSED.

Sir Adolphe Caron Does Not Feel Justified in Reducing the Cost of Sending Letters Just at Present—Motion to Have a Permanent Pension List.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 27.—The House met promptly at 3 o'clock Saturday when Hon. Mr. Patterson introduced his bill to amend the act respecting the Royal Military College and in doing so explained that the amendment required was only a very slight one with regard to the employment of professors.

In reply to Hon. Mr. Laurier, Hon. Mr. Foster said that he would announce on Monday whether the House would be asked this year to ratify the treaty with France.

On motion to go into supply Mr. Charlton made a long speech in favor of the adoption of a 2-cent postage rate. He reviewed the history of cheap postage in Great Britain and the United States, especially the latter. He showed that the reduction of revenue in the United States caused by the reduction of postage had been very brief, and argued that the same thing would occur in Canada if a two cent rate was adopted.

In conclusion he moved: "That this House is of the opinion that the domestic and American rate of postage, with due regard for this public interest, be reduced to two cents for letters of one ounce or less in weight."

Sir Adolphe Caron said that so soon as he became Postmaster-General he began to study the question of a reduction of the rate of postage, but the result had not justified his recommending a reduction as present. He claimed that considering the territory to be covered Canada had the best postal service in the world. In remote parts of the country we had tri-monthly and semi-monthly mails when in corresponding sections of the United States there was only a monthly mail. The reduction of postage in the United Kingdom was not brought about on the ground of the previous postage being too high, but by departmental rearrangement. In the United States the rate was reduced because the postal revenue was largely in excess of the expenditure. The surplus was over two millions. The result of the reduction of the rate had been to create a large deficit. In the first nine months this deficit was $3,079,000. The next year the deficit was $6,756,000. Judging from the result in other countries he estimated that the loss of revenue to Canada by the adoption of the two-cent rate would be about $950,000 a year. If any reduction in letter postage was made it would be necessary to at once re-impose the postage on newspapers and other printed matter now carried free.

As to the loss of revenue on letters posted at border postoffices in the United States he said that had been provided for by postal convention between Canada and the United States, and increased postage was charged on such letters.

After some remarks by Dr. Landerkin and Mr. Mills (Bothwell) Mr. Charlton's amendment was lost on division.

Col. Prior then moved an amendment to the effect that all members of the permanent force of Canada should be placed on the pension list. He said that the efficiency of the whole militia force depended in a very large degree on the permanent corps, and some provision should be made for the officers and men whose remuneration was not large in proportion to their services.

Sir Adolphe Caron said that nothing could conduce to the efficiency of the permanent corps better than to make provision for a pension and when he was Minister of Militia he had prepared a bill for this purpose, based on the Imperial Pension Act, but with somewhat smaller pensions. He thought it only right that the permanent corps should be pensioned as the mounted police were as it was rather late in the session to take the matter up, he hoped Col. Prior would renew his motion next year.

Hon. Mr. Patterson, who was not in the House when the motion was made said that he would bring the matter under the consideration of his colleagues.

The motion was then withdrawn and the House went into supply, taking up railway items until 6 o'clock, when the House adjourned until Monday.

Dropped Dead.

OTTAWA, March 27.—Michael Dolan, an old and esteemed employe of the House of Commons, who has been engaged as one of the night watchmen in the Parliament buildings since 1879, dropped dead at 6 o'clock last evening in the main lobby just as he was on his way to supper; cause apoplexy. Deceased was 63 years of age and leaves a wife and several children.

Commander Gordon's Funeral.

A service was held over the body of the late Commander Gordon Saturday by Rev. Mr. Mackey and the body was conveyed to the C.P.R. Station and left by the Toronto train to-night. The funeral will take place at Cooksville at 3 o'clock to-morrow.

Comfortably Settled.

Advices have been received from Sir John Thompson that he has got comfortably settled in Paris for his duties on the Behring Sea arbitration. His address is, Hotel Dominici Rue Castiglione.

An Editor's Salary.

The Debates Committee of the House has recommended that the salary of Mr. J. C. Boyce, editor of The Official Debates, be increased to $1200 per annum. Mr. Boyce is a hard-working and painstaking officer and well deserves this recognition of his services.

The French Treaty.

There has been a good deal of talk about the corridors the last few days with reference to the ratification of the French Treaty at the present session of Parliament, and Hon. Mr. Laurier has been freely quoted as having said that, if an attempt was made to pass it this year, the session would be delayed three and perhaps four weeks.

On the other hand Hon. Mr. Foster stated in the House yesterday that he could not say until Monday whether or not the House would be asked to ratify a treaty this session. No doubt Mr. Foster will state to the House to-morrow the decision arrived at.

New Lake Line of Steamers.

NEW YORK, March 27. -The New York, Ontario and Western Railway will make an important departure at the opening of navigation. It will establish a lake line of steamers between Oswego and Duluth and enter into active competition with other trunk lines between the sea coast and the Northwest. President T. P. Fowler says they expect to get all the traffic they can carry both ways.

AMERICAN IRISHMEN.

HERALD THEMSELVES AS GLADSTONE ALLIES.

Cable Messages Exchanged—Many Governors of States Represent Expressions of Good Will—One Sends a Cheque for $500.

NEW YORK, March 27.—A message was cabled to William E. Gladstone last night by the National Federation of American patriots, him their most vigorous support in his efforts to carry through the Home Rule bill, and expressing alike the sentiments of the thousands who had gathered in the Academy of Music to endorse this action and the tens of thousands of Irishmen throughout America who are loyal to their Mother Land.

The message was as follows:

"We, the citizens of New York in mass meeting assembled, beg to tender you our heartfelt sympathy in your efforts to achieve for Ireland the long-sought-for measure of justice which we trust God will enable you to speedily carry to a successful termination, and we pledge you our vigorous and continued support through the struggle.

THOMAS ADDIS EMMETT.
MORGAN J. O'BRIEN.
JOHN BYRNE.

This was the key note of the great gathering of Irishmen at the Academy of Music last evening. The people listened to patriotic airs by the 69th Regiment Band and cheered enthusiastically when Judge Morgan J. O'Brien, the presiding officer, and Congressman Bourke Cockran came on the platform, followed by a number of other prominent men.

From the Governors of almost every State in the Union came messages of sympathy with the movement for the freedom of Ireland.

Governor Flower, in a letter enclosing a check for $500, said: My sympathies with the cause of Home Rule have often been expressed.

Mayor Gilroy, who was unable to be present, was among those who sent the warmest messages of faith in Ireland.

Archbishop Corrigan, also unable to be present, expressed through Manager Farley the heartfelt advocacy of the principles for the promulgation of which the meeting had been called.

The hall was comparatively bare of decoration. A banner surrounded by Irish and American flags, however, bearing the words "Now or Never—Now and Forever," formed an appropriate background to the stage.

A dispatch to President Emmett from Justin McCarthy evoked enthusiasm. It was as follows:

We learn with gratitude of the efforts of yourself and the federation to help forward the Irish movement. Effectually continue the work you did by timely assistance at the general election. Gladstone's Home Rule Bill will pass the Commons but only by the unremitting attendance of the Irish party. The movement needs the prompt and generous support of kinsmen and friends to defeat the desperate efforts of the wealthy and powerful enemies combined against Ireland. Greeting and success to your great meeting on behalf of the Irish party.

C. P. R. PUSH.

The Company Evidently Anticipates Free Entry of Canadian Lumber.

BUFFALO, March 27.—The old Buffalo and Fort Erie Bridge Company, which some years ago obtained the exclusive right to construct a bridge or tunnel across the river, has sub-let the right to the Canadian Pacific Railway. The C.P.R. will come into this country, crossing at the head of Rattlesnake Island, bridging the narrow channel between it and the Canadian shore and extending along almost the entire length of the island.

This will give the road thousands of feet of water frontage on the island. The route then will bridge the river at the end of the island and cross over to Tonawanda just north of the Buffalo city limits. A branch of the road follows the river along the American shore from Buffalo to Niagara Falls. The C.P.R. will then have one of the greatest water-fronts in the country. Besides the river front on this side, the island will afford an excellent site for lumber and coal yards, etc. The road will terminate in Buffalo near Main-street and the terrace.

CASH PRIZE LEAGUE.

Changes in the Racing Rules—Secretary Egan's Salary.

NEW YORK, March 27.—The Governing Board of the National Cycling Association of America, which was organized in this city several weeks ago for the purpose of fostering racing for cash prizes, held a meeting Saturday.

The most important business transacted was the consideration of several changes in the racing rules. All the proposed changes were given consideration and the result will be made known in a few days.

The question of appointing a general manager, official referee and official handicapper then came up, but no action will be taken until the committee appointed can inquire about the various persons named for the position. The board decided to allow local organizations the right to appoint judges, timers, scorers and such minor officials necessary to conduct the races properly. But all these officials will be under the direction of the main organization.

A proposition was made that the National Association should assume control over road racing, a branch of the sport which is not recognized by the League of American Wheelmen. After considerable discussion it was finally decided not to take up the matter, as the Century Road Club of America has already assumed jurisdiction over such contests. A formal application was received from a Boston syndicate, said to have $50,000 behind them, for membership. Several letters were read from outside organizations asking for licenses to hold professional race meets on their tracks, in which racing men of the Association would be allowed to compete. The salary of Frank A. Egan, secretary and treasurer of the association, was fixed at $2500 a year.

New Canals.

OTTAWA, March 27.—The Railway Committee passed the act to incorporate the North American Canal Company. This is the scheme for building a canal from Lake Erie to Montreal. A clause was inserted in the bill providing that the company could not charge more than 10 cents per ton, the same as on the Government canals, for tolls. Between Lake St. Francis and Lake Champlain no price was fixed because there is no Government canal there now.

Guard Against Fatal Results!

Now is the Season of Danger!

Fortify and Strengthen the Body!

Our duty is to ward off impending danger and do what we can to honestly show the true path of health and life. Our words of warning are directed to those who are diseased and suffering. We wish to show them that a change of season brings with it danger and fatal results to the unprepared.

Spring brings with it unhealthy and death-dealing odors and gases, produced by decaying vegetable matter, dangerous cess pits and badly constructed drains.

The diseased and suffering have a small chance of life, if they are in any way exposed to such dangers as we have mentioned. It behooves every run-down, weak, overworked and debilitated man and woman to look for a blood cleansing, invigorating and life renewing medicine that will avert danger and build up the shattered system,

The experience of thousands in Canada amply proves that Paine's Celery Compound is the great life-preserver and renewer. It is the great and only safe spring medicine in our country, and has has the approval of our best doctors and our most intelligent people. It saves from fatal results after all other remedies fail; it snatches from the grave those who are pronounced incurable. Give it an honest trial, ye suffering ones, it never fails to cure.

As a pick-me-up after excessive exertion or exposure, Millburn's Beef, Iron and Wine is grateful and comforting.

MARKET MEMORANDA.

Prices are Somewhat Higher and the Supply was not Nearly Equal to the Demand.

The market on Saturday was rather small owing to the impassable state of the roads. The amount of produce was limited and things were disposed of rapidly and at a slight advance in prices. The grain market is quite dull and very little of any kinds of grain are morning. To-day's quotations were spring wheat 63c. (standard) fall 67c. (standard) oats 32 and 33c., no rye offered. Peas (small) 55 to 60c, large variety 60 to 62c., buckwheat 40 to 42c., receipts small. Beef sold slowly at 5½ to 6½, pork 9 to 10c., lamb, none offered, mutton 7 to 8c., a small quantity of veal sold at 7 to 8c., potatoes went readily at 70 to 80c. per bag, while apples brought from 70c. to $1.00 per bag. The supply of dressed pork was small, selling at $7.50 to $8 per cwt. Butter was limited in quantity, and in some cases sold as high as 28 to 30c. per pound, but the prevailing price was 22 to 25c.; eggs, 14 to 16c. per dozen; chickens 50 to 75c. per pair; small turkey, $1 to $1.25. Hay is selling easily at $9 to $10 per load, in good demand, while in straw nothing was offered, although many buyers were asking for it. A few loads of hardwood sold at $4.00. There is an intense competition among the implement agents in selling their spring tooth harrows and drags. Farmers were taking considerable interest in the working of these different machines.

IT WAS ANNIVERSARY DAY.

Practical Discourses Preached in the Charlotte Street Church Yesterday by Rev. E. Cade, of Whitby.

Yesterday was anniversary day at the Charlotte street Methodist church. The church has passed through another successful and highly prosperous year in its history, and special services to commemorate the event were conducted on Sunday. The congregations both morning and evening filled the cosy edifice, while Rev. E. Cade, pastor of the Whitby Methodist church, was the preacher. His discourses were marked by simplicity, plainness and practicability. In the evening he spoke from Hosea, 10th chapter, 12th verse: "Sow to yourselves in righteousness, reap in mercy, break up your fallow ground for it is time to seek the Lord till He come and rain righteousness upon you."

As in nature so in grace, there must be preparation for a harvest. There was no such thing as haphazard operations or accidental or spontaneous productiveness of a harvest. Nature yielded only in obedience to well understood laws. We, in religion, were workers together with God. Whatever we soweth so shall we reap. When we came in harmony with all the laws that create spiritual success we will reap. We should in the first place consider the ground to be broken up. It should not be swall or laurentian rock but good ground, adopted to raise the staff of life. God favoured the Jews and intended them to become the source of spiritual life, but they strayed away and God's field lay fallow and lapsed into a dreary waste. God had fenced in the church, men and women to provide examples. It was a remarkable agricultural fact that the world had never lost its food sustaining vitality. So in sacred and supernatural things. The church of

JESUS CHRIST AND CHRISTIAN MEN WERE

in obedience to divine established laws and were still capable of spiritual blessings as in the past. God once had cursed the earth but he had never cursed the Christian heart or His church. The great harvest was just as ample and full to-day as in pentacostal or any other times. The Lord speaks in the text not to rock or sand but to good ground. He says break up your fallow ground and go to seek the Lord. Fallow ground was not only good ground but it was needed ground. All generations of the world looked to the farmer and the field. Where were the spiritual masses looking for example and help and sympathy, but to Christian men and women and Christian churches. Are Christian men to be locked up so that the Lord's field shall lie fallow and Christ's bread makers idle all the day. If others did no more to save the world for which Christ died than we, the world should be soon lost. Christian consecrations and Christian direction were needed for those who were dying because they had not the Christian light and co-operation. The richest soil would soon become rank with a growth of weeds unless it was thoroughly cultivated. So it was with the church. It must never retire from business. There was no such a thing as superannuation in Christ's Church. The work must go on and not cease. The speaker directed his remarks to each one personally. The Christian who was not kept worked up to the highest standard and consecration pitch would soon become choked up with evil thoughts and evil desires. The Lord's ground must be kept worked. Fallow ground on a farmer's land was usually limited in extent. How much fallow ground was there among us all? The speaker never was in a congregation in which there was not a large amount of this ground. In many of our Sunday schools and homes there were many opportunities not appropriated—fallow ground. In all our hearts were hidden talents, latent capabilities—lights under a bushel. Our text came to us with the question of Christian ploughing. God's book was to break up iconoclastic rocks. We should break up our own unguarded lives. If our souls were unguarded we would be laying ourselves open for criticism, and we would get in trouble. We wanted to break up that old unfeeling life. Our hearts were hard, perhaps because of long resistance against the Spirit of God, and had become the highway and byway for all the world to pass over. No wonder our hearts felt so like a stone. How could we think of Christ's resurrection without tears? Because the heart was hard. We wanted to break up all our old inconsistent lives. We should take out all the thistles, henbane, mustard and other weeds. The Lord wanted a clean field. We should cease to do evil but learn to do well. We should call upon Christ to give us a clean heart. Break up that old unprofitable life. One of the worst sins in the face of God was a barren and unfaithful life. Wicked and slothful servant what did you do with your talent? Before we attained to be something we had to become as nothing. In the quiet and lonely places was love only found, not in the palace of pride or the mountains of the world. If we were going to get anything we had to go into Gethsemane—into agony. We should sow to ourselves in righteousness, not in mercy, but in self application of truth. The church took us in her arms; how much time did we devote to the church' interest and welfare. Was there any root of bitterness existing? We should sow clean seed. We should go to God the greatest husbandman and ask Him what kind of seed we should sow and on what ground we should sow it. If we acted faithfully we should reap in mercy. We needed mercy most. Our greatest joy should be that we might reap in mercy. Mothers should break up the fallow ground in their families; teachers should do the same in the Sunday schools and the Lord would reign in righteousness. After the plough, the drill and the harrow, would come the golden and heavenly harvest. Let us, said the speaker, press onward and upward, and in time we should reap the reward with joy, which we sowed in tears.

That cure of Geo. W. Turner of Galway, N. Y., of scrofula, by Hood's Sarsaparilla, was one of the most remarkable on record.

ENNISMORE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

A meeting of the municipal council of the township of Ennismore was held in the town hall on March 18th. All the members were present. A bylaw appointing road masters, fenceviewers and pound-keepers for the present year received its second reading, was passed, signed and sealed. The treasurer was authorized to pay the Rathbun Co. $15.25 for timber for flooring town hall, also to pay John O'Connor $2 for extra work performed by him in purchasing timber for hall, etc. The sum of $27.00 was granted to Mrs. Wm. Brick to enable her to purchase a ticket to Iowa, her former home, her husband having died a short time ago. The taxes of Mrs. Ellen Sullivan and of Mrs. McManus were remitted, the former amounting to $4.27, and the latter to $1.43. The trustees of S. S. N, 4, were granted $5.00 as interest on the sum of $100, the same not having been levied on their section the past year owing to a misunderstanding. The township treasurer was authorized to deposit with the county treasurer the sum of $50, to meet conditional grants of $100 voted by the county and of $200 government grant to be expended on Gannon's road south. The taxes of P. B. Sullivan, $11.35 was refunded on account of trouble in his family through sickness and death. The collector was notified to have all taxes collected by April 1st. The old flooring of the hall was sold to Philip Crough for $3. The council adjourned to meet at the call of the reeve.

There is no reason why children should be allowed to suffer from loathsome scrofulous sores and glandular swellings when such a pleasant, effective, and economical medicine as Ayer's Sarsaparilla may be procured of the nearest druggist. Be sure you get Ayer's.

TO BE OR NOT TO BE "IN IT."

A [illegible] called at a friend's place one day.
HE WASN'T IN IT;
He had come "the bore" coming and find down his way
HE WASN'T IN IT;
He said he'd so much cold, he was tired and sick
Of insurance and agents—'twas all a blank trick,
When one's call must be shuffled to win it,
HE WASN'T IN IT.

A bit of a draft blew o'er his baldhead
HE WAS IN IT;
Pneumonia sent him straightway to his bed,
HE STAYED IN IT;
His doctor made of it a "quite special" case,
To save him for running still more of life's race,
But the grave took some chances to win it,
AND HE'S IN IT.

When approached by a gent for insuring your life,
GET RIGHT IN IT;
It's the right thing to do for your children and wife,
THEN STAY IN IT.
Remember that fires take your goods "out of sight,"
And that accidents happen each day and each night.
While insurance protects every minute,
IF YOU'RE IN IT.

A Bank Manager's Opinion.

HE IS "IN IT."

The General Manager of one of the leading banks in Canada, writing to a personal friend, says:—"I have no hesitation in saying that I place the CANADA LIFE upon the highest platform. It is in my opinion carefully, economically and honestly managed; its Reserve Funds are well invested; its rates of Premiums are low, and its future is, I think better assured than a great majority of Companies. I have my own life insured in the Company for a round amount, and would not hesitate to increase the amount of my policies should I decide upon taking out further insurance."

A Government Insurance Actuary's Opinion

On the Relation between Ordinary and Tontine Service.

It is frequently assertedby Companies whose business is nearly all tontine, that although the CANADA LIFE may and does pay large ordinary profits, yet it cannot compare so favourably on a long term distribution or tontine period, and that in the end better results can be obtained on a tontine policy in a large American Co. than on an ordinary or tontine policy in the CANADA LIFE. To prove the absurdity of this statement, the following piece of common sense is quoted from Mervin Tabor, late Actuary of the Illinois Goverment Insurance Department. In his well known book, "The Three Systems of Life Insurance," he says: "A company that gives large dividends on the ordinary kind of policies, can give much larger on the same kinds when Tontined, and a company that pays but meagre dividends on the usual forms, adopting perhaps the Tontine system to "cover up" its small surpluses, cannot be relied on for large returns of surplus under the Tontine Forms of Insurance."

The CANADA LIFE does not "cover up" its Quinquennial profits as some Companies do, but publishes them throughout the country.

It can and does surpass other Companies on Quinquennial profits. It should and will surpass them on Tontine profits.

WHY TO BE "IN IT."

BISHOP HAWKE'S REASON:—"I claim that Life Insurance is not only a a humane, but I might say a Christian Institution."

LORD LYNDHURST'S REASON:—"A Policy of Life Insurance is always an evidence of prudent forethought. No man with a dependent family is free from reproach if not insured."

WHEN TO BE "IN IT."

The younger, the cheaper. Therefore insure when young. Besides by insuring in the CANADA LIFE now, you will share in three years' profits.

WHERE TO BE "IN IT."

The best place to be "in it" is in the Company that gives the best returns for the least money, consistent with absolute security. Therefore, in order to be "in it," choose the

A Dastardly Deed.

There arrived for repairs at the Wm. English Canoe Company's factory this morning a No. 6 basswood canoe with oak gunwales and thwarts, which was badly demolished. The canoe is the property of Mr. A. E. Brough, an enthusiastic canoeist of Madoc, and was purchased last summer from the Wm. English Canoe Co. A few weeks ago some maliciously inclined individual broke in the boat house at Madoc where there were nine skiffs stored and taking an axe, smashed great holes in the bottom. Some of these are large enough for a man to run his fist through. The perpetrator of this cowdrdly act has not been discovered yet.

A Big Deal by a Local Firm.

The stove, tinware and hardware business which has been carried on for some time past by Mr. W. J. Hall in the Crystal block, George street, having been offered for sale by Messrs. Suckling & Co., of Toronto, has been bought by our enterprising townsman, Mr. Adam Hall, of the Giant T, at a very low figure. In order to clear out the stock during the next thirty days, Mr. Hall has decided to start a slaughter sale of the whole storeful of goods, and offers special bargains in the above lines for the next four weeks. This is a rare chance, at the spring of the year, just when people are requiring house-furnishing goods, cutlery, lamps, paints, stoves, tinware, etc., as Mr. Hall is bound to convert the stock into money as fast as possible. So that the public will have a chance to secure these goods at prices that will save them lots of money. The goods are all of the best material and should command the patronage of all classes of buyers. See advt. in another column, and don't forget the great closing-out sale at W. G. Bain's old stand, Crystal block, George street. 70dwtf

J. J. Howden Preparing for Master.

In anticipation of a large increase of business at Easter, Mr. J. J. Howden has purchased a carload of prime cattle to be slaughtered for his Easter trade. These cattle were secured in one of the best markets for cash, and just in the nick of time, when prices were falling. It is worthy of note that Mr. Howden's close buying will materially assist him in reducing the price of his prime cuts to 10c per lb., in order to boom the cash system, which he is adopting on and after Easter Saturday, April 1st. dtf

CHURCH CHIMES.

The coming week is a week of solid work among the Baptists of Peterborough.

Mr. A. J. Hamilton gave the Sunday evening address at the Park street Baptist mission.

On Easter Sunday at St. John's church mission there will be Holy Communion at 9 o'clock.

On Good Friday special services will be held in St. John's church mission at 11 a. m. and 7.45 p.m.

The sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be dispensed in St. Andrew's church on April the 9th.

The election of officers in St. Andrew's church Y. P. S. C. E. takes place at the regular meeting to-night.

The choir of the George street church is preparing special musical attractions for next Sunday—Easter Sunday.

Rev. Geo. Edwards, pastor of the Charlotte street Methodist church, preached anniversary services at Whitby yesterday.

Rev. Jas. Thom, B.A., pastor of the Mark street Methodist church, preached educational sermons at Lakefield yesterday.

The members of the congregation of St. John's church were asked yesterday to kindly send flowers for the Easter decorations at the church.

Service will be held in St. John's every evening this week at 8 o'clock—except this evening and Friday evening, when service will be held at 7.30 o'clock.

The girls' preparation class for the confirmation service, which will be held in St. Luke's church in four or five weeks' time, will meet this afternoon.

At St. Peter's Cathedral yesterday (Palm Sunday) at 10:30 o'clock mass, palm was distributed to a large congregation and blessed during the service.

The Hon. Winnifred Sugden, a Zenana missionary was unable owing to illness, to address the ladies of the Womens Auxiliary at St. John's school room yesterday afternoon.

The last of the series of Wednesday evening services at St. John's church will be addressed by Rev. W. H. Barnes, incumbent of Tweed, on "The Lord outside the Camp."

On Easter Sunday at St. Luke's church there will be Communion at 8 o'clock and also at the close of the morning service. In the afternoon a children's service will be held at 3 o'clock instead of the Sunday school meeting.

The Hon. Winnifred Sugden, lady missionary from the Zenanas, will give an address in St. John's school house this evening, (Monday), at 8 o'clock. Miss Sugden wishes it understood that men as well as women are invited to attend.

At the quarterly meeting of the Sunday school teachers and officers, held last week in St. Andrew's manse, it was decided that besides supporting a pupil at Point aux Trembles school, the school also support a native foreign missionary.

The rector at St. Luke's church yesterday was assisted in the services by Mr. Dumoulin, B.A., son of Rev. Canon Dumoulin, of St. James' Cathedral, Toronto. Mr. Dumoulin is a student at Trinity University. He conducted the services at St. Mark's, Otonabee, in the afternoon.

Two very interesting letters were read yesterday by the Rev. Mr. MacWilliams to St. Andrew's Sunday school. These were from Miss Kirkpatrick, missionary in Trinidad. Through Dr. Bell the school has been sending literature to the missions there, which has been highly appreciated

There will be service in St. Luke's church on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday mornings at 9.30 o'clock this week and on Friday morning at 10.30 o'clock. Evening service will be held on Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights at 7.30 o'clock. On Tuesday evening the rector will conduct service at Auburn.

Yesterday morning the Rev. Mr. McWilliams, of St. Andrew's church, preached a stirring missionary sermon from the text, "We do not well; this day is a day of good tidings and we hold our peace," etc., 2nd Kings 7-9. Such a powerful and pathetic plea for the famishing millions cannot but stir to increased liberality. In the evening he again spoke to a large congregation from the parable of the two debtors.

The annual business meeting and tea of the Charlotte street Methodist church will take place this evening. The ladies of the church will serve a free tea in the Sunday school room from 6.30 until 8 o'clock, after which a public meeting will be held. An entertaining programme will be rendered, reports read from the different departments of the church, in addition to which an address will be delivered also. A large attendance is requested.

Yesterday was Palm Sunday, and was celebrated in most of the churches as a day of great rejoicing. The Roman Catholic and Anglican Churches commemorate the incident of the earthly glorification of our Saviour when He entered Jerusalem amid the shouts and acclamations of the people, His pathway being strewn with palm leaves, and psalms of praise were sung. The feast is only second in rejoicing to the festival of Easter itself.

Educational sermons were preached in the Mark street Methodist church, yesterday, by Rev. S. T. Bartlett, of Lakefield. The rev. gentleman is an able and talented young minister of the Methodist church, and it is always a pleasure and profit to hear him, as was amply testified to by the large congregations yesterday. In the evening the rev. gentleman preached a sterling and original sermon from the words, "Take my yoke upon you and learn of me, for my yoke is easy and my burden is light. The speaker said Christ had a school, a teacher, a curriculum and a university course. These points were forcibly illustrated. We were not to learn of Christ so much in an historical sense as to learn Him personally and in our hearts. Mr. Bartlett's discourse was much appreciated.

ELEVATED ABOVE ALL OTHERS!

Wise Mothers Choose It!

The purest, most nutritious, most easily assimilated, most wholesome and cheapest infant food in the world is Lactated Food. Its great similarity of composition to breast milk renders it the most trustworthy food for the use of infants and delicate children.

Lactated Food corrects all derangements in digestion, prevents dysentery, diarrhœa and cholera infantum, and gives to the infant a strong vitality.

Lactated Food builds up the weak and delicate child; it strengthens every bone, muscle and tissue, and causes the little one to enjoy good and refreshing sleep.

Thousands of mothers in Canada have sent in strong and valuable letters of testimony in favour of Lactated Food; many mothers say that if it had not been for Lactated Food, there little ones would have found an early grave.

Mothers, do not hesitate longer as to what food is necessary for your baby; the preponderence of proof is greatly in favour of Lactated Food, and you have every guarantee that it will do what it promises.

A GREENHOUSE BURNED.

Harry Stevens' Fine Greenhouse Swept out of Existence—The Loss Heavy.

About five o'clock this morning an alarm of fire, which was sent in from the C.P.R. restaurant, was sounded and called the brigade out. Although an alarm is something new to the boys for the past few weeks, still they responded with their accustomed alacrity, and made the run down as far as Perry street in short order. It was then seen that the blaze was about two miles out in the country, and being at the limit of the hydrant service, the fire brigade returned. The fire proved to be the fine large green house of Mr. Harry Stevens which is situated about two miles below the town in North Monaghan on the river road and near the powder magazine. Mr. Wm. Anderson, milkman, was the first to discover the fire, the origin of which is unknown. It was with difficulty that the neighbours saved Mr. Steven's hen house and other adjoining buildings. Mr. Steven's loss will total nearly a thousand dollars. Besides the building which was a model one of glass and frame, he had all his complete kit of carpenters tools consumed. Some 60,000 celery plants all set out in boxes and several hundred pansy plants were also destroyed. The blow will be a serious one to Mr. Stevens, and doubly so coming at this season of the year when plants and flowers are most needed. There was an insurance of some $500 which but partially covers the loss.

POLITICAL DOCTORS CONSULT OVER THE POLITICAL SITUATION OF WEST PETERBOROUGH.

A Business Consultation—Conferring With Organizer Montague—Election of Officers—The Speeches in the Opera House—Dr. Ryerson's Wonderful Wanderings—Dr. Montague's Sugar-coated Political Platitudes—Dr. Sproule's Patriotic Pellets.

The health of the Conservative party in West Peterborough must be in a critical condition when it was necessary to call three political quacksalvers in consultation over her condition as was done on Saturday, when there were present to consult over the situation and prescribe, the following distinguished medical gentlemen: Dr. Montague, M.P., Haldimand; Dr. Thomas Sproule, M.P., East Grey; and Dr. Ryerson, M.P.P., Toronto, specialist in provincial indigestion, produced by undue indulgence in "eggs and butter."

At the business meeting the usual loyal and patriotic resolutions were adopted and the officers were elected as follows:—

President—James Kendry.

Vice-Presidents—T. E. Bradburn, Peterburn; Joseph Forster, North Monaghan; J. A. Davidson, Smith Daniel Shanahan, Ennismore; Hugh Waddell, South Monaghan; H. C. Strickland, Lakefield; A. Johnston, Harvey.

Secretary-Treasurer.—L. M. Hayes.

THE ORATORICAL EFFORTS.

At the public meeting convened at the conclusion of the business meeting, the opera house was fairly well filled. Mr. Kendry, the newly-elected President, occupied the chair. He first called upon Mr. Stevenson, who after lauding the speakers, said he was perfectly satisfied with the condition of the country, and he believed the Government was doing everything in its power to advance its interests. He was also well satisfied with the condition of the town and its industries. He believed the farmers and mechanics must go hand in hand. He believed in his oft repeated prediction that we should be a city of 20,000 inhabitants. His own interests were all with the town and he kept himself poor encouraging industries.

Mr. H. R. Elliott, of Millbrook, had come to hear the great speakers, Drs. Sproule and Montague. He had warm words of praise for the talented member for West Peterborough—"a man who could get more from the Government than any other representative," though unfortunately for the information of the audience, the speaker did not go into details as to what had been got.

Dr. Ryerson was next introduced into the arena. He had visited the town on business, and took pleasure in being present with West Peterborough Conservatives. As the representative of the province he of course dealt with provincial affairs which were considered of too little importance—since the people allowed the Mowat government to do as it liked. The Dr. modestly referred to his great victory in Toronto fought against tremendous odds—as the beginning of the end of this sort of political foolishness. Toronto was the "Keystone of Conservatism," and he intimated that the example it had set would be followed throughout the province, and he gave them reasons why the solid Tory vote would triumph at the next general election—"this year, or next year, at the latest." The investigations that had been made into the management of public institutions had shown that the Mowat Government was the most corrupt—as corrupt as the Mercier Government. He then went somewhat into details, instancing cases in which one man was charged with 721 dozen of eggs; and, after a momentary mental incubation the doctor hatched the joke—that man must smell "fowl." But the doctor forgot to explain that this amount of eggs was charged to one man, the bursar for an asylum, who had purchased this quantity of eggs, which had been distributed to several institutions, and that the amount was a perfectly reasonable one. The oratorical oculist asserted that these "petty stealings" had been going on for twenty years, and had mounted up into the millions. He also forgot to mention—which was quite unnecessary in this riding—that a certain member for West Peterborough had made a most exhaustive kitchen crusade, rolling up a bill of "cold vittles" against the Government, which would have knocked the Government cold if the people could have only been persuaded to take the matter seriously. His second reason was that the Conservatives would show a solid front against the iniquity of such a Government as the Mowat Administration, and the third reason was that that great statesman, W. R. Meredith, was still leader of the Opposition. This gentleman by his assistance in revising their legislation had saved the Mowat Government times without number, and Mr. Meredith was going to quit giving the Mowat Government assistance. There was no other course left them but to fall. It is to be hoped that Toronto has more reasons than were apparent here on Saturday for being proud (in a political sense) of its new representative.

Dr. Montague "the hero of Haldimand" was received with cheers. He had a very high opinion of the able and distinguished member for West Peterborough, which he hastened to assure his hearers was no empty compliment, but was meant in earnest. He was glad to come to a prosperous town—which had been depicted in a speech by Mr. Stevenson, which was characterized by the speaker as "the strongest speech ever made in the house." The doctor jauntily said there was nothing new from Ottawa, the Conservatives were still rolling up majority after majority. He evidently had recently consulted his debating school scrap book, for he proceeded to unloose in a flood of fluent verbiage a stream of political platitudes. Begining at the time when the Conservative government succeeded one of the "most corrupt and incompetent governments in the world" the speaker referred to the election after election that had been won by them. Though being particularly well qualified he did not give the true causes and means by which these elections were gained. Dr. Montague with great kindness proceeded to point out from his point of view the reasons why the Liberals had not gained office. He said the Grits must adopt a Canadian policy, though he did not particularly advocate a policy of "Canada for the Canadians" and not the combines. In a strain of fulsome adulation he referred to the great benefits the Conservative government had conferred upon the country, but of course he did not show the companion picture of the evils their corrupt administration had wrought. Speaking by, it is to be presumed authority. Dr. Montague said: "We propose next year to reform the tariff." Protection would still be extended industries needing its help. The duties would be retained upon articles, not the produce of Canada, to the extent of producing a requisite revenue. "We are willing to make fair commercial arrangements with the United States."

Dr. Sproule followed Dr. Montague, and confirmed the prognosis of the preceeding doctors by asserting that Peterborough was in a healthy condition. He knew from Mr. Stevenson's speech that this was a live town, and from what he had seen, the Globe's criticism of his speech was unwarranted. He went on to supply the superfluous information that under the Conservatives the country was in the "hands of the Jews." He said it was the duty of the Conservatives to uphold the hands of the Israelites—meaning, it is supposed, Sir A. P. Caron, Sir John Thompson, Mr. Rebellion Wallace and others. After the usual cheers the meeting separated, though more than half had retired during the progress of the speaking.

LAKEFIELD PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

SIR,—Knowing that the columns of your paper are ever open for the free and fair discussion of public questions, I venture to ask space for a few remarks called forth by a letter which appeared in the last issue of the Lakefield News.

The News correspondent who dubs himself an "Observant Ratepayer," seeks to justify the action of the village school board at their last meeting, where they passed a resolution for re-arranging the classes in the public schools, in order, they claim, that Mr. Evans, the Principal, may take up, in full, fifth class work, such work as is taught and provided for in our high schools;

The observant ratepayer claims that a rearrangement is necessary owing to the fact that the pupils are not proportionately divided; that Mr. Evan's room has sixty pupils while Miss Daff has an average attendance of forty-four and Miss Buchanan an average attendance of forty. Now sir, how is it that Mr. Evens has so many pupils? Are they sent to his room without the necessary examinations? I presume not, but that on the contrary, personal merit only has entitled entitled each pupil to a place in the first room. Then why should they be compelled to return to a lower room simply to enable Mr. Evens to give some seventeen pupils higher education, or a full course of 5th class work, when schools especially equipped for that work are provided in this county, and receive county grants.

The News correspondent also claims that seventeen of Mr. Even's pupils are now taking up 5th class work and then he says that it is a disgrace to our village that pupils cannot get any higher education, than that derived from the 4th book. If the Board are determined to have 5th class work taken up in Lakefield let them ask the ratepayers to provide for it, and not discourage our teachers and pupils by interfering with what has been wisely and well done. Our pupils have advanced by diligent and persevering study. After rigid examinations they have earned promotion to the higher rooms, and it seems to your correspondent a most uncalled for and high-handed proceeding for the school board to order their return to the lower rooms.

"Observant Ratepayer" then goes on to say that "discontented ratepayers should attend the next meeting of the school board and if the board consents to re-open the question they can give their reasons for opposing the proposed change." "If the board consents to reopen the question"! One would think from this that the board were unanimous in making the change; on the contrary two out of five members of the board are bitterly opposed to the resolution, and yet our "Ratepayer" correspondent assumes that it is just possible that the board will do as they like despite the petition of the ratepayers. It appears to your correspondent that to refuse to re-open the question is beneath the dignity of any member of the board and in keeping with anything but justice and fair play! It is to be hoped that the board will consider the petition in a fair and impartial spirit, with a view to the best interests of the school.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your kind attention, I am.

Yours faithfully,
A PETITIONER.

HALF A CENTURY A CITIZEN.

Mr. Robt. Larmour Passed Away on Saturday Night in the 74th Year of His Age.

On Saturday night about 9 o'clock Mr. Robt. Larmour an old well respected citizen of Peterborough passed quietly away at his residence on Brock street. Deceased was born in County of Down near Belfast, Ireland, in the year 1818, and came to Canada in 1841. He first settled in Camden township, near Kingston, where for three years he followed the calling of a farmer. His wife and family emigrated to Canada a year later. In 1844 the late Mr. Larmour removed to Peterborough where he has ever since resided with the exception of a year spent in Winnipeg. Deceased was engaged in the boot and shoe business for a number of years here and was succeeded by his son. During the past two years he has been incapitated from active work owing to failing health. Congestion of the liver was the immediate cause of his death. In 1839 deceased was married to Miss Agnes McQuignan, who with two children survives him. They are William, formerly of Peterborough but now a resident of Detroit, and Mrs. Sarney, who resides in the vicinity of Chatham. The funeral took place this afternoon to Little Lake cemetery and was well attended. Rev. J. H. Locke, pastor of the George street Methodist church, conducted the solemnities.

TARIFF REFORM.

Plans For Meeting the Deficiency in Revenue.

NEW YORK, March 25.—In connection with the report of the Tariff Reform Committee upon the best tariff reform bill for the Democratic Congress, the report adds:

The requirements of the Government to be met by the tariff are estimated to be $133,000,000 a year. To meet this demand the tariff here proposed will provide an income of $120,000,000 for the first year, which will steadily increase, and, in our opinion, will produce an average annual income of $105,000,000 during the first five years of its existence.

The tariff here proposed would leave a deficiency of revenue for the first year of $58,000,000, or, excluding arrears of pensions, $13,000,000. The question arises how this deficiency is to be met. It may be done in any of three ways:

First—By short date Government bills to be paid out of the revenue of the next five years, which will certainly be sufficient for that purpose, because three-fourths of the deficiency will cease within two years.

Second—By a duty on sugar and perhaps on tea and coffee.

Third—By an income tax upon natural and artificial monopolies, such as railroads, telegraphs, telephones, gas works and rents.

WEARY OF LIFE.

Richard Freeman Tried to Cut His Own Throat.

CHATSWORTH, Ont., March 25.—For nearly two years old Dick Freeman, as he is commonly called, has been in failing health and during the last six months has been confined to bed for the greater part of the time. Of late he has been in a despondent frame of mind and a close watch was kept upon him, though it was not expected that he would attempt to take his own life.

While his brother-in-law, Mr. Thomas Hanbury, who has been attending him, was out of the house for a short time, and his wife left the room for a few minutes, the old man cut his throat with his pocket knife.

Just how he obtained the knife is not known, but it is altogether probable that he got out of bed for it, as his wife heard a noise in the bedroom and upon opening the door to see what it was saw blood spurting from the gash he had made in his throat.

The neighbors were alarmed and assistance procured and the wound dressed. He has been a resident of this place about 25 years and owns considerable property but no children.

THE FIRST IN THE U.S.

Sir Julian Pauncefote Is Now an Ambassador.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—The State Department has received official information that Queen Victoria has raised the rank of Sir Julian Pauncefote, the representative in Washington, from that of envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to that of ambassador, and that his credentials as such are on their way here.

Under the provisions of the diplomatic and consular appropriation bill of March 1, 1893, President Cleveland is authorized to confer the same rank upon our representative at London.

Hitherto no ambassador has been accredited to the United States, because the United States did not confer that title upon any of its ministers abroad, and reciprocity is always observed in diplomatic representation.

Sir Julian Pauncefote will be the first minister to Washington to hold the title of ambassador, but it is highly probable that France, Germany, Russia and Austria will be prompt to follow the example thus set by England and change the titles of their ministers to ambassadors, thus necessitating in international courtesy a corresponding change on our part.

An interesting question thus arises as to whether or not the change of title will necessitate the re-submission of all these appointments to the Senate for reconfirmation.

Overdose of Wealth.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., March 26.—Rev. T. Dewitt Talmage stopped over between trains yesterday and, going from hotel, carelessly threw his coat on a chair.

When he left a package was found on the floor that had dropped from his pocket. It was a wad of greenbacks of about $2000 and a messenger was sent to overtake him on the way to the depot.

Indians Ugly In Missouri.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 25.—Despatches from the eastern part of the Indian Territory indicate that an Indian uprising is imminent among Kiowas, Otos and Missouris. The chief of the Kiowas is not in sympathy with the uprising, but cannot control his tribe. He says assistance must come at once, or whites will be massacred

Cotton Strike Ended.

MANCHESTER, Eng., March 25.—An agreement has been reached by which the great cotton strike will end on Monday. It was agreed that the spinners should accept a reduction of seven pence in the pound in their wages. The masters agreed to again start their spindles on Monday, and thus has ended one of the longest fights ever known in the cotton trade.

The Manitoba Boom.

WINNIPEG, March 25.—The immigration boom has now set in in earnest. Five hundred settlers for Manitoba and Northwest arrived yesterday on three special trains, this being the third large party of the season. Two of this morning's trains were filled with English and Belgian settlers and the other one with agriculturists from Ontario. All were promptly forwarded to their destinations. A colony of Scotch families sailed from Scotland on the 17th and upon arrival here will take farms in Southern Manitoba.

A DEFENCE OF CRAPE.

The Wearing of it Said to be an Old and Useful Custom.

The custom of wearing crape as a sign of bereavement and mourning seems to us appropriate. It is an old custom, an affecting custom; it serves a useful purpose; it sobers the demeanor of people toward the bereaved, it awakens sympathy. We do not, therefore, like to see it ridiculed by vulgar writers; and we do not sustain the Burial Reform Association's crusade against it, even though Bishop Potter and many other divines belong to the association. The first two articles of the association's programme, which favor "economical funerals" and "plain hearses," may be well enough, but the next article, which calls for the "disuse of crape and other emblems of grief," had better be omitted. We prefer not to make any argument upon this subject. We do not like to read the things upon it that are in print.

When Mr. Blain died in Washington last January, there was much debate in fashionable society about the kind of manifestations suitable for the occasion The ladies of the Cabinet families held a conference thereupon. Should invitations be withdrawn, or receptions be discontinued, or sombre raiment be worn, or flowers be sent, or the gayeties of the times be interrupted? It was known that Mr. Blaine himself had never given much heed to the outward observance of grief, and that his widow did not desire any public recognition of her sorrow. Other things were taken into account, especially the fact that the winter season would soon be over, and that preparations had been made for a number of entertainments that very week. The end of it all was that society went along about as usual, and that even the White House was open to company on the first Tuesday after Mr. Blaine's departure. We again say that this subject is very disagreeable to us.

We respect the emblems of mourning. We believe that when a man or woman mourns the loss of a beloved relative it is well and becoming to wear crape—a hat band of crape, a veil of crape. The wearing thereof affects the soul of the wearer; the sight thereof touches the mind of the beholder.—New York Sun.

IN BLACK AND YELLOW.

An Effective Hat With an Accommodating Brim.

Here is an effective hat which owes its chief charm to the accommodating bend of its brim. It is of chip, in two colors, black on one side and yellow on the other. At the front the brim inclines towards a slight poke. At the side it flares straight up as though it delighted in showing every wave of the hair. In the back it has a tendency to roll over, giving a glimpse of the yellow side of the chip.

The crown is covered with broad loops of yellow watered ribbon, which appear to be held in place by long pins of black jet.

Playing at hide and seek with the ribbon loops are three-quarter length ostrich feathers. Those which rest against the ribbon are in black and the one which falls over the brim in front is pale yellow. This hat would go well with a black lace dress.

Those who keep their blood in a pure and healthy condition need have no fear of any disease attacking them. It is the enfeebled, run-down system upon which disease fastens its fangs. Dr. Williams Pink Pills has no equal as a blood builder, nerve tonic, and preventative of disease. Thousands of grateful people testify to the wonderful power of this remedy. Take no substitute or imitation; 50c. a box or six boxes for $2.50. Dr. Williams' Med. Co., Brockville, Ont.

A Cure for Constipation and Headache

Dr. Silas Lane, while in the Rocky Mountains, discovered a root that when combined with other herbs, makes an easy and certain cure for constipation. It is in the form of dry roots leaves, and is known as Lane's Family Medicine. It will cure sick-headache in one night. For the blood, liver and kidneys, and for clearing up the complexion it does wonders. Druggists sell it at 50c. a package.

When the kidneys are clogged, good health is an impossibility; but when working properly the reverse is the case. That dull back-ache is the kidney's cry for relief. If Dodd's Kidney Pills are used the result will be marvellous. We emphatically state that we have never known a case of kidney disease that a persistent use of Dodd's Kidney Pills will not cure.

A Cure for Croup.

Croup kills thousands where cholera kills tens. For this dread disease no remedy can compare in curative power with Hagyard's Yellow Oil. It loosens the phelgm, gives prompt relief, and soon completely cures the most violent attack.

No Lady's Toilet is Complete.

STRANGE.

Small Bonnets to Which This Adjective Applies.

If the spring bonnets were not almost invariably below the medium size, they would excel in eccentric appearance anything that has yet been worn; but their smallness prevents them from looking as strange as they would otherwise appear. It is not only that the shapes themselves are peculiar—some being round in front and pointed at the back, others having the point in front, while others again are three cornered or square—but the decoration is so varied and distributed about in so curious a way. Little tufts of flowers crop up in most unlikely places; there is a want of preciseness in the arrangements, a craving after novelty at any price.

The greatest uncertainty still prevails with respect to trimmings, as well as other things. This is the season when we should expect to see flowers used to the exclusion of other decorations; but, although flowers enter, more or less, into the composition of most of the spring bonnets and hats, it is generally in combination with either feathers, jet, gilt and jeweled ornaments, which rather take away from their fresh and spring-like appearance. A favorite way of using them is to tie them up into little posies, placing them symmetrically on either side of a frontal decoration of quilled lace, or further back over the ears, where the strings are often attached. As for instance, a small three-cornered bonnet made of gold filigree and pearls very lightly woven together. The fern pleatings of white lace are secured in front by a circular ball set with pearls; small bunches of velvet violets, with a spray of mimosa in the centre of each, are attached to the corner of the shape further back. The toque of the illustration is profusely trimmed with violets. The crown is composed of braided rubber stems and the brim has two ruffles of pleated black tulle, each three inches in width and scalloped at the edges to a depth of about a quarter of an inch. These scallops are outlined with gold threads. The place where the tulle flounces are sewed to the crown is covered with ten tiny bunches of violets, and an aigrette of yellow heather and violets is placed in front. If desired, very thin beaded tulle can be put over the violets to imitate dew.

FLORETTE.

A Profitable Side Issue.

When properly conducted, poultry keeping is the most profitable of all the "side issues" of the farm. A small stock of fowls can return a larger profit upon the capital and labor required than can any other live stock.

A Tree Protector.

Two boards, with their edges nailed together in the form of a trough, and placed near the stem of an apple tree, so as to protect it from the easterly cold and early sunshine, have been proved to have an excellent effect.

A Sure Destroyer.

Experiments with bisulphide of carbon show that it will destroy all stages of the insect known as bean weevil,—eggs, larvæ of all sizes, pupæ and adults.

Will Kill Consumption.

The Norwegian cod is destined to kill consumption. It has always been known that its oil, when properly prepared, contains all the potent elements for rebuilding wasting tissues in the human body. The difficulty has been to converse the energies of the oil in its refining, and this has only been accomplished by the manufacturers of "Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil." All who suffer with lung troubles, and of course all who are threatened with consumption, should take it. In big bottles, 50c. and $1.00, at all Drug Stores,

Gives Strength and Appetite.

DEAR SIRS,—Last year I was very thin and reducing very fast, owing to the bad state of my blood and appetite. A friend of mine induced me to get a bottle of B.B.B., which I did. I obtained immediate perceptible relief from it, having gained strength and appetite, and now weigh 193 pounds. M. T. MURPHY, Dorchester Bridge, Quebec, Que.

Encouragement for old People.

It may sound queer to talk about curing old people of Kidney and Urinary troubles after they have passed the alloted period of three score years and ten, but the following extraordinary recovery of an old veteran by Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure, ought to be of great encouragement to old people:—

BELLEVILLE, March 4, 1893.

Peterborough Medicine Company (Limited.)

GENTLEMEN,—I owe a great debt of gratitude to Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure for the prompt and speedy relief which I have received from the use of only one bottle of your great medicine. I have suffered from Kidney and Urinary troubles, inflammation of the neck of the bladder, &c. for many a long day. No one knows better than old people how great a blessing it is to be cured. I doctored a lot, but nothing did me so much good as your cure. I have lived about half a century in Belleville, and will be only to glad to speak a good word in favour of Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure. I can also recommend it for constipation and stomach troubles. JAMES HAROLD.

Beware of Cholera.

The healthy body throws off the germs of cholera therefore wisdom counsels the use of Burdock Blood Bitters this spring to purify the blood, regulate the system, and fortify the body against cholera or other epidemics.

Restored to Health.

DEAR SIRS,—For years I was troubled with indigestion, but being advised to try B. B. B. I did so and find myself quite restored to health. HOWARD SULLIVAN, Mgr. Sullivan Farm, Dunbar, Ont.

BURNED WITH KEROSENE.

Grip Drove Klersy Mad and He Cremated Himself.

NEW YORK, March 27.—A weeping wife and four little children sat beside an ice box which contained the body of husband and father in the back room of 356 Myrtle-ave, Williamsburg, Saturday It was the family of Upholsterer Joseph Klersy, whom the grip and a fear that his family would starve drove insane Friday afternoon and caused him in his delirium to saturate his body with kerosene oil and then meet a horrible death by burning.

Klersy, who was 35 years old, was a jolly, good-natured German, who, despite his hard luck during the past winter, when he and his wife went to bed many a night without a morsel of food passing their mouths during the day, was always in a happy frame of mind.

"Never mind, wifey," he would often say to his wife, "as long as the children have enough to eat, it's all right. We can stand it, but they can't. Business may boom before long."

Sometimes for days Klersy would sit at the store window waiting for trade which didn't come. Often he bemoaned his hard luck, but was in hopes of better days. Three years ago he had a bad attack of the grip. The disease never left him, and when he had a relapse on Monday his wife sent at once for Dr. A. Wieber of Driggs-avenue and south 5th-street. After an injection of morphine he seemingly improved, but his condition became worse yesterday, when at 4 in the afternoon, while delirious and during the temporary absence of his wife, who was out trying to get a doctor, he committed suicide by pouring oil from a can all over his night shirt and underclothing and setting fire to himself with a match.

The youngest child, Willie, aged 16 months, lay at the foot of the bed near where Klersey applied the match to himself. As a result of inhaling smoke the little boy lay in the arms of his maternal grandmother to-day gasping for breath. His little arms and legs were burned, and he will probably die.

Mrs. Klersy to-day is also in a precarious condition from burns received by her in her efforts to extinguish the flames which consumed her husband. She is enciente, and the shock to her nervous system was so great that for nearly an hour after her husband's death she was prostrated.

When the police arrived at the house and uncovered Klersy in the yard they found him charred almost beyond recognition. He was lying on his face, as he had fallen, and as he was turned over on his back he gave one gasp and expired. The body was lifted up and taken into the kitchen. Mrs. Klersy had one glance at the body and, with a shriek, fainted.

MONETARY CONFERENCE.

President Cleveland's Decision to Reconvene it Gives Satisfaction.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—The news that the President has decided to reconvene the International Monetary Conference at Brussels on May 30 is received with approbation by Senators who have interested themselves in the silver question. Senator Allison, however, who discharged the duties of President of the American delegation, has been obliged from business considerations to surrender the idea of carrying forward his work as a delegate.

The senator is not an extremist, but he is hopeful that some definite agreement will be reached when the conference re-assembles. He does not base this hope on indications of any material change in sentiment in Europe, but believes that the agitation of the silver question at the first session of the conference has awakened popular interest in the matter in England and on the Continent, as evidenced by the elaborate discussions that have since taken place and are still in progress through the medium of financial publications and the general pressure.

Touching the Italian demand that the United States delegates come to the conference prepared to submit a definite proposition, Senator Allison says that he does not believe such a course is feasible. The wishes of the United States were made clearly apparent at the first session, and the European governments know what we desire. Between that and what might be attained there is a substantial difference, and out of such conditions issues compromise. It was too much to expect the conference to agree upon free silver coinage, and in Senator Allison's opinion one feasible basis of agreement that promised to give effect to the purpose of the conference was the retirement of gold from coinage below a certain value and the natural replacement of this retired coinage by silver.

HARRIS MAY NOT HANG.

The Wife-Poisoner's Sentence May at Last Be Commuted.

NEW YORK, March 27.—In Recorder Smythe's decision denying a new trial to Harris he stated that some of the affidavits submitted by the defendant contained perjured facts and that testimony stated were not based on truth. District Attorney Nicholl is thinking of indicting some of these affidavit makers, as he says there can be no question that they committed perjury. Mr. Nicholl thinks Governor Flowr will commute Harris' sentence.

Canadian Acknowledgments.

BUFFALO, March 27.—Assemblyman Guenther's bill amending chapter No. 195 of the laws of 1848 has now become a law, and according to the provisions Canadian commissioners are given a new standing in this state.

Before the passage of this act, acknowledgments in Canada had to be taken before a mayor, provost, or chief magistrate, certified under their respective seals, or before the judge of any Court of Record, certified to under seal of the clerk of the court, or before any United States consul, consular agent or commercial agent or deputies of such office certified under seal.

The new law accepts an acknowledgment of a Canadian commissioner for taking affidavits, and a registrar of deeds or his deputy, but their authority to act has to be certified to by the county clerk or clerk of the court.

THE KANSAS WOMEN.

They Are Setting the Pace For Doubling the Voting Strength.

KANSAS CITY, March 27.—Women will play a very important part in the municipal elections all over Kansas, April 4.

Reports from different cities show that the registration, which closed last night, was remarkable for the heavy registration of women. In this city 3482 certificates had been granted to women and 8236 to men. The total registration in Topeka will exceed 10,000, fully 4000 being women. In Leavenworth 2354, Wichita 2464, Lawrence 1000, Fort Scott 1285, Emporia 833.

Fire in Winnipeg.

WINNIPEG, March 27.—Fire in North Main-street early Sunday morning destroyed Fould's block and the stores of J. S. Douglass, boots and shoes; Neilson, jeweler, and Shelly's restaurant. Loss between $40,000 and $50,000; insurance, $15,000.

AN ANARCHIST'S SHOES.

Discloses His Connection With Various Plots in Paris.

PARIS, March 27.—The local police in St. Michel, Department of the Aisne, have caught the Anarchist Mathieu, suspected of having been Ravachol's accomplice in causing the explosions of a year ago and having been implicated with him in the wrecking of the cafe Very in the Rue Magenta.

Mathieu had robbed a peasant's hut, near St. Michel, and the police searched for him without knowing of his identity with the notorious Anarchist. They found him hidden in a loft. When he was stripped for examination the police found in his shoes paper which showed that he was closely connected with the plots of the Anarchists in Paris.

A comparison of his appearance with the official description of Mathieu leaves no reason for doubt that he was the man for whom the Paris police have been looking ever since the arrest of his colleague Ravachol.

USED THE CLOTURE.

An Exciting Session in the British House of Commons.

LONDON, March 27. The House of Commons was in session until 5 o'clock Saturday morning considering the army estimates. Chairman Mellor was unequal to the demands made upon him, in consequence of the exceptional stubbornness of the Opposition. He was baited by Robert M. Hanbury, Conservative, for Preston, who in a bitter speech accused him of wrongful ruling. Shouts of "Withdraw" and "Apologize" elicited from Mr. Hanbury only the declaration that he would do neither. Repeated motions to report progress provoked Sir William Harcourt to exclaim hotly: "This is deliberate and barefaced obstruction, and I will fight you on it."

This challenge was received with a tremendous shout by the Liberals. Exciting scenes accompanied the applying of closure. The debate was one of the stormiest of the session.

THE HOME RULE CONTEST

OPPOSITIONISTS ARE STRIKING HARD AT GLADSTONE.

The Charges Are Met Calmly and With Dignified Reply by the Premier—He Says That He Is Trying Mildness Instead of Coercion.

LONDON, March 28.—A Liberal party meeting was held at Foreign Office yesterday, under the presidency of Premier Gladstone, to discuss the condition of business and the course of the Liberals in Parliament. It was proposed by Mr. Gladstone that the Irish Home Rule bill should have a second reading on April 6, and that the Home Rule bill should have precedence of all other business every day except Wednesdays, and also that the House should sit in the morning on Friday. Mr. Gladstone expressed a hope that the party would give the Government all the aid in its power to expedite the Home Rule bill issue, and the Parish Councils bill, and assist the Government in fighting obstruction.

Mr. Labouchere suggested that the Ministers, as well as private members, should curtail their speeches on the Home Rule question.

William Vernon Harcourt, Chancellor of the Exchequer, said if the Liberal party only acted with prudence and according to proper rules of discipline they would soon carry to a successful issue the glorious policy with which the nation had entrusted them.

The meeting was harmonious and a general purpose was shown to act compactly in support of Home Rule and the other great Liberal issues.

Mr. Balfour, leader of the Unionists, spoke at length on his motion, of which he gave notice last Thursday, that the Irish executive be censured for condoning serious offences and thus bringing the law into general contempt. He made his attack on the Government with exceptional vigor, and evoked repeatedly loud cheers from the Opposition benches. The present deplorable state of affairs in Ireland, Mr. Balfour said, was largely the consequence of a compact between the Government and the forces of disorder. The Ministry had made with the Irish party an agreement by which the administration of the law was being defeated. According to the terms of this unwritten concordat, the Government had coquetted with amnesty and had encouraged dishonest tenants through the Evicted Tenants' Commission to disown their obligations, to treat landlords as a law-abiding people would treat malefactors. The Government had fomented outrages by suspending the Crimes Act, and had instigated crimes by the release of the dynamiters. The Government had not hesitated to take steps which were in direct antagonism to decisions of the courts.

In answering Mr. Balfour, Mr. Morley, Chief Secretary for Ireland, directed attention to the fact that this was the fifth vote of censure moved within eight weeks. The right hon. gentleman, moreover, had failed to justify his motion with one new fact or one fresh argument. The leading charge against the Government was that they had a concordat with the Irish party. He would not deny that the present administration tried to govern Ireland in sympathy with the Irish people. [Cheers.] If that was the heinous concordat, he would plead guilty to being a party to it. As to the specific charge, that he had refused police protection to those who enforced the law, he would say that he had declined to protect night seizures, and he felt justified in this action. The law on the subject was far from clear, and the highest authorities differed in their interpretation of it. Mr. Morley then rebutted in detail Balfour's assertion that agrarian crime in Ireland had increased under the Liberal Government.

If the right hon. gentleman presented the best possible case for a vote of censure, said Mr. Morley in conclusion, the Government need not fear the vote of the House or the judgment of the country. (Cheers.)

T. W. Russell, M.P. for South Tyrone, said that after hearing such declarations from the Irish Secretary, he felt that there was no law-breaker in Ireland who could not rely upon the Government to minimize his offence.

Mr. Gladstone reproached the Opposition with resorting to a license of language which they could not possibly justify with facts. The present Government, he said, had as great a desire and as strong an interest as had any of their predecessors in preserving law and order in Ireland. The present Government had, however, different views as to the best manner of dealing with the people. They had substituted mildness and clemency for coercion. The results already apparent proved how successfully the new policy operated.

The severity of the sentences in Ireland upon the boy Foley and other political offenders, Mr. Gladstone continued, was a feature of the coercive system. Such sentences never could have been passed in England. The present Government sought to abolish this exceptional mode of treatment and establish a more equitable system of administration.

They aimed at laying the foundation of order in the hearts and understanding of the people of Ireland.

The Liberal party refused to believe that the Irish people were afflicted with some peculiar curse which prevented them from appreciating the blessings of civilization. The Liberal party believed that the Irish people were as capable of being governed on as approved principles as were the peoples of other countries. The present effort of the Chief Secretary for Ireland was to realize in practice the fruits of this belief. The Government appealed to the judgment of the House to justify him in this course and had no other desire than to share the fate which the verdict of the members would bring him. [Prolonged cheers.]

Lord Randolph Churchill introduced his speech for Mr. Balfour's motion with a short eulogy of Mr. Gladstone and an allusion to his fascinating eloquence. He felt it his duty, he said, to defend Irish judges against the charge of having passed too harsh sentences. His own experience with the Chief Secretary's great legislative achievements had been that one concession to the Irish people was followed inevitably by another. The Liberals had followed the same policy as had the Conservatives for the suppression of crime in Ireland until the present Prime Minister made his great surrender in 1885.

Lord Randolph pronounced the measure as censure to no more than palliate Mr. Morley's endeavors to hush up and conceal Irish crime from the knowledge of Parliament. He charged the Government with having set aside illegality an act of parliament when they empaneled two classes of the Crimes Act. The present debate would not be wanted, he said. It would have effect outside if not inside Parliament.

None knew better than he that the Unionist party had anxious times before it. There were times in the history of nations when Providence imposed tests by good or ill. Perhaps the English people were now passing through such a period. But the Unionists would not falter. They founded their hopes on the truth of their principles and looked to the English people for judgment.

The division on Mr. Balfour's motion followed Lord Randolph's speech. It resulted in a majority of 47 for the Government, the vote standing 319 to 272.

MONTREAL HERALD BURNED.

The Hamilton Spectator Publishers Also Lose a Job Printing Plant.

MONTREAL March 28.—Montreal was the scene of another big fire last night, and for the fourth time in its existence The Montreal Herald was completely burned out. The scene of the fire was the old Zion Church building on Beaver Hall hill, which has been occupied by The Herald since its previous offices in Victoria-square were destroyed by fire a few years ago.

The building was an old ramshackle stone one. The ground flats were occupied by The Herald editorial, business and composing departments. The second flat was occupied by the Bennalack Lithographing Co., Southam & Carey, printers (also publishers of The Hamilton Spectator), had the top flat.

The fire seems to have originated in the premises of Southam & Carey, and in an incredibly short space of time it had spread over the whole building. Men were at work at the time in the business, editorial and composing departments of The Herald. Suddenly a loud report, as of an explosion, took place and flames rushed from the top flat.

The men on the ground floor had only time to escape with their lives, and The Herald printers escaped by the windows.

When the firemen arrived the building was in flames from top to bottom, and there was no chance of saving anything. The whole brigade was called out and the fire was prevented from spreading. The Herald building was completely destroyed and the loss will be heavy.

Mr. O'Connor, the manager of The Herald, estimated the loss to The Herald to-night at about $40,000, about half of which is covered by insurance.

Bennelack & Co. had just put in a lot of valuable machinery, and their loss will be about $25,000.

Southam & Carey's loss is about $10,000 to $15,000, only partly insured.

The building was owned by Duncan McIntyre, and its value is placed at $50,000.

The total loss is from $75,000 to $100,000. The origin of the fire is a complete mystery.

Hotel Burned.

ST. MARY'S, Ont., March 28.—Yesterday the British Hotel, owned by W. Cosgrove, was gutted by fire. Fully insured.

MRS. THURSTON'S FAD.

She Thinks She Owns the United States and Great Britain.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Mr. Cleveland's right to the Presidency was disputed by Mrs. Thurston, an old lady, who not only considers herself owner of the United States, but of the Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland as well. Mrs. Thurston was among those who shook hands with the President at the public reception in the east room this afternoon. When her turn came she grasped Mr. Cleveland's fingers in a firm grip and poured forth her tale, much to his very obvious embarrassment.

Mrs. Thurston said she wanted Mr. Cleveland to take charge of her possessions under a deed of trust to be handed over to her when she received her annuity of several hundred thousand dollars which will enable her to live in a style befitting her rank and possessions. Her importunities for a private audience to arrange details were politely parried, and after keeping the line waiting for 5 minutes Mrs. Thurston moved on with the parting remark she would return.

OFFICIAL SECRECY.

The U.S. Senate Refuses to Divulge the Treaty With Russia.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—The Senate was in executive session yesterday for upwards of an hour, and the greater part of that time was consumed in discussion relative to the release of the injunction of secrecy on the treaty with Russia that was recently ratified by the Senate. The injunction was not, however, released, although the majority of the Senate was in favor of it and the proposition also meets with the approval of the State Department. The sticking point is just what amount of the correspondence shall be made public and the vote by which the treaty was ratified.

THE ELGIN ASSIZES.

Two True Bills Brought in By the Grand Jury.

ST. THOMAS, Ont., March 28.—The Spring Assize Court for Elgin opened yesterday at 1.30, Justice Street presiding.

During the afternoon true bills were brought in by the grand jury against George E. Young, charged with the murder of Fred Glover of Lawrence Station, and Edward Herr, charged with larceny. The case of Young will come before the court on Wednesday or Thursday, depending on the arrival of B. B. Osler, Q.C., who, with T. W. Crothers of this city, has been retained for the defence. John King, Q.C., will conduct the case for the crown.

Civilizing the Indians.

WINNIPEG, March 28.—The Dominion Government has decided to erect a large industrial school for Indians at Brandon. It will be in charge of the Methodist Church and will be erected next to the Dominion Experimental Farm.

Faster C.P.R. Time.

WINNIPEG, March 28.—Superintendent Whyte of the C.P.R. states that about June 1 there will be a complete change in the C.P.R. time table and that running time from coast to coast will be materially reduced.

Minister of Denmark.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—The Senate has confirmed the nomination of John E. Risley of New York to be Minister to Denmark.

A BRAMPTON PHYSICIAN.

RAISES A SENSATION AND RUNS TO COVER.

Charged With Assaulting a Toronto Widow, Who Intends to Wreak Her Vengeance, Although She Thinks He Only Meant to Insult Her.

TORONTO, March 28.—The case of Dr. Hall v. Robinson still absorbs the inside of No. 21 1-2 Hunter-street, Brampton, but the patients who call to consult Dr. Williams Pink Pills are told that he is absent from the city. The facts in connection with the incident are of so sensational a character that the business of the pretty little burg have discussed nothing else for the past ten days, the overflowing of the Etobicoke Creek and the resultant submerging of all the lowest portion of the town last Saturday being regarded as an ordinary circumstance with the flood of scandal that has come over and fairly deluged the town. As much morsel has not been presented for the delectation of the gossipmongers for a decade, and they are making the most of it.

The parties concerned are Dr. William Hall and Vera Anderson, widow of the late Will Anderson of the firm of G. R. Anderson & Co., the leading drygoods firm of the town.

Dr. Hall is a young man of 25 or 26 and went to Brampton from Barrie six or seven years ago. He has a brother residing in Toronto and his father is a well-known farmer of King. The Doctor is a well-built, fine-looking man, and being a bachelor and of a jovial disposition soon built up a lucrative practice. Among his acquaintances was Mrs. Vera Anderson, daughter of a Georgetown shoemaker named Austin, who resided with her husband in a pretty villa on Ellen-street. In April, 1890, Mrs. Anderson's husband died leaving her $4000 in cash, the proceeds of a life insurance policy and an interest in the firm computed to be worth $5000. Weeds became the widow, and being a good dresser after Time, that true physician, had healed the wounds inflicted by the Grisly King of Terrors, she became the target of many shafts from Cupid's bow. Dr. Hall was her choice, however, according to common repute, but there was nothing to show that the doctor's affection was anything but of a platonic character. About a year ago the widow removed to Toronto, taking up her residence at 128 D'Arcy-street, where, she states, Dr. Hall continued to visit her, presumably in his professional capacity.

On Thursday, March 16, Dr. Hall called upon Mrs. Anderson at her Toronto residence, and it was here that the Slough of Despond in which he now flounders had its genesis. What passed at the interview is shrouded in mystery, but the Doctor was made to realize that "the gods are just and of our pleasant vices make instruments to scourge us." The neighbors were startled by screams for help, and on rushing in found Mrs. Anderson in hysterics on the floor. The sequel occurred on Saturday, March 17, when McCarthy, Hoskin, Osler & Creelman, on behalf of Mrs. Anderson, swore out an information before Police Magistrate Denison charging Dr. Hall with attempted rape. The Doctor got wind of the fact that a warrant was out for his arrest and, instead of manfully standing his ground, fled the town and is now believed to be in the United States.

There is some talk of his returning next week, and from an interview with the "woman in the case," published below, it would appear that if he does mayhap past misunderstandings will be discussed penitently and gravely and the meeting may be fraught with all the solemnity of a renewal of the vows of platonic love. Perhaps, however, Dr. Hall may have realised the truth of the adage that "he who takes an eel by the tail or a woman at her word soon realizes that he holds nothing," and if this be the case his return is very problematical. Meantime he has the sympathy of the whole town, who lament his hasty action in abandoning his home rather than face the unpleasant predicament in which his indiscreet action placed him. Nobody believes that the outcome would have been serious so far as he is concerned, and a determined effort will be made by his friends to induce him to return and stand his trial.

Mrs. Vera Anderson was seen at her residence, 128 D'Arcy-street, yesterday. Her home is decorated with paintings and art needle work executed by herself. A portrait of her late husband hangs in her parlor and is also the work of her own hands. She has a little boy of 9 or 10 years, and is an accomplished musician. Before her marriage, when she was Miss Austin, she sang at concerts frequently, and even within the last two years she has sung at socials, Scotch concerts and kindred entertainments in Toronto and elsewhere.

She said that she had a comfortable income, did her own housework and went out very little, devoting her spare time to the pursuit of the several muses with whom she is in favor. She is not strong and states that she faints at the slightest nervous shock.

"Dr. Hall is as handsome a man as you'd want to see," said she, "but he thinks that just because he's a doctor he can do anything.

"I knew him in Brampton and I considered him a perfect gentleman. He knew that I had been brought up a lady."

"I suppose the Doctor used to call quite frequently, once a week or so?" volunteered the reporter.

Mrs. Anderson almost blushed. "Why what funny questions you ask a woman," she laughingly said.

"Did he take an interest in art and music?"

"Oh! yes I s'pose so; all persons of refinement do. I don't think he came to my house with any wrong intentions but he just touched me by accident or maybe it was just to tease me and you know I'm awfully nervous and I screamed. The neighbors came into the house, but I had fainted, so I don't know what the doctor said."

"Do you think the doctor meant anything wrong or that he was intoxicated?"

"Oh, no; he's just like all doctors, and he thought p'raps I'd like to take up with a man like him. Anyway, I was in an awful rage.

"Next day I went to Mr. McCarthy, my lawyer, for advice. I only wanted a letter of apology, but Mr. McCarthy took it right into his own hands and got out a warrant for attempted rape before 6 o'clock."

"The warrant was taken out without your consent, then?"

"Yes, and I won't see injustice done the doctor if the case comes to court. He may not have meant anything wrong."

"Is Mr. McCarthy still acting for you?"

"No."

Mrs. Anderson left for Brampton this evening.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOUR COLUMN

"FOR CHRIST AND THE CHURCH."

[All communications intended for this column must be marked "Christian Endeavour" and sent to Box 113, Peterborough, not later than Friday previous to date of issue.]

Topic for the week beginning March 19, Temperance, Prov. 23, 16-23.

The unmanliness of intemperance (Prov. 23, 17). The idea of any young man envying the man who drinks! Yet how many young men think it is a somewhat manly thing to step up to the bar and order a treat for the crowd. Manhood is not reached by that route. Intemperance is one of the meanest things, if not the meanest thing, in all the world. There is not a manly element in it.

The contagion of intemperance (Prov. 23, 20). It is the "social glass," the "flowing bowl," which attracts to ruin so many of the best youth of the land. Oh, the shame of so debauching friendship. Love either builds or blasts. Friendship either ennobles or depraves. Let us as Christian Endeavourers realise this, and united take a firm stand against this evil. Let us match the contagion of evil with the contagion of good. Let us pledge ourselves to eternal warfare against the saloon and the license system.

QUESTIONS.

Against whom does the drunkard sin?

What should our society be doing to promote temperance in our community?

What is the Christian's safeguard against intemperance in any form?

A well known English brewery firm advertised for a new man to fill an important place. An italicised line at the end of the advertisement read, "An abstainer preferred."—Epworth Herald.

DAILY READINGS.

MUSIC IN PRAYER MEETING: HINTS FOR SINGERS.

(1) All sing. Do not say "I can't sing," unless it is absolutely true. Very few can say that.

(2) Cultivate the ability to sing, in order that you may sing in the prayer meeting. I know a place where the young people take music lessons in order to sing Gospel hymns well. Quite as useful as to study operatic style.

(3) A good many moderately good singers can make very good music.

(4) If your voice is trained to sing solos well, sing some for your Master.

(5) In solo singing for Jesus, you must be absolutely unartificial.

(6) Try to be on time to sing the opening hymn.

(7) Pay attention to the service of song, the same as to a prayer or testimony.

(8) Study the hymn book, so that you can sing with expression suitable to the thought of the hymn.

(9) If during the meeting you think of an appropriate hymn, give it out distinctly. But not too often.

(10) Remember that many have been converted by the singing of hymns. Pray for this, and think of it while you sing.

"Whatsoever ye do, do it heartily, as unto the Lord," is especially true of singing.—Hull.

To Brace Up

the system after "La Grippe," pneumonia, fevers, and other prostrating acute diseases; to build up needed flesh and strength, and to restore health and vigor when you feel "run down" and used-up, the best thing in the world is Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It promotes all the bodily functions, rouses every organ into healthful action, purifies and enriches the blood, and through it cleanses, repairs, and invigorates the entire system.

For the most stubborn Scrofulous, Skin or Scalp Diseases, Dyspepsia, Biliousness, and kindred ailments, the "Discovery" is the only remedy that's guaranteed. If it doesn't benefit or cure, you have your money back.

Can you think of anything more convincing than the promise that is made by the proprietors of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy? It is this: "If we can't cure your Catarrh, we'll pay you $500 in cash."

An Inactive or Torpid Liver must be aroused and all bad bile removed. Burdock Pills are best for old or young.

CHURCH CHIMES.

The choir of St. Paul's church are preparing special music for presentation on Easter Sunday.

Rev. Mr. Locke, of the George street Methodist church, preached anniversary sermons at Warsaw on Sunday for Rev. E. D. Lewis.

Master Maitland Boswell in St. Johns church Sunday night during the offertory sang, "There is a green hill far away," in a sweet style.

Rev. Erastus E. Howard, pastor of the Keene Methodist church, preached both morning and evening in the George street Methodist church on Sunday. The rev. gentleman is a good speaker and delivered two admirable discourses.

The musical features in the anniversary services at the Charlotte street Methodist church on Sunday were unusually attractive and especially well rendered. In the morning the choir sang a beautiful anthem, "Beyond the river," Mrs. Clyde Green taking the solo part very efficiently. "Praise the Lord" was prettily rendered. Miss Fawcett and Mr. Jas. Steers taking the solo parts in excellent voice. At the evening service the preacher complimented the choir upon its splendid singing and stated he had enjoyed the music very much indeed. The anthem entitled, "The Radiant Morn," was given with pleasing effect, Mrs. Clyde Green taking the solo part in a voice of fine compass and power. A quartette, "The Flower Land," by Miss A. Fawcett and Mrs. C. Green, Messrs. J. Steers and A. L. Davis was rendered with much taste and capital expression. Another quartette, "Rise ye, Children," by Messrs. Davis, Wesley, Squires and Steers, delighted the congregation.

Palpitation of the heart, nervousness, tremblings, nervous headache, cold hands and feet, pain in the back, and other forms of weakness are relieved by Carter's Iron Pills, made specially for the blood, nerves and complexion.

When the kidneys are clogged, good health is an impossibility; but when working properly the reverse is the case. That dull back-ache is the kidney's cry for relief. If Dodd's Kidney Pills are used the result will be marvellous. We emphatically state that we have never known a case of kidney disease that a persistent use of Dodd's Kidney Pills will not cure.

BRIDGENORTH.

(From Our Own Correspondents.)

A very happy event took place at the residence of Mr. John Young, Bridgenorth, on Wednesday evening March 15th, when his second eldest daughter, Miss Lizzie, was united in the holy bonds of wedlock to Mr. James R. Northey, of Smith, eldest son of Mr. W. S. Northey, now of Peterborough. The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. H. Raley in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends of the contracting parties. The bridesmaids were Miss Young, sister of the bride, and Miss L. Northey, sister of the groom. The groomsmen were Mr. W. J. Stubbs, of Peterborough, and Mr. W. Young, Miss Young and Mr. Stubbs assisting the bride and groom. After the usual congratulations were gone through with, the happy guests sat down to an elaborate wedding dejeuner, after which a pleasant evening was spent, when Mr. and Mrs. Northey retired to their home in Smith. The presents were numerous and useful. We wish Mr. and Mrs. Northey a happy and prosperous wedded life.

YOUNG'S POINT.

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Mr. P. P. Young proprietor of the steamer "Mary Ellen," has been on the alert all this winter, buying cedar, pine, etc., for the mils here. He has bought timber in Harvey, Burleigh, Douro, Smith, and declares the mills will hum here this summer. Mr. Yonng has started a new enterprise, viz., he has bought several hundred cords of wood, from the farmers in Stoney Lake, and will convey it to Lakefield with his boat. It is very convenient for farmers who can dispose of their wood in this manner.

TO BE OR NOT TO BE "IN IT."

A Life Agent calling at a friend's place one day.
HE WASN'T IN IT;
He had seen "the boys" coming and had fled his way
HE WASN'T IN IT;
He had heard so much said, he was tired and sore
Of insurance and agents—'twas all a black bore,
When one's cold must be chilled to win it,
HE WASN'T IN IT.

A bit of a draft blew o'er his bald head,
HE WAS IN IT;
Pneumonia sent him straightway to his bed,
HE STAYED IN IT;
His doctor made of it a "quite special" case,
To save him for running still more of life's race,
But the grave took some choosers to win it,
AND SO'S IN IT.

When approached by a gent for bagging your life,
GET RIGHT IN IT;
It's the right thing to do for your children and wife,
THEN STAY IN IT.
Remember that fires take your goods "out of sight,"
And that accidents happen each day and each night
While insurance protects every minute,
IF YOU'RE IN IT.

A Bank Manager's Opinion.

HE IS "IN IT."

The General Manager of one of the leading banks in Canada, writing to a personal friend, says:—"I have no hesitation in saying that I place the CANADA LIFE upon the highest platform. It is in my opinion carefully, economically and honestly managed; its Reserve Funds are well invested; its rates of Premiums are low, and its future is, I think better assured than a great majority of Companies. I have my own life insured in the Company for a round amount, and would not hesitate to increase the amount of my policies should I decide upon taking out further insurance."

A Government Insurance Actuary's Opinion

On the Relation between Ordinary and Tontine Service.

It is frequently asserted by Companies whose business is nearly all tontine, that although the CANADA LIFE may and does pay large ordinary profits, yet it cannot compare so favourably on a long term distribution or tontine period, and that in the end better results can be obtained on a tontine policy in a large American Co. than on an ordinary or tontine policy in the CANADA LIFE. To prove the absurdity of this statement, the following piece of common sense is quoted from Mervin Tabor, late Actuary of the Illinois Goverment Insurance Department. In his well known book, "The Three Systems of Life Insurance," he says: "A company that gives large dividends on the ordinary kind of policies, can give much larger on the same lines when Tontined, and a company that pays but meagre dividends on the usual forms, adopting perhaps the Tontine system to "cover up" its small surpluses, cannot be relied on for large returns of surplus under the Tontine Forms of Insurance."

The CANADA LIFE does not "cover up" its Quinquennial profits as some Companies do, but publishes them throughout the country.

It can and does surpass other Companies on Quinquennial profits. It should and will surpass them on Tontine profits.

WHY TO BE "IN IT."

BISHOP HAWKE'S REASON:—"I claim that Life Insurance is not only a a humane, but I might say a Christian Institution."

LORD LYNDHURST'S REASON:—"A Policy of Life Insurance is always an evidence of prudent forethought. No man with a dependent family is free from reproach if not insured."

WHEN TO BE "IN IT."

The younger, the cheaper. Therefore insure when young. Besides by insuring in the CANADA LIFE now, you will share in three years' profits.

WHERE TO BE "IN IT."

The best place to be "in it" is in the Company that gives the best returns for the least money, consistent with absolute security. Therefore, in order to be "in it," choose the

The Land is for Car Works.

The latest and most reliable information—apart from being strictly official and authorative—is to the effect that the ninety acres purchased recently in the south part of the town is to furnish a site for extensive carworks, either new C. P. R. works or works to be removed on to the main line from another locality. If this be authentic, Peterborough will derive substantial advantage from the presence in her borders of such an institution. Those who have Mr. Van Horne's confidence say that he has for some time been greatly dissatisfied with the rate charged for passing cars over the Grand Trunk lines to the C. P. R. and that sooner or latter a car works will have to be erected on the main C. P. R. line. There seems to be one thing obviously certain that the options have not been taken upon the lands in question for the purposes mentioned by the agent.

Why not Follow the Crowd of buyers that are taking advantage of the 30 days clearing sale of stoves, tinware, cutlery, paints, lamp goods and housefurnishing ware at W. G. Bain & Co's. old stand, Crystal Block, George street? People are enquiring for and getting slices of the great bargains now so plentifully offered at this sale. The great attraction opened with a big attendance and the tidings has already spread throughout the district of the low prices on genuine seasonable goods for the various lines now so much needed. The knife has been put into prices with a vengeance, and this big sale of the season seems to have been just the opportunity waited for by housekeepers and others. Now's your time to pick a stove, a set of granite or white ware, a clean new lot of tinware supplies, a fine new set of cutlery, spoons and table ware, or a handsome hanging lamp at your own price. If you are going to paint this spring you can't buy your colors cheaper than at this sale. Tin and copper ware in pyramids at rock bottom prices. Lanterns, lamps and lamp glasses, pots and pans, pocket cutlery, carpet sweepers, lawn mowers, and an endless variety of useful and necessary housefurnishing goods all at slaughtering prices, at W. G. BAIN & Co's old stand, Crystal Block, George street.

A SUCCESSFUL ANNIVERSARY.

Held in the Charlotte Street Methodist Church Last Night—Encouraging Reports From the Different Departments of the Church Work.

The anniversary tea and business meeting of the Charlotte street Methodist church was held in the church last evening and was largely attended. The members of the Ladies' Aid Society provided a choice tea in the Sunday school rooms which was partaken of by a large number. At 8 o'clock an adjournment was made to the church in which a large gathering had assembled. Rev. Geo. Edwards, pastor, presided, and seated on the platform with him was Rev. E. Cade, of Whitby. After the opening devotional exercises, the annual reports from the different department of church work were presented and showed the different societies and organizations to be in a flourishing condition, financially and otherwise. Mr. A. C. McCallum presented the report on behalf of the Sunday school in the absence of Mr. A. L. Davis, superintendent. The school was shown to be in a highly satisfactory condition, both numerically and financially. The Ladies' Aid report was read by Mrs. Brooks. The society paid off a mortgage of $400, and interest on a $1000 mortgage of the church which they had assumed. The society though not strong in point of numbers was a working body and had a balance of $100 in the bank to their credit. The Epworth League report, presented by Mr. M. A. Morrison, was an encouraging one. The organization had assumed the debt of the piano and paid for it, as well as liquidating a debt of $100 on the Sunday school building. Successful cottage prayer meetings were held in the south end of the town.

Mr. R. Neill presented the report of the Board of Trustees, which showed the financial affairs of the church to be in a good condition.

Mrs. Bacon read a fine report from the Women's Foreign Missionary Society. During the evening congratulatory addresses were delivered by Revs. E. Cade and Geo. Edwards, Mr. James Steirs and Miss Annie Fawcett furnished the musical part of the evening's proceedings in a delightful manner, singing solos, also a duet with excellent effect. Rev. Mr. Cade in his address said the various reports showed the Charlotte street church to be in as equally as good condition as his own—and he thought he had one of the best and most prosperous churches in Ontario.

Miss Ida Jolly, for some years past operator with the Bell Telephone Company here, leaves on Thursday for Detroit, where she will pursue a training course as nurse in Grace Hospital. Miss Jolly will be succeeded on the staff of operators here by Miss Sherin, of Bowmanville.

Flash Light Pictures.

Mr. R. M. Roy has produced two or three beautiful flash-light pictures of the carnival. One is of the band, and the whole group of 22 is taken with remarkable clearness, the likeness of each individual being particularly excellent. Another flash-light picture is of a pair of reporters wrapped from the cold and struggling with the list of carnival costumers. The pose of devoted attention to duty and air of otherwise indefinable dissipation characteristic of the craft are reproduced with great fidelity.

A LARGE STOCK SERIOUSLY DAMAGED.

Mr. J. McComb's Gentlemen's Furnishings Stock and Glove Manufactory Gutted Last Night—His Loss is a Heavy One.

Last night about ten o'clock an alarm of fire was sounded and the brigade quickly responded. Nightwatchman Gordon on his beat discovered flames issuing from the back shop of Mr. Jas. McCombe's glove manufacturing establishment on Hunter street. Owing to the inflamable nature of the contents the fire made swift headway, and created considerable havoc before it was subdued. The damage done by the heat, fire and water to Mr. McComb's stock of ladies' and gentlemen's furnishings, underwear, shirts, gloves, mitts, etc., can hardly be estimated. It was in the back room of the establishment, which was used as a store room, that the fire originated near the door, and then communicated with the workshop, which was separated by only a wooden partition. Stored here was a large quantity of batting, gloves, etc., besides a large quantity of wool which Mr. McComb has received for carding. The contents of these two rooms were completely destroyed. The flames also communicated with the front shop. The heat was intense and burned away the door and window cases intervening. The firemen were forced to to throw considerable water upon the fire in order to quench the flames, which spread rapidly. The stock of Mr. McComb in his front shop was also of smoke and the extreme heat which was so intense that the large plate glass front and door of the premises were cracked in numerous places. The value of the stock was between $8,000 and $9,000 $2,000 or $3,000 worth being in spring goods, which were arriving daily. Mr. McComb, who has been in business twenty years, states he never had a fire before, and estimates his loss at $6000 which is only partially covered by an insurance of $4,000 with Mr. W. H. Hill in the following companies—$2,000 in the Mercantile, $1,000 in the London Assurance Company, and $1,000 in the Norwich Union. The building, which belonged to the Toronto Loan and Savings Company, is badly gutted at the rear. The front plate glass was insured for $75, but the large fanlight and glass door were uninsured. On these there is a loss of some $65. How the fire originated is unknown, but it may have started from the stove pipes. There was only one stove on the premises and that was in the store room at the back. Mr. McComb states he left the shop at 8.50 o'clock and everything was all right then. There was little or no fire in the stove at that time, no wood having been put in the stove since five o'clock. The firemen did good work against unequal odds and are to be commended for the plucky fight they made in extinguishing the flames. The premises of Messrs. Clarke & Gibson adjoining, and the rooms of Rev. C. B. Kenrick above, were considerably injured by smoke.

BURGLARS RIFLED A SAFE.

In Mr. H. Calcutt's Brewery Last Night and Obtained some $7.00 or $8.00 in Money.

During the night some evil disposed individual or individuals, who are evidently not adepts at the science of safe cracking or the art of lock picking, broke in the back door of Mr. Craig's blacksmith shop on Elizabeth street, Ashburnham, and purloined three chisels. The midnight marauders then wended their way to Mr. H. Calcutt's brewery, and after prying open the outside door near the office by means of a chisel they entered inside. Still another door faced them before an ingress could be gained to the office, but the chisel did the necessary work again, and after splintering the casing the catch was loosened and the burglars found themselves within a few feet of the safe which remained unlocked, the combination not having been turned. A couple of wooden drawers on the inside were broken open with the chisels and the thieves were successful in obtaining about $5.00 in bills belonging to C. Calcutt and $2.50 or $3.00 in silver, amounting to about $8.00 or $9.00 in all. The papers in the various pigeon holes were rifled as well as all the drawers in the office desk were disturbed but nothing was found missing, except the cash, when Mr. Calcutt instituted a thorough search this morning. That the deed was perpetrated by amateurs there is no doubt owing to the bungling and unprofessional way the thieves went at their work. As a sample of this they took off an iron plating on the inside of the heavy safe door covering the combination, expecting presumably to find some "filthy lucre" lurking therein. In making their exit the robbers showed only too unmistakably well that they were familiar with the lie of the place and its surroundings, for their tracks showed they had gone down stairs through the malting room, evidently to take a draught of Mr. Calcutt's porter, and then unbolting a door from the inside which opens near the street had taken a hasty departure after their nefarious escapade.

POLICE COURT TO-DAY.

At the police court this morning Fred Brooks, a young man who has been working in the shanties all winter long but returned to town yesterday and gave himself up to the authorities, was charged with appropriating to his own use in October last a horse and buggy belonging to Mr. C. N. Lane, Water street. It will be remembered that Brooks took the horse from the Cavanagh House stables without the knowledge or consent of its owner, and after driving it for some distance returned the same in, it is alleged, a sorry state. Brooks elected to be tried summarily this morning and pleaded guilty to the charge. The Magistrate remanded the prisoner for sentence until to-morrow morning.

The North Galveston Brick Plant.

The kiln of red pressed brick that was opened a few days ago at North Galveston, Tex., revealed a quality of material which was pronounced by experts as fully equal in density, durability and color to the best St. Louis pressed brick. The North Galveston Brick Company is a pretty big concern. The machines, buildings, yards and general capacity equals some of the best plants in the country. More factories being built, a steady increase in population and an abundant influx of capital seems to be the present record of this thrifty young city. For particulars call on or address T. Hurley, Peterborough, Ont., the local agent, or address the North Galveston Association, Box 988, Minneapolis, Minn.

THE RYMAL CASE.

BRANTFORD, March 27th.—Archie Rymal, who was discharged from the hospital here some time ago as incurable, suffering from a complication of diseases resulting from diseased kidneys, has been cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills. His case is the current talk of the town. So far was he run down that he lost the power of his arms and legs, also the muscles of his back, and was as helpless as a child. He is now a strong healthy man again, and never tires talking of that wonderful remedy which saved his life.

OUR MUNICIPAL PARLIAMENT

KNOCKS OFF THE CIVIC BUSINESS FOR THE PAST MONTH.

The George and Aylmer Street Extensions—License to Mr. M. T. Ostrom—Town Dumping Ground—Charity Committee to Report—Grant to the Horticultural Society—Another Sewerage System in View—Street Watering by Frontage Tax—Smith Street Bridge. Location—Employment of Public Scavengers—The Carters' Nuisance—Melange of Municipal Matters.

At the special meeting of the town council called last night for the transaction of general business, all the town fathers were in their appointed places. The deliberations of the civic body were somewhat delayed in their commencement owing to the several committees holding meetings previously. However, once begun, business was knocked off at a rapid rate, and at ten o'clock the municipal parliament adjourned. The auditorium was completely filled with spectators. After routine the following were presented:

From Wm. Walters, Lindsay, stating that he was introducing the Appleton hook ladder and fire escape, and would like to exhibit the same to the council and meet the Fire, Water and Light Committee.—Fire, Water and Light Committee.

From the Wm. Hamilton Manufacturing Company, making application for the placing of a hydrant at the corner of Murray and Donegal streets for fire protection.—Fire, Water and Light Committee.

From the Wm. Hamilton Manufacturing Company, asking the privilege of erecting a foot bridge across Murray street between their office and the pattern shop.—Referred to the Street and Bridge Committee with power to act.

From E. B. Stone, on behalf of Dennis Daly, asking for remission of costs amounting to $4.50 incurred on Mr. Daly's goods, which were seized for taxes on lot No. 16, north of King and west of George streets. On motion of Messrs. Kelly and Winch, the request was granted.

From E. B. Edwards, town solicitor, stating that he had considered the petition of R. Clinkscale and others, as to "Whyte's Dam," which was referred to him. Mr. Edwards stated the matter was one which, in his opinion, the council could not deal with—Referred to Board of Health.

From W. J. Miller and other carters, stating they did not think the council had done justice in moving the carters' stands and they asked to have the matter considered and attended to by the council.

On motion Mr. M. O'Brien was heard. He complained of carters standing at the post office while others took the stands allotted them by the town. He thought the carters should divide up and not occupy the one but all the stands. Some of the carters were down on the petition. They never paid their license, and had no reason to complain. The speaker was opposed to the petition. The communication was after some discussion referred to the License Committee.

From John Hoban who was awarded the contract of snow ploughing in the north end of the town stating he had lost considerable money on the work on account of his tender being so low, and asking a further sum be granted as he was a poor man and could not afford the loss.—Referred to the Finance Committee.

From City Clerk John Henderson, of Ottawa, enclosing petitions to the legislative assembly praying for legislation to enable municipalities to make more adequate provisions for the erection and maintenance of contagious diseases hospitals. The communication asked that the same be laid before the council and in the event of the same being approved and adopted have the petitions forwarded to the House of Assembly through the usual channel as early as possible.—Health Committee.

From Mrs. Stevens, applying for remission of taxes.—Court of Revision.

From Catharine Doris, asking for remission of taxes.—Court of Revision.

From J. E. McIntyre, proprietor of the Oriental Hotel billiard parlours, stating he had paid his license money for billiard tables at the same rate as the old license fee, and on account of the council having reduced the same, Mr. McIntyre asked to have the difference remitted at an early date.—Finance Committee.

From Chas. Kituey, stating that owing to the resolution passed by the Otonabee Board of Health, prohibiting him or any other person, from receiving or having on their premises any night soil or any other matter that would be injurious to health, he would be unable to fulfil his contract with the town for the supply of a dumping ground, and asked to be released from the same.—Received.

To the Mayor and Council:

Gentlemen,—Your License Committee beg leave to report that they have considered the applications of M. T. Ostrom, offering to pay for a license to peddle fruit, vegetables, fish and other commodities throughout the town at the sum of $175 per annum, and of A. Rountree for a reduction in the amount of the license fee at present charged for bowling alleys. With respect to the former, your committee would recommend acceptance, and as to the latter, that it be not granted.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

H. A. MULHERN,
Chairman.

SHOULD BE MORE SPECIFIC.

Mr. Bradburn asked if granting a license to Mr. Ostrom debarred others from peddling around town.

Mr. Mulhern—No.

Mr. Kelly asked how many people the license allowed to peddle commodities. Mr. Ostrom did not intend to peddle himself and he would like to know how many persons were to peddle. The granting of Mr. Ostrom's request was almost an exclusive privelege. If Mr. Ostrom was going to employ two or three men only he would not object to the report.

Mr. Mulhern said he could not answer Mr. Kelly's question as he had not asked Mr. Ostrom.

Mayor Kendry said the number of persons might be specified in the license.

Mr. Bradburn asked why not grant the license to Mr. Ostrom, also for a stand on the corner for which privelige he was willing to pay $75 per year.

Mr. Kelly said the council had no power to grant a license to any one on the streets. They could not give a license to any man for this purpose.

Mr. Dennistoun said Mr. Kelly's point was a good one. They should understand what a sweeping license this was. The license should expressly state what privileges Mr. Ostrum was to have and what commodities he was to peddle. The matter in the report was not particular enough and should be referred back to the committee for more explicitness.

Mr. Dawson was in favour of the license being granted to Mr. Ostrom.

Mr. Cahill was of the opinion that the town solicitor should be consulted in the matter, and the report merely received to-night. They did not know what kind of commodities Mr. Ostrom wished to peddle.

Moved by Mr. Mulhern, seconded by Mr. Cahill, that the report be received, and the chairman consult the town solicitor.—Carried.

TOWN DUMPING GROUND.

Mr. White read the report of the Health Committee:

To the Mayor and Council:

GENTLEMEN,—Your Health Committee beg leave to report that they have received an application from Christoper Middleton, offering to supply a dumping ground for the town for one year at and for the price or sum of $95.

Your committee would recommend that the offer be accepted, and that the town solicitor be requested to prepare the necessary contract for the proper fulfillment of his duties.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

WM. WHITE,
Chairman.

EMPLOYMENT OF PUBLIC SCAVENGERS.

Mr. White said the Board of Health's recommendation that the scavenging of the town be done by public scavengers had been left over for further consideration by the committee.

Mr. Cahill thought that the matter of scavenging should be dealt with at once in view of the possible approach of cholera. He would like to get the opinion of the council re the employment of public scavengers, and what action had been taken in the matter. People were anxious to know about the manner in which the scavenging was to be done.

Mr. White said the committee had not had a chance to deal with the matter yet.

Mr. Mulhern endorsed Mr. Cahill's recommendation. He thought that the town should employ public scavengers since the town was not likely to have sewerage this year.

Mr. Bradburn thought if the council was going into this scheme it would be well to arrange with the scavenger and for a dumping ground in one amount. He thought temporary arrangements could be made for a dumping ground.

Mr. J. J. Brealy was on motion heard, but said he had nothing to say in reference to the matter.

The report was adopted.

MAY STRAY OUTSIDE THE LIMITS.

Mr. Kelly moved, seconded by Mr. Stevenson, that the police be allowed to serve summons outside the town for town business that they may be called upon to perform and that the resolution of April, 1891, be amended in this particular.

Mr. Kelly said this would not interfere with the county business.

Mr. Dawson opposed the motion. The police would be all over the county and would not attend to their duties in the town.

Mr. Dennistoun said that the County Crown Attorney had spoken to him on the matter and he (Mr. Dennistoun) thought that on purely town business the police should be allowed to go outside the town limits to serve papers. In cases where expenses were involved it would be well to consult the mayor, but in petty cases they should be allowed to go outside the corporation on town business.

The resolution was carried without further discussion.

NEAR THE ROAR OF DISTANT CANNON.

Moved by Mr. Dennistoun, seconded by Mr. Mulhern, that the corporation undertake to place in position and maintain the two cannon presented to the town by the Dominion Government, upon the understanding that the same are to be surrendered to the Government authorities when demanded. Further, that the thanks of the Mayor and council be tendered to Mr. Jas. Stevenson, M.P., for his effort in procuring the same. Further, that the choice of location, etc., be referred to the Street and Bridge Committee with power to act.

Mr. Dennistoun said there were two locations where the guns could be placed—at the Central Park or the Court House Park. If placed in the latter, the county should defray half the expenditure. If they did not the cannon should be placed in the Central Park. The resolution carried.

EXTENDING GEORGE AND AYLMER STREETS.

Mr. Kelly inquired of the Street and Bridge Committee if any action had been taken for the extension of George and Aylmer streets. The matter was submitted to the committee to find out the probable cost and report.

Mr. Cahill said the matter was referred to the town engineer by the committee to prepare diagrams and report, but nothing had come of it. The matter would be attended to by the Street and Bridge Committee right away.

GRANT TO THE HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY.

Dr. Geo. Burnham was heard in reference to the usual grant from the council to the Horticultural Society, towards defraying the expenses of maintaining and keeping in order the Court House Park. Last year the society had spent $100 more than they had received from the town and county. He would like the usual grant of $500 to be made by the council.

Mr. Jas. Stevenson was also heard. The seats of the park needed repairs and painting, and the least they could get along this year with would be about the same as last year—some $500. The park was a credit to Peterborough and had it not been for the park for the use of the Central School the town would have had to provide school grounds.

Mr. J. H. Roper was also heard on behalf of the Horticultural Society. The society intended to make several improvements, planting shrubs, putting in seats, etc.; and he asked for the usual grant to the park which was a place of recreation and beauty.

Mr. Dennistoun suggested that the society should apply to the executors of the Nicholls' estate. There was some $3,000 interest piling up on the bequest of $60,000, and he thought that the society should make application to the executors on that account.

Mr. Roper said he had applied to the executors and was informed that nothing could be done in the matter by them. If the society could get any portion of the interest it would do away with the necessity of applying to the council year after year for a grant.

Mr. Mulhern said two years had passed since the committee had applied to the trustees, and if they applied again they might be more successful. He thought they should apply, and if they could not get a grant from them then it was time that the council took the grant into its consideration.

TO BRING IN A REPORT.

Moved by Mr. Kelly, seconded by Mr. Stevenson, that the Street and Bridge Committee be requested to bring in a report in reference to the extension of George street north and south, and also the extension of Aylmer street, south, and the report on the plans, etc., now in possession of the town engineer.—Carried.

THE CHARITY COMMITTEE MUST REPORT.

Mr. Donnistoun asked why the Charity Committee had not brought in a report. He thought they should report once a month anyway.

Mr. Wiuch said the books were in the clerk's office open for inspection and could be examined at any time. He did not think it necessary to report since the town had appointed a relief officer.

Moved by Mr. Dawson, seconded by Mr. White that the charity committee report once a month.—Carried.

REFERRED TO THE FINANCE COMMITTEE.

Moved by Mr. Dennistoun, seconded by Mr. Stevenson that the application of the Horticultural Society be referred to the Finance Committee to report.—Carried.

PROPOSED SYSTEM OF SEWERAGE.

Moved by Mr. Stevenson, seconded by Mr. Kelly, that Councillors Dennistoun, Cahill, Bradburn, Kelly, Wilson and Stevenson be a committee for the town and that they be requested to take action to have a system of sewerage laid before the ratepayers and that the first named be chairman.—Carried.

THE TOWN'S DEBENTURES.

Moved by Mr. Cahill, seconded by Mr. Winch, that the Finance Committee be instructed to arrange a meeting with the commissioners of the town trust for the purpose of arranging the best methods of dealing with the debentures falling due this year and that they report to the council—Carried.

THE STREET WATERING QUESTION.

Moved by Mr. Cahill, seconded by Mr. White, that the watering of the streets be placed under the control of the Street and Bridge Committee.

Mr. Bradburn moved an amendment that the street watering be still left under the control of the Fire, Water and Light Committee. The amendment was carried after some unimportant discussion.

THE RAILWAY DAMAGES.

Mr. Dennistoun said that there was still a sum of money in the town treasurer's possession paid him on account of damages. It moved, seconded by Mr. McIlwaine, that the Finance Committee be authorized to issue cheques to the parties entitled to the amount of money in the treasurers hands, on account of the G.T.R. damages.—Carried.

SHOULD HAVE A KNOWLEDGE OF THE STREETS.

Mr. Cahill said he saw by the papers that the Canadian General Electric Co. had signed the agreement with the town for the erection of an electric street railway, and intended to build four miles of the road this year, double the number required by the contract, and he thought that something in the way of plans should be prepared so that calculations might be arrived at. Grading would have to be done on these streets on which the road would run and it was well for the council to have knowledge on the subject.

THE SMITH STREET BRIDGE.

Mr. Dennistoun was surprised that no report had been presented by the Street and Bridge Committee regarding the closing of the Smith street bridge. A large number of citizens in the north part of the town were shut out from communication with the town and were put to great inconvenience, and he would respectfully ask that no further delay be made. It was a matter of importance to all parts of the town and he would like to know what the committee proposed doing about the question.

Mr. Bradburn said at the last meeting of the Street and Bridge Committee there was not a quorum present, and he thought that a matter of such importance should not be dealt with by two or three members only.

Mr. Dennistoun said he would like the matter of location settled upon. It was generally understood that a new bridge would have to built, and the offer of $1,000 towards the erection of a new bridge by the residents in the north part was not to be overlooked.

MUST SUBMIT A PLAN OR PROFILE.

Moved by Mr. Cahill, seconded by Mr. Winch, that the Canadian General Electric Company be requested to furnish to the Street Railway Committee a plan or profile of the tracks which they propose to build during the summer, with a view of having such arrangements made as will be of advantage to the town and the county.—Carried.

STREET WATERING DONE BY FRONTAGE TAX.

Mr. Stevenson moved, seconded by Mr. Kelly, that the streets be watered this year by charging a frontage tax, and that applications for the watering of the streets be received up to the 15th April, and that all ratepayers requiring their streets watered please make application before that date, and that the clerk publish notices to that effect.

Mr. Bradburn said he would like to know how the streets were to be watered by frontage tax. Difficulties would arise. He would like to see some scheme devised.

Mr. Mulhern said it would be exceedingly difficult to have the street watering done by a frontage tax. The council had considerable trouble in this matter last year.

The matter was referred to the Fire, Water and Light Committee.

A communication was read from Mr. T. Hurley, stating that in his recent trip to the Gulf of Mexico he made the acquaintance of a large manufacturing industry who were desirous of opening a branch of their business in Canada. He stated that he could postibly induce the firm to come to Peterborough, and he asked, if successful, if the council would pay him the same as other towns had done, the amount to be determined by the number of hands employed by the firm the first year.—Received.

The council then adjourned.

TWO ROYAL ENGAGEMENTS.

Duke of York to Princess May And Lord Rosebery to Princess Maud.

LONDON, March 27.—The New York Herald says: The approaching formal announcement of the engagement of the Duke of York to Princess May will be accompanied by that of the engagement of Princess Maud of Wales to Lord Rosebery.

Delay in the announcement of the first-mentioned and more generally known engagement is due to the desire of the Princess of Wales rather than, as is generally surmised, to any objection on the part of the Queen. Already, it is said, settlements for the future Lady Rosebery are being discussed, though it is not at all likely that there will be any hitch upon this score.

Lord Rosebery on his first marriage had a sum of £30,000 settled upon him absolutely out of his Rothschild's wife's estate, and a life interest, subject to certain provisions, for the children in remainder. Now that his own estates are comparatively clear they bringin another probable £25,000 or £30,000, while his honorarium of £5000 as Minister to the Crown is something in addition.

There is some disparity in years between Lord Rosebery and Princess Maud—he will be 46 in a few weeks, while she is about half his age.

The Earl of Rosebery, Secretary of State for the Foreign Department, was born in 1847. As Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs in Mr. Gladstone's Cabinet in 1886 he won general approval at home and abroad for his firmness in conducting the difficult questions connected with the Servo-Bulgarian war, and that of Greece's desire for a territorial indemnity. He married in March, 1878, Hannah, only child of Baron Meyer de Rothschild, who died in November, 1890.

Princess Maud of Wales is the third daughter of the Prince and Princess. She was born Nov. 26, 1869, and is consequently not quite 23 years of age.

AN INFAMOUS PLOT.

The Trial of Two Anarchists Brings an Exciting Scene.

PARIS, March 27.—The Anarchists Meyrueis and Chappellier on Saturday commenced to life imprisonment for the murder of a fellow-Anarchist, Young Bisson, whom they suspected to be a police spy. A secret meeting of Anarchists decided on his execution, and the prisoners enticed him to a lonely spot, stabbed and strangled him and threw his body into St. Denis Canal. There was a dramatic scene in court when the chief witness, an Anarchist named Huget, was testifying. Chappellier rose, shook his fist and cried: "Traitor, you led me to this. You want to bring me to the scaffold." Huget was terrified, evidently dreading the vengeance of other Anarchists. He tried to repudiate his own evidence and stammered praises of Chapuliot.

ROME GONE MAD.

A Religious Fanatic Throws a Stone at the King.

ROME, March 27.—King Humbert was returning from the Villa Borghese, where he had been spending a portion of the day, when a person having the general appearance of an Italian workingman threw a stone at the King, the missile almost striking the monarch.

The assailant was promptly taken in hand by the police and conveyed to prison. He has acknowledged since his arrest that his intention was to insult King Humbert because the King declined to be reconciled to the Pope. He asserted that he had been engaged in forming missions for the liberation of slaves in America and China. The police are trying to ascertain whether he had any accomplices.

Why you take Cold and Cough.

Generally caused by exposure to cold, wet feet, sitting in a draught, coming from hot and crowded places, in thin dress, or wearing damp clothes, stockings, or any other cause tending to check suddenly the perspiration. The result produces inflammation of the lining membrane of the lungs or throat, and this causes phlegm or matter which nature tries to throw off by expectoration. GROWING SMALL FRUITS

HOW TO MAKE ONE ACRE PAY A HANDSOME PROFIT.

What a Little Outlay of Time, Muscle, Money and Soil Will Do—Strawberries, Raspberries, Currants, Gooseberries, Blackberries and Grapes Galore.

So easily may one provide for an abundant supply of small fruits, that it is to be wondered at that there are still so many who willingly deny themselves and their families of a healthful luxury for the want of a little—very little—outlay of time, muscle, money and soil.

One acre, if judiciously planted to a well selected stock of strawberries, currants, gooseberries, raspberries, blackberries and grapes, will usually supply an ordinary family and furnish enough surplus to bring on the market sufficient returns to repay all expenses the second year.

In case no orchard has been planted on the place, the small fruits may be placed on the same acre of ground, and to no disadvantage to either small fruits or trees, if properly fed with domestic fertilizers.

In the first place, select a suitable tract, say ten rods wide and sixteen rods long, well drained, either naturally or artificially, and cover with manure in the fall or early winter, spreading evenly. In the spring, plow deep, pulverize thoroughly, and set the trees thirty-three feet apart each way. You then have forty trees, which the cultivation given to small fruits will keep in good thrifty condition.

In the rows of trees the long way may be planted four blackberry canes between each two trees—twenty-eight to the row, one hundred and forty to the acre. In cultivating the blackberries you will also cultivate the trees, and the blackberries will do all the better for the partial shade afforded by the trees. Between the outside rows on one side plant a row of grapes one rod from either row of trees, thus providing for an abundance of sunlight even when the trees are grown. Between the grapes and one row of trees, set two rows of raspberries, five and one half feet apart and the same distance in the row. Between the grapes and the opposite row of trees plant a row of gooseberries and one of currants, the former five and one-half feet in the row, the latter three feet. You now have twenty-two grapes, forty-four raspberries, twenty-two gooseberries and seventy-eight currants, all in good shape to cultivate the long way with horse and cultivator, and three unoccupied spaces of a quarter of an acre each. One of these may now be set to strawberries in rows four feet apart and eighteen inches in the row. This will give twelve hundred and thirty-two plants and should produce eighty to one hundred bushels of berries with fair culture: enough to pay all expenses. The second space may be planted to garden vegetables, and the third space should be sown to clover as a fertilizer. Alternate with clover, vegetables and strawberries, always using the first clover crop as a mulch for trees and berries, and the second crop as a fertilizer, and you will be pleased with the result.

Some will say that the trees, when grown, will shade the berry-canes too much, but it is well known that blackberries and raspberries, as well as currants and gooseberries, do better when in partial shade, so the argument will not avail.

Again, others will say that by producing the small fruit you will impoverish the soil before the orchard is in bearing. Not unless you practice the robber system of taking all and giving none. With clover rotation and liberal applications of barnyard manure, together with good culture, the orchard will be in better condition at bearing than when first planted. It has been tried here at "Shady Nook" and proves a success, so there is no theorizing about the subject.—John L. Shawver, in Farm and Fireside.

Spring Manure.

At a recent farmers' institute in Illinois Mr. W. W. Stevens said: Abolish the old-fashioned barnyard. Shelter all stock, and lead both cattle and horses. Throw out the manure and bedding each day and replace with straw or other litter. Straw is to be preferred. Feed everything grown upon the farm if possible. A ton of bran fed to the stock adds $5.50 to the value of the manure pile. He sold a neighbor in his town bad hay from land bought off from the place, and made a fair profit in the business, although he kept the value of all the manure that a farmer could have saved. Saving manure is a very important branch of the subject. The floors should be of concrete. The droppings should be carried into a pit. His is 10x45 feet and four feet deep, and has a concrete bottom. All the yards on the place should be scraped and the dirt put up when the ground is soft, and the manure should be hauled out to the fields early in the spring. The best time to apply manure is when most convenient, generally in fall and winter. On clay soils manure may be applied profitably at almost any time. Not so with sandy soil, for on the latter it is liable to leach away and should not be manured until near planting time. The finer manure is made, the more accessible it is to the roots of plants. The best immediate results are secured by applying on the surface. Have special manures for special crops.

Too Much Water.

Experiments at the Iowa station show that any unnatural increase of water in a ration causes a waste of food energy and that there is nothing gained by mixing the wash water from the churn with the buttermilk. The wash water should be given separately and only to quench thirst. Watering the milk to make it "go around all the calves," or give all the pigs a sip; or throwing wash water into the rich slops of the swill barrel, or adding too much water to soaked or cooked feed, or allowing animals to become intensely thirsty and then to drink large quantities at a single draught, results in the consumption of food energy and consequently a lower rate of gain. The extra water must be warmed, it must be oxidized into urea, which consumes protein, or evaporated at the surface of the skin, or exhaled from the lungs. All these processes consume protein and absorb animal heat. Hence any feeder who forces his animals to take undue quantities of water with their feed, does so at a loss.

Where to Apply It.

Apply fertilizer around the hill as well as on it. The plant needs food to feed on where its roots reach out from the hill into the soil as well as to assist it in starting. Make the soil generally rich and you are sure of a crop. It is folly to just enrich it in spots, as is done when manuring in the hill.

Testing Seed Grain.

The Farmer's Advocate has been informed by Prof. Wm. Saunders that the work of testing the germinating power of grain and other agricultural seeds is now in active progress at the Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa. Up to the present over 1,600 samples have been tested and reported on this season, and on the whole with very gratifying results, showing a good percentage of vitality. There are, however, some districts in the Dominion from which samples have been received of very poor quality and quite unfit for seed. In some parts of Manitoba the harvest season of 1891 was very unfavorable, and considerable quantities of grain were left out in stook or stack all winter and threshed in the spring of 1892. A number of samples of such grain have been tested and they show a very low percentage of vitality, many of them ranging from 15 to 40 per cent. only, and are quite unfit for seed. In some other parts of the Dominion, and especially in some sections of Ontario and Quebec, the weather during the last harvest period was very wet, and the grain in the stook was subject to repeated wettings before it could be housed, and in the meantime some of it sprouted. A large proportion of such samples also show a low degree of germinating power, and if sown as seed will be likely to result in poor crops.

Will Kill Consumption.

The Norwegian cod is destined to kill consumption. It has always been known that its oil, when properly prepared, contains all the potent elements for rebuilding wasting tissues in the human body. The difficulty has been to converse the energies of the oil in its refining, and this has only been accomplished by the manufacturers of "Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil." All who suffer with lung troubles, and of course all who are threatened with consumption, should take it. In big bottles, 50c. and $1.00, at all Drug Stores,

Beware of Cholera.

The healthy body throws off the germs of cholera therefore wisdom counsels the use of Burdock Blood Bitters this spring to purify the blood, regulate the system, and fortify the body against cholera or other epidemics.

Encouragement for old People.

It may sound queer to talk about curing old people of Kidney and Urinary troubles after they have passed the alloted period of three score years and ten, but the following extraordinary recovery of an old veteran by Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure, ought to be of great encouragement to old people:—

BELLEVILLE, March 4, 1893.

Peterborough Medicine Company (Limited.)

GENTLEMEN,—I owe a great debt of gratitude to Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure for the prompt and speedy relief which I have received from the use of only one bottle of your great medicine. I have suffered from Kidney and Urinary troubles, inflammation of the neck of the bladder, &c. for many a long day. No one knows better than old people how great a blessing it is to be cured. I doctored a lot, but nothing did me so much good as your cure. I have lived about half a century in Belleville, and will be only to glad to speak a good word in favour of Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure. I can also recommend it for constipation and stomach troubles.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

NO REVISION OF THE VOTERS' LISTS THIS YEAR.

Civil Service Bill Withdrawn—Supplementary Estimates—A Discussion On Superannuation Brings Out Views That Are Liberal and Plenty[illegible].

OTTAWA, March 2.—There will be no revision of the voters' lists this year. On Saturday Hon. Mr. Foster stated in the House that the Government did not intend to proceed this year with the bill amending the Electoral Franchise Act, and to-day he introduced a short bill which simply provides that the voters' lists shall not be revised this year.

In reply to Mr. Mills, Mr. Foster stated that negotiations were still going on between the Governments of Great Britain and Canada with reference to the French Treaty, but they had not yet reached a point where he could make a definite statement as to whether or not Parliament would be asked this session to ratify the treaty. He may be able to do so to-morrow or Wednesday, but he could not say anything more at present.

On the motion for the third reading of the Toronto, Hamilton & Buffalo Railway Bill Col. Denison moved the following amendment, of which he had given notice: "That the said bill be amended by added the following as clause 6 thereto: That the portion of the said railway lying between Port Credit and Mimico shall be carried north of the rifle range, leased to the Government." It was lost and the bill was read a third time.

The bill to incorporate the North American Canal Co. was read a third time.

Hon. Mr. Foster moved the third reading of the resolution providing for the payment of the expenses of two commissioners to the World's Fair.

Mr. Charlton moved in amendment that the payment be conditional on the Canadian section being closed on Sunday.

The Speaker ruled the amendment out of order.

Mr. Charlton then gave notice that he would move his amendment on going into supply.

The resolution was read a third time, and a bill founded on it was introduced and read a first time.

Hon. Mr. Foster moved the second reading of the Civil Service Superannuation Act.

Mr. McMullen could not see any necessity for superannuation at all. Civil servants were paid well, and ought to insure their lives and take care of themselves like other people.

Hon. Mr. Foster reviewed the present Superannuation Act at some length, showing that it had not worked in the way expected for two reasons. First, the sum to be paid in had been reduced from 4 per cent., as it was in the original act, to 2 per cent., and that was not sufficient. Then a large number of old servants who had only paid for one or two years into the fund had been superannuated in 1872, and this had overtaxed the fund. He read a statement of those who had been superannuated each year and were still alive and drawing allowances, by which it appeared that some of the first batch of clerks superannuated 20 years ago were still on the list. The bill as proposed would be a great improvement on the old act.

Mr. Davies thought the present system had been far too expensive, and he doubted whether the present bill would prove much of an improvement. He suggested that after the bill was read a second time it should be allowed to stand until next year.

After some further discussion the House went into committee and discussed the details of the act up to 6 o'clock.

The supplementary estimates for 1893-'94, laid on the table this afternoon, amount to $1,501,825. The most noticeable item is that in the militia items for the defence of Esquimalt, B.C., as it shows that the Government has decided to contribute to imperial defences. The vote is for $105,000, as follows: Dominion contribution towards capital expenditure for works and buildings, $70,000; pay of a detachment of Royal Marine Artillery or Royal Engineers, $35,000.

Amongst the other votes are $25,000 for the purchase of manilla fibre for the manufacture of binder twine in Kingston Penitentiary and $3000 for plant for power to run binder twine machinery; $2000 to pay the sessional indemnities of the late D. W. Gordon and Armstrong to their legal representatives, and $1000 to pay sessional indemnity of Dr. Ferguson, who has been too ill to attend this year; $70,000 for the World's Fair; $36,000 to enable the Dairy Commissioner to purchase butter and cheese at experimental stations; $7000 for the purchase of land for a permanent camp at Sussex, N.B.; $17,212 for gratuities to officers of the active militia force who are to be placed on the retired list; $16,500 for the purchase of modern firearms; $80,000 for the ship channel between Montreal and Quebec.

The only votes for public buildings in Ontario are $10,000 for Brantford drill hall and $5000 for extending the electric light system in the Ottawa public buildings.

The following are the votes for harbors and rivers in Ontario: Colpoy's Bay, extension of public wharf, the municipality furnishing an equal amount, $600; Port Rowan, wharf under contract, to complete, $3300; Port Stanley, extension to piers and repairs, $12,000; Burlington Channel, new ferry scow, $1800; River St. Lawrence, above Brockville, removal of rock, $1200; Owen Sound, towards completion of channel, $8000; Belleville, local authorities having furnished $2000, re-vote $3000; Goderich harbor, additional amount required, $10,000; Hamilton, dredging, $6000; Midland, dredging, additional amount required, $4000; Cobourg, repairs to breakwaters, $1090; Beaverton, to pay contractor amount claimed for additional work due to extraordinary settlement, $500; Dyer's Bay, extension to wharf, $260; Nation River, north branch, for purchase of existing riparian rights and removal of dam, parties interested furnishing an equal amount, $2500.

Amongst the miscellaneous votes are $60,000 towards the expenses of determining the Alaska boundary, $6500 for determining the boundary of Passamaquoddy Bay, and $42,800 to pay the judgment in case of Barber v. the Queen, amount of award of Exchequer Court.

After recess discussion was resumed in Committee on Civil Service Superannuation, which was finally reported.

The following Government bills were read a third time:

Act to repeal certain sections of the Merchants' Shipping Act.

Act to amend the Inland Waters' Seamen's Act.

The remaining railway subsidies were then passed and resolutions reported.

Hon. Mr. Foster announced that as there was a general desire to have the session closed, he would withdraw the Civil Service bill.

On motion to go into Committee of Supply, Mr. Charlton whined a little about not being allowed to reach the adjourned debate on the resolution to close the Canadian section of the World's Fair exhibition on Sunday.

Hon. Mr. Foster said that if Mr. Charlton had moved his resolution earlier in the session there would have been no trouble about its being reached. The matter then dropped.

Mr. Allen then read a long statement about the fisheries regulations on the lakes as relate to the use of pound nets, and after some discussion of the question the matter dropped and the House went into supply at 11.30, taking up the railway items.

It is likely the House will sit until 3 o'clock or later, as there will be an effort made to get through the main estimates at this sitting.

HOOTED AT HER.

A Newspaper Woman's Experiment With Crinoline in London.

LONDON, March 28.—The only full-fledged crinoline which has appeared in the streets of London was worn yesterday by a young woman on the staff of an evening paper. Her costume was not a burlesque, but a genuine old-style crinoline made as attractively as a modern costumer could build it. The young woman walked from the Embankment through Piccadilly, Regent-street, Bond-street and other fashionable West End thoroughfares, followed most of the time by a howling mob of street gamins.

Finally she took refuge in a bus, and the conductor promptly charged her double fare for the extra space occupied. It is now safe to say that the crinoline crisis in England has been passed safely. The Princess of Wales' refusal to approve full skirts has vetoed fashion's futile decree.

President of the French Senate.

PARIS, March 28.—The Senate yesterday elected Challemel-Lacour, the well-known statesman and writer, and Senator from Bouches-du-Rhone, President of the Senate in place of Jules Ferry, deceased. The election is very satisfactory to President Carnot.

DANGEROUS EXPERIMENT.

A U.S. Editor's Opinion on the California Parole Bill.

ROCHESTER, March 29.—The Herald editorially says:

California seems to have entered upon a new era in the management of prisons. The Governor has approved a parole bill, which applies to about a thousand convicts who have served over one year of their first terms in the state prisons of California. Details of this measure are not at hand. It may be assumed that the authorities do not intend immediately to liberate all these criminals, although that is the inference from the press despatch. Probably the object of the bill is to authorize the parole of convicts, whose good behavior in prison leads to the belief that they will make proper use of their liberty. Some form of surveillance over the movements of paroled prisoners is presumably contemplated, although it is difficult to keep watch of a "crook" out of jail. It is hardly possible that a thousand criminals are to be turned loose at once, simply because Governor Markham has signed the bill.

California is in an especially unfortunate condition for the inauguration of a parole system. Its history is full of deeds of blood and violence and, although it has made rapid strides in the direction of law and order, its criminal class remains large and desperate. While larcenies and petty thieving may not prevail to the extent they do in the East, the general impression is that the higher grades of crime multiply on the Pacific Coast. A parole system is dangerous under such circumstances, for assuming that the liberated prisoners will in many instances reform, some cannot fail to return to their old ways and do great evil before they can be again arrested. A parole system is also open to objection in any State on the ground that scheming politicians may secure a parole for some powerful prisoner, when the Governor would not offend public sentiment by granting the offender a full pardon.

HAWAII FAVORS ANNEXATION.

Reports By the Last Steamer State That the People Are Organizing.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 29.—The United States steamer Alliance, which arrived from Honolulu yesterday made the trip in 11 days. P. R. Jones, the Minister of Finance of the Provisional Government of Hawaii, has resigned owing to ill health, and T. R. Porter has been appointed to succeed him.

A movement is on foot for political organization among all the friends of annexation for the purpose of supporting the Government and to assist in securing the annexation of the islands to the United States.

The Provisional Government is administering public affairs in a Conservative manner and is strengthening its lines in every way. This is being done in order to maintain the situation until such time as the United States shall complete measures for taking the islands into the fold.

The sentiment in favor of annexation, notwithstanding the representations to the contrary, has been gaining ground and among those who originally opposed it are now many of its ardent supporters.

Ex-Queen Lilinokalani remains secluded and refuses to see any one with the exception of certain persons who stand nearest to her. To those whom she does consent to give audience she declines to talk over the revolution further than to say that her entire interests are in the hands of Paul Neuman.

The news of the visit of Princess Kaiulani to America and her written appeal to the people of the United States provoked only amusement at Honolulu. A story is current that the Princess is engaged to marry the son of Davies, her guardian.

The Advertiser, in a recent issue, commenting upon the fact that Paul Neuman had filed with the State Department a paper which purports to be a true account of the revolution and the causes which led up to it, says:

It contains many suppressions, many garbled statements, many falsehoods, but we do not believe it contained enough of any of these things to pervert the minds of the American people.

It is believed that Japan has designs upon the islands, owing to the employment of a large number of her subjects on the sugar plantations. Chief Justice Judd, in speaking of the matter, instanced first that the captain of the Japanese cruiser Naniwa had called upon the provisional Government and said that if the United States abandoned its protectorate the Japanese would consider that no government existed in the islands and would raise their flag. The Japanese Government officials are said to be profiting through the remunerative labors of their subjects, and another thousand of them have left Japan for Hawaii. British Minister Woodhouse is on friendly terms with the Japanese commissioner, and it has even been charged that Woodhouse has advised the commissioner as to his policy.

Col. Volney Ashford, who was obliged to leave for the States for advocating what the Provisional Government is now seeking to bring about, viz., annexation, in conversation with the United Press correspondent said that Japan was a power not to be despised and he was satisfied that the Naniwa would have made an effort to annex or establish a protectorate on the islands had she not been forestalled by Minister Stevens.

VERDICT OF SUICIDE.

George Epps of Ancaster Was Insane When He Hanged Himself.

HAMILTON, March 29.—Coroner Brandon of Ancaster held an inquest last night upon the death of George Epps, whose body was found hanging in a barn on his premises, three miles from Dundas. The inquest was held at Victoria School in Governor's-road, Captain A. Leith being foreman of the jury.

The testimony of several witnesses went to show that deceased had been found hanging by a logging chain around his neck in his barn. Deceased was a quiet, industrious man, but poor.

Fifteen years ago he was a patient in the Hamilton Asylum, having inherited insanity through his father, who also committed suicide some years ago. He was of a quiet, melancholy disposition, and had on more than one occasion spoken of hanging himself.

He generally carried a razor. Epps was a married man of middle age. The jury returned this verdict: "That George Epps came to his death by his own hand while suffering from a fit of insanity."

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

THE MEMBERS LOOK FOR PROROGATION ON SATURDAY.

Introduced Providing For Branding Cheese so as to Prevent Any Skullduggery—The Members Are Making Preparations to Return to Their Homes.

OTTAWA, March 29.—There is scarcely any reasonable doubt now about the business of the House being closed up on Thursday night and prorogation taking place on Saturday. The invitations to seats on the floor of the Senate at prorogation were issued yesterday in the usual manner—without any date being named. The usual notices to members asking them to leave the keys of their desks and wardrobes behind them when they start for home are posted in the lobbies, and members who are leaving, and quite a number go to-night, pays a little attention to the notices as usual.

It is a singular fact that every year about 200 new keys have to be furnished for the desks and boxes in the Commons and press rooms to replace those taken away at the close of the previous session. Some of the members might have quite a fine collection of old iron at home as a memento of their visits to Ottawa.

On the meeting of the House this afternoon Hon. Mr. Foster moved that the House meet at 11 o'clock in the morning on Wednesday and Thursday which was agreed to.

Hon. Mr. Foster then, with the consent of the House, introduced a bill to provide for the marking or branding of cheese. He said that as the result of the conversation which took place in the House some time ago with respect to American cheese being exported as Canadian the Minister of Agriculture had asked Professor Robertson to look into the matter, and a bill had been prepared, which he wished to get printed, but which may or may not be proceeded with this year. The bill was introduced.

The bill from the Senate to incorporate the Dominion Live Stock Association was read a third time and passed.

The report of the Committee on Ways and Means was received and Hon. Mr. Foster introduced a bill founded thereon providing for a change in the duty on binder twine, etc.

On the first section Mr. Charlton talked for about two hours, going over again all the subject of the visit of the Canadian Ministers to Washington and trying to show that the Government was to blame for not getting reciprocity with the United States.

Mr. Davin called attention to the duty on books and also raised again his objection to the duties on agricultural implements and barbed wire.

After some further discussion the bill was read a first time.

The following acts were read a third time and passed:

Respecting grants of land to members of the militia force on active service in the Northwest in 1885.

To amend the Patent Act.

To confirm the sale of the Carleton, City of St. John branch railway.

Hon. Mr. Daly moved the second reading of the act to further amend the Dominion Lands Act, and the House was in committee on the bill when the Speaker left the chair at 6 o'clock.

A meeting of the Press Gallery was held this evening, Vice-President Maguru in the chair. Mr. W. J. Healy, secretary, was presented with a handsome ring as a token of appreciation by his confreres.

The following vote of thanks to the Minister of Public Works was also passed:

"That the members of the Parliamentary Press Gallery of 1892 desire to express their thanks to the Hon. J. A. Ouimet, Minister of Public Works, for the courtesy with which he received the suggestion that the lighting of the Press Gallery rooms should be improved and for the promptitude with which he instructed his officials to meet the views of the gallery in that respect."

At a Liberal caucus held this forenoon, Mr. Laurier announced to his followers in Parliament that he had decided to call a Dominion convention of his followers in the country to be held in Ottawa on June 20 next. It is understood that efforts were being made to get the meeting for Toronto or Montreal, but to-day Mr. Laurier thought Ottawa the most central point. The meeting will be held in the Dominion rink, which will accommodate over 4000 people.

DIFFICULT TO ARREST.

Two Wounded Indians At Pine Ridge Agency Well Guarded.

RAPID CITY, S.D., March 29.—The attemp to arrest and bring in the wounded Indians, Two Sticks and White-faced Horse, who are wanted for the killing of Royce and his three companions at the Pine Ridge Agency, Beef Camp, have failed. Deputy-Marshal Matthiessen, who went out from the agency to Newater's camp on Friday, was warned off. Later the Indian police sent to bring in the murderers were fired upon and it is clear that the offenders cannot be taken from the asylum without decisive steps. The whole Indian police force will probably be sent against the No-Water's camp. The trouble is apparently confined to this one band.

A Baptism Stopped by Fire.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 29.—The water in the tank in the Christian Church in which converts are dipped is heated by means of gasolene stoves under the tank. The stoves were lighted Sunday evening and the pastor, Rev. S. B. Moore, donned his baptismal robe and prepared to immerse the candidates. Just then the flames set fire to the floor and Mr. Moore's clothes were burned. He had to go home in his bathing suit.

Damaged by Floods.

WASHINGTON'S CROSSING, N.J., March 29.—The breaking of the great ice gorge in the Delaware River and the consequent subsiding of the water on the farm lands along the Delaware reveals damage that will require years to remedy. On the New Jersey side of the river orchards and vineyards are uprooted. Wagon roads are in bad condition and will have to be rebuilt. It is estimated the total loss from the freshet amounts to $1,000,000.

New York Times Sold.

NEW YORK, March 29.—The Tribune says: It is reported that the contract for the sale of The New York Times was drawn up and agreed to yesterday.

The present editor of The Times, Charles R. Miller, and the managing editor, George F. Spinney, are interested as proprietors in the company and are to be continued in their present places. It was in their interest, indeed, that the new company has been formed.

TOLERANCE IN CANADA.

THE EXAMPLE GIVEN BY PREMIER GLADSTONE.

When Separationists Ask Him to Give Up Home Rule on Account of Religious and Religious Differences, He Says Canada Proves Their Contention Wrong.

LONDON, March 29.—Mr. Gladstone was visited Tuesday by delegations from the London Chamber of Commerce, the London Master Commissioners and the United Liberal Merchants' Association, who addressed the Premier in deprecation of the proposition to establish a separate legislature in Ireland, and represented that Irish interests would be greatly injured thereby, and that religious and racial differences would make successful Home Rule impossible.

Mr. Gladstone, in reply, discounted the importance of the fall in Irish securities which, he said, doubtless arose from the fact that the majority of the property-owning classes in Ireland were opposed to Home Rule. Mr. Gladstone disputed the allegation that historical jealousy existed between members of different religions in Ireland, and he denied that racial divisions would prevent unity under one local government.

Mr. Gladstone referred to the Dominion of Canada for an instance of the existence of racial divisions, infinitely sharper than in Ireland. There, too, there had been similar gloomy prophecies, when a united autonomous system of government was proposed. But Canada, nevertheless, was contented and prosperous.

As to the charge that capital would be driven from Ireland by Home Rule, Mr. Gladstone said that so far from there being chronic want of money in Ireland when Home Rule would be established there, there would, he believed, be a plethora of money because the expenses of the Government were now enormously extravagant.

Mr. Gladstone subsequently received a deputation of London merchants and bankers who had come to represent the danger to financial interests involved in the Irish Home Rule scheme.

Mr. Gladstone said he was sadly sensitive that the Government was at issue with the money classes, whose views were commonly opposed to national sentiment. They should remember, however, that the period of the last Irish Parliament had been a period of marked financial progress and the proposed measure was, as a matter of fact, conservative and not revolutionary.

Aid For Home Rule.

NEW YORK, March 29.—The committee in charge of the Home Rule mass meeting Sunday night met this evening and counted up cash subscriptions and guarantees. It was found that the aggregate was about $14,000. It was decided to entrust the formulation of a plan for raising $150,000, which is the amount to be raised if possible in this country, to nine trustees of the Irish federation.

A SUIT OF THE BORDER.

A Butcher Recovers $400 Damages For False Imprisonment.

UTICA, N.Y., March 29.—A suit was commenced in the U.S. court yesterday, wherein DeWain Shipman, a butcher at the Thousand Islands, demanded damages against U.S. Collector G. H. Smith of Clayton and Deputy Collectors S. Breed, Slate and Oates for false imprisonment. Shipman had been arrested on the charge of smuggling meat into this country from Canada. He was imprisoned several days and finally discharged upon examination having proved that he purchased and killed the lambs upon American islands.

This morning the attorney agreed upon a settlement and Judge Cox, directed judgment against the defendant for $400. Shipman is a son of Charles Shipman, a notorious smuggler who shot and killed John Fitzsimmons near Lockport, Ont., last Friday.

ELGIN ASSIZES.

The Trial of George Young Set for Thursday.

ST. THOMAS, Ont., March 29.—The trial of George Young for murder is set down for Thursday.

The case of John Sullivan, against which a true bill for manslaughter was brought in at the Fall Assizes, was at the request of counsel this evening laid over for the Spring Sessions. Prisoner is charged with shooting his landlady, Miss Henderson, last autumn but the jury disagreed at the last court and he has since languished in prison cells waiting another trial.

A MATTER OF TASTE.

A U.S. Officer to Marry a Wealthy Chinese Girl.

The father of the prospective bride is very wealthy and entertains here in princely oriental style. The bride is one of a family of 13 children, is a beautiful and accomplished girl of 17, while the prospective groom is said to be 50 years of age.

SIX YEARS FOR GODOLPHIN.

This Will Give Him an Opportunity For Honest Work.

BROCKBRIDGE, Ont., March 29.—Yesterday R. W. Godolphin, the defaulting Huntsville treasurer, appeared before His Honor Judge Mahaffy for trial.

He pleaded guilty to both charges of forgery and embezzlement and was sentenced to three years in Kingston Penitentiary in each charge, terms concurrent.

Proud of Canada.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., March 29.—The Canadian students of the University of Michigan have organized a Canadian Club, with the following officers: President, W. A. Brice, Kingston; vice-president, A. McIntyre, Winnipeg; secretary-treasurer, D. C. Shields, London; marshal, J. W. Eede, Windsor. Its objects are to revive memories of home and childhood and promote interest in that vigorous and ambitious young nation of wealth and vastness.

For Selling Pictures.

ROME, March 29.—Maffeo Barberini Colonna di Sciarra, Prince of Carbognano, has been sentenced to three months' imprisonment and to pay a fine of 6250 lire for having sold works of the old masters to persons outside of Italy without the consent of the Government.

The pictures were in the gallery of the Palais Sciarra in Rome when the Government prohibited the sale of such works to foreigners. They were taken secretly from the palace, were smuggled over the border into France and were bought by Parisians.

THE TREATY WITH FRANCE.

In the matter of the treaty with France the Dominion Government with the facility born of practice have made serious bungling. Sir Charles Tupper on behalf of the Dominion was authorised to sign the treaty. The treaty itself makes important reductions in customs duties upon wines, soaps and fruits, etc., in return for concessions by France in favour of a few articles of Canadian produce. But it admits these articles at a reduced rate, not only from France but from all other countries the United States included. The Government could'nt reduce the duties to relieve the Canadian consumer, because it would be a breach of the principles of the N. P. Now, they open our markets to certain articles from the United States, without one iota of privilege in return. Isn't this more than reciprocity? The Yankees can import into Canada wines, soaps and fruits, and "destroy Canadian industries," while Canadians have no corresponding privilege from the U. S., but must pay the McKinley duties. And the Government's shuffling about ratifying the treaty is dishonourable and degrading. The cabinet approved of the treaty, and instructed Sir Charles Tupper to sign it. The government has kept Sir Charles Tupper at London for ten years—a most expensive ornament—and the very first work in the way of a treaty he performs, the government refuses to ratify or delays in a most unbusinesslike manner. Sir Charles says the government must either ratify the treaty or resign. Either way the government turn they are bound to come out of the French treaty matter with discredit.

A MEANING COINCIDENCE.

In an article under the heading of "Long Life to Him," the Toronto Telegram says:—"The opening of the legislature a week from to-morrow upon the nineteenth anniversary of Hon. C. F. Fraser's accession to the commissionership of public works will be a coincidence with a meaning. The opening of the building with which Mr. Fraser has been so honourably and usefully identified constitutes a fitting celebration of his birthday as a cabinet minister. The member for Brockville has throughout the sectarian era in provincial politics excited strong antagonisms. He has been misjudged and misunderstood, but his fiercest opponents never questioned his title to rank as one of the most faithful administrators of public money who ever hold office in any government or in any country. While in a sense the minister of public works is the representative of a section, his high ability and his thorough integrity entitle him to higher rank than could be accorded to a mere sectarian delegate in the cabinet. His career is that of a Canadian in the true sense, and those who congratulate him upon his length of service are sincere in the hope that he may long be spared to his friends and country."

SOLEMN CHILD'S PLAY.

The Conservative convention on Saturday, as seriously as though they really meant it, performed the child's play of "urging upon the Government the completion of the Trent Valley Canal." The Government they knew have no more intention of performing any construction work on this canal than they have of governing honestly. The only object is to keep it in pickle for election purposes. The supplementary estimates contain $7,000 for "Trent Valley Canal"—$3,000 for a bridge at Fenelon Falls and $4,000 for painting the stumps in the Scugog. But not a word is said about "1,000 men being at work this summer on the Lakefield-Peterborough section." Those guns will have to be preserved pretty carefully to be in order for use in celebrating the completion of the Trent Valley Canal.

Trusts and Combinations.

Are unpopular. But there is one form of trust against which no one has anything to say. That is the truth which the public reposes in Hood's Sarsaparilla, and the best of it is the trust is fully justified by the merit of the medicine. For, remember, HOOD'S Sarsaparilla CURES.

HOOD'S PILLS are purely vegetable, and do not purge, pain or gripe. Sold by all druggists.

ZENANA MISSIONARY WORK

Described by Hon. Winnifred Sugden in St. John's Church Monday Evening.

There was a large attendance, especially of ladies, assembled in St. John's church Sunday School room on Monday evening, Rev. J. C. Davidson, rector, presided, and after the opening prayers and hymns, in a few remarks introduced the Hon. Winnifred Sugden, a Zenana missionary from India, who has been labouring in that benighted land for some nine years. Miss Sugden, who is an old country lady, is very tall and of large and stately presence. She is a fluent and deeply sympathetic speaker, and holds the closest attention of her auditors. She vividly described the life of women in India and drew most heart-rending pictures of their deplorable condition. The men far outnumbered the women in India, the preponderance of inhabitants being 50,000,000 in favor of the male creation. In the Zenanas the Indian women were slowly and women and girls regarded as less value than cattle. Miss Sugden and another lady missionary divided their time and work going from Zenana to Zenana treating the natives medicinally and teaching them the scriptures as they had opportunity. The speaker dwelt upon the rich blessings resulting from this medical missionary. The Church of England had been doing a good work, as well as other denominations to relieve the terrible condition of the women of India, but it was simply a drop in the bucket compared with the boundless amount of yet to be done. A large number of the natives had never looked upon a white face in their lives. Miss Sugden stated she was making a tour throughout the Provinces enlisting workers and raising funds for the work in which she was engaged. In Toronto five young ladies had evinced their willingness to do service. The address of Miss Sugden was warmly commended by the Rector, who in a few words endorsed the urgency and practical Christianity of the work to which Miss Sugden was devoting her energies and her talents. A large offertory was then made. Besides the ladies of St. John's Church Women's Auxiliary there were representatives present from the Women's Foreign Missionary Societies of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, St. Paul's Presbyterian church, Murray-st. Baptist church, and the George street Methodist church. They all received a cordial greeting from the ladies of St. John's Church Women's Auxiliary.

MURDERED BY THE WHOLESALE,

MOTHERS WANT THE VERY BEST!

A Noted Doctor's Testimony!

Careful and loving mothers desire the best prepared food that science can produce, in order that their babes may progress steadily in health and strength. Various brands of infant foods have presented themselves to the attention of mothers within the past few years, but only one of these has given entire satisfaction. The chosen and favorite food in thousands of homes id America to-day is Lactated Food.

Read the following commendation from Dr. T. N. McLaughlin, Physician in Chief of the Philadelphia Hospital. He says:

"We have been testing your Lactated Food in our Maternity and Nursing Departments, and the results have been so very satisfactory that it is with pleasure that I commend it to the profession."

We strongly appeal to all mothers to give Lactated Food an immediate trial, if their little darlings are pining and fretful, weak and puny. No other food in the world will strengthen and build them up as quickly as the Lactated Food. Your druggist should have it in stock.

SOUTH DOURO.

(From Our Own Correspondent.

The greatest days' wood sawing ever done in this locality was performed by Cornelius Ryan on the premises of James Barry on Monday last. The quantity of wood cut was 6½ cords of sound, dry tamarac. The saw was sharped by Henry Whibbs. Michael McCann piled this huge heap of wood in 1 hour and 50 minutes. This work may surprise some of our readers, but it is true and Mr. Ryan says he can cut 7 cords of the same wood for money in 10 hours, without the least unduly exerting himself. This will knock the conceit out of some of our 4 cord men. It will be understood that this work was not done with any new patent saw, but with an old time buck saw.

There is no reason why children should be allowed to suffer from loathsome scrofulous sores and glandular swellings when such a pleasant, effective, and economical medicine as Ayer's Sarsaparilla may be procured of the nearest druggist. Be sure you get Ayer's.

A Great Surprise.

Is in store for all who use Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs, the great guaranteed remedy. BIG BANQUET AT THE BARRACKS

Staff-Capt. Boulton is Given a Hearty Send-off by the "Boys in Red" and the "Lassies With the Poke Bonnets" —He was Formerly Commandant of the Peterborough Division.

Things have been in a big "go" so to speak at the Salvation Army barracks for a day or two back. On Saturday night Staff-Captain Boulton, late commandant of the Kingston division, arrived on a farewell visit to the local detachment. On Saturday night and at the four services on Sunday the attendance was unusually large, the meetings helpful and impressive the singing hearty and enlivening, the parade musters enthusiastic and the addresses persuasive and convincing. On Monday evening, as stated in last night's EXAMINER, a lively and successful farewell banquet was tendered the retiring officer. The staff-capt. who leaves for London, has been transferred by headquarters to the position of A. D. C. to Brigadier Holland who has been placed in command of five former divisions, which have by order been converted into one. This consolidated division, which comprises the old divisions of Toronto, Hamilton, Chatham, London and Barrie, will be known as the London division, and the headquarters of the officers will be at the Forest City.

In the basement of the Simcoe street barracks half a dozen large tables were heavily laden with all that could gratify the insatiable desires of an epicure. From five to seven a steady stream of people flowed into the "banquetting hall." At 8 o'clock a strong march out occurred, and on the return to the barracks an interesting meeting was held, conducted by Staff-Captain Boulton.

After singing and prayer the enrollment of recruits took place, some 15 new soldiers being enrolled in all. The impressive dedicatory service of the army was then performed upon two small sons of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison. Two selections were given by the brass band and followed by two capitally rendered and decidedly talented contributions by the string band of the Army, consisting of that well known musical aggregation, the Green Family, and Mr. R. C. Brown. Staff-Capt. Bolton then followed in a racy address. He He recalled the pleasant times spent in in Peterborough. This was his first division and he was stationed here two years. He loved the town and was glad to have the opportunity of paying it a farewell visit. He was glad to witness the progress, prosperity and enterprise which characterised the Army work under the vigilant command of Adjt. Michiel, and he thanked the members of the Peterborough corps in a friendly manner for their entertainment and hospitality. He trusted that their prayers and sympathy would be with him in his new field of labour. The meeting then closed with the benediction, after which an adjournment was made to the lunch room again and another supper was partaken of. The banquet, which lasted five hours, was a pleasant affair and took well.

THE MOST MISERABLE OF HUMAN BEINGS!

Found in the Ranks of Dyspeptics!

Paine's Celery Compound

Cures the Worst Cases of DYSPEPSIA!

The most miserable of human beings are found in the ranks of the dyspeptics. It is impossible for these individuals to find peace of mind. They suffer from a terrible complication of troubles which lead on to great depression of spirits, the imagining of terrible ills, and a continual fear of death. The dyspeptic, when his troubles are unheeded, soon comes to the brink of destruction. We see him with pale and hollow cheeks, sunken eyes and shattered frame—he becomes a perfect wreck, and his doom is sealed.

The dyspeptic who values life and perfect digestion has a grand hope set before him. He has now at hand a heaven-given remedy for all his woes and sufferings. It needs but the use of a few bottles of Paine's Celery Compound to restore perfect health and digestive vigor. Instances are plentiful where one bottle of the Compound has given a new life to the tormented victim. Multitudes of men and women living today gratefully acknowledge that they were saved by Celery Compound, and are now enabled to enjoy life. Haste thee dyspeptic, before it is too late; do as others have done; use the only reliable and warranted cure that the world ever knew of; then and only then, will you know its great value, and find that your life can be renewed!

Gives Strength and Appetite.

DEAR SIRS,—Last year I was very thin and reducing very fast, owing to the bad state of my blood and appetite. A friend of mine induced me to get a bottle of B.B. B., which I did. I obtained immediate perceptible relief from it, having gained strength and appetite, and now weigh 198 pounds. M. T. MURPHY,

TO BE OR NOT TO BE "IN IT."

A Life Agent called at [illegible]'s place one day,
He wasn't in it;
His business was insurance" coming call that book [illegible]
He wasn't in it;
He had heard the speech said, he was tired and sick
Of [illegible] and agents—'twas all a blank trick,
While [illegible] must be shuffled to win it,
He wasn't in it.

A bit of [illegible] hold head,
He was in it;
Pneumonia sent him straightway to his bed,
He stayed in it;
His doctor made of it a "quite special" case,
To save him for running still more of life's race,
But the grave took some chances to win it,
And he's in it.

When approached by a gent for insuring your life,
Get right in it;
It's the right thing to do for your children and wife,
Then stay in it.
Remember that fires take your goods "out of sight,"
And that accidents happen each day and each night,
While insurance protects every minute,
If you're in it.

A Bank Manager's Opinion.

HE IS "IN IT."

The General Manager of one of the leading banks in Canada, writing to a personal friend, says:—"I have no hesitation in saying that I place the CANADA LIFE upon the highest platform. It is in my opinion carefully, economically and honestly managed; its Reserve Funds are well invested; its rates of Premiums are low, and its future is, I think better assured than a great majority of Companies. I have my own life insured in the Company for a round amount, and would not hesitate to increase the amount of my policies should I decide upon taking out further insurance."

A Government Insurance Actuary's Opinion

On the Relation between Ordinary and Tontine Service.

It is frequently assertedby Companies whose business is nearly all tontine, that although the CANADA LIFE may and does pay large ordinary profits, yet it cannot compare so favourably on a long term distribution or tontine period, and that in the end better results can be obtained on a tontine policy in a large American Co. than on an ordinary or tontine policy in the CANADA LIFE. To prove the absurdity of this statement, the following piece of common sense is quoted from Mervin Tabor, late Actuary of the Illinois Government Insurance Department. In his well known book, "The Three Systems of Life Insurance," he says: "A company that gives large dividends on the ordinary kind of policies, can give much larger on the same kinds when Tontined, and a company that pays but meagre dividends on the usual forms, adopting perhaps the Tontine system to "cover up" its small surpluses, cannot be relied on for large returns of surplus under the Tontine Forms of Insurance."

The CANADA LIFE does not "cover up" its Quinquennial profits as some Companies do, but publishes them throughout the country.

It can and does surpass other Companies on Quinquennial profits. It should and will surpass them on Tontine profits.

WHY TO BE "IN IT."

BISHOP HAWKE'S REASON:—"I claim that Life Insurance is not only a a humane, but I might say a Christian Institution."

LORD LYNDHURST'S REASON:—"A Policy of Life Insurance is always an evidence of prudent forethought. No man with a dependent family is free from reproach if not insured."

WHEN TO BE "IN IT."

The younger, the cheaper. Therefore insure when young. Besides by insuring in the CANADA LIFE now, you will share in three years' profits.

WHERE TO BE "IN IT."

The best place to be "in it" is in the Company that gives the best returns for the least money, consistent with absolute security. Therefore, in order, to be "in it," choose the

At the regular weekly meeting of St. Andrews church Young People's Society of Christian Endeavour held on Monday evening there was a large attendance. Miss Bella Gordon presided. The great attraction opened with a big attendance and the tidings has already spread throughout the district of the low prices on genuine seasonable goods for the various lines now so much needed. Successful Trachsotomy.

The friends of the family will be glad to learn that little Willie Graham, grandson of Mr. Wm. Lech, is making rapid strides towards recovery, and is now practically out of danger. The little fellow was seized with an attack of pseudo-membraneous croup on St. Patrick's Day, and was rapidly choking to death. Finding all efforts to procure relief unavailing his medical attendant, Dr. Brennan, with the advice and assistance of Dr. Pigeon, who had been called in consultation, performed the operation known as trachæotomy, opening the little sufferer's windpipe and inserting a tube through which the breathing is still carried on. It is said to be many years since this operation has been successfully performed in this section of the country, and it will be a source of congratulation to all if the little patient finally recovers, which he promises to do at present.

Big Sale of Grade Holstein Cattle

Another of the auction sales of the season took place on Tuesday last, when the farm stock and implements of Mr. William Stothart, near the town, were sold at auction. Mr. Stothart is well known, his stock of the right sort, and in good condition; the sale was thoroughly advertised in the EXAMINER; the day was fine and the lunch was abundant, all of which are necessary in order to obtain the best results at an auction sale. Mr. Stothart also was fortunate in securing the services of Mr. John Haggart to wield the hammer, and right well did he perform his task. Implements sold fairly well, as also did the horses; 16 grade Holstein cows went at from $45 to $60 each, and the young stock sold at a proportionately high figure. The sale was highly satisfactory to Mr. Stothart, about 500 people being in attendance. Mr. Stothart with his family intends moving to Peterborough to take his residence.

Taxpayers of Peterborough!

Those of you who are patriotic enough to pay 16 mills on the $ for the sake of the progress of the town, are doubtless human enough to get off with ten mills, if you could do so. On the same principle you do not wish to pay 15 cents for Easter Beef when you can get it at MORRIS & HOWDEN'S for 10 cents, and the choicest cuts too, off the primest Easter beef ever brought to town. Five cents a pound saved on a 10-lb. roast is 50 cents. This saving, which can be carried on the year round by patronizing Morris & Howden on the cash principle, will amount to enough to pay your taxes, and you needn't much care whether the rate is 16 or 26 mills on the dollar. Particularly complete and extensive preparations have been made by MORRIS & HOWDEN for Easter Saturday. Magnificent stock of meats of every description. On Easter Saturday there comes in force reduced prices and the cash system. Don't neglect to pay us a visit.

MORRIS & HOWDEN,
Hunter street, opposite the post office.

A Splendid Appearing Combination.

Mr. Wm. Walters, of Lindsay, is exhibiting in town and has shown to the Fire, Water and Light Committee a working model of a most ingenious combined hook and ladder truck and fire escape. A detailed description would occupy much space, but the general features may be briefly indicated by saying that the truck may be run to the vicinity of a burning building and by the help of three firemen the ladders may be automatically raised to a height of 60 feet and turned in any direction desired. At the same time the ladders are being raised a trapeze ladder of rope is being paid out against the side of the building, and a firemen can ascend by it and stop at any window necessary. Each side of the rigid ladders is provided with baskets by which women or children may be lowered to safety. Thus, including the baskets, there are provided four means of escape for persons in danger in a burning building. Another most important feature of this fire escape is that the presence of telegraph or telephone wires does not interfere with its effective working. Any person interested in such appliances should not miss any opportunity that may present itself of inspecting it.

Now, with all due regard for the pastor, the fact that Mr. Stubbs left his work at home and voluntarily offered his services, and laboured so faithfully in those meetings, cannot be overlooked, and there are those who, while they feel that their, pastor deserves credit think that it might well and honestly be shared by Mr. Stubbs.

THE "COMET" FOR 1893

is as far ahead in the field of Pneumatic Bicycles as a buggy is compared with a farm waggon. The COMET easily wins every time, and if you want to ride the boss 'cycle, you must have the COMET and no other.

The COMET PNEUMATIC BICYCLE gets there every time for durability, comfort, style and easy-going—that's beyond dispute. Its Canadian record is away up, for, among the members of the Century Road Club who rode their century during the past season, more were mounted on COMETS than on all other makes of wheels put together.

The COMET for 1893 is built in three styles, viz: Light Roadster, Road Scorcher and Track Racer, the heaviest of which does not weigh over 35 pounds. Further information on application to

A Word About Millinery.

THE gush of the moment anent the opening is over. The verdict of all is that WE LEAD IN STYLE, ASSORTMENT AND LOW PRICES. The department is down to hard work and solid business. We are now anxious that your orders should have that careful attention to nicety of detail, and that punctuality in execution which are so essential a part of a well managed department.

May we ask our patrons to kindly give us what assistance they can in these last named particulars, by giving in their orders as early as possible in the week. The workers can do just so much and do it well. PROPER TIME TO EXECUTE is an important request in filling orders. Needless to say that the stock is being supplemented from day to day with leading novelties.

Does the DRESS question loom up? When doesn't it? The great outflow from this department is at flood time, comprising all grades of seasonable stuff, from the modest All Wool goods at 15c., to the high class exclusive Novelties. Our BLACK GOODS this season are more than usually comprehensive.

MANTLES

Years of experience as to the tastes of a community, intimate knowledge of the first and best sources of supply, generous provision so as to suit all tastes and pockets, combined with that indefinable intuition as to what is the correct thing—these, and more, are what are required in the management of a MANTLE DEPARTMENT, in order that it should be a success. These qualifications, we believe, are possessed by us in our knowledge of the markets and in the capacity of our competent staff. Our MANTLES this season are right in Style, Value and Price. We shall be pleased to show them to you.

POLICE COURT TO-DAY.

The Cases up Before the Magistrate This Morning.

At the police court this morning the number of spectators was very large, although the docket was a light one. Two young men stepped into the arena with the charge against them that they were acting in a disorderly way on Tuesday, March 14th. It appears an old existing feud between them resulted in a scrap, but the gladiators were precluded from battering each others physiogs very seriously by the appearance of Officer Stewart on the scene just after the first round closed. The magistrate said the court did not propose to encourage fighting. It might do very well down in New Orleans, but not in Peterborough, therefore he would fine the defendants $2 each.

Fred Brooks the young man charged with appropriating a horse belonging to C. W. Lane to his own use in October last, was brought up for sentence. Mr. W. A. tratton appeared for the prisoner.

Counsel asked the court to have the charge against Brooks amended so as came under section 59 of the act respecting malicious injury to property. He said Brooks was willing to pay Mr. Lane $20 for the damage done to his horse and vehicle and he asked to have the charge amended.

Mr. Dumble stated he could not amend the charge since there had been three informations and two convictions, but another information could be laid if desired.

The case was finally disposed of by the prisoner agreeing to pay $20 to Mr. Lane for the damage to his property. The Magistrate stated that this was for malicious injury to property, and on the charge of committing a crime according to law, he fined the prisoner $5 and and costs, $7.50 in all, in default twenty days in gaol. The fine was paid.

WILLOW AND WICKET.

The Cricketers Organize at an Enthusiastic Meeting—The P. A. A. A. also Holds a Meeting.

A large number of the sporting fraternity gathered in the rooms over George A. Schofield's drug store last night. It was the occasion of the annual meeting of the Peterborough Cricket Club, and judging by the large attendance and warm interest taken in the proceedings, the record of "ye good old English game" in Peterborough this season will be a bright one. The enthusiasm was keen, and each fellow present bore a determined look that he personally, at any rate, would go hard to work and boom the game in town this season as it has never been done before in the annals of the willow and wicket here. Dr. Burnham occupied the chair and in a few opening remarks stated the purport of the meeting. The election of officers for the coming season was the first in the order of procedure. This resulted as follows :—

Hon. Pres.—Dr. J. T. I. Halliday.
Pres.—Dr. Burnham.
1st Vice-Pres.—C. McGill.
2nd Vice-Pres.—A. C. Dunlop.
Sec.-Treas.—W. B. Carmichael.
Match and Grounds Committee.—D. Rogers, C. Halliday, T. H. Bell, P. Goldsmith, V. McGill, W. Stocker, W. D. Parker.

A resolution was carried that each eleven or team select its own captain at each match.

Dr. Burnham and W. D. Parker were appointed directors to the P.A.A.A. The match and grounds committee were instructed to procure material, nets and other supplies for the coming season. The committee were further instructed to take steps towards the engagement of a coach for the club during the months of July and August. It was suggested that the services of a prominent cricketer in attendance at the Trinity College School, Port Hope, be secured if possible. The gentleman in question is highly recommended by W. D. Grace, the celebrated English cricketer. Practice will be commenced at once as soon as the weather permits. The secretary was instructed to arrange matches for the season with outside clubs.

THE P. A. A. A. ALSO MEETS.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Amateur Athletic Association was also held with a fair attendance. Dr. Burnham president occupied the chair. After the transaction of routine business of an unimportant nature, it was moved by G. A. Schofield; seconded by Mr. Drope, that Dr. Halliday be president for the coming year.—Carried.

Moved by G. A. Schofield, seconded by W. Stocker, that R. B. Rogers be director for term to the P. A. A. A.—Carried.

Moved by W. J. Drope, seconded by W. B. Carmichael, that the directors for football and snow-shoeing, W. J. Drope and G. A. Schofield, be the same as last year.—Carried.

The treasurers report which was presented showed that the Association was self-sustaining.

The meeting then adjourned until Wednesday, April 15th, pending the action of the lacrosse and baseball clubs, who are expected to meet in the intervening time, and will elect directors to the P.A.A.A.

BARNS AND SHED SCORCHED GALORE.

A Fire on London Street at a Late Hour Last Evening Does Considerable Damage to Several Property Holders—Undoubtedly of Incendiary Origin.

Another fire occurred at a late hour last night. The record of fires for three nights remains unbroken and all of them have been serious blazes, too. On Sunday morning Mr. H. Stevens' green house was totally destroyed and on the evening following the shop of Mr. J. McComb, glove manufacturer and gentlemen's furnisher, was visited by the fiery element and serious damage resulted. Last night another conflagration visited the town on London street, and had it not been for the brave fight and ready response of the fire brigade a much more serious loss would certainly have occurred than last night's fire resulted in.

A few minutes after 11 o'clock Mr. Robt. Walton, formerly of Willow Spring Farm, Smith, and who recently removed to Peterborough, discovered flames issuing from a shed adjoining his barn on London street, near the office of the Dickson Company. He at once gave the alarm. Owing to the inflammable material of the buildings and contents, the flames rapidly communicated with Mr. Walton's nine large barn. The hay in the loft added fury and power to the flames, and when the brigade arrived everything was falling before their almost irresistible march. The firemen soon had three streams from different points playing upon the flames but they had that considerable damage was done before the fire was quenched. The barn adjoining Mr. Walton's barn where the fire first started belongs to Mr. T. McKee. The loss on this building which was unoccupied was slight. The roof of Mr. Walton's stable and woodshed adjoining were burned and also the back part of these buildings, and badly gutted. One or two adjoining outbuildings were also consumed. The vehicles, a horse, two calves, two cows and other things in the stable were rescued, but a new canoe which Mr. Walton had recently bought, as well as two dressed mooseskin robes, several sets of harness, and a large quantity of hay and straw were cremated. Mr. Walton estimates his loss at some $300 on the contents, with no insurance. The stable and woodshed and other buildings were owned by Mr. R. S. Lattimer, and the loss on them is some $200 or $300. On these there is an insurance of $300 in the Caledonian, Cox & Davis, agents, All the double windows belonging to the house tenanted by Mr. Walton and owned by Mr. Lattimer were stored in the barn; no insurance. The stable and shed of Mr. George McWilliams which were situated west of Mr. Walton's woodshed, also SUFFERED TO A CONSIDERABLE EXTENT.

The roofs and western sides were badly burned before the fire was finally gotten under control. Mr. McWilliams' stable was 22 x 40 feet in dimensions, and was a rough cast structure. The shed annexed was a frame one, 16x24. In these were stored a large quantity of hay and oats, which were burned. In the stable at the time were four horses, two cows, vehicles and other articles, which happily were saved. Mr. McWilliams suffered to the extent of some $200 damages. There was no insurance on the contents, but on the shed and stable there was some $350 in the Royal, Cox and Davis, agents. After destroying the first shed where the fire originated all the buildings scorched one another, that the flames had no difficulty in spreading, and owing to the hay stored in the barns a ready prey was afforded them. The fire was a brilliant one and was witnessed by many onlookers while it lasted. The incendiary's torch had evidently done the deed as neighbours asserted they heard three or four persons running down the sidewalk a few minutes previous to the fire's discovery, and the place where it started—an old unoccupied lean-to about 10x15 feet, confirm the impression generally prevailing that some one set the building afire.

SMITH.

Smith Town has the Pull.

A remarkable feat at heavy drawing was consummated on Saturday last at Bridgenorth. The team of horses which did the work belong to Mr. Edward Archer, who resides on the 4th line of Smith, and they are only an ordinary sized team too, weighing about 3,400 pounds. This pair of animals drew a load of 24 standard of green hemlock saw logs, a distance of 4½ miles to Brumwell's sawmill at Bridgenorth. It may be mentioned that an ordinary standard of green hemlock or maple weighs closely in the neighborhood of a ton, not over that amount, and the load drawn therefore would weigh 27 tons as correctly as can be estimated. Ample proof can be furnished of this fact for there were many witnesses who saw the grand pull.

"For a long time I suffered with stomach and liver troubles, and could find no relief until I began to use Ayer's Pills. I took them regularly for a few months, and my health was completely restored."—D. W. Blaine, New Berne, N.C.

When the kidneys are clogged, good health is an impossibility; but when working properly the reverse is the case. That dull back-ache is the kidney's cry for relief. If Dodd's Kidney Pills are used the result will be marvellous. We emphatically state that we have never known a case of kidney disease that a persistent use of Dodd's Kidney Pills will not cure.

Burdock Blood Bitters

Is a purely vegetable compound, possessing perfect regulating powers over all the organs of the system, and controlling their secretions. It so purifies the blood that it

CURES

All blood humors and diseases, from a common pimple to the worst scrofulous sore, and this combined with its unrivalled regulating, cleansing and purifying influence on the secretions of the liver, kidneys, bowels and skin, render it unequalled as a cure for all diseases of the

SKIN

From one to two bottles will cure boils, pimples, blotches, nettle rash, scurf, tetter, and all the simple forms of skin disease. From two to four bottles will cure saltrheum or eczema, shingles, erysipelas, ulcers, abscesses, running sores, and all skin eruptions. It is noticeable that sufferers from skin

DISEASES

Are nearly always aggravated by intolerable itching, but this quickly subsides on the removal of the disease by B.B.B. Passing on to graver yet prevalent diseases, such as scrofulous swellings, humors and

SCROFULA

We have undoubted proof that from three to six bottles used internally and by outward application (diluted if the skin is broken) to the affected parts, will effect a cure. The great mission of B. B. B. is to regulate the liver, kidneys, bowels and blood, to correct acidity and wrong action of the stomach, and to open the sluice-ways of the system to carry off all clogged and impure secretions, allowing nature thus to aid recovery and remove without fail

BAD BLOOD

Liver complaint, biliousness, dyspepsia, sick headache, dropsy, rheumatism, and every species of disease arising from disordered liver, kidneys, stomach, bowels and blood. We guarantee every bottle of B. B. B. Should any person be dissatisfied after using the first bottle, we will refund the money on application personally or by letter. We will also be glad to send testimonials and information proving the effects of B. B. B in the above named diseases, on application to T. MILBURN & CO., Toronto, Ont.

THE FACT

That AYER'S Sarsaparilla CURES OTHERS of Scrofulous Diseases, Eruptions, Boils, Eczema, Liver and Kidney Diseases, Dyspepsia, Rheumatism, and Catarrh, should be convincing that the same course of treatment WILL CURE YOU. All that has been said of the wonderful cures effected by the use of

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

during the past fifty years, truthfully applies to-day. It is, in every sense, The Superior Medicine. Its curative properties, strength, effect, and flavor are always the same; and for whatever blood diseases AYER'S Sarsaparilla is taken, they yield to this treatment. When you ask for

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

don't be induced to purchase any of the worthless substitutes, which are mostly mixtures of the cheapest ingredients, contain no Sarsaparilla, have no uniform standard of appearance, flavor, or effect, are blood-purifiers in name only, and are offered to you because there is more profit in selling them. Take

INNATE REFINEMENT.

Thoreau, a Celibate and a Lonely Man, Dwells With Admiration Upon the Evidence of This from Language—Types of Ancient and Modern Goddesses.

Language even more than institutions, shows always this recognition of something higher in the feminine nature, even where the actual and visible woman was most despised and wronged. In the new volume of extracts from Thoreau's delightful diaries—the volume called Autumn—we find Thoreau, a celibate and a lonely man, dwelling with admiration upon this evidence from language. "The practice of giving the feminine gender to all ideal excellences personified is a mark of refinement observable in the mythologies of even the most barbarous nations. Glory and victory even are of the feminine gender, but it takes manly qualities to get them. Man is masculine, but his manliness (virtue) feminine. It is the inclination of brute force to moral power." Among the Greeks, while mind was masculine, truth, honor, and country were feminine; and so were strength, force, art. Most of these characteristics extend into modern languages; thus in German, while intellect (der Verstand) is masculine, the soul (die Seele) is feminine; and though country (das Land) has become neuter, yet country in the sense of landscape or neighborhood (die Landschaft, die Gegend) is still feminine. Of course it will not do to press these analogies very far, but there is no doubt that some instinctive feeling of fitness lies behind the gender of words in languages which still retain that very inconvenient and puzzling characteristic.

It is when we pass into the realm of mythology, and see that every system of manifold deities has its goddesses, often equal, sometimes superior to the gods, that we see the instinctive recognition of the feminine element. The mysterious deity who remains in the background, who gave birth to the very gods themselves, and to whom they are to return, is quite as likely to be a woman as a man. Behind the all-powerful Zeus or Jupiter stands his mother, Cybele or Rhea, "the mother of the gods," and though she had a husband, Saturn, yet his worship was local and almost trivial compared to the wide extent and vast dignity of hers. Readers of Keats's "Hyperion" will remember that while Saturn is painted as old, palsied, and powerless, his wife Rhea is still young, beautiful, and immortal. Even among the later Greek deities it was not Zeus, but Here and Athene who could, conjointly, confer valor on men; and they go into battle together, bearing the ægis of supreme power. With Poseidon (or Neptune) to aid them, they almost succeed in putting Zeus himself in chains, and he is delivered with difficulty at the last moment. Indeed, there is no nation of modern times in which the power of women comes so near to equality with that of men as in the councils of the Greek deities. Of the Oriental and French-novel type of womanhood—the weak, debased, sensual being—there is really not a trace to be found there. Aphrodite herself is far above it; and three out of four of the greater goddesses—Here (Juno), Athene (Minerva), and Artemis (Diana) are essentially noble and beautiful ideal figures. It is impossible that the young Greek womanhood should not have been elevated and dignified by the contemplation of types so august.—T. W. Higginson, in Harper's Bazar.

Live Stock Notes.

Have the horse stalls cleaned every day, and do not permit the animals to stand at all in wet manure. If you want sound feet. And without sound feet you cannot have sound horses.

Unless he is tied up to a post, no one ever knew an Indian pony to die of the cold. With his front feet he will paw away the snow to an astonishing depth in order to get at the dry herbage, and by hook or by crook he will manage to come through the winter, despite the wildest prophecies on the part of the uninitiated that he can not live ten days in such a storm.

A Negro superstition.

Among the strange superstitions that affect the southern negroes is a belief that it is dangerous to approach closely to or stay long near a dead body. A colored servant in Washington who went to a funeral was asked on her return if she saw the corpse. She replied: "'Deed, honey, d'you s'pose I'd go near enough to take dat dead man's breff?"

Those who keep their blood in a pure and healthy condition need have no fear of any disease attacking them. It is the enfeebled, run-down system upon which disease fastens its fangs. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills has no equal as a blood builder, nerve tonic, and preventative of disease. Thousands of grateful people testify to the wonderful power of this remedy. Take no sustitute or imitation; 50c. a box or six boxes for $2.50. Dr. Williams' Med. Co., Brockville, Ont.

ACCESSORIES

Some With a History for the Skirt.

The dressing gown of [illegible] has a very full back and is gathered into three rows of cords, through which is drawn a belt of pleated white silk. These folds are joined to a yoke at the top, and the skirt falls full and unconstrained. The gown has very wide fronts, which are gathered in at the neck. Wide cuffs trimmed with lace are added, and these are used for fastening down the front. The square yoke is edged with a bias band of the white silk. The material is white flannel and it makes up very prettily.

All sorts of foolish and unnecessary fancy and footcups are in order for the bride. While lace is put about the neckline which is plain except for being drawn up at intervals and fastened into [illegible] bows of ribbon. The idea now seems to be to show the elegance of material and the fineness of lace, rather than [illegible] what is becoming. Why not let a maid follow on behind, bearing on a pillow yards of goods and samples of trimmings that all the world may see that her mistress has what she should have. The latter then could follow in peace, gowned simply and prettily, as best becomes her. Believe me, the women would look at the burden the maid carried, but the men would look at the mistress who followed.

"Dust ruffles" are now sold by the yard, made of good silk and pinked out at the edge. They are about two inches deep, and sewed on a band of crinoline. They are cheaper than buying and making the ruffles, the silk is a better quality of light silk than the ordinary buyer knows how to select. The adoption of ruffling on the inside of a skirt at the bottom is not an extravagant, but a pretty, tidy and economical fashion. The edges of our skirts used too often to be ugly and soiled.

FLORETTE.

"Ouida" on Weddings.

The caustic "Ouida" relieves her mind in regard to wedding ceremonies thus:

"In all the annals of the social life of the world there has not been anything so atrocious in vulgarity as a fashionable wedding, whether viewed in its greedy pillaging of friends and acquaintances or in its theatrical pomp of costume, of procession and banquet. It is the very apogee of bad taste, incongruity and indecency, from the coarse words of its rites to its sputtering champagne, its unvaried orations and its idiotic expenditure. It is this publicity which is dear to the soul of our Gains and Gaia, for were it not so there would be more special licenses demanded, since they are not so costly that gentle people could not easily afford to have their marriage ceremony as entirely private as they pleased. But they would not feel any pleasure at privacy; they despise it; they are always ready with gag and rouge for the footlights; if they had not an audience the bride and bridegroom would yawn in each other's face."

Will Kill Consumption.

The Norwegian cod is destined to kill consumption. It has always been known that its oil, when properly prepared, contains all the potent elements for rebuilding wasting tissues in the human body. The difficulty has been to converse the energies of the oil in its refining, and this has only been accomplished by the manufacturers of "Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil." All who suffer with lung troubles, and of course all who are threatened with consumption, should take it. In big bottles, 50c. and $1.00, at all Drug Stores,

Beware of Cholera.

The healthy body throws off the germs of cholera therefore wisdom counsels the use of Burdock Blood Bitters this spring to purify the blood, regulate the system, and fortify the body against cholera or other epidemics.

Encouragement for old People.

It may sound queer to talk about curing old people of Kidney and Urinary troubles after they have passed the alloted period of three score years and ten, but the following extraordinary recovery of an old veteran by Menibray's Kidney and Liver Cure, ought to be of great encouragement to old people:—

BELLEVILLE, March 4, 1893.

Peterborough Medicine Company (Limited.)

GENTLEMEN,—I owe a great debt of gratitude to Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure for the prompt and speedy relief which I have received from the use of only one bottle of your great medicine. I have suffered from Kidney and Urinary troubles, inflammation of the neck of the bladder, &c. for many a long day. No one knows better than old people how great a blessing it is to be cured. I doctored a lot, but nothing did me so much good as your cure. I have lived about half a century in Belleville, and will be only to glad to speak a good word in favour of Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure. I can also recommend it for constipation and stomach troubles.

JAMES HAROLD.

If there ever was a specific for any one complaint, then Carter's Little Liver Pills are a specific for sick headache, and every women should know this. Only one pill a dose. Try them.

A Cure for Constipation and Headache.

Dr. Silas Lane, while in the Rocky Mountains, discovered a root that when combined with other herbs, makes an easy and certain cure for constipation. It is in the form of dry roots leaves, and is known as Lane's Family Medicine. It will cure sick-headache in one night. For the blood, liver and kidneys, and for clearing up the complexion it does wonders. Druggists sell it at 50c. a package.

The Power of Nature.

EDUCATION IN ONTARIO.

HAMILTON LEADS IN EXHIBITS FOR THE WORLD'S FAIR.

An Elaborate Arrangement of the Fruits of Labor Among the Rising Generation—Not Ten Per Cent. of the Contributions Can Be Used.

TORONTO, March 29.—Dr. S. P. May and his staff of assistants have been laboring night and day for the past few weeks in getting together the Ontario Educational Department's exhibit for the World's Fair. The great object has been to make the greatest display possible in the least possible space.

Vast quantities of work have been received from all the schools, so much in fact that not 10 per cent. of it can be placed on exhibition. The management, however, being in experienced hands, arrangements have been made to show a great variety of specimens, illustrating Ontario's educational system in the smallest possible limits.

The specimens of writing, arithmetic, commercial work, etc., are neatly bound in volumes with the names of the school on the back of each book. The drawings are placed in covers intact so that the names of the schools and pupils can readily be ascertained. The larger specimens are mounted on maps and placed in winged frames, thus making a good exhibit of them.

The system adopted in arranging the exhibit is different from that used in any similar exhibit which Ontario has yet placed before the public. The arrangement is to show, first, the history and statues of the educational system, which is done by means of large diagrams, reports, etc. This is followed by the text books, which enlist the teachers of the various departments in accomplishing their work.

The philosophical apparatus used in the schools is also exhibited. On account of the limited space it will be impossible to show the school furniture, maps, etc.

The school system is graded as follows: primary, intermediate and higher education, special schools and schools for defective classes.

The work sent in illustrates Kindergarten, Public schools, Separate schools, Normal and Model schools, High schools and Collegiate Institutes, Upper Canada College, School of Pedagogy and the colleges and universities.

The work from the Public Schools will illustrate the advantage of Ontario's school system. It is noticeable, particularly in one section, that the industrial designs which have been sent in for competition for silver medals offered by Warwick & Sons, Copp, Clark & Co. and the Methodist Book Room, are far above the average and away beyond the most sanguine expectations of the Educational Department.

Among the collection from the Roman Catholic Separate schools, the De La Salle Institute makes a large display of work which is really excellent, and which reflects great credit on the Christian Brothers. The work from the schools in charge of the sisters will also compare favorably with that sent from any of the public schools of the province.

Hamilton takes the lead in regard to the exhibits from the entire old province. It illustrates its system of education from pupils of 5 years of age up to those who take the commercial courses or are in attendance at the Collegiate Institutes. No pains have been spared to make the exhibit a first-class one. Photos of all the principal schools are neatly mounted on cards and look very handsome.

In order to illustrate the great value of the school buildings in Canada, Dr. May gives in the catalog the name of the principal, the number of assistants, the number of pupils and the cost of each building.

The work from the Art Schools exemplifies the views of the Educational Department regarding the encouragement of work of a class which is remunerative and also useful for other than ornamental purposes. There are illustrations of industrial designs for various departments of manufactures, drawings for lithography, specimens of carving in wood, and painting on china, baked examples of modelling in clay, plaster casts of modelling in clay, machine drawing, and other practical demonstrations of the commerce of Canada.

The Mechanics' Institutes send in some excellent work, illustrative of mechanical drawing. One example that is particularly worthy of mention is a model of a steamboat for navigating the new St. Lawrence Canals, which are to be completed in 1896. The model was designed and made by Mr. Thomas Brian and the drawings of hull and engine by Mr. John Dix, both members of the Garden Island Mechanics' Institute.

The exhibit of the universities and colleges consists mainly in sundry large photos of buildings, reports, calendars, etc.

Dr. May has prepared several large charts illustrative of the progress of education in the public schools to the universities during the past several decades, which are of a highly interesting nature and which will be embodied in the catalog.

A collection of illustrations from the industrial departments of the Deaf and Dumb Institution of Belleville shows the result of the work of the pupils in the various departments. The arts department display from this institution, consisting of sketches in crayons and good work in oils and water-colors, reflects great credit on the management, as does the neat and newsy little paper, which is set up and run off by the pupils.

The Asylum for the Blind at Brantford and the Agricultural College at Guelph have also sent in most creditable displays.

Taken altogether, the entire exhibit is calculated to bring Ontario up to the front in regard to educational matters, and Dr. May is certain that she will reflect as much credit upon herself as she has done on all other occasions.

Caproni Won by 500 to 306.

TORONTO, March 29.—J. W. Caproni of Galt and George Sutton, Toronto, met for the third time at billiards and the second time at the balk line game last night. Unlike the two preceding contests, the Galt man won yesterday's game rather handily. Sutton scarcely showed his true form any time during the evening and to his poor play, rather than his opponent's superior work, was due the result.

Honduras' President Resigns.

NEW ORLEANS, La., March 29.—The steamship Breakwater arrived from Honduras last night. She reports that President Leiva has resigned and ex-President Bograne has assumed charge of the Government.

A Famous General Dead.

VIENNA, March 29.—Baron Guylia, whom Moltke once described as the best cavalry general in Europe, died last night.

The Niagara Central.

HAMILTON, March 29.—The city will vote on April 26 on a bylaw to grant a $125,000 bonus to the Niagara Central Railway.

Suing the Government.

FALL RIVER, Mass., March 29.—Maxime Dupont of this city has instructed his attorneys to bring action against the Canadian Government for $100,000 damages for false arrest. He was arrested here on Jan. 3 accused of highway robbery in Canada, but it being proved that he had not left this city for four years, he was acquitted.

Choctaw Fight Reported.

FORT SMITH, Ark., March 29.—It is reported here that a battle took place between Choctaw factions at Antler, I.T., yesterday and 20 men were killed.

What Enterprise Does.

CHICAGO, March 29.—The packing firm of Swift & Co. yesterday increased its capital stock from $7,000,000 to $15,000,000. Thirty years ago the business consisted of a little butcher shop at Cape Cod, with one wagon.

afresh. Dr. Pease amputated an inch of the bone, and it healed. Four years later it once more opened, and for eight years how I suffered! I do not believe it possible for a human being to suffer worse agony. During this time I had to go on crutches, being unable to wear a wooden leg. Whenever possible I relieved my sufferings by taking opiate, but when I was obliged to go without it, I suffered fearfully and thought I should go crazy. I tried every thing I could get with my limited means. Physicians said I would never be any better. Finally my and it broke out all over my face and on some parts of my body so that my face is all covered with scars now. One day I read of what Hood's Sarsaparilla would do. The first dollar I got I sent and bought a bottle and began taking it. A week or two later, my wife in dressing my leg, said it seemed to be improving, and after taking a few months, thank God (and I say it reverently), the sores all over my body had healed, and now, four years later, have never shown any sign of reappearing." GEORGE M. HAMMOND, 210 Magnolia Street, Syracuse, N. Y.

Commander of Root Post, G. A. R., himself a one armed veteran, fully confirms Mr. Hammond's statement, and J. L. Belden, the pharmacist, also endorses it.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

FRANCO-CANADIAN TREATY NOT TO BE RATIFIED.

Mr. Mcearthy Has Now No Opportunity To Bring Up His Dual Language Bill—It Is Pretty Well Settled That the House Will Prorogue On Saturday Next.

OTTAWA, March 30.—The first of the morning sessions of the House opened at 11 yesterday and lasted until 1, very nearly the whole time being passed in supply.

Hon. Mr. Foster stated in reply to Mr. Laurier's daily question about the French Treaty that the Government had this morning received a long despatch on the subject, which was being transcribed, and he may have something to say about it later.

Mr. McCarthy asked if the Government proposed to go on with the Northwest Territories Act on the order paper, and Hon. Mr. Foster replied that it was not yet finally decided whether or not the bill would be gone on with. This is the act to which Mr. McCarthy is said to intend proposing an amendment with respect to dual language. It is not very likely the bill will be brought up.

While the militia items were under discussion Mr. Mulock once more brought to the attention of the House the case of Sergeant Slater of Toronto, which was fully ventilated and satisfactorily disposed of last session. He asked that the new Minister of militia should look into the matter, as in his opinion Sergeant Slater had not been well used by the department.

Col. Denison said that the charges mentioned by Mr. Mulock were directed against him. The man Slater was a crank whose mind was weakened by the excessive use of intoxicating liquor. He reported almost everybody with whom he came in contact. He reported Mr. Mulock to the House. He reported Mr. Bigelow to the Law Society, and he had reported the Postmaster General. It was unfair for members of the Opposition to be imposing upon the weak mind of this man.

Mr. Cockburn did not know whether it was because there was an affinity between cranks or not that Mr. Mulock had taken up this man's case.

Hon. Mr. Patterson said he would enquire into the whole correspondence.

On the items for Indian affairs, Mr. Mills referred to the overdrafts on Indian trust and other Indian funds. The Indian schools fund was withdrawn to the extent of $212,000, Indian land management, $381,000, and the Quebec Indian fund, $164,000. The last annual report of the department did not explain this matter. The three funds had been overdrawn to the extent of $956,491. He held that the monies were expended for other than the purposes for which they were intended. Altogether the funds now amounted to $389,000, while the overdraft was nearly a million dollars.

Mr. Daly denied that the Indian annuities had been interfered with. The overdrafts in the Quebec fund, the school management fund and land management fund were reported upon by a sub-committee of council. It was recommended to reduce the interest from 4 to 3½ per cent on the three funds and in this way a saving of $9300 would be made annually and the debt in the course of time would be done away with.

Mr. Foster admitted that the capital of the Indian land fund had been unpaid to make up deficiencies between the income from the fund and the amounts expended every year, but claimed that the money had been expended for the benefit of the Indians.

The House adjourned at 1 o'clock to meet at 3.

At the afternoon session the Indian Department estimates were concluded and the Customs and Inland Revenue estimates passed.

The evening session was also given up to supply.

When the House adjourned at 1.40 yesterday supply was all through, and Mr. Foster, in reply to Mr. Laurier, said there was nothing in the way of prorogation on Saturday.

The Government Northwest Bill will not come up this session and consequently Mr. McCarthy will have difficulty in raising the school question.

The Government will not ask for the ratification of the French treaty.

D'Alton McCarthy asked Mr. Foster, on going into supply this morning, if the Government would bring on their Northwest bill (now before the Senate) this session.

Mr. Foster promised an answer later on, but up to midnight no answer was given.

The Government bill in question is a simple and inoffensive one, but Mr. McCarthy had given notice that he would move when it came up to add clauses to it, giving to the Northwest provinces the right to regulate their own educational affairs irrespective of Dominion interference, and to abolish the dual language clause. Mr. McCarthy's idea was that if the Government brought on their bill he would content himself with amending it, if they did not bring it on, then he would be free to move a resolution to the same effect as a motion of want of confidence in the Government on going into supply. But the House up to midnight was still in supply and the prospect was that it would continue in supply until all the estimates, supplementary included, were passed.

Under these circumstances it was likely that Mr. McCarthy would not reach a point where he could raise the question. There was a struggle on Mr. McCarthy's part to get the question up, and the Government had to head him off. The Government doubtless were of opinion that Mr. McCarthy was seeking an unfair advantage at the tail of the session while he had, as a matter of fact, neglected to bring the question up earlier in the session when the opportunity was offered him.

Mr. Denison introduced a bill for Mr. McCarthy on Feb. 14, which also proposed the same amendments, and four weeks ago, when both Sir John Thompson and Mr. McCarthy were in the House, the Government cleared the paper in order to allow the bill to come up, but when the clerk called it, Mr. McCarthy asked that it be allowed to stand, and he thus avoided bringing up the question so that a fair discussion could be had.

Hon. Clarke Wallace is coming in for a great deal of brotherly praise just now from the various district Orange lodges. Last night the district lodge of Ottawa and Montreal each passed complimentary resolutions expressing confidence in the Grand Master and approving his course. To-day he received the following cable message from the Ulster Conservative League:

BELFAST, March 29.

N. C. Wallace, Ottawa:

Ulster Conservative League tenders you their earnest thanks for your courageous support of Ulster Loyalists.

A momentary flurry was caused here about midday by the starting of a rumor that Sir John Thompson had been struck by paralysis in Paris. The rumor could not for some time be traced to any definite source, but was finally found to have originated, so far as known here, in a despatch from Toronto to the Montreal Witness. Enquiry quickly showed that there was not the slightest foundation for the rumor, as cable messages dated to-day and signed by Sir John were received shortly after the rumor was started. A large number of enquiries as to the truth of the story were received from Montreal and Toronto; so the rumor must have been current in those cities.

There were a couple of presentations down in the lower flat to-night, one to Mr. Carran of a case of pipes, and another of a gold watch and chain to Mr. George Desjardins, now Clerk of the Quebec Legislature, by his former colleagues in the Dominion Commons.

D. A. ROBSON CASE.

No Evidence to Convict Him on the Charge of Forgery.

MILTON, March 30.—D. A. Robson was tried before Judge Snider yesterday on the charge of forging a note for $300, signed by John Dixon and Matilda Dixon, and sold by Robson to William McClelland, farmer of Trafalgar Township. The evidence was almost identical with that given at Robson's trial some time ago for forging a similar note which he sold to Robert J. Campbell of Trafalgar, and reported fully in The World.

The only new features of any consequence was the evidence of a writing expert, Connor O'Dea of Toronto, who was called on behalf of the Crown and swore that the signature John Dixon affixed to the note was a forgery, but that the signature of Matilda Dixon was in the same hand-writing as specimens exhibited in Court, which were admitted to be Mrs. Dixon's.

The judge discharged the prisoner and said that the evidence was not strong enough to warrant a conviction. The defence was not called upon.

On the charge of obtaining money under false pretenses on the Campbell note, Robson's counsel, Mr. Fullerton of Toronto, announced that the prisoner would, when arraigned, elect to be tried by a jury. Robson will be arraigned on this charge to-morrow and will be tried at the coming County Court sessions in July.

THE SHEPHARD CASE.

The Three Principals Fined $100 Each, and Have Paid It.

MONTREAL, March 30.—The trial of the two Shephards and their manager, Hamilton, for conspiracy and fraud in connection with their famous employment agency had a very abrupt ending yesterday, when the trial was resumed before Judge Taschereau in the Court of Queen's Bench, this afternoon.

The prisoners changed their pleas of "not guilty" to "guilty," and asked for the mercy of the court.

The judge fined them $100 each, with the alternative of six months' in jail at hard labor. The fines were paid and the prisoners discharged.

There is a good deal of feeling over the result, as the sentence is not regarded as heavy enough.

IT MAY BE FALSE.

A Bottle Found Telling That the Narcnic Has Gone to the Bottom.

NEW YORK, March 30.—A special to The Sun from Norfolk Va., says: William Johnson, the winter watchman at Ocean View, Va., a summer resort near the mouth of Chesapeake Bay, yesterday picked up on the beach at that place a champagne bottle with several corks tied about its neck.

In the bottle was a letter giving alleged information of the sinking of the White Star steamer Naronic. The letter was:

3.10 a.m., February 19, S.S. Naronic, White Star line, at sea.—To who picks this up: Report when you find this to our agents if not heard of before that our ship is fast sinking beneath the waves and it is such a storm that we can never live in the small boats,

One boat has already gone with her human cargo below. God bless all of us live through this. We were struck by an iceberg in a blinding snow storm and floated two hours. Now it's 3.20 a.m. by my watch and the great ship is deck level with the sea. Report to the agents at Broadway, New York, M. Kersey & Co. Goodbye all. John Osler, cattleman.

A HERO DEAD.

William Potts, Who Shot the Rapids, Died from the Effects of a Cold.

BUFFALO, March 30.—William Potts, the hero of the Niagara Rapids, where Capt. Webb lost his life, was buried in Forest Lawn Cemetery yesterday. During a storm on the lakes a year ago Potts, with several other men, pulled to the rescue of some sailors who were on a wrecked schooner. The seamen were saved, but Potts caught a cold from which he never recovered. It terminated in a pulmonary ailment and ended his life last Saturday. In the spring of 1888 the feat of shooting the Whirlpool rapids became a fad with several men who were not afraid to risk their lives. Potts was one of them. He built a cigar-shaped barrel boat and made the trip through the rapids successfully. A month later he induced his sister-in-law to accompany him through the dangerous eddies, and the trip was looked upon as marvelous. The pair made a small fortune on the museum stage.

Some Accidents Frequent.

NEW YORK, March 30.—The steamer Chester has arrived off Fire Island with the steamer Stranesburg in tow. The Stranesburg had her screw shaft carried away at sea.

A Ship On Fire.

NEW YORK, March 30.—The steamer Venango from Hamburg, which arrived last night, had a narrow escape from destruction by fire during the voyage. On the night of the 21st, during a furious gale and high sea, a hanging lamp in the saloon broke from its fastenings, falling to the floor, where it exploded and the whole cabin became immediately one mass of flames. Capt. Wilson, who was asleep in his room forward of the saloon, was awakened by the intense heat and smoke, and with great difficulty reached the deck and raised an alarm. All hands rushed aft and with much difficulty subdued the flames. The cabin was ruined.

MONTY KERTLAND'S STATE.

HIS FRIENDS HAVE NO CLUE TO HIS WHEREABOUTS.

The Assignee Have Begun Yet Published Anything the Books—Accountants Employed Considered Pending the Conclusion of the Investigation.

TORONTO, March 30.—Street rumor had it yesterday afternoon that Monty Kertland, the missing cashier of the Imperial Loan & Investment Co., had defaulted. Various amounts were mentioned, some making the amount away up in the thousands. But this is probably an exaggeration, even if there is a shortage, which none of the directors as yet admit.

The latest sensation in the matter was the suspension of James B. Morrison, accountant of the company, by the president, Dr. Thorburn.

Mr. E. H. Kertland was seen last night with reference to the suspension. "Yes," he said, "we have suspended Mr. Morrison and have advertised for a new bookkeeper. It is probable that his dismissal will be permanent." When pressed for his reasons for discharging Morrison he could give no other answer than that his work was not satisfactory.

"We have no information with respect to my son's whereabouts, and cannot speak of any shortages until the expert now engaged has finished his examination of the books."

Dr. Thorburn was also interviewed and stated that the matter had assumed so grave an aspect that it was considered wise to suspend Mr. Morrison, pending a thorough scrutiny of the books. As to the permanency of his dismissal Dr. Thorburn had no knowledge. "Of course," said he, "if Mr. Kertland says so, it is probably true."

Charles Dalton is one of the directors of the company. He was seen by a World reporter last night. "This is a special investigation of Mr. Morrison's books. The auditors will be through the books in a couple of days. The deposit book is the only one left to be examined, and its correspondence with the others will reveal the shortage, if any. Of course, if Mr. Kertland had not disappeared there would have been no examination of the accountant's books other than the annual one by the auditors."

OPENING OF NAVIGATION.

The Ice Thicker Than Any Previous Season for Fifty Years.

TORONTO, March 30.—Esplanade Constable Williams says that it will be mid-April before the ice breaks up and begins to make its way out into the lake. "The ice this year formed quickly and firmly, and is now as thick as ever it was. Two feet six inches is its average all over the bay, and some of the places out in Block House Bay are three feet in thickness. The ice does not disappear so quickly now. The bay, as in former times, is practically land locked. The piers at the eastern and western ends shut out the sun which accordingly fails to get its work in on the ice. The sun has more effect on the ice than rain, honey combing it, and making it soft.

"Talk about thick ice," said Constable Williams, warming to his subject, "I remember when the bay was surrounded by ice that the artillery used to practice out there, unlimbering their cannons and going through all the necessary manoeuvres. I have seen them cutting out vessels in May. Man and boy, I have known this bay for 50 years and never in my experience have I known thicker and better ice than this year.

"You want to know about floaters? Well, during the past year we have raised 25, 10 more than the average number. Those that are drowned in the latter part of the season generally come to the top in the spring. The cold and ice have a preservative effect, and bodies coming up in the spring are not so badly decomposed as one might imagine. But when exposed to the air they decompose more rapidly than those drowned in summer. Of course, as you know, it is always the decomposition that brings them to the surface.

There is only one floater that we have not found this year and that is the body of Sam Durnan. Of course he may make his appearance when the ice breaks up, but if my surmise is true poor Sam's corpse is now tossing about the sport of wind and waves in the middle of the lake. The current most probably carried him through the western gap and that is the last of him. His body had ample time to rise before the ice formed. This has been an exceptional year. Nobody lost his life through the ice this season. The nearest approach to it was that ice boat accident when the six sports got so good a ducking. The reason of this absence of fatalities is that the ice formed thickly from the first and has remained so all along. There were no air holes to speak of and its the air holes that catch the unwary.

Fire In Peterboro.

PETERBORO, Ont., March 30.—A destructive fire occurred last night about 12 o'clock in rear of the residences on London, Harvey and Waterford-streets. The fire was no doubt incendiary. It spread from Mr. McKee's barn to Mr. Walton's stable and shed owned by Mr. R. Latimer and from there to Mr. George McWilliams' barn and sheds. The hay and grain and some of the contents of the barns were destroyed, but all the animals and other contents were saved.

Mr. McWilliams' loss is about $300; insurance $300. Mr. Latimer had $200 insurance on his barn, but Mr. Walton's will be a total loss on contents. Mr. McKee's loss will be covered by insurance.

Fire In Minnedosa.

WINNIPEG, March 30.—The residence of James Stewart, lawyer of Minnedosa, was totally destroyed by fire yesterday. Loss, $5000.

Bismarck Said To Be Dying.

NEW YORK, March 30.—Prince Bismarck, the famous "Iron Chancellor" of the German Empire, is very near death, according to a private cablegram received in this city last night. The information conveyed in the cablegram is apparently authentic in every respect.

The gentleman who received this alarming news, Dr. Dorn, was for many years an aide-de-camp on Count Von Moltke's staff.

Solicitor-General Maxwell.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—President Cleveland has tendered the office of Solicitor-General to Mr. Lawrence Maxwell of Cincinnati. Mr. Maxwell is a prominent lawyer of Ohio, but has not taken an active part in politics. Indeed so little has he had to do with it that this fact has caused comment among Ohioans who have heard of the tender to him.

LAKEFIELD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

A special meeting of the Lakefield school board will be held in the town hall on Friday evening, the 31st.

A regular communication of Clementi Lodge No. 313, A.F. & A.M., will be held in the Masonic Hall on Tuesday evening, April 4th. Second and third degree work.

The first maple syrup of the season has made its appearance in the village and is retailed at $1.25 per gallon. Some offered smacks more of "Redpath's" common brown sugar than the juice of the maple.

Report has it that a new race course is to be laid out in the village. If such proves to be the case, our sports can get their fast trotters and colts into shape to "whip all creation."

The assessor has completed his work and informed your correspondent that there are only now four or five empty houses in the village, and some of them are engaged. The population will be between one hundred and one hundred and fifty more than at this date last year.

The close season for all fur bearing animals begins next Saturday, on and after which date it is illegal to take or kill mink, otter, muskrat, etc., until the 1st of the following November.

The excitement on school matters which is running very high in our usually quiet village seems to have spread to our village constable who is seriously thinking of asking the reeve to provide him with a couple of assistants for next Friday evening.

When the new canoe factory was destroyed by fire a short time ago Mr. A. J. Strickland had seven new canoes just finished for the World's Fair in Chicago. Although greatly cast down at the loss he was determined to be represented, so at once secured another shop and with his staff of experienced workmen set to work to repair the loss. The result is five beauties, which received their last coat of varnish on Monday, and will be shipped the end of this week to their destination. Mr. Strickland deserves credit for the energy he has shown in having his work and Lakefield represented.

We regret to have to record the death of one of our old residents in the person of Mrs. Elizabeth Ray, who passed to her long home on Sunday morning. The deceased lady resided for many years about one mile from the village, on the Peterborough road, and on the death of her husband, the late John Ray, moved into the village and has since resided here. The funeral took place on Tuesday afternoon, and was largely attended. The stores on Queen street were closed as the cortege passed as a mark of respect to one who was so long and favourably known.

In the last issue of our village paper, the News, is a letter signed "Observant Ratepayer," or more properly "School Trustee," in which he tries to justify the action of the board at their last meeting in deciding to have Mr. Evans, the headmaster, take up 3rd class work. The reasons offered are very lame, and have partially been answered by your correspondent, "A Petitioner," for whose letter I am credited wrongly, but with which I agree and in which opinion we are supported by a large majority of the ratepayers. As will be seen in the memorial to be presented to the board at their special meeting on Friday evening. The matter was first brought up by a trustee who had "an axe to grind" and who also wanted an addition of two rooms built to the brick school on the score of economy, as it would save the rent of the present ward school, which actually does not cost the village a cent. "Observant Ratepayer" claims Mr. Evans' room is overcrowded, yet they permit a number of pupils from Smith, etc., to attend, paying a small sum during the time of their attendance only, while we ratepayers have to keep up the entire school from year to year to year and then have our children forced into lower rooms to make way for the transient outside scholars, and that is justice!

"Ratepayer" and his friends claim that Miss Duff can teach the class that will be put back into her room just as well as the head master. I grant she is competent to do so, but can she teach over fifty pupils as well as she can now teach the forty-four she is claimed to have? Miss Duff has now all she can do justice to, so have the others, and the lower rooms will soon have a larger attendance as the weather gets warmer and many kept at home during the winter will be in attendance.

"Ratepayer" and his few supporters claim it is not discouraging to the children to be put back, as it is only in name! Ask the children and 9 out of 10 will tell you that they are working to get promoted to the "next room" (not to a higher book as they look at it.) The child in the ward school looks forward to promotion to the brick school, the one in Miss Kennedy's room for the time when he or she will go to Miss Buchanan's, and so on. Ask the parents of the bitter tears shed by those who now think they have to go back to the rooms they worked so hard to leave, and then say the children are not discouraged. With Mr. "Ratepayer" it is the old cry of the 'poor man's child." Will he tell us how many poor parents of the 17 3-class pupils are the children of working men or of men who are not just as well able to send their child to the high school as many who have already done so in this village.

There are other good reasons that the grading in the school should remain as it is at present and that the 3rd class work should not be taken up at present, but I will leave the subject and wait and see what action the board will take on the memorial to be presented. Like your correspondent "Petitioner," I hope the members of the board will reconsider the matter and accede to the wishes of such a large majority of the ratepayers. They can sink their own personal feelings on the subject without any loss of dignity or self respect on their part, and when the day comes when it is felt that we can afford another teacher or can establish a high school, I am certain they will not find our citizens backward in extending to them all the support and encouragement they may require.

MOUNT PLEASANT.

From Our Own Correspondent.

It is our sad duty to chronicle the early demise of Flora Sanderson. Her remains were interred in the Little Lake Cemetery at Peterborough on Tuesday of last week Her mother, sister and friends have the heartfelt sympathy of the village and community in their sad bereavement

The Mount Pleasant public school had a concert on Wednesday of last week. The event was a pleasing one and Mr. J. D. Denny and assistants are to be congratulated on their provision of such an entertaining evening. Mr. James McLean officiated as chairman.

Another lamentable event has occurred in the death of Mrs. Robt. Mills. Her remains were interred on Wednesday last in Gardiner's cemetery. A large concourse of friends and relatives paid their last respects to deceased. The family and friends have the deepest sympathy of all in their time of sorrow.

Prof. Brush showed his trained horses on Thursday night last.

Mrs. John Best, of Peterborough, is visiting friends here.

the system after "La Grippe," pneumonia, fevers, and other prostrating acute diseases; to build up needed flesh and strength, and to restore health and vigor when you feel "run down" and used-up, the best thing in the world is Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It promotes all the bodily functions, rouses every organ into healthful action, purifies and enriches the blood, and through it cleanses, repairs, and invigorates the entire system.

For the most stubborn Scrofulous, Skin or Scalp Diseases, Dyspepsia, Biliousness, and kindred ailments, the "Discovery" is the only remedy that's guaranteed. If it doesn't benefit or cure, you have your money back.

Can you think of anything more convincing than the promise that is made by the proprietors of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy? It is this: "If we can't cure your Catarrh we'll pay you $500 in cash."

For Nettle Rash, Summer Heat and general toilet purposes, use Low's Sulphur Soap.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.

LOOK AT THE SIZE of the ordinary pill. Think of all the trouble and disturbance it causes you. Wouldn't you welcome something easier to take, and easier in its ways, if at the same time it did you more good? That is the case with Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They're the smallest in size, the mildest in action, but the most thorough and far-reaching in results. They follow nature's methods, and they give help that lasts. Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, Sick and Bilious Headaches, and all derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels are promptly relieved and permanently cured.

"If we can't cure your Catarrh, no matter how bad your case or of how long standing, we'll pay you $500 in cash." That is what is promised by the proprietors of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. Doesn't it prove, better than any words could, that this is a remedy that cures Catarrh? Costs only 50 cents.

YES, IT SAVES BABIES' LIVES!

Another Happy Mother!

It would require a good sized volume to give in extenso all the letters that come in from day to day in favour of that great infant nourisher, Lactated Food.

To-day we publish a few extracts from a letter written by a dear mother residing on Jarvis street in the city of Toronto. The mother says, "When my baby boy was two months old I found that I could not continue nursing him from the breast. Upon the advice of my physician I commenced to feed my baby with Lactated Food. The results were entirely satisfactory; my boy grew fat and strong, and was always bright and happy; he slept well, and has not been sick an hour since he has been taking your Food. I can truly say that Lactated Food preserved my baby's life."

The words of this grateful and happy mother should influence all mothers that have babies that are just struggling for life and existence. Give them at once the great Food that sustains life, and that makes the baby strong and vigorous. Use Lactated Food for baby and you will have a blooming flower of joy and gladness in the home.

Masonic Matters.

Last evening a joint meeting of Corinthian Lodge, No. 101, and Peterborough Lodge, No. 155, A. F. and A. M., was held, with a large attendance. Visiting brethren were present from Port Hope, Lakefield and other places. The occasion was the visit of R. W. Bro. W. J. Robertson, D. D. G. M., Ontario District A.F. and A. M., of Port Hope. The D.D.G.M. during the evening gave a splendid address, thanking the Masons of Peterborough for their cordial reception. He also spoke of the benefits and progress of Masonry, and referred to the excellent standing of the craft in Peterborough. At the close supper was served in the capacious dining room of the lodge and a very pleasant and profitable evening spent generally.

Taxpayers of Peterborough!

Those of you who are patriotic enough to pay 16 mills on the $ for the sake of the progress of the town, are doubtless human enough to get off with ten mills, if you could do so. On the same principle you do not wish to pay 15 cents for Easter Beef when you can get it at MORRIS & HOWDEN'S for 10 cents, and the choicest cuts too, off the primest Easter beef. Five cents a pound saved on a 10-lb. roast is 50 cents. This saving will amount to enough to pay your taxes, and you needn't much care whether the rate is 16 or 26 mills on the dollar. Particularly complete and extensive preparations have been made by MORRIS & HOWDEN for Easter Saturday. Magnificent stock of meats of every description. On Easter Saturday there comes in force reduced prices and the cash system. Don't neglect to pay us a visit.

J. J. Howden Preparing for Easter.

In anticipation of a large increase of business at Easter, Mr. J. J. Howden has purchased a carload of prime cattle to be slaughtered for his Easter trade. These cattle were secured in one of the best markets for cash, and just in the nick of time, when prices were falling. It is worthy of note that Mr. Howden's close buying will materially assist him in reducing the price of his prime cuts to 10c per lb., in order to boom the cash system, which he is adopting on and after Easter Saturday, April 1st. dtf

Preparing Specifications for the Electric Road.

Mr. Russel, engineer for the Canadian General Electric Company is in town, and with a couple of assistants was busily engaged this morning in measuring the various lines of the road and mapping out the different routes. Tenders will then be advertised for the laying of the rails, construction, etc., the Canadian Company furnishing all the supplies.

St. Luke's Church Chimes.

There was a fair attendance at the regular Wednesday evening Lenten service in St. Luke's church last evening. The rector, Rev. Mr. Symmonds gave an address on "Our Lord before Pilot," basing his remarks on the text, Mark 15th chapter and 1st verse.

To-morrow being Good Friday there will be morning prayer at 10.30 o'clock, and at 7.30 o'clock, evening prayer and sermon.

Easter Sunday special music will be provided, and at three o'clock there will be a children's service. The church will be becomingly decorated with flowers.

Appointed Organist of St. Paul's Church.

The session of St. Paul's church met last evening and adopted the report of the joint committee of Board of Managers and the session recommending that Mr. John Crane be appointed organist and choirmaster of the church, Mr. Arlidge, who sometime ago removed to Toronto, having tendered his resignation. The appointment of Mr. Crane is regarded by all as a popular one. Mr. Crane some two years ago filled the position of organist for several months and gave good satisfaction. He is a capable, painstaking and obliging musician, and is thoroughly qualified to fulfill his new position with credit to himself and St. Paul's church.

New Officers Elected for the Sunday School.

At the close of the prayer meeting last evening, a meeting of the teachers and officers of the George street church Sunday school was held to discuss important business. The pastor, Rev. Joseph Locke occupied the chair. In the absence of the secretary, Miss Belle Griffith, acted as secretary, (pro tem.) After the minutes of the last meeting had been read and approved the appointment to the several vacancies on the school staff of officers took place as follows:—

Assistant Superintendant,—Mr. John Jeffries, B. A.
Secretary,—Mr. S. R. Armstrong.
Treasurer,—Mr. John R. Cobb.

Several other items of minor importance were then disposed of, after which the meeting closed with prayer by the pastor.

of buyers that are taking advantage of the 30 days clearing sale of stoves, tinware, cutlery, paints, lamp goods and housefurnishing ware at W. G. Bain & Co's. old stand, Crystal Block, George street? People are enquiring for and getting slices of the great bargains now so plentifully offered at this sale. The great attraction opened with a big attendance and the tidings has already spread throughout the district of the low prices on genuine seasonable goods for the various lines now so much needed. The knife has been put into prices with a vengeance, and this big sale of the season seems to have been just the opportunity waited for by housekeepers and others. Now's your time to pick a stove, a set of granite or white ware, a clean new lot of tinware supplies, a fine new set of cutlery, spoons and table ware, or a handsome hanging lamp at your own price. If you are going to paint this spring you can't buy your colors cheaper than at this sale. Tin and copper ware in pyramids at rock bottom prices. READY FOR THE GREEN GRASS.

The Lacrosse Club Re-Organize for the Season and Elect an Efficient Body of Officers.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Lacrosse Club was held last evening in the rooms over the Palace Restaurant. There was a large attendance of the lovers of Canada's National Game, and the interest and enthusiasm shown throughout the proceedings were encouraging. Mr. Jos. Begley occupied the chair, and in a few words opened the meeting for business. After some desultory talk, it was resolved that the junior and senior clubs should amalgamate this year and that the club should be known at the Peterborough Lacrosse Club. A number of the best players of both the seniors and juniors of last year have left town since the lacrosse season, but there still remains much first-class material in Peterborough that will undoubtedly develop into one of the foremost and best conducted lacrosse aggregations in the Province. The Peterboroughs had a signally brilliant record of victories over neighbouring clubs last year, especially the juniors, who shone out pre-eminently. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Hon. Pres.—H. LeBrun.
Pres.—W. A. Sanderson.
Hon. Vice-Pres.—E. B. Loucks.
Vice-Pres.—W. E. Lech.
Captain—Joseph Begley.
Sec.-Treas.—J. T. McCabe.
Committee—E. Wasson, J. McDonough, F. Adams and J. Mein.

W. A. Sanderson and W. E. Lech were elected directors to the P. A. A. A. The club will not join the Canadian Lacrosse Association but will remain an independent organization. Practice will be commenced as soon as the season will permit, and the secretary is open to receive challenges.

Mr. S. G. Derry

Widely known as proprietor of Derry's Waterproof Harness Oil, tells below of his terrible sufferings from Eczema and his cure by

HOOD'S Sarsaparilla

"Gentlemen: Fifteen years ago I had an attack of inflammatory rheumatism, which was followed by eczema or salt rheum, breaking out on my right leg. The humor spread all over my legs, back and arms,

A Foul Mass of Sores, swollen and itching terribly, causing intense pain if the skin was broken by scratching, and discharging constantly. It is impossible to describe my suffering in those years of agony and torture. I spent in futile efforts to get well, and was discouraged and ready to die. At this time I was unable to lie down in bed, had to sit up all the time, and was unable to walk without crutches. I had to hold my arms away from my body, and had to have my arms, back and legs bandaged by my faithful wife twice a day. "Finally a friend who was visiting at our house, urged me to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. I began by taking half a teaspoonful. My

Thousands of Dollars

Stomach Was All Out of Order

But the medicine soon corrected this, and in six weeks I could see a change in the condition of the humor which nearly covered my body. It was driven to the surface by the Sarsaparilla, the sores soon healed, and the scales fell off. I was soon able to give up bandages and crutches, and a happy man I was. I had been taking Hood's Sarsaparilla for seven months; and since that time, nearly two years, I have worn no bandages whatever and my legs and arms are sound and well.

The Delight

of myself and wife at my recovery it is impossible to tell. To all my business friends in Boston and over the country, I recommend from personal experience." S. G. DERRY, 45 Bradford street, Providence, R. I.

THE "COMET" FOR 1893

is as far ahead in the field of Pneumatic Bicycles as a buggy is compared with a farm waggon. The COMET easily wins every time, and if you want to ride the boss 'cycle, you must have the COMET and no other.

The COMET PNEUMATIC BICYCLE gets there every time for durability, comfort, style and easy-going—that's beyond dispute. Its Canadian record is away up, for, among the members of the Century Road Club who rode their century during the past season, more were mounted on COMETS than on all other makes of wheels put together.

The COMET for 1893 is built in three styles, viz: Light Roadster, Road Scorcher and Track Racer, the heaviest of which does not weigh over 35 pounds. Further information on application to

A Word About Millinery.

THE gush of the moment anent the opening is over. The verdict of all is that WE LEAD IN STYLE, ASSORTMENT AND LOW PRICES. The department is down to hard work and solid business. We are now anxious that your orders should have that careful attention to nicety of detail, and that punctuality in execution which are so essential a part of a well managed department.

May we ask our patrons to kindly give us what assistance they can in these last named particulars, by giving in their orders as early as possible in the week. The workers can do just so much and do it well. PROPER TIME TO EXECUTE is an important request in filling orders. Needless to say that the stock is being supplemented from day to day with leading novelties.

Does the DRESS question loom up? When doesn't it? The great outflow from this department is at flood time, comprising all grades of seasonable stuff, from the modest All Wool goods at 15c., to the high class exclusive Novelties. Our BLACK GOODS this season are more than usually comprehensive.

MANTLES

Years of experience as to the tastes of a community, intimate knowledge of the first and best sources of supply, generous provision so as to suit all tastes and pockets, combined with that indefinable intuition as to what is the correct thing—these, and more, are what are required in the management of a MANTLE DEPARTMENT, in order that it should be a success. These qualifications, we believe, are possessed by us in our knowledge of the markets and in the capacity of our competent staff. Our MANTLES this season are right in Style, Value and Price. We shall be pleased to show them to you.

PRESBYTERY OF PETERBOROUGH

Resolutions on Temperance.

At a recent meeting of the Presbytery of Peterborough, the report on Temperance was presented by the Rev. Mr. Sutherland, Warkworth, convenor of the Presbytery's committee on Temperance. The following recommendations contained therein were unanimously adopted:

1. That the faithful and fearless preaching and teaching all the truths of Scripture on the subject of Temperance be enjoined; that in combatting the evils of intemperance Christ and His gospel be conspicuously kept in the foreground as the sole refuge for perishing men, as the sovereign remedy for every ill, and as the only Guide to true character; and that earnest efforts be made by Christian love, moral suasion and legal restraint to rescue and save the intemperate.

2. That the Bible be used as the best text book for instilling the principles of temperance, and that care be taken in our homes and schools for the memorizing of passages bearing on the subject.

3. That parents be exhorted to exercise vigilant oversight over their children so as to prevent their loitering near hotels, or forming loose companionships, and that care be taken to make home life attractive so as to remove temptations to form associations that are beyond the parental control.

4. That the plan of organization and of pledge-signing recommended by the church be adopted, as far as practicable, in all our congregations and Sabbath schools.

5. That until Prohibition be secured, the fullest advantage be taken of every prohibitory feature of the legislative measures in operation, such as reducing the hours for the sale of liquor, the closing of hotels and liquor stores, where possible, and so hedging in the traffic as to promote public morality and domestic peace.

6. That we rejoice in tokens of decrease in intemperanc, and that we urge upon our people to use all Scriptural, constitutional and righteous means to work for the entire abolition of the evil.

The pleasant effect and the perfect safety with which ladies may use the liquid fruit laxitive, Syrup of Figs, under all conditions make it their favourite remedy. It is pleasing to the eye and to the taste, gentle, yet effectual in acting on the kidneys, liver and bowels.

LAST OF THE LENTEN SERVICES.

Held in St. John's Church Last Evening—Address by Rev. W. H. Barnes, Incumbent of Tweed.

The last of the series of special Wednesday evening Lenten services was held in St. John's church last night. There was a large congregation present. The opening prayers and scripture lessons were read by Rev. C. B. Kenrick. The address which was a scholarly one and of a high order was delivered by Rev. W. H. Barnes, Incumbent of Tweed. His subject was "The Lord Outside the Camp." Mr. Barnes who is a fluent and very rapid speaker based his remarks on the words found in St. Paul's Epistle to the Hebrews, chapter 13, verses 10 to 13. The speaker in his introduction said in these verses there was much to occupy our attention and thoughts and he could not hope to deal fully with the words in his remarks. From this hour we should get more spirit and grace to go to work for our Lord and Master. In proportion as we used our Lenten services and profited by them did we grow in grace and in the knowledge of the Lord Jesus Christ and became true workers for Him. One thought drawn from the words was the lesson of the contrast between law and grace. The apostle contrasted between the two altars and stated that they had no right to eat which serve the tabernacle. This meant those who used or were attached to the tabernacle. Those who had authority could receive the Lord and those who could not partake had no right there. The Apostle directs our attention to the necessity of the atonement. There had to be concentration in all these lines in the sacrifice of Cavalry, and the great work which He was to finish. What did this burning of sacrifice mean, and why outside the camp? This text had been a sort of crusade—a cry against the church, and no text had been used more freely to injure and hurt the Church of God. It was necessary that the bodies of those beasts whose blood was brought into the sanctuary by high priests for sin, be burned without the camp. The camp represented the unity of the people going forth without the covenant—that power of Divine light and supervision. So it was with the church of the living God, without Divine presence and protection. Her bonds, such as Christian polity and holy sacrifice should be obeyed. They carried with them the sense of obedience. It was Christ's way of communicating blessing. We should look at the sacrifice used in the camp of Israel. A sacrifice was offered up in the camp as an atonement for the sinful and we have standing before the ensuing sacrifice of God. The great secret of the Divine One was that He left His home to atone for our sins that we through Him might be made rich. Burning without the camp was symbolic of divine unity. The body of the burnt offering represented sin, which type was fulfilled by Christ on the awful seat of Calvary. It brought us to the fact that Christ must become a seperate man. There should be a seperation of man's own heart and life in the conviction that he was a sinner. We were going out before the camp, for it was our sins which crucified the Christ. Another principle was that spiritual seperation was essential to God in the truest power. The thoughts, the speaker wished, to impress was that there was a contrast between law and Christ, that there was a necessity for the atonement. The divine plan of redemption, the giving up life to perpetuate life appealed to all men. The speaker said to be laid in the light, obedience was first necessary, fellowship second and manifestation third. In closing Rev. Mr. Barnes amplified these points at some length and said this was the only true conversion.

AN ENTERTAINMENT THAT TOOK.

Held by Court Langton, No. 344, Canadian Order of Foresters, Last Night.

The entertainment held under the auspices of Court Langton, No. 344, Canadian Order of Foresters, in the Foresters hall on Simcoe street last night was an unqualified success. At the last election of officers for the ensuing term, Bro. Ed. Lebourveau, an enthusiastic Forester was elected Chief Haugers. Before the installation of officers took place Bro. Lebourveau was taken suddenly ill and removed to the Nicholl's Hospital, where he has been confined ever since and was only able to leave that institution recently, after a serious and protracted attack of Bright's disease of the kidneys. He leaves for Montreal on Saturday next for a much needed rest on a visit to friends in that city. Last evening at his request a special meeting of Court Langton was held and he was publicly installed to the office of Chief Ranger of the court. There was a large attendance of visiting Foresters from the other local courts as well as outside societies last night. Noticeably among the audience was a creditable representation of the fellow employees of Bro. Lebourveau from the Canadian General Electric Company's Works. Bro. A. Clegg, C.R., presided, and in an appropriate address opened the proceedings of the evening, expressing his pleasure at the large attendance and warmly welcoming back Bro. Labourveau after his long siege of illness.

The installation ceremony was then proceeded with, Bro. H. Nesbitt, D.D.H.C.R., officiating as installing officer, while Bro. W. Robertson, P.C.H., Court Peterborough, No. 29, acted as grand marshal.

A short but interesting programme was then successfully carried out. Bro. Millar contributed a well played concertina solo, Mr. Wismel favoured with an excellent banjo solo; Bro. D. Patterson gave a vocal solo in fine style, after which Bro. P. McArthur sang a solo to the effective accompaniment of Mr. Wismel on the banjo. At a later stage they appeared in another number and were liberally applauded. Bro. A. Clegg, P.C.R., rendered a couple of popular readings in his inimitable style. Mr. Wismel gave another banjo solo, and Mr. R. Shepherd a vocal solo in good voice. Bro. R. A. Layfield sang a catchy song which took immensely. An intermission of a few minutes was allowed when refreshments were served in abundance. Timely and capital addresses were delivered at intervals by Bro. Nesbitt, D.D. H.C.R, who gave a short address on the benefits of Forestry, and also Bro. Lebourveau, C.R., and Bros. Jos. McClelland, D.D.H.C.R., A.O.U.W., who expressed his pleasure at being present and wished the Foresters every success.

At the close a hearty vote of thanks moved by Bro. Layfield, and seconded by Bro. Isaacs, was tendered those who took part in the programme and acquitted themselves so well. Another vote of thanks was moved to the visiting Foresters from town lodges, and also the visitors from other societies. The entertainment closed about 11 o'clock by the singing of "God Save the Queen."

BLOOD AND NERVE REMEDY

The Great Spring Remedy for the Blood and Nerves. Purely Vegetable and Harmless Nature's Own Remedy, as the name implies.

Ladies are great sufferers from Nervousness, Weakness, Nervous Prostration and Debility. No one knows this fact better than women themselves, and the inside history of feminine lives would reveal a story of tired bodies, unstrung and excitable nerves, wearied limbs, aching heads and backs, with that exhausted, dragged out feeling, which makes their lives miserable. MAY APPLE DISCOVERY is a wonderful remedy for Nervous Prostration and those terrible, tired, weak feelings that make life a burden almost too great to bear. It gives one the most restful sleep, and in fact does all and more than all it claims to. This is the testimony of one who has tried this wonderful remedy taken from nature's own resources.

You need a Spring Medicine. Take MAY APPLE DISCOVERY, Blood and Nerve Remedy, the Great Health and Strength Restorer.

HOWLED OUT OF PARIS.

Indignities to a German Newspaper Correspondent.

PARIS, March 29.—Otto Brandes, Paris correspondent of The Berliner Tageblatt, who was ordered from the country on the suspicion of having been the author of an article charging Ernest Carnot with receiving Panama money, went to the police bureau yesterday and gave notice that he would start for Germany at once.

His house in Asnieres, a suburb of Paris, had already been covered with insulting placards, and when he left it with Mrs. Brandes a crowd of men and boys began hooting and groaning at him. The crowd followed Mr. and Mrs. Brandes to their train without an effort from the police to drive them back.

Shortly afterwards Mr. Brandes' daughters left the house to meet their parents in the city. The young women were surrounded by 40 men and boys, were hustled about, and before they could get to the train were struck repeatedly with sticks and lumps of dirt. One of the daughters received a severe cut on the head and required the services of a physician before she could leave the city. The Government made no effort to protect the Brandes family from such abuses, but even allowed them to travel without the usual escort of gendarmes.

A CAREFUL SUICIDE.

A Retired Agnostic Schoolmaster Fills His Chest With Shot.

LAKEWOOD, N.J., March 29.—William Kisner, a retired schoolmaster about 60 years of age, living in Bethel, a small village two miles north of here, committed suicide by shooting himself in the breast with a shotgun.

Kisner was a confirmed agnostic, and is said by some of his neighbors to have been demented for some time, one of his daughters having caused him great sorrow.

He seemed in his usual mood after breakfast, and told his wife that he was going for a walk. He called on a nephew of his, John Estell, and borrowed the gun, saying he wanted to kill a hawk.

Kisner must have hid the gun in the woods, as no one saw him with it when he came to the house for dinner. After dinner he said he was going to walk to Lakewood. This was the last seen of him alive, and it was not until it was growing dark that any apprehension was felt for his safety.

He had often threatened to kill himself, so his wife started out to hunt for him. After searching an hour she found him lying on his back dead in a clump of bushes.

He must have premeditated suicide for some time, as he built a hedge about the spot where he was to kill himself with a lot of brush dragged from an adjoining wood.

Entering this he had dug a hole in the ground, placed the stock of the gun in it and then sat down in front of the muzzle, holding the barrel with one hand and setting the gun off by pushing the trigger with a cane held in the other hand.

Kisner was in comparatively easy circumstances and leaves a widow and five children.

THE NEW PRESIDENT.

He Says the Senate of France is the Safeguard of the Country.

PARIS, March 29.—M. Challemel Lacour, newly elected as President of the Senate in place of M. Jules Ferry, deceased, took the chair yesterday as presiding officer. There was a large attendance and the introductory address of the new president was listened to with great interest. M. Lacour said:

France must ever find in the Senate the surest safeguard against the agitations renewed from time to time by parties hoping to turn them to their own advantage. The Senate, mindful of the movements that are now occurring in the economic and moral conditions of society, ought to support the Government in dealing with those conditions.

The outspoken advocacy of the Government was not unexpected, in view of the support given by the supporters of President Carnot to M. Challemel Lacour's candidacy.

PLUTOCRAT MURDERED.

His Body Found at the Bottom of an Old Well.

UPPER MARLBORO', Md., March 29.—Southern Maryland is wildly excited by the murder of a white man. On Saturday Francis M. Bowie, a millionaire in Lower Prince George's County, came to Marlboro' on business. Early on Sunday morning his horse was found in the stable yard with the saddle-cloth clotted with blood.

Search was made at once, and about midway between here and the "Forest," Mr. Bowie's residence, there was found a pool of blood in the roadway. There were signs of a struggle and a track, as if a body had been dragged toward a group of abandoned cabins.

The track led to an old well and at the bottom of this was found the body of Mr. Bowie. His skull had been fractured by a blow from a club or slung shot, and his throat was cut. His gold watch and other jewelry and a large sum of money were missing. Late in the afternoon John Wesley Johnson, a colored man, was arrested on suspicion.

He made a desperate effort to escape. He will say nothing, but his clothing is spattered with blood. Detectives from Baltimore have been engaged to run down the murderers.

"For a long time I suffered with stomach and liver troubles, and could find no relief until I began to use Ayer's Pills. I took them regularly for a few months, and my health was completely restored."—D. W. Blaine, New Perne, N.C.

When the kidneys are clogged, good health is an impossibility; but when working properly the reverse is the case. That dull backache is the kidney's cry for relief. If Dodd's Kidney Pills are used the result will be marvellous. We emphatically state that we have never known a case of kidney disease that a persistent use of Dodd's Kidney Pills will not cure.

WIDE SLEEVES.

They'll Stand Alone but Where, O Where?

The problem of storing wide sleeved and wide skirted dresses is already a serious one. It is hard enough to keep sleeves stiff while wearing them, but what is to be done when bodices are crowded into narrow closets! One thing possibly is to have a pair of undersleeves stiffened generously and split. Such sleeves, mere puffs, of course, are really sleeve hoops. Being split they can be rolled to dimensions that permit their introduction into the arm holes, then they can be widened inside the puff of the dress sleeve and secured to that size by basting threads. It is a good deal easier to take care of one pair of such sleeve hoops than to store a half dozen dresses, each with permanently inflated sleeves. The biggest sleeves are made by the introduction of a ruffle of very stiff crinoline into the armhole, the rest of the sleeve having no crinoline. This ruffle can of course be taken out and put in with some ease, but a maid is necessary or dressing is going to be a serious task, indeed, these days.

About four yards of lavender satin ribbon three inches wide and four and a half yards of white lace are required for this fichu. The ribbon is laid in box pleats at the back, and from there gradually narrows until it is doubled at the bust. The lace is pleated to the ribbon. The fichu crosses in front, as indicated, and meets in the back near the waist, where it is fastened with a bow of ribbon. A similar bow is placed at the neck in the back. The lace must be of sufficient width to form the deep epaulettes at the shoulders.

FLORETTE.

The Cigar Gen. Grant Gave Mrs. Logan.

Among the most treasured souvenirs which Mrs. John A. Logan possesses is a cigar. It was given her by Gen. Grant. She is a woman with the rare gift of being able to converse understandingly on politics. She and Gen. Grant had many a heated battle. The story goes that while the General was vigorously refuting one of her statements he reached into an inside pocket, pulled out a cigar-case and offered Mrs. Logan a cigar. She took it and quietly concealed it, while the General lit his and went on oblivious of the fact that his companion was not a man.

Bread Crumb Pudding.

Instead of throwing away bread crusts try this method of disposing of them: Dry them thoroughly in a cool oven, roll, and some day when the dessert problem confronts you take a teacup of your dried crumbs, soak with boiling water, add pint of milk, two eggs, generous half-cupful of sugar, pinch of salt, teaspoonful of flavoring, and bake. If you want it extra good, after it is baked spread some raspberry jam on top and cover with a meringue—white of one egg and a tablespoonful of sugar beaten to a froth. Brown in quick oven.

In Case of Fire.

In case of fire, a wet silk handkerchief tied without folding over the face is a complete security against suffocation by smoke; it permits free breathing and at the same time excludes the smoke from the lungs.

Those who keep their blood in a pure and healthy condition need have no fear of any disease attacking them. It is the enfeebled, run-down system upon which disease fastens its fangs. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills has no equal as a blood builder, nerve tonic, and preventative of disease. Thousands of grateful people testify to the wonderful power of this remedy. THE GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN NERVINE TONIC —AND— Stomach & Liver Cure

The Most Astonishing Medical Discovery of the Last One Hundred Years.

It is Pleasant to the Taste as the Sweetest Nectar.
It is Safe and Harmless as the Purest Milk.

This wonderful Nervine Tonic has only recently been introduced into this country by the proprietors and manufacturers of the Great South American Nervine Tonic, and yet its great value as a curative agent has long been known by a few of the most learned physicians, who have not brought its merits and value to the knowledge of the general public.

This medicine has completely solved the problem of the cure of indigestion, dyspepsia, and diseases of the general nervous system. It is also of the greatest value in the cure of all forms of failing health from whatever cause. It performs this by the great nervine tonic qualities which it possesses, and by its great curative powers upon the digestive organs, the stomach, the liver and the bowels. No remedy compares with this wonderfully valuable Nervine Tonic as a builder and strengthener of the life forces of the human body, and as a great renewer of a broken-down constitution. It is also of more real permanent value in the treatment and cure of diseases of the lungs than any consumption remedy ever used on this continent. It is a marvelous cure for nervousness of females of all ages. Ladies who are approaching the critical period known as change in life, should not fail to use this great Nervine Tonic, almost constantly, for the space of two or three years. It will carry them safely over the danger. This great strengthener and curative is of inestimable value to the aged and infirm, because its great energizing properties will give them a new hold on life. It will add ten or fifteen years to the lives of many of those who will use a half dozen bottles of the remedy each year.

All these and many other complaints cured by this wonderful Nervine Tonic.

NERVOUS DISEASES.

As a cure for every class of Nervous Diseases, no remedy has been able to compare with the Nervine Tonic, which is very pleasant and harmless in all its effects upon the youngest child or the oldest and most delicate individual. Nine-tenths of all the ailments to which the human family is heir are dependent on nervous exhaustion and impaired digestion. When there is an insufficient supply of nerve food in the blood, a general state of debility of the brain, spinal marrow, and nerves is the result. Starved nerves, like starved muscles, become strong when the right kind of food is supplied; and a thousand weaknesses and ailments disappear as the nerves recover. As the nervous system must supply all the power by which the vital forces of the body are carried on, it is the first to suffer for want of perfect nutrition. Ordinary food does not contain a sufficient quantity of the kind of nutriment necessary to repair the wear our present mode of living and labor imposes upon the nerves. For this reason it becomes necessary that a nerve food be supplied. This South American Nervine has been found by analysis to contain the essential elements out of which nerve tissue is formed. This accounts for its universal adaptability to the cure of all forms of nervous derangement.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., Aug. 20, '86.

To the Great South American Medicine Co.:

DEAR GENTS:—I desire to say to you that I have suffered for many years with a very serious disease of the stomach and nerves. I tried every medicine I could hear of, but nothing done me any appreciable good until I was advised to try your Great South American Nervine Tonic and Stomach and Liver Cure, and since using several bottles of it I must say that I am surprised at its wonderful powers to cure the stomach and general nervous system. If everyone knew the value of this remedy as I do you would not be able to supply the demand.

J. A. HARPER, Ex-Treas. Montgomery Co.

REBECCA WILKINSON, of Brownsvalley, Ind., says: "I had been in a distressed condition for three years from Nervousness, Weakness of the Stomach, Dyspepsia, and Indigestion, until my health was gone. I had been doctoring constantly, with no relief. I bought one bottle of South American Nervine, which done me more good than any $50 worth of doctoring I ever did in my life. I would advise every weakly person to use this valuable and lovely remedy; a few bottles of it has cured me completely. I consider it the grandest medicine in the world."

A SWORN CURE FOR ST. VITAS' DANCE OR CHOREA.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., June 22, 1887.

My daughter, eleven years old, was severely afflicted with St. Vitus' Dance or Chorea. We gave her three and one-half bottles of South American Nervine and she is completely restored. I believe it will cure every case of St. Vitus' Dance. I have kept it in my family for two years, and am sure it is the greatest remedy in the world for Indigestion and Dyspepsia, and for all forms of Nervous Disorders and Failing Health, from whatever cause.

INDIGESTION AND DYSPEPSIA.

The Great South American Nervine Tonic

Which we now offer you, is the only absolutely unfailing remedy ever discovered for the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, and the vast train of symptoms and horrors which are the result of disease and debility of the human stomach. No person can afford to pass by this jewel of incalculable value who is affected by disease of the stomach, because the experience and testimony of many go to prove that this is the ONE and ONLY ONE great cure in the world for this universal destroyer. There is no case of unmalignant disease of the stomach which can resist the wonderful curative powers of the South American Nervine Tonic.

HARRIET E. HALL, of Waynetown, Ind., says: "I owe my life to the Great South American Nervine. I had been in bed for five months from the effects of an exhausted stomach, indigestion, Nervous Prostration, and a general shattered condition of my whole system. Had given up all hopes of getting well. Had tried three doctors, with no relief. The first bottle of the Nervine Tonic improved me so much that I was able to walk about, and a few bottles cured me entirely. I believe it is the best medicine in the world. I can not recommend it too highly."

MRS. ELLA A. BRATTON, of New Ross, Indiana, says: "I cannot express how much I owe to the Nervine Tonic. My system was completely shattered, appetite gone, was coughing and spitting up blood; am sure I was in the first stages of consumption, as inheritance handed down through several generations. I began taking the Nervine Tonic, and continued its use for about six months, and am entirely cured. It is the grandest remedy for nerves, stomach and lungs I have ever seen."

No remedy compares with SOUTH AMERICAN NERVINE as a cure for the Nerves. No remedy compares with South American Nervine as a wondrous cure for the Stomach. No remedy will at all compare with South American Nervine as a cure for all forms of failing health. It never fails to cure Indigestion and Dyspepsia. It never fails to cure Chorea or St. Vitus' Dance. Its powers to build up the whole system are wonderful in the extreme. It cures the old, the young, and the middle aged. It is a great friend to the aged and infirm. Do not neglect to use this precious boon. If you do, you may neglect the only remedy which will restore you to health. South American Nervine is perfectly safe, and very pleasant to the taste. Delicate ladies, do not fail to use this great cure, because it will put the bloom of freshness and beauty upon your lips and in your cheeks, and quickly drive away your disabilities and weaknesses.

YOUTH.

Styles for Little Girls and Their Not Much Older Sisters.

A dress for a little girl from three to five years of age, is the subject of my sketch. It has a Eton jacket, trimmed with gilt galoon showing a design in silver. It is sewed to the waist which has a plastron in front, trimmed with two rows of the galoon. On each side of it are seven edged also with the galoon. The sleeves are tight-fitting with a cap as far as the elbow, and the back of the waist forms a watteau plait. The dress closes beneath the right revers.

Flounced skirts, flounced shoulders and sash waists are the right thing for young girls, and it will be safe to have a number of gowns made according to this model. There should be slight differences in the effect from the shoulders, and in the polka thus outlined, but no other changes are necessary. Skirts are full, either rounding out all around, or spreading to the sides and back, and flat in front. The full skirt of to-day is by no means the full skirt of long ago. It takes a mathematical genius to adjust the calculated folds of the present skirt, while our grandmothers needed only plenty of material. The hang of the present full skirt is as important and as difficult of attainment as was that of the late sheath skirt. The amateur dressmaker will find that her new style skirt insists upon poking out in front and that will never do. Either the skirt must swell smoothly from the hips to the knees and then resolve itself into a series of billows that extend regularly in all directions like the spokes of a wheel, or else it must represent in front a flat plane that slants outward from belt to hem, and, at the sides and back a regular and symmetrically adjusted series of folds which flare from the waist to the bottom of the skirt. Such a thing as a sharp fold extending out from waist to foot in front is not to be seen. Making the new skirt at home is going to be anything but fun. You had better get your effect with flounces, and don't depend on crinoline to make it all come right. The skirt must be cut with absolute accuracy and correctness or the crinoline makes it all the worse.

Disinfectants.

All the powerful and really useful disinfectants corrode metal and stain crockery more or less. Copperas is the best for household use, one pound dissolved in twelve quarts of boiling water, and used hot, being more effective than cold. The valve should be open when it is poured down closets, so that it need not settle in the pan which should be washed daily with a long-handled dish-mop kept for the purpose, and scalding, strong suds, when it will need no further disinfection. A large funnel should be set in the pipes of stationary wash bowls, which, by the way, are unfit for a human habitation and unknown in the best modern houses. When the fine Astor mansion was built uptown the owners positively forbade a single stationary bowl in the dressing rooms, an example which has since been followed in other high-class houses.—Philadelphia Star.

Will Kill Consumption.

The Norwegian cod is destined to kill consumption. It has always been known that its oil, when properly prepared, contains all the potent elements for rebuilding wasting tissues in the human body. The difficulty has been to converse the energies of the oil in its refining, and this has only been accomplished by the manufacturers of "Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil." All who suffer with lung troubles, and of course all who are threatened with consumption, should take it. In big bottles, 50c. and $1.00, at all Drug Stores,

Beware of Cholera.

Encouragement for old People.

It may sound queer to talk about curing old people of Kidney and Urinary troubles after they have passed the alloted period of three score years and ten, but the following extraordinary recovery of an old veteran by Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure, ought to be of great encouragement to old people:—

BELLEVILLE, March 4, 1883.

Peterborough Medicine Company (Limited.)

GENTLEMEN,—I owe a great debt of gratitude to Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure for the prompt and speedy relief which I have received from the use of only one bottle of your great medicine. I have suffered from Kidney and Urinary troubles, inflammation of the neck of the bladder, &c. for many a long day. No one knows better than old people how great a blessing it is to be cured. I doctored a lot, but nothing did me so much good as your cure. I have lived about half a century in Belleville, and will be only too glad to speak a good word in favour of Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure. I can also recommend it for constipation and stomach troubles.

GERMANY SCREAMS WAR

BECAUSE A NEWSPAPER CORRESPONDENT WAS EXPELLED

From France in So Insulting and Vulgar a Manner—Caprivi's Organ States That Germany is Ready to Knock the Chip Off France's Shoulder.

BERLIN, March 30.—The Nordeutsche Allegeine Zeitung, the organ of Chancellor Von Caprivi, yesterday contained a strong leader concerning the treatment of German newspaper correspondents by the French Government. The mobbing of Otto Brandess' family in Paris yesterday is the text from which the article is written. The object of the French Government in its unjustifiable proceedings against German correspondents, says the paper, is to divert public attention from the Panama scandal and to direct the passions of the French people against foreigners.

After enumerating the Germans who have suffered from this policy the writer continues thus: It undoubtedly is the good right of the French Government to expel every obnoxious foreigner from the country without assigning any reason.

We don't dispute this right, but we say that an appeal to popular hatred is always a dangerous weapon, and that if this weapon be drawn against the Germans in France to assist the Government in escaping the consequences of the Panama and other scandals, it will have results which it is not difficult to estimate. We shall know what is to be expected when the French Government finds it necessary to surmount still more serious difficulties than the present ones by diversions against foreign countries.

A DUEL IN FRANCE.

Ordered to Fight, Although They Had no Desire to do so.

LYONS, March 30.—Two young sergeant-majors in garrison at Lyons, having quarreled at lunch a few days ago, and from words came to blows. As, however, the cause of their dispute was trifling they eventually shook hands and became good friends again.

The colonel of the regiment, nevertheless, having been informed of what had taken place, punished the two young men with several days' imprisonment and ordered them to fight a duel.

They fought, and one of them was left there. The poor young fellow, having received a sword thrust through his lungs, held out his hand to his adversary and fell dead.

Is it not time to have done with this strange tradition of compulsory duelling between soldiers?

It is true that the law allows two men to cut each other's throats, provided they are agreed that mutual slaughter is necessary to their dignity and honor. Every one's taste should be respected. But was that the case in this instance?

The two non-commissioned officers at Lyons had settled their quarrel, and perhaps forgotten it. They did not want to "cross swords," which is a proof that the cause of the quarrel was insignificant. Moreover, their commanding officer had justly sent them to prison, to remind them that when a quarrel is not worth a sword thrust it ought to be settled by pacific explanations and not with the fists. But it seems to us that the affair should have stopped there, and that there was no necessity for forcing these two unfortunate young men to a hostile meeting, sword in hand. A strange tradition, which ought to be brought to the notice of the Commander-in-Chief of the French army appears to be involved in this lamentable affair.

The Panama Scandal.

PARIS, March 30.—M. Ribot, the Prime Minister, notified M. Andrieux that his offer to arrest Arton had been accepted, and that M. Clement, an experienced officer, had been detailed to assist him in capturing Arton.

Since the scandal was made public Arton has been reported to have been in many European capitals and smaller towns, where he is said to have spent money lavishly and with no apparent fear of his mode of life attracting attention to him and thus leading to his arrest. His whereabouts at present are not known.

France and Dahomey.

PARIS, March 30.—In the Chamber of Deputies Admiral Rounier, Minister of Marine, stated that 3000 troops will be required to maintain and enforce French authority in Dahomey. The health of the army in Dahomey was excellent, but there would be no permanent security for the French in that country until Behanzin, the ex-king, who still maintained a show of hostility, had been entirely vanquished.

PORTER'S DAMP RIDE.

His Colt Man Him Into the River Speed at Guelph.

GUELPH, March 30.—Mr. A. Porter had a rather unpleasant experience yesterday afternoon in attempting to cross the bridge over the Speed, near by Sorby's. He was driving a young horse attached to a sulky. The water was running over the approach to the bridge, but as a double team had crossed ahead of him Mr. Porter made the venture.

The colt, which had been unused to water, as soon as it went a little way into it shied and landed in the deep water alongside the approach.

The current then did its work. Andy and the horse were whirled down the swollen river at a rapid rate, and after they were fully in the middle of the stream all that could be seen of the driver was his head and shoulders, and only the horse's head and nose.

Thus they were swept along for quite a distance until they approached an ice jam, when a large block of ice struck the horse on the head, causing it to turn around, and for the first time it made an attempt to swim, and luckily for the shore. Had the animal gone a short distance further, both it and Mr. Porter would have been drawn under the ice and undoubtedly drowned.
